STATIONS, CLERICAL AND LAY MISSIONARIES, AND NATIVE CLERGYMEN,

ON JUNE 1, 1896.

 A STATION is the place at which a Clerical or Lay Missionary is stationed, or at which Native Christians are located under Native pastoral superintendence in connexion with the Society.

The figures after the Names of the European Labourers show the date of their first sailing for the Society's Missions, or of their reception into connexion in the field. Their University or College is indicated thus: Oxford, "Oxf."; Cambridge, "Camb."; Dublin, "T.C.D."; Durham, "Dur."; London, "Lond."; Archbishop of Canterbury's Degree, "Lamb."; Islington, "Isl."; London College of Divinity, "Lond. Coll. Div."; King's College, London, "K.C.L." In the case of men trained at the Society's Preparatory Institution, Clapham, or of ladies trained at The Willows, Stoke Newington, The Olives, South Hampstead, and at the Society's Highbury Training Home, "Clapham," or "The Willows," or "The Olives," or "Highbury," occurs after their names. The letter ð after the names of ordained men, whether Europeans or Natives, indicates that they were Deacons at the above date.

The terms "Hon." and "partly Hon.," in parentheses, after the name of a Missionary, means that such Missionary draws no allowances, or only a portion of the usual allowances. Where Missionaries are supported by individual friends of the Society, or by Associations, or other bodies, the fact is indicated. In the case of the Colonial Associations (N. S. Wales = New South Wales, Vict. = Victoria, New Z. = New Zealand, Can. = Canada) the Missionaries have been selected, and, when necessary, also trained by the Associations, by which likewise they are supported in the field.

*This mark * denotes that the Missionaries to whose name it is prefixed are in Local Connexion, i.e. that their offers of service were accepted by the Society's representatives in the several Missions.*

The mark ‡ denotes that the name to which it is prefixed is that of an Agent supported by Native Church Funds, which are in most instances aided by the Society. The Native Ministers in New Zealand are supported partly by Subscriptions from Native Christians, and partly from the rents of lands belonging to the Society in the Colony.

The Names of Native Clergymen are printed in Italics. The figures after their names show the date of ordination.

The Maiden Names of Wives of European Missionaries, and the year of marriage, when known, are given in parentheses; in the case of each lady who was a Missionary of the Society before marriage, the Mission in which she laboured, and the year of joining it are given; and in the case of ladies who were Missionaries of other Societies, the initials indicating the Society ("C.E.Z.M.S." = Church of England Zenana Missionary Society; "Z.B.M.M." = Zenana Bible and Medical Mission; "F.E.S." = Female Education Society) are given, as well as the country and year of joining. Wives of Missionaries are always expected by the Society to lay themselves out to do good, in every practicable way, among the Native women, such as cultivating familiar intercourse with them, educating children, and instructing the adult women.

The Names under each station are printed in order of date, without reference to nationality, sex, orders, or other difference; except that, the Secretaries of Missions are placed first in order at the stations where they reside, and wives of Missionaries are placed, in almost every instance, immediately after their husbands.

At the Annual Meeting of the Church Missionary Society, held at Exeter Hall, London, Tuesday, May 5, 1896, being its Ninety-seventh Anniversary—

SIR JOHN H. KENNAWAY, Bart., M.P., President, in the Chair,

AFTER READING OF SCRIPTURE AND PRAYER,

The General Review of the Year was read, followed by the CHAIRMAN'S Address, after which, on a Motion by the RIGHT REV. THE LORD BISHOP OF EXETER, D.D., V.P., seconded by Sir CHARLES A. ELLIOTT, K.C.S.I., it was Resolved—

That the General Review which has just been read, together with the Report, of which an abstract has been presented, be adopted and printed under the direction of the Committee; that the thanks of the Meeting be given to the Rev. W. H. Barlow, D.D., for his Sermon before the Society last evening, and that it be printed and circulated; that Colonel Robert Williams, M.P., be the Treasurer of the Society; and that the Committee be appointed for the ensuing year, with power to fill up vacancies; and that this Meeting, looking forward to the Three Years which yet remain, if the Lord tarry, before the completion of the hundredth year of the Society's existence, earnestly calls upon all servants of the coming King to fresh consecration and renewed surrender of themselves for obedience to His command that the Gospel should be preached to the uttermost parts of the earth.

Short Addresses were then delivered by the Rev. J. E. Padfield, of the Telugu Mission; by the Rev. G. K. Baskerville, of Uganda; by the Rev. H. Carless, of Persia; and by the Rev. H. S. Phillips, of Fuh-Kien.

On a Motion by H. H. BEMROSE, Esq., M.P., seconded by the REV. HANDLEY C. G. MOULE, D.D., it was Resolved—

That this Meeting, while regretting that the contributions to the funds of the Society, though larger than in previous years, have not kept pace with the expansion of its work and consequent responsibilities in the Mission-fields, and notably in those represented by the four preceding speakers, desires heartily to express its devout thankfulness to Almighty God for the abundant tokens of His "good hand" upon the Society, more especially for the great increase in the number of converts in many parts of the world, and the remarkable development of the Native Church in Central Africa; and to express its earnest hope that, in response to the continued prayer to which all friends of the Society are invited, the God of all grace will so prosper the contemplated review of the varied operations of the Society, that every part of its work may through the Holy Spirit be greatly strengthened and developed.

The following Meetings were also held in London on the same day in connexion with the Anniversary:—

At ST. JAMES'S HALL, Piccadilly, simultaneously with the Annual Meeting; Col. Robert Williams, M.P., V.P., Treasurer, in the Chair.

At ST. MARTIN'S TOWN HALL, Charing Cross, at 3 P.M., for Ladies only; the Rev. H. E. Fox, M.A., Honorary Secretary, in the Chair.

At SION COLLEGE, Thames Embankment, at 3.30 P.M., Conference of Younger Clergy Unions; the Rev. W. E. Burroughs, M.A., in the Chair.

At EXETER HALL, Strand, at 7 P.M.; James Monro, Esq., C.B., in the Chair.

At LOWER EXETER HALL, Strand, at 7 P.M.; General W. Hatt Noble, R.E., in the Chair.

Addresses were delivered at these Meetings by the Chairmen; The Very Rev. the Dean of Windsor; the Revs. Canons J. McCormick and Taylor Smith; the Revs. B. Baring-Gould, A. E. Barnes-Lawrence, F. Baylis, E. S. Carr, P. K. Fyson, H. Gouldsmith, H. M. M. Hackett, P. Ireland Jones, Henry Sutton, F. Swainson and C. J. F. Symons; Messrs. Frank Anderson, Sydney Gedge, M.P., G. L. Pilkington and Eugene Stock; also by Mrs. Grime, Mrs. B. Van Someren Taylor, and the Misses Etches and Gollock.

LAWS AND REGULATIONS OF THE
CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY FOR AFRICA AND THE EAST.

(As revised at a Special Meeting of Members of the Society, held on July 2, 1890.)

I. THIS Institution shall be designated "The Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East;" and shall be conducted by a Patron or Patrons, a Vice-Patron, a President, Vice-Presidents, a COMMITTEE, and such Officers as may be deemed necessary, all being Members of the Established Church of England or of the Church of Ireland.

II. The office of PATRON of the Society shall be reserved for Members of the Royal Family; and that of VICE-PATRON for His Grace the Primate of All England, if, being a Member of the Society, he shall accept the office. The PRESIDENT shall be such Temporal Peer or Commoner as may be appointed to that office, and VICE-PRESIDENTS shall consist of all Archbishops and Bishops of the Churches of England and Ireland, who, being Members of the Society, shall accept the office; and of such other persons as, being also Members, shall be appointed thereto.

OF MEMBERS AND GOVERNORS.

III. Annual Subscribers of One Guinea and upwards, and if Clergymen Half-a-Guinea, with Collectors of Fifty-two Shillings, and upwards, per annum, shall be Members of the Society during the continuance of such Subscriptions or Collections. Benefactors of Ten Guineas, and upwards, in one sum shall be Members for Life.

IV. Annual Subscribers of Five Guineas shall be Governors during the continuance of such Subscription; and Benefactors of Fifty Pounds, and upwards, in one sum, shall be Governors for Life.

V. Subscriptions and Benefactions shall confer the same privileges, whether paid to the Society direct or through an Auxiliary or Association.

VI. The COMMITTEE may appoint such persons as have rendered essential services to the Society, either Honorary Members for Life, or Honorary Governors for Life.

OF GENERAL MEETINGS.

VII. An Annual Meeting of the Members of the Society shall be held in London, on the Tuesday next before the first Wednesday in May; when the proceedings of the foregoing year shall be reported, the Accounts presented, and the Treasurer and COMMITTEE chosen. And whenever any vacancy in the office of Treasurer shall occur, the COMMITTEE may fill up the vacancy, for the interval between the occurrence of such vacancy and the next Annual Meeting.

VIII. The COMMITTEE may summon a Special General Meeting of the Members of the Society, at which not less than Thirty shall constitute a Quorum, at any time, and they shall do so on receipt of a requisition in writing, addressed to the Secretaries, and signed by not less than Fifty Members of the Society, and specifying the object of the Meeting. Ten days' notice shall be given in Three London Daily Newspapers, and in two other Newspapers, of any such intended Meeting, and of the purpose for which it is called; which shall be deemed sufficient publicity.

IX. None of the Laws and Regulations of the Society shall be repealed or altered, nor any new ones made, but at the Annual Meeting or at a Special General Meeting called for that purpose.

X. An Anniversary Sermon shall be preached at some Church in London, by a Clergyman appointed by the COMMITTEE. An Annual Report of the Society shall be printed for the use of its Members.

OF THE COMMITTEE.

XI. The COMMITTEE shall consist of the following, being members of the Established Church of England or of the Church of Ireland:—(a) Twenty-four Lay Members of the Society elected at the Annual Meeting. (b) All Clergymen who are Members of the Society and have been so for not less than one year. (c) All Honorary Governors for Life, and all such other Governors as have been so for not less than one year. In every year so many of the elected Members shall go out of office as, with the vacancies, if any, occurring among them during the preceding year, will make six vacancies, and shall not be re-eligible until the following year. The COMMITTEE shall decide which Members go out of office in each year.

XII. The COMMITTEE shall elect, at their First Meeting in every year, either from among themselves, or from the other Members of the Society (being members of the Established Church of England or of the Church of Ireland), a Committee of Patronage, a Committee of Funds and Home Organization, a Committee of Correspondence, a Committee of Finance, and a Committee of Estimates, and shall have power to fill up vacancies. Each of the said Committees shall keep Minutes of its Proceedings, and shall make such reports of its proceedings to the COMMITTEE as the COMMITTEE shall require.

XIII. The office of the Committee of Patronage is to procure patronage and support to the Society; and to nominate to the COMMITTEE proper persons as Patrons, President, Vice-Presidents, Honorary Life Governors, Honorary Life Members of the Society, and preachers of the Anniversary Sermons.

XIV. The office of the Committee of Funds and Home Organization is to circulate information respecting the Society; to adopt means of obtaining Subscriptions, Benefactions, and Collections in Churches, Chapels, and at Meetings; to take a general oversight of the Associations; and to nominate, from time to time, to the COMMITTEE, suitable persons to act as Agents and Representatives of the Society for these objects.

XV. The office of the Committee of Correspondence is, to seek for proper Missionaries, to nominate them to the COMMITTEE, to superintend their instruction, when necessary, to recommend their location, and to correspond with them when sent out, and generally to direct the foreign work of the Society. Subject to the control of the COMMITTEE, the Committee of Correspondence may delegate any of their duties to Committees elected from among themselves, and may authorize such Committees to report directly to the COMMITTEE, and may fix their Quorum.

XVI. The office of the Committee of Finance is, generally, to superintend the accounts and financial affairs of the Society, and from time to time to note and to report to the COMMITTEE how far the expenditure corresponds with the sanctioned Estimates.

XVII. The office of the Committee of Estimates is, to prepare and submit to the COMMITTEE an estimate of the probable expenditure of the Society.

XVIII. The Committee of Correspondence shall appoint from among themselves, at their First Meeting in every year, a Clerical Sub-Committee, and may appoint at their discretion other Committees, for the examination of Missionary Candidates.

XIX. The COMMITTEE may make regulations as to the conduct of business by themselves, and by the other Committees, and subject to and so far as not inconsistent with any such regulations for the time being in force, the COMMITTEE shall receive and deal with the Reports of the other Committees, shall decide upon the countries where Missions shall be carried on, and shall superintend and control the affairs of the Society in general. The COMMITTEE may authorize any Committee appointed under Law XII., and with the consent of the Committee of Correspondence any Committee appointed under Law XV. to deal with and dispose of any matters and classes of matters the consideration of which falls within its province, reporting its action to the next meeting of the COMMITTEE. Subject to the control of the COMMITTEE, every Committee may make Bye-laws for its own government, and may appoint Sub-Committees and fix their quorum.

XX. The COMMITTEE shall have power to appoint such Officers and Assistants as they shall deem necessary for the well conducting of the affairs of the Society, subject, in the case of the appointment of Secretaries, to the approbation of the next Annual Meeting. One, at least, of the Secretaries shall be a layman. The COMMITTEE shall also have power to acquire property of every description for the purposes of the Society, and to invest the funds of the Society as they may deem expedient, and to vest all or any portions of the property and funds of the Society in such Trustee or Trustees, or corporate body, as they may in each case think fit.

XXI. The COMMITTEE shall meet on the second Tuesday in every month, and oftener if needful. The other Committees shall meet as often, and at such places, as shall be by them agreed on. All Committee Meetings shall be opened with reading a Form of Prayer composed for that purpose, or one or more suitable Prayers selected from the Liturgy.

XXII. The Patrons, Vice-Patron, President, Vice-Presidents, Treasurer and Secretaries shall be considered, ex officio, Members of all Committees.

XXIII. Five Members shall be necessary to form a Quorum of the COMMITTEE; and Three of each of the Committees provided for in Law XII.; in each case exclusive of the Secretaries. In cases of equality of votes, the Chairman shall be entitled to a second or casting vote. Every Committee may act notwithstanding vacancies.

XXIV. All payments on account of the Society shall be signed by Three Members of the COMMITTEE, in Committee, and the Lay Secretary, or in his absence by one of the other Secretaries.

XXV. The accounts of the Society shall be audited and reported upon by Public Accountants appointed by the COMMITTEE, and Five Honorary Auditors, Members of the Society (of whom not more than two shall be Members of the COMMITTEE), shall be appointed annually by the COMMITTEE for the purpose of considering the Reports of Public Accountants, and of making recommendations thereon, and generally on the Accounts to the COMMITTEE once at least in every year.

OF MISSIONARIES.

XXVI. Every offer for Missionary Service shall be referred by the Secretaries either to the Committee of Correspondence or in the first instance to the Clerical Sub-Committee or other Committee appointed under Law XVIII. to which it shall belong under rules laid down by the Committee of Correspondence; and the Committee of Correspondence shall have power to deal with the offer, both as to the training and as to the nomination as a Missionary of the Candidate. Provided that no one shall be sent out as a Missionary without having been approved by the Committee of Correspondence; and without, as a general rule, having appeared before them.

XXVII. Candidates nominated by the Committee of Correspondence, and accepted by the COMMITTEE, shall receive instruction in such parts of knowledge, and be prepared in such a manner for their future employment, as the Committee of Correspondence shall judge expedient.

XXVIII. Candidates shall consider themselves engaged to go to any part of the world, and at any time that the COMMITTEE shall decide, and be subject to such regulations as may be established by the COMMITTEE for the direction of the Missionaries: respect, however, being had to their personal circumstances, or to any previous stipulation made by them with the Society.

XXIX. Men who have been duly prepared and finally approved for Missionary work, shall go out, either ordained or unordained, at the discretion of the COMMITTEE.*

XXX. The Missionaries who go out under the direction of this Society shall be allowed to visit home, permission having been previously obtained from the COMMITTEE; and after having laboured in the cause of the Society, to the satisfaction of the COMMITTEE, at the Stations committed to their care, until age or infirmity prevent further exertion, such provision shall be made to render their remaining days comfortable as in the judgment of the COMMITTEE is suitable. The COMMITTEE shall have the power to assist also, in particular cases, the dependent Relatives of those Missionaries, who, by devoting themselves to the service of the Society, are prevented from contributing to their support. The COMMITTEE shall be further empowered in special cases to make such arrangements with those employed by them as they may think fit.

GENERAL.

XXXI. A friendly intercourse shall be maintained with other Protestant Societies engaged in the same benevolent design of propagating the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

XXXII. All questions relating to matters of Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline, respecting which a difference shall arise between a Bishop of the Church of England abroad and the COMMITTEE, shall, in the absence of any tribunal having legal cognizance of the same, be referred to the Archbishops and Bishops of the Provinces of Canterbury and York, whose decision thereupon shall be binding upon the Society and its agents, and representatives. The proposed reference shall be made by the COMMITTEE, through His Grace the Primate, accompanied by such explanations and statements as the COMMITTEE may deem advisable.

XXXIII. The object of the preceding Law being only to provide a mode of settling questions relating to Ecclesiastical Order and Discipline as to which no provision has yet been made by the Society, it is not to be so construed, as in any other respect to alter the principles and practices of the Society, as they are contained in its Laws and Regulations.

XXXIV. It is recommended to every Member of the Society to pray to Almighty God for a blessing upon its designs; under the full conviction that, unless He "prevent us, in all our doings, with His most gracious favour, and further us with His continual help," the Society cannot reasonably hope to meet with persons of a proper spirit and qualifications to be Missionaries, or expect their endeavours to be crowned with success.

* The Bishops of the Church of England under the authority of the law of the land ordain and send forth [ecclesiastically speaking] the Society's Missionaries; and in the event of their being appointed by the COMMITTEE to labour at stations within the jurisdiction of a Bishop of the Church of England abroad, it is the practice of the Society to apply to the Bishop for licenses in which are specified the districts to which the Missionaries have been assigned. This is done on the understanding that licenses will neither be refused nor when granted be withdrawn from the Missionaries during their connection with the Society, except for some assigned legal cause.

PRAYER USED AT THE ANNUAL MEETINGS OF THE SOCIETY, AND AT THE OPENING OF MEETINGS OF THE GENERAL COMMITTEE.

ALMIGHTY and most merciful FATHER, we give Thee humble thanks for the light of Thy Gospel. Make us more grateful for this Thy mercy, and more zealous for the salvation of all mankind.

Visit in mercy the Church of Christ; enrich it more abundantly with the grace of Thy Holy Spirit; and bless its endeavours to make known Thy Truth. Unite, as one man, all who are truly labouring for Thee. Disappoint the designs of Satan. Let all Christian Societies live in harmony and love; give them wisdom in all their plans; perfect Thy strength in their weakness; and direct their labours to Thy glory.

The harvest truly is great, but the Labourers are few! O Thou Lord of the Harvest, send forth labourers into Thy Harvest! Fill with Thy Spirit those whom Thou hast sent forth; and enable them faithfully and boldly to preach, among Jews and Gentiles, the unsearchable riches of Christ. Keep them from the snares of the world, the flesh, and the devil; deliver them from all evil; and make them wise to win souls.

Upon all the Native Converts whom Thou hast gathered to Thyself, through Thy labouring servants throughout the world, pour out Thy Holy Spirit, that, as Thou hast begotten them again unto a lively hope, so they may ever be followers of Thee as dear children. Deliver them from all remaining darkness and ignorance; destroy and abolish in their hearts all that remains of Satan's kingdom; grant that their faith, and hope, and love may grow exceedingly; make them to be ready to every good work, and more especially to exert themselves for the salvation of those around them; that so, by their zeal and faithful testimony, by their holiness and fruitfulness, they may glorify Thy name before their countrymen, and bring in unto Thee, from the midst of them, such as shall be saved.

Have compassion, O Most-merciful Father, on all those who have come under instruction, though they be not yet altogether Christians. Convince them effectually, by Thy Word and Spirit, of their sinful and miserable state; pour upon them the spirit of grace and supplication, and draw them to Jesus.

Take away blindness from the Jews. Let them receive Thee, O Jesus, as their Messiah, and proclaim Thy saving Name among the Gentiles.

Deliver all Mohammedans from the delusions of the False Prophet! O Thou True Prophet of Thy Church, enlighten them by Thy Holy Spirit, and bow them down at the foot of Thy Cross!

Pity blind Idolaters who are kept in cruel bondage by the god of this world. Turn them from idols, that they may serve the Living and True God.

O Thou Almighty Saviour, who by the right hand of God art exalted, and hast received of the Father the promise of the Holy Ghost, shed forth His light and grace on this dark world!

Cause all Christians, we beseech Thee, to sow bountifully; that they may reap also bountifully. O Thou that lovest a cheerful giver, let all grace abound toward them, that they may minister liberally of their substance to the making known of Thy Name!

With these our humble prayers, we join our praises and thanksgiving for what Thou hast already done in making known Thy salvation; perfect Thy work, O Lord; shortly accomplish the number of Thine elect; and hasten the coming of Thy Kingdom.

Be present with us, O Lord, at this time. Give us all a single eye to Thy glory. May Thy blessing rest upon our meeting; and may all our hearts be this day quickened and encouraged to fresh and persevering efforts in Thy Service.

We ask these mercies for the glory of Thy Name, through the merits and mediation of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ; and would ascribe to Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, Three Persons in One God, everlasting praise. Amen.

OUR Father which art in Heaven: Hallowed be Thy Name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our trespasses, as we forgive them that trespass against us. And lead us not into temptation; but deliver us from evil: for Thine is the kingdom, the power, and the glory, for ever and ever. Amen.

PRAYER USED AT THE OPENING OF MEETINGS OF THE COMMITTEE OF CORRESPONDENCE.

ALMIGHTY GOD, our heavenly Father, who hast purchased to Thyself an Universal Church, by the precious blood of Thy dear Son, we give Thee hearty thanks that it hath pleased Thee to call us to the knowledge of Thy grace and Faith in Thee, and to appoint our lot in an age and country where the true light shineth. We bless Thee that Thou hast awakened us in some measure to feel our responsibilities. We praise Thee for what we have seen and heard of the power of Thy Word among the heathen, we adore Thee for Thy many servants who have gone out from amongst us to toil, and suffer, and die in making known Thy salvation; and we thank Thee that Thou dost allow us, unworthy sinners, to unite together in this work of faith and labour of love.

We humbly confess our past lukewarmness in this Thy service, notwithstanding these Thine inestimable benefits and mercies. For our Lord Jesus Christ's sake, forgive us our past negligences, and so endue us with Thy Holy Spirit, that we may more earnestly seek Thy glory in the salvation of souls.

Grant us, we beseech Thee, Thy very present help at these our meetings. We ask, most gracious God and Father, for a constraining sense of the love of the Lord Jesus, and for wisdom to direct us in all our endeavours. Increase upon us the spirit of power, and of love, and of a sound mind. Give us faith and courage; give us zeal and patience; give us a single eye to Thy glory, and help us to bear and to forbear. The silver and the gold are Thine, O King of kings! Supply us with what is needful for our great work, and make us faithful stewards of Thy bounty, for proclaiming to the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ.

We pray also for all who are united with us in the direction of this sacred cause.

May Thine especial blessing rest upon our Committees, with their Secretaries, throughout the world. Bestow on them the help that we feel so needful for ourselves. Enable them to maintain the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace, and ever to find favour in the sight of all with whom they may have to do.

Especially we beseech Thee to look, O most merciful Father, upon our Missionary brethren. Draw out our hearts towards them more and more; and while they are bearing the burden abroad, give us grace to help and succour them by our sympathy and prayers at home. Bless every letter written to them from this house, and all our intercourse with them. We pray for them that they may be filled with Thy Spirit. Grant that the same mind may be in them which was also in Christ Jesus. Let them never lose their first love. Raise them above the cares of this world. Help them to deny themselves and to endure all things for the elect's sake. Give them the tongue of him that is taught. Clothe them with humility. Teach them to follow peace with each other, and with all men. Support them under spiritual distresses, temptations of the adversary, bodily sickness, domestic anxieties, and hope deferred. And so confirm Thy word from their lips by the power of the Holy Ghost, that through them multitudes may be turned from darkness to light, and from the power of Satan unto Thee, our God.

We commend to Thee the Missionaries' children entrusted to our charge. Bring them all to a true knowledge of, and faith in Thee. Defend them with Thy heavenly grace, that they may continue Thine for ever; and daily increase in Thy Holy Spirit more and more, until they come unto Thy everlasting kingdom. Give all needed grace to those who have the direction of the Home in the discharge of the arduous work with which Thou hast been pleased to entrust them.

We most heartily thank Thee, O Lord, for those whom Thou hast already sent forth through this Society; and we pray for a yet larger outpouring of a Missionary spirit on our younger Clergy, on the members of our Universities, on those who are elsewhere preparing for this holy work, on the young men of all ranks and orders throughout our land. And herein do we implore Thy special favour on our Islington Institution, that its numbers may be replenished continually: and that none may go forth thence but such as shall be able ministers of the New Testament, full of Faith, and of the Holy Ghost.

We praise Thee, O Thou God of all grace, for the Converts, the Native Catechists, and the Native Clergy, whom Thou hast granted to us in our several Missions. As Thou hast raised the Native Churches thus far, bring them, we pray Thee, to full ripeness and perfectness of age in Christ. Pour out upon them Thy Holy Spirit. Stablish, strengthen, settle them, and so enlarge their liberality, that they may both maintain Thy Word among themselves, and may make it known to the regions beyond them, till all the Gentiles hear the glad tidings of Thy love.

And now, O Lord God, be Thou in the midst of us to-day. Give us a constant sense of Thy presence, and may all our undertakings be begun, continued, and ended in Thee, to the honour of Thy great name for the sake of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. Amen.

PRAYERS FOR MISSIONS,
SUITABLE TO BE USED AT MISSIONARY MEETINGS AND IN PRIVATE.

I.—From the Book of Common Prayer according to the use of the Church of Ireland.

Almighty God, who by Thy Son Jesus Christ didst give commandment to the Apostles that they should go into all the world, and preach the Gospel to every creature; grant to us whom Thou hast called into Thy Church a ready will to obey Thy Word, and fill us with a hearty desire to make Thy way known upon earth, Thy saving health among all nations. Look with compassion upon the heathen that have not known Thee, and on the multitudes that are scattered as sheep having no shepherd. O heavenly Father, Lord of the harvest, have respect, we beseech Thee, to our prayers, and send forth labourers into Thy harvest. Fit and prepare them by Thy grace for the work of the ministry; give them the spirit of power, and of love, and of a sound mind; strengthen them to endure hardness; and grant that Thy Holy Spirit may prosper their work, and that by their life and doctrine they may set forth Thy glory and set forward the salvation of all men; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

II.—For a Blessing on Missionaries and their Labours.

(By Archbishop Sumner.)

O most merciful Saviour and Redeemer, who wouldest not that any should perish but that all men should be saved and come to the knowledge of the truth, fulfil Thy gracious promise to be present with those who are gone forth in Thy Name to preach the Gospel of Salvation in distant lands. Be with them in all perils by land or by water, in sickness and distress, in weariness and painfulness, in disappointment and persecution. Bless them, we beseech Thee, with Thy continual favour, and send Thy Holy Spirit to guide them into all truth. O Lord, let Thy ministers be clothed with righteousness, and grant that Thy word spoken by their mouths may never be spoken in vain. Endue them with power from on high, and so prosper Thy work in their hands, that the fulness of the Gentiles may be gathered in, and all Israel be saved.

Hear us, O Lord, for Thy mercy's sake, and grant that all who are saved by Thy Name may be one in Thee, and may abound more and more in prayers and in free-will offerings, for the extension of Thy kingdom throughout the world, to Thy honour and glory, who livest and reignest with the Father and the Holy Ghost, ever one God, world without end. Amen.

III.—For Missions and for Grace to help them.

(By Bishop Christopher Wordsworth.)

O Lord Jesu Christ, Saviour of Mankind, who hast commanded Thy disciples to go into all the world and to preach the Gospel to every creature, and who hast declared that this Gospel of the Kingdom shall first be preached to all nations, and that then the end shall come; we humbly beseech Thee to raise up men full of faith and of the Holy Ghost, and send them forth to do the work of evangelists by spreading abroad the glad tidings of salvation; and so to fill us with Thy love, and to quicken us with Thy grace, that we may labour joyfully with them by prayers and offerings for their work, so that finally at Thy Second Coming to judge the world, we together with them, and with those who have received the Gospel at their hands, may rejoice in Thy presence with exceeding joy, and may praise Thee for evermore, our holy and most merciful Redeemer, our most worthy Judge Eternal, our most mighty Lord and God, to Whom, with the Father and the Holy Ghost, be all honour and glory now and for ever. Amen.

IV.

(By Bishop Cotton, of Calcutta.)

O God, who hast made of one blood all nations of men to dwell upon the face of thy whole earth, and who didst send Thy blessed Son to preach peace to them that are afar off, and to them that are nigh, grant that all the people of heathen and Mohammedan lands may feel after Thee and find Thee; and hasten, O Lord, the fulfilment of Thy promise, to pour out Thy Spirit upon all flesh, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

THE ANNUAL SERMON,

Preached at St. Bride's Church, Fleet Street, on Monday Evening, May 4, 1896,

BY

THE REV. W. H. BARLOW, D.D.

VICAR OF ISLINGTON.

"BEHOLD, I HAVE SET BEFORE THEE AN OPEN DOOR."—Rev. iii. 8.

THE Epistles to the Seven Churches, or rather to the Angels thereof, seem to me to possess a distinctly historical character. The events narrated or referred to by St. John were brought, I believe, directly under his personal observation, and were within his personal knowledge.

Other theories—viz., that they are mere patterns and types of the several ages of the Church; that one letter describes, as in a picture, the characteristics of the first age, the second that of a succeeding one, and so on, till the Lord come—do not seem to me (in spite of the great names* by which many of them are supported) to be on the best lines of interpretation.

But whilst I cling to the historical rather than to the prophetical view of these letters, I fully admit that the lessons of each are being continually reproduced. In fact history is constantly repeating itself. It has been well said, that what the parables of the Gospels are to individual men, such are these letters to the Church at large. They have an ever-recurring application. And for this reason. Human nature is always the same: perverse, polluted, rebellious. The work of Divine grace is always the same: to transmute, to purify, to subdue. Circumstances may change; certain phenomena may be prominent in one period, and others at another; but all bear witness, on the one hand to man's sin, and on the other to the Divine mastery of the grace of God.

I. My first endeavour to-night will be to consider (however briefly) the contents of this letter as addressed to a particular community of Christian men. It is a point, familiar to the most cursory reader of these documents, that the Lord Jesus adopts various titles as descriptive of Himself, in the opening sentences of each address; and that these titles have definite reference to His position as Head over all things to His Church generally, and in relation to the particular section of the Church with which (at the time) He is dealing. In this case the Saviour speaks of Himself as the Holy one and the True. Holy He is in essential Deity; Holy in spotless humanity; Holy in His person; Holy in His work; Holy from eternity past; Holy throughout the eternity to come. Closely allied to this holiness is that truthfulness alike in word and in deed, in speech and in silence, in repose and in action, which make up the idea of perfectness and completeness in every department of life. Such an one (so attractive, in His holiness and utter absence of all falsehood, to the loving disciple) must be a terror indeed to the synagogue of Satan, to those who have a form of religion without the power, whose profession is mere pretence, the salt of whose creed has lost its savour, who have a name to live and are dead, who are persecutors, not promoters of the faith. But it is a source of inexpressible comfort to the Spirit-taught heart, that He with whom we have to do is in all things as true as He is holy, and as holy as He is true.

A further feature in the character of the Lord, as here given, is very remarkable. He possesses the key of the house of David. "He openeth, and no man shutteth. He shutteth, and no man openeth." The words are taken from a well-known passage of Isaiah (xxii. 22), where the Prophet foretells the removal of one Treasurer of the Royal Household from his office, and the setting up of another in his place. Shebna, the proud and unfaithful steward, shall be deposed: Eliakim shall occupy his position. He shall have access to the King's treasures, and shall control their distribution. As the badge of his office, he shall carry the key of the Royal house on his shoulder. Absolutely trusted by his Sovereign, he shall give in one direction and refuse to give in another. As a faithful steward he shall inform himself of every need as it arises, and supply it with sympathetic care. But all shall be done for the glory of his Master, for the establishment of his kingdom, and the furtherance of his power. Here is the picture of a model administrator. On behalf of his lord he opens and none can shut; he shuts and none may open.

Now this figure remarkably illustrates the mediatorial work of Christ. In the carrying-out of the great purposes of God from all eternity in regard to the salvation of His people, the Mediator occupies an all-important place. Take these few points:—

That He might be fitted for this work He was, after long ages of preparation, born as a man into this world. He was tempted by Satan, and triumphed over him. He became the Prophet, in mighty word and deed. He suffered on the Cross, bearing there the sin of a ruined world. He conquered the powers of death and hell. He ascended on high and poured forth the gift of the Holy Spirit. All stores of wisdom and grace and power are at His bestowal. Nothing is needed by His servants, but He has it in His hands to bestow. The key of the Royal treasury is on His shoulder. And all this is to continue until the time appointed of the Father. When that hour arrives, the work of the Mediator will be closed. In the expressive words of St. Paul, "When all things shall be subdued unto Him, then shall the Son also Himself be subject unto Him that put all things under Him, that God may be all in all."

So far for the three titles claimed by the Lord Jesus. If the first two are specially precious to all His loving followers, from the point of view of their private experience, the third is markedly so to those who are ready to undertake work at His bidding. For whilst on the one hand they cannot force a way when He has closed a door (and great mistakes may be made when, leaning on their own understanding, and apart from His guidance, they attempt to carve out a road for themselves), yet, on the other hand, when they are content to follow where He leads, nothing can avail to hinder. What greater consolation could there be for a Missionary Church than this! For whilst she should be, as it were, always on her watch-tower, always praying for guidance, always noting the signs of the times, always ready to obey when God calls; so, when the call comes and the door is open her plain duty is to go forward: it may be against overwhelming odds, it may be to provoke the laughter of the world; it may be in the face of seeming impossibilities; yet to go forward, with the calm, steady march of faith, which knows no fear, and counts no cost, just because the command has been given by the Lord, and the way has been made plain by Him. Such faith "laughs at impossibilities, and says, It shall be done."

The Lord now reviews the position of the Church in Philadelphia. He reminds them, that whilst He had called them to the highest service, and the noblest, (i.) their own strength was small.

It is a question of interpretation whether we should render the words "Thou hast a little strength," implying that there was a measurable quantity of it; or "Thou hast little"—i.e., so little that the amount of it may well be neglected. But on this inquiry we need not delay. Whatever strength they had—that they used. Whatever talents they possessed were not carefully wrapped up in a napkin, and buried out of sight. They were sedulously cultivated, and laid out for God.

Here is one of God's grandest laws—perhaps the grandest of all under which we live. Whatever of gifts or graces a man has—however little in his own eyes, however little in the eyes of his fellow-men, however little in the eyes of the great Searcher of hearts—yet let him not despise that little. Let him use it, faithfully, diligently, prayerfully, for the glory of the Giver. Then it will be multiplied in the using, and not exhausted. It will be like the Bread, broken by the Lord in His miracles. It will be like the work wrought at the marriage feast in Cana, where the water of earth was turned into the wine of heaven. For "He giveth more grace." "Out of His fulness have we all received, and grace upon grace." "To him that hath shall more be given," not because he had a right to the more, but because he used what he had. This law the Church in Philadelphia understood. They were faithful to opportunity; faithful in little things; faithful to themselves; faithful to their fellow-men; faithful to God. "Thou hast a little strength" and hast used it well.

(ii.) The next feature in their character was, that they had "kept the Word of God." This implies, surely, that they had first received that Word as the ground of their own salvation; and then that they had employed it as the chief instrument of their evangelistic work. In aggressive warfare we need weapons of special power and proof. Argument, force of will, tender pleadings, manifest self-sacrifice—all have their place; but they are not the Word of God, and they cannot take its position. The story of the fall and ruin of man; of the incarnation of the Son of God; of His life and work; of the cross of shame; of the empty tomb; of the ascending Conqueror; of the promised Spirit; of the victories gained by Him, as acting through the minds and hearts of believers;—these things must be told, if the kingdom of Christ is to be extended. "The sword of the Spirit is the Word of God." "Give me that" (as David said of the sword he had wrested from the hand of the fallen giant) "give me that—for there is none like it."

(iii.) Thirdly, they had passed through the fire of temptation and had not fainted. Possibly the persecutors had been from among unbelieving Jews. The persecutions themselves are not indicated, but probably they had to do with a denial of the name of Jesus Christ. Whatever they were, the Church came out victorious. And as a reward, (a) promises are given them, that even their foes shall recognize that the Lord had been with His servants, and had loved them. This is the only triumph over others that a Christian must know. A victory for himself must first have been a victory for his Lord. The believer may be tried, persecuted, afflicted, and his name cast out as evil: but in the end his character is cleared, and the hand of the Lord is recognized in his work. God has all the glory; the servant lifts up his heart with joy, and is content.

(b) Another token of blessing is this. Greater persecutions were in store. Under these they shall be protected. The reward of their patience in the one case shall be their shielding in the other. And not only so: Let them hold fast, and be made victorious in this further conflict, and then, though other structures might rock as under an earthquake, they should stand erect as a pillar in the temple of God. From that temple, once gained, they (as perfected saints) shall go out no more. The name of God Himself, and of the heavenly city, and the Lord's own new name, as yet undisclosed, shall be theirs. Thus a trinity of blessing is promised to those who did not deny (on earth) that holy Name, which is above every name; the Name of Jesus, Son of man, and Son of God.

This, in rapid review, is the letter. In it you find no censure, no guarded encomium. The heart of the Lord seems here to beat in fullest sympathy with the Missionary Church. "Onward, Christian soldiers," seems the keynote of the whole. As the Lord suffered, taught, prayed, and laboured; so by His grace did His brethren here. Write over it this word, "As the Father hath sent Me, even so send I you."

II. Let us now pass away from the Philadelphian Church, as regards its particular history, but not so as regards the principles underlying that history.

It seems to me that those principles are unchanging. Every true Missionary Church must contain the marks and notes exhibited here.

Now the Church of the Acts of the Apostles was a Missionary Church. Does it illustrate, and was it founded on, those principles? I think so!

Briefly, very briefly, let me show this:—

(i.) There was then an open door. Roman law, following on Roman conquest, Grecian culture and art, and Jewish dispersion, had (in the wonderful providence of God) combined at this time to make a very highway among the nations; a highway such as had been before unknown for the heralds of the Cross. Here is one note.

(ii.) Then the Church at Jerusalem was faithful. They were a little company of 120, who (after the Lord's Ascension) continued in prayer and supplication awaiting Pentecost. They had little strength. They were not among the great, the noble, the learned, the wealthy of the world. But, weak as they were, they were held together by the band of Divine love.

Directly they were endued with power from above, they commenced the attack. "Magnificent, but not war," was the French comment on the famous charge of the six hundred who, forty years ago, rode into the valley of death at Balaclava.

So might men have said of this charge on the fortified camp of those who, in Jerusalem, opposed the truth and had crucified the Lord of Glory.

"Magnificent" or not, it was war. And the three thousand who repented and were baptized were a proof that God was with the warriors.

And so it was all through the Apostolic age. Write on that age, "Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord." Those men had a little strength. It was used, it multiplied, it grew.

(iii.) Again that Church, in a remarkable way, kept the Word. All through the record of the Acts this point is most emphatic. In our modern reports we may speak of crowded assemblies, powerful addresses, great interest aroused, or enthusiasm provoked. We may use similar language in respect of the reception of the truth by those to whom it is preached abroad. But in the Acts all interest gathers round the Word. They who were converted "gladly received the Word" (ii. 41). On the first outbreak of persecution, the prayer of the faithful was, that with all boldness God's servants "might speak the Word" (iv. 29). Deacons were chosen in order that the twelve might give themselves wholly to the ministry of the Word (vi.). When the multitude of disciples advances, the Word of God is said to increase. When Samaria is evangelized, it is enough to say that it had received the Word (viii. 14). When Peter preached to Cornelius and his house, the Holy Ghost fell on all them which heard the Word (x. 44). In spite of the death of James, and the imprisonment of Peter, progress followed; for "the Word of God grew and multiplied" (xii. 24). Paul's sermon at Antioch in Pisidia moved many hearts. And the next Sabbath day came almost the whole city together, to hear the Word of God (xiii. 44). When the Gentiles in that place heard that salvation was for them also, they glorified the Word of the Lord (xiii. 48). In Iconium (xiv. 3) the Lord gave testimony unto the Word of His grace. When the great spiritual upheaval took place at Ephesus, and those who had used magical arts burned their books, the simple tale, "So mightily grew the Word of God and prevailed," is told (Acts xix. 20).

These cases are but samples. I should weary you, were I to quote all the cases of this kind to be found in the Acts. But not less explicit is the testimony of the Epistles to the power of the direct, unadulterated Word. In fact, all the New Testament story, from the Ascension onwards, is in harmony on this point.

(iv.) I come now to the next test; and to this (as to the others) the early Church responds. It did not deny the name of Christ. "In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk" (iii. 6) are Peter's words on the occasion of the first miracle. When challenged as to the deed done to the impotent man, he answers boldly that it was done by the name of Jeuss Christ of Nazareth, whom the Jews had crucified (iv. 10). When the Apostles had been beaten for their loyalty to the Lord, they departed from the Council rejoicing that they were counted worthy to suffer shame for His name (v. 41). The purpose for which the Gospel is preached to the Gentiles is declared to be that God may take out of them a people for His name (xv. 14). And so it is all through the Book. Peter and Paul and James and John alike gloried in the name. They taught in it; they suffered for it; they magnified it; they were prepared to die for it. But they could not deny it.

Taking these tests, we find that what the Church in Philadelphia was, as described by the Lord Himself, such was the Church of the first days—for the thirty, forty, fifty, or sixty years that followed the Ascension. They are alike in all essential features. And not only so, but He, the Holy One and the True, exercises the same prerogatives in the one case as in the other. He opens the door first to the Jews and then to the Gentiles by Peter. He lays hold of the persecutor Saul and turns him into an Apostle. He sends Paul, whose desire was to preach to his fellow-countrymen, to minister to the Gentiles. He lays His commands on the Church in Antioch, and they surrender their foremost pastors for evangelistic work. To Paul and his companions He shuts (on a memorable occasion) the doors of proconsular Asia and of Bithynia, and opens the door of Macedonia and Europe. Paul's eager desire was to see and labour in Rome; and to Rome he is sent, though in a way that could not have been foreseen by man. In all these things the Head of the Church is Head. His is no mere titular or ornamental sway. He chooses places and men; work for the labourers and labourers for the work. He opens and none can shut. He shuts and none can open.

So far as we have gone, the action of the Lord to the faithful, and of the faithful to their Lord, have alone been considered. But in all ages Satan has been at work, and he has used every endeavour to mar or hinder the spread of the Gospel. His plan has been diametrically the opposite of the Divine plan. For holiness, he would substitute sin; for truth, a lie; for faith and the aggression of faith—doubt, apathy, coldness, selfishness; for an open door, a closed one; for the Word of God, supreme in its authority, the fancies and traditions of men; for the name of Christ, anything, everything that would turn the sinner's gaze from the crucified Lamb of God, which taketh away the sin of the world. Blessed be God, Satan in his terrible endeavour has not succeeded. With whatever imperfections, the Church of Christ on earth still exists. However slow, the growth of the kingdom is real. However mighty our foes, greater is He that is with us, than all they that are with them.

I have not time—though the attraction of the subject is great—to go through the history of the Church, and of the Missions of the Church, from the end of the first century to the beginning of the present. But of this I am convinced—that where the truth of God has been fully preached and the Church of Christ kept pure, where ground has been won, and souls have been saved, and God has been glorified, there the Holy Spirit has enforced and employed the great principles illustrated in the Philadelphian letter. And where the Gospel has been distorted, and error and heresy have crept in, and love has grown cold, and spirituality has declined, and a creeping paralysis has supervened, and work for souls has died down—there the Holy Ghost has been resisted, His teaching unheeded, and His plain commands ignored.

Let the rules prescribed by our Lord be adhered to, in simple faith and love, in whatever age or place, and I see blessed results of necessity follow. Let them be despised, and failure inevitably ensues.

III. I come, thirdly, to our own country, and to the Church of which we are members.

The position of the Missionary cause at the beginning of the century and the position now claim special consideration. What was the position then? (i.) A few clergy and laity of our Church, themselves taught of God and imbued with His Spirit, felt that something ought to be attempted for the Heathen They had few external aids on which to rely; but they had faith, courage, patience, fidelity. They had "little strength." For a few years they could do this only: form plans, collect funds, and encourage themselves by prayer and waiting upon God. At length in 1804 they entered the then open door of West Africa. It was not an attractive sphere. But it was open, and they entered. What is the position now? Simply this: that to ourselves, or to kindred societies of men, the whole world lies open. And how has this been brought about? Speaking humanly, from the right use of our opportunities; speaking scripturally, from God's blessing on the faithfulness of His servants.

Had the founders of our cause refused to go forward in 1804, in West Africa, I doubt if New Zealand would have been opened to them in 1814, or India in 1816, or Rupert's Land in 1821. But they acted, as in duty bound, and field after field was occupied. Then, in 1844, came another great advance—the treaty ports were opened in China, and that vast empire became, at least at certain points, accessible to the Gospel. How well I remember my father reading to the family circle, in a country rectory in Derbyshire, an account of the treaty then just settled with China, and the prospects opened up thereby! How well I remember a sainted godmother writing to me at the time, to express her thankfulness at the event, and seeking to stir up in a child's heart an interest in the great work of Christ abroad! India, all but taken from us in 1857, was restored after a sharp conflict, as it were by a fresh lease from God, and with a solemn warning (to those who had ears to hear) as to future faithfulness. Then followed Japan and Persia in 1869. In 1875 came the invitation to Uganda. As one of those present in the Committee-room when Stanley's famous letter was read, I can well recall the scene. Some wise and experienced counsellors thought the risk of penetrating so far, and at once, into the heart of the great continent, too serious. But the God-given faith and tenacity and generosity of Henry Wright prevailed. It was in May, 1876, just twenty years ago, that the first party set forth: and now what hath God wrought? In all this I claim that the right course in regard to Missionary work is, to do the thing of the day in its day; to let God guide; to follow His lead; and to expect Him to shut and open doors, as He sees best.

(ii.) Another feature in the work of the founders of this cause was this—their determination to "keep the Word." Spiritual men for spiritual work, was their guiding principle. Seeing that the kingdom of Christ must be spread by preaching, they took the greatest pains as to the fitness of the labourers. They were clear that if the world was to be evangelized, men must be set to the task who were filled with God's Spirit, and who were saturated with His truth. Human philosophy, Western civilization, modern arts, science, and literature—all these things have their place; but they are not the thing which the Christian missionary goes forth to spread. The thing is the revelation of God. And, therefore, our fathers would send out those only who had an experimental knowledge of Divine truth. There is a strong temptation to young societies to show results at an early stage, and to this end to send forth men not fully prepared or qualified. Happily this snare was avoided. The rule was, to be certified as to the spiritual equipment of the agent (so far as man may thus be certified), and to forbear to push any forth who gave insufficient proofs of fitness. Thus our founders kept the Word. And not in this way only. But they made it a matter of first importance that the Society's missionaries should, as soon as possible, by reducing spoken languages to writing, and by making themselves masters of the tongues of the people amongst whom they ministered, give them the priceless benefit of the Word of God (in whole or in part) in their own tongue. On this department of the Society's service we may look, I feel sure, with devout thankfulness. We cannot, I conceive, be too earnest or sincere in our gratitude to God for permitting us to be instruments in His hands in conveying to millions of our fellow-men the blessing of the Written Word.

Now let me say here that from my heart I believe that whatever care was exercised at the beginning in regard to the choice of agents, and in promoting translations of the Word, no less care is exercised at this day. For the past twenty-one years I have known, from the interior, the methods pursued in the selection and training of labourers. Too much care, and pains, and prayer cannot be bestowed on such a point; and there is no stint in this direction. Of late years there have been varied developments. The female helper is now largely used; medical missions are being widely established; the unordained labourer is being sent out in greater numbers—but in all these cases, as well as in that of the ordained missionary, I see no sign of relaxation in regard to testing the spiritual efficiency of those employed. And there is no diminution of effort in supplying the Word of God and sound Christian literature in new tongues. The translational work is as vigorously pursued as ever. Let Uganda, the last of our important Missions, be a witness of this. Thus I claim that, as in the past, so in the present, the organization of which we are members is a keeper of the Word of God.

(iii.) Yet another test has to be applied. Did our fathers deny the Name? I think not. They held, and their missionaries held, a full Gospel. It was a Gospel for the sinner; a Gospel of atonement; a Gospel of justification and pardon through the finished work of Jesus Christ; a Gospel witnessed to, and made effective by, the living power of the Holy Ghost.

And if, in publishing this Name, the servants of Christ have had to undergo hardships, and to bear sickness, or bereavements; to deny themselves attractive prospects at home—nay, to face death itself,—they have not shrunk from the trial. This has been so all along. You see it in the earlier Missions: you see it now. West Africa, and New Zealand, and North-West America had their heroes in the past: India and Central Africa and China have had their heroes in more recent days. Martyrs, confessors, witnesses—call them what you will—we claim for them that "they did not deny the Name."

One is tempted at this point to speak at length of the story of Ku-cheng. For few events of late years have wrung the hearts and tried the faith of God's children more than this did. And my love for a former pupil and true friend, like Robert Stewart, would compel me to cast a few simple flowers on his grave. Yet, on the whole, it may be better rather to draw one or two lessons from the story, than to revive the details of the scene. For one thing, we see, as this Society has certainly never seen before, and as the Church of England Zenana Society has had an equal share with ourselves in illustrating, how women can meet death for Christ's sake. Βαβαί! οἷαι παρὰ τοῖς Χριστιανοῖς γυναῖκές εἰσιν. "Strange! what women the Christians have," was the comment of a heathen onlooker (Libanius) in the fourth century. Thank God, by His grace, what women we Christians still have in the nineteenth.

Again, the tone adopted, at once and throughout, in regard to these massacres by Christians at home, was admirable. No thought of revenge. No demand for satisfaction. "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." "Lord, lay not this sin to their charge:" seemed to me to be written over the story. Thank God, the very Spirit of Christ and of Stephen His first martyr still lives amongst us.

And yet more. What the many deaths in West Africa were in days gone by; what the end of Henry Martyn and Bishop French have been to Persia; what Captain Gardiner's death was to South America; what Bishop Hannington's martyrdom was to Central Africa—such will be the tragic event of August 1, 1895, to China. "To what purpose is this waste?" cry some. We reply without a doubt—these sacrifices, these trials, these tears, this blood—they bind us to the work, they bind us to the people, they bind us to the land—for they bind us to the Lord. We can never retire now. Where no sacrifice had been known, there work might be surrendered. In cases like these, we hold on to the end.

One further thought claims attention in regard to the trials attending the Missionary cause. Greater sacrifices may be in store. Keener afflictions may yet be our lot. The temptation that is yet to come upon all the world, may be a very furnace heated sevenfold hotter than before; but those who have kept the word of patience now, shall be kept in the hour of temptation then.

My task is now nearly over, and I hasten to an end.

IV. Certain general reflections force themselves on the attention. (i.) The Church of England, the Church of which we are members, does (more than any other Church I know) honour the Word of God. This Church does, in her creeds, formularies, and articles, bear witness, more than any other Church I know, to the person and work of Christ. True sons and daughters of this Church must answer to the two tests propounded by Our Lord: they keep the word, they do not deny the name.

They start thus with a great advantage. (ii.) But what is needed? More personal consecration. It is a holy enterprise. By its very holiness, and self-sacrifice, and patient abiding in the ways of God, it has worn down much opposition, and conciliated much respect, notably in the view taken of its work by the public press of the day. But it cannot live on public esteem. It can only live and grow as it is holy; pure in motive and devoted to the Lord. He that is holy, He that is true, looks down upon us from His mediatorial throne to-night. May those searching Eyes destroy and burn up the dross in our hearts, and leave nought but the fine gold of faith and love remaining.

What is needed? More complete recognition of the Lord as the Head of Missions. He opens what doors, and He shuts what doors He pleases. Our empire all over the world is such as mankind has never seen before. Our ships are in every sea.

Our traffickers in every mart. Why? Not for the aggrandisement of our merchants, or for the glorification of our beloved Sovereign and her statesmen; but to spread the Kingdom of Christ. Oh, that this were understood! We take up the noble motto on our Royal Exchange, and say in the highest (because in the Christian) sense, "The earth is the Lord's, and the fulness thereof." Citizens of London, remember this!

What is needed? More thorough determination to take advantage of every opportunity that presents itself—or rather, is presented by the Lord—for pushing forward. The newly-proposed "Three Years' Enterprise" offers such an opening. Plans are being thoughtfully prepared: new efforts, in many directions, will be proposed: a louder call to self-sacrifice than ever heard before, will be sounded in our ears. Let us be ready to hear, to ponder, and to obey, as sons of Issachar—men who have understanding of the times, and are prepared to act as God shall call.

What is needed? More complete recognition of the great fact, that we have little strength; but that God accepts, and uses, and multiplies the little. Therefore let the collector of pounds and of pence redouble his efforts: the writer for the press redouble his endeavour to make his work not only attractive to man but acceptable to God: the attendant at the Council Board redouble his spirit of patient and vigilant administration: the trainer of the living agents redouble his laborious watchfulness: the translator of the Word redouble his skilfulness and zeal. Each one at home, each one abroad, has his gift from God. However small, throw that gift into the treasury, animated with faith, perfumed with love, consecrated with prayer.

There are many in this place who long for, and expect, the Lord's second coming every day. They know that in spreading the Gospel they are hastening His return. They pray (out of the fulness of their heart), Come, Lord Jesus, come quickly. And when He does we will give Him all the praise. The prophecy touching Eliakim (Is. xxii.) shall have a further fulfilment. Christ shall be fastened as a nail in a sure place. We will hang upon Him all the glory. He shall be for a glorious throne to His father's house.

ANNUAL REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE.

General Review of the Year.

(READ AT THE ANNIVERSARY AT EXETER HALL, MAY 5, 1896.)

"Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus."—HEB. xii. 1, 2.

AMID all the changes and chances, the trials and triumphs, of the year now to be reviewed, it will probably be remembered, especially in time to come, for three marked events. These are (1) the Ku-cheng massacre, (2) the development of the Uganda Mission, (3) the commencement of the Three Years' Enterprise. Each of these three events suggests the solemn thoughts of retrospect and anticipation which are embodied in the Apostolic exhortation adopted as the motto of this Report.

The inspired writer, having marshalled his grand procession of the heroes of faith of past ages, looks forward to the race set before the Church, and upward to the Author and Perfecter of the Church's faith, "set down at the right hand of the throne of God." And we also are compassed about with a great cloud of witnesses. As the Society's first century approaches its completion, honoured names rise up in the memory, of men whose faith their successors humbly seek to follow; of such men as Charles Simeon, whose paper at the Eclectic gathering exactly one hundred years ago (1796) was the first step towards the formation of the Society; of such men as Thomas Scott, and Josiah Pratt, and Edward Bickersteth, and Henry Venn, and Henry Wright—to which list the past year has added the name of William Gray. As letter after letter arrives from Uganda, telling of a work for which the Society's whole history can find no parallel, the names of another band of heroes of faith—Shergold Smith, and James Hannington, and Henry Parker, and Alexander Mackay—are recalled; their faith likewise to be followed by the men, and, thank God! the women too, who now enter into their labours. So also the dear memory of Robert and Louisa Stewart, and of the beloved sisters who died with them at Hwa-sang—heroines of faith indeed—will to the end of time be an animating power in the hearts of very many who desire to run the heavenly race "looking unto Jesus." Nor must old veterans be forgotten like Joseph Matthews, of New Zealand, or faithful sisters like Louise Ellwanger and Marion Goodall—to mention only three of the names in the long death-roll of the past year. Verily, a cloud of witnesses!

The Committee, in developing and extending, as they trust, both the bereaved Fuh-kien Mission and the greatly prospered Uganda Mission, as well as many other Missions all round the world—and also in entering upon the Three Years' Enterprise which is to lead up to the commemoration of the Society's Second Jubilee and Hundredth Anniversary—pray that the Holy Ghost Himself may keep them ever in memory of the wonders of His grace in the lives and work of the faithful ones gone before; that He may enable them, as a result of the comprehensive review of the Society's work which is one of their Three Years' undertakings, to "lay aside every weight" that has impeded, or may impede, the progress of the Gospel, and the besetting sin—whatever it be—that may be marring the work at any point, at home or abroad; that He may quicken them and the whole Society to "run the race set before us" in these Three Years and in all succeeding years with never-faltering patience; above all, that He will keep all eyes fixed upon the Author and Perfecter of faith, Jesus the Son of God.

Varieties of the work.

In briefly reviewing the ninety-seventh year of the Church Missionary Society, the Committee desire to remind their friends that its multifarious and almost world-wide work cannot be judged by the few conspicuous incidents that may have chanced to loom large in the public eye. Day after day, week after week, month after month, the work goes on, almost unnoticed, in its two great divisions. First, the Evangelistic Branch, the "fishing" for living souls, in all its varieties of method—itinerant preaching, school teaching, visiting, training work, medical work, Bible translation and distribution, personal influence upon young and old, rich and poor, learned and unlearned; rewarded by an average of ten or twelve baptisms of adult converts from Heathenism every day in the year—an average nearly doubled in the past year, owing to the great ingathering in Uganda, the total being little less than 7,000. Secondly, the Pastoral Branch, the "shepherding" of the converts and of the now numerous bodies of hereditary Native Christians, in varieties of method parallel, if not identical, with those of the Evangelistic Branch—preaching, teaching, visiting, training, doctoring, translating, influencing; and including an average of more than twenty baptisms daily of the offspring of Christian parents. This pastoral work is largely done by Native pastors and teachers, and maintained by the converts themselves; but the Society cannot neglect the children God has given it while still comparatively in their infancy. The time, however, is eagerly looked for, and steadily prepared for, when Native Bishops and Native Synods will supersede foreign administration, and lift the growing Churches above the need of foreign support.

India and Ceylon: Baptisms.

The INDIA and CEYLON Missions, which absorb nearly one-half of the Society's entire forces, and more than half of its ordained men, illustrate the most completely these diversities of operations. No very startling incidents have marked the year, but the quiet work of God goes on. The adult converts baptized in the year have numbered 2,146—the largest total on record; and while the majority of these are from the low-caste or non-caste people of the South, there have been striking conversions of Brahmans, Mohammedans, and Parsis. The Committee especially rejoice that the work lately begun among the Parsi community by the Society's honorary missionary, Colonel Freeman, and others, should be already bearing fruit. One Parsi gentleman, who was baptized at Poona, found Christ in England, at a meeting of the Church of England Young Men's Society. A Parsi Christian Association has been formed at Bombay. One of the new Brahman converts was a student in the Noble College, and went bravely through the terrible ordeal of persuasion and persecution which has been the lot of so many like him in years gone by. The offence of the Cross is as unavoidable as ever.

Work among Christians

Efforts continue to be made for the spiritual revival of the Native Christians, the need of which is most deeply felt where they are numerous, as in Tinnevelly. The Committee earnestly trust that the new Bishopric in Tinnevelly, to which a valued member of the C.M.S. Corresponding Committee at Madras, the Rev. S. Morley, has been appointed, may be used of God to the uplifting of the Church there. Special Mission services have been held with manifest blessing, particularly in Travancore and Bengal. In the Travancore churches, both Syrian and Anglican, these services have been attended by tens of thousands, and the work of the Holy Ghost through them has been remarkable. "Never," writes Archdeacon Caley, "such a thirsting for spiritual instruction as now. Never so much reading of the Word of God. Never so many prayer-meetings. Never so many voluntary preachers. Short sermons," he adds, "are not popular. Long ones, with plenty in them, are what vast numbers like." The chief instrument in this revival has been Mr. V. David, the well-known Tamil evangelist. It is a notable illustration of the Holy Spirit's use of unexpected means, that a little book of Mr. David's was blessed by Him to some of the missionaries in Uganda, and led to the spiritual movement there, two years ago, which has borne such abundant fruit.

Auxiliary agencies. Without going outside the range of C.M.S. interests in India, the Committee must allude in passing, with thankfulness, to some auxiliary agencies. They thank God for the promising Mission established in Bengal by their friend Mr. Monro—unique as a family Mission, and especially useful in its medical work. They rejoice at the blessing vouchsafed to the meetings for educated Indian students held by Mr. Mott, of the American Student Volunteer Missionary Union. They welcome the prospect of a Ladies' Missionary Settlement at Bombay, to which several women students from Oxford and Cambridge are devoting themselves. And they again express, as they have done in former years, their gratitude to the Women's Societies which undertake the bulk of the women's work in the C.M.S. Missions in India; especially the Church of England Zenana Society, with which the Committee have in the past year had the great satisfaction of coming into closer relationship even than before.

Regions beyond. Beyond India lie the yet unevangelized territories of Central Asia, towards which the eyes of the brethren on the Frontier often turn wistfully. Dr. A. Neve, of Kashmir, has more than once penetrated into the mighty mountain ranges that lead thither, with his travelling dispensary and his Bible. When the Church is ready with men and means, the Committee doubt not that the Lord will open those hitherto closed doors.

Moslem Lands. Meanwhile, in Western Asia, a patient siege is laid to the LANDS OF ISLAM, though amid difficulties which show no tendency to diminish. In Palestine there has been continual opposition, and even alarming outbreaks. In Persia there have been some few baptisms, despite much antagonism and no little peril. Bishop Stuart, in his old age, is untiring in his labours. Miss Bird, though her life has been repeatedly threatened, is sent for even by bigoted mullahs when the shadow of sickness falls on their own homes, and on her dispensary days the street is blocked by mules and donkeys bringing patients from the country. On Christmas Day, more than two hundred of her former patients came in relays to salute her, and heard once more from her lips the story of the Babe of Bethlehem. The more regular Medical Missions of fully-qualified medical missionaries are being extended in Persia, Palestine, and Egypt. The Committee trust that the valuable Biography of Bishop French, lately published, may be instrumental in reviving and deepening the interest of Christian people in these Moslem lands, and in the ancient Christian Churches, which so sorely need the quickening and enlightening grace of the Holy Ghost, yet which still survive after ages of oppression and persecution, such as has been witnessed in the past year on so terrible a scale in Armenia.

Egypt brings us into AFRICA. North, South, East, and West of the Dark Continent have in turn attracted public attention in the past year. Ashanti is not a C.M.S. field, but a Missionary on the C.M.S. roll, Canon Taylor Smith, accompanied the recent British Expedition as chaplain, and was privileged to minister spiritually to the lamented Prince Henry of Battenberg in his fatal illness. The present expedition to Dongola may, it is hoped, prove at least a step towards the opening of the Eastern Soudan to Christian effort, to which the Society was invited long since by General Gordon. The Central Soudan, the Hausa-land lately described by Mr. Robinson, still awaits the messengers of the Cross; but the important city of Bida has been visited by Bishop Tugwell. No one would have more rejoiced than Mr. Robinson's brother, the lamented C.M.S. missionary, in whose memory the Hausa Association has been formed, in the Bishop's favourable account also of the independent Native Church in the Delta of the Niger. In Yorubaland Bishops Phillips and Oluwole, and other native clergymen, are giving an excellent example of African work for Africans. The Hinterland of Sierra Leone invites similar work; and with a view to the future use of West Indian Negroes in the evangelization of the nations to which they once belonged, Bishop Ingham has visited Jamaica and other islands of the Western Hemisphere. But the great enemy of souls is more active than the Church of Christ in West Africa; and the ravages of the disgraceful liquor traffic have elicited earnest protests from the Natives, Heathen and Mohammedan, as well as Christian. Africa: North and West.

In Eastern Equatorial Africa, the promising work at Mr. Douglas Hooper's station, Jilore, has been interrupted by the destruction of the place by rebels and the scattering of the converts. One Christian boy who was captured was sold for three yards of calico, and by his new owners was made to repeat Scripture texts while they spat upon him and cursed him. Prayer was made for him daily, and at length he escaped. Both Frere Town and Rabai have been attacked, and some Christian Africans killed, and houses burnt; but the Government has now taken vigorous measures to restore order and safety. The old station at Taita has been reoccupied; and at Taveta and the Usagara stations, good work goes steadily on, notwithstanding the continued ravages of famine. Africa East.

The year will be a memorable one in the history of Uganda for the arrival of the first five English ladies there, after a prosperous journey, for which the Committee render unfeigned thanksgiving to God. The touching welcome they have received, and the interesting openings for them that have at once appeared, Uganda:

are encouragements to send more, which the Committee hope to do this year. Meanwhile the extension of the work in and around Uganda has been truly wonderful. Besides Bishop Tucker and the ladies, there are now twenty-three Englishmen in the Mission, several of them stationed in the outlying provinces. Hill after hill, as the Bishop travels about, he finds crowned with churches; a church. Twenty-three of these are in or around the capital, and the missionaries and native clergy and teachers there serve baptisms; them in turn. No less than 2,921 adults were baptized during the year, after careful instruction and examination, and on the recommendation of those already baptized, besides 600 children of Christian parents. The Bishop, within three months of his arrival, had already confirmed 1,200 converts. The demand for books; Scriptures is greater than ever, and 40,000 printed books were sold during the year.

Mr. Pilkington thus summarizes the position:—"One hundred thousand souls brought into close contact with the Gospel, half of them able to read for themselves; two hundred buildings raised by Native Christians in which to worship God and read His Word; two hundred evangelists and teachers entirely supported by the Native Church; ten thousand copies of the New Testament in circulation; six thousand souls eagerly seeking daily instruction; statistics of baptism, confirmation, adherents, teachers, more than doubling yearly for the last six or seven years; the power of God shown in changed lives;—all this in the centre of the thickest spiritual darkness in the world!"

But only by a careful reading of all the published letters can any adequate idea of the work going on be obtained. These letters show that the brethren by no means draw a roseate dangers; picture. They are quite alive to the perils accompanying so rapid a spread of Christianity. Public opinion is now in favour of the new religion, although there are still multitudes who hate it; and formalism, inconsistency, and backsliding are the unvarying accompaniment of such a movement. Never did the Mission need more urgently than now the prayers of God's people. Yet, young as the Church of Uganda is, it is already adding to the deaths; "cloud of witnesses." To the martyrs of ten years ago, and to Sembera Mackay, the lamented victim of the outbreak in Captain Lugard's time, a peaceful death has now added one of the six native deacons, the Rev. Nicodemo Sebwato, who, while retaining the important post of "Sekibobo," was also a faithful minister of Christ. "God lent the Church an axe," said the Rev. Yonasani Kaidzi in his funeral sermon; "the axe had well done its work, and now God asked for it back."

openings. The Society is now face to face with a heavy responsibility. The whole of that part of Africa is rapidly opening. There is already a band of Christians in Toro, two hundred miles west of Mengo, near the Great Forest and dwarf tribes described by Mr. Stanley. The missionaries are calling for men to occupy the countries within a radius of two hundred miles all round Mengo; and Mr. Pilkington has prepared a scheme for a "Three Years' Enterprise" to that end. Such a project has surely unique claims upon the Society whose work in Uganda God has so richly blessed.

The Colonies

From the Maori and Red Indian Missions in NEW ZEALAND and NORTH-WEST CANADA there is little to report year by year, but both Missions afford a signal illustration of the blessed influence of Christianity in preventing the destruction of an aboriginal minority in a great and growing British colony. Within the Dominion of Canada, also, is the Mission to the Tsimshean, Kitikshean, Kitkatla, Hydah, and Kwa-gutl tribes of British Columbia, hitherto known as the North Pacific Mission. Nothing can exceed the graphic interest of Bishop Ridley's letters from his remote diocese. After describing the comfort, and cleanliness, and industry of the Christian Indian villages, he writes:—"It is impossible to heighten the contrast between the Christless and the Christian people of the same tribes. Great is our present reward in seeing the elevating as well as saving effects of a pure Gospel. The things endured in the process are forgotten in the joy that abideth."

the Red Indians.

Japan: Hopes and fears;

From this Mission, a fortnight's voyage across the Pacific lands us in JAPAN. The too sanguine hopes of a few years back, that Japan was about to adopt Christianity as the national religion, have not been fulfilled, and progress latterly has been much slower than at that time. Some of the letters are distinctly discouraging. But others tell of hopeful work, especially among the Japanese soldiers; and others, again, of Japanese evangelists filled with a fresh and ardent spiritual life. Much of interest is said touching the Christians in the army engaged in the late war with China. One band of them took the Lord's Supper together before their march, and sang, "Onward, Christian soldiers." A sergeant-major of artillery, in full uniform, was seen preaching to his comrades. One of the C.M.S. Japanese clergymen was specially permitted to visit the army in the field.

the Ainu;

The Ainu Mission continues to bear encouraging fruit. There were 160 Ainu baptisms in the year, and the bright death-beds of some earlier converts have deeply impressed a people who fear nothing so much as death. But Church organization is not delayed for larger accessions. Japan receives two more English Bishops. For the Bishopric of Hokkaido the Society provides the stipend, and submits names to the Archbishop of Canterbury for his selection; and his Grace has appointed the Society's valued and experienced missionary, the Rev. P. K. Fyson. The Bishopric of Osaka is supported by the liberality of the S.P.G., the C.M.S.

regarding itself as prohibited by the conditions of the appointment from sharing in the contribution of funds. The Society will now be working in four dioceses or "episcopal jurisdictions," and its administrative arrangements have had to be modified accordingly.

China: Che-kiang; Lastly, the Committee come to the field which more than any other has drawn out the sympathies of the Christian world this year—CHINA. The veteran Bishop Moule has returned to his Mid-China diocese saddened by the grave illness that keeps at home his honoured brother, the archdeacon. Six younger members of their family are now labouring in the Mission. The Rev. J. C. Hoare sends a striking retrospect of his twenty years in the Che-kiang Province. The progress has not been rapid enough to be noticed year by year; but on looking back over a longer period it is found to be solid and substantial in all branches of the Mission—evangelistic, educational, medical, and in the spiritual enlightenment of the converts.

Si-chuan; new bishop. The Committee have had special satisfaction in promoting a new Bishopric for Western China, for the benefit not only of the C.M.S. Mission in the Si-chuan Province, but of the Church of England section of the China Inland Mission, and they look with confidence to the development of all the work under Bishop Cassels, one of the famous "Cambridge Seven" of that Mission, and now also associated with the C.M.S. The devotion of the brethren and sisters of Mr. Horsburgh's party calls for thankfulness to God for His grace bestowed on them. Thanksgiving is due also for their preservation amid many perils and privations during the outbreaks of last summer in the Province. Those outbreaks compelled the temporary withdrawal of many missionaries of other Societies, with whom the Committee truly sympathize.

Fuh-kien; the massacre; But the Fuh-kien Province, in South-Eastern China, quickly diverted attention from what were really far more extensive and serious riots in the Far West. The distressing news of the massacre of August 1 at Hwa-sang sent a thrill of horror throughout the world. The Committee only now refer to it to echo the praises that have ascended to God from His whole Church for the bright and holy examples of the dear brother and sisters who were so suddenly called into His presence. They praise Him also for the triumphant faith and love manifested, through His grace, by the survivors of the band (especially the C.E.Z.M.S. sister who was sadly wounded, and who is now eagerly looking to go back to her post), and also by bereaved parents and relatives in England and Ireland and Australia. With the cry for vengeance that arose—but not, thank God! in missionary circles—the Committee could have no sympathy; and they felt bound to refrain from any appeal for the protection of British troops, or for compensation from the Chinese Government. With the due course of justice the Committee had no right to interfere; but they place their reliance, not upon the effect of the punishments inflicted, but upon the abundant evidence that the people generally hold the missionaries in respect and even love, as well as upon the unfailing power of the Lord Jehovah. The Committee thank God for the sympathy shown by Chinese Christians in Australia, headed by their pastor at Sydney, the Rev. Su-Hu Ten, and for the spirit manifest in the pathetic prayer of Bishop Ridley's Indians when they heard of the massacre—"Say again, dear Jesus, 'Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do.' O gracious Spirit, Thou art not quenched by blood: let it make Thy garden soil strong to grow Chinese believers in!"

Feeling their responsibility to the whole Church for the Missionaries under their direction, the Committee felt bound to keep back for a time a band of sisters appointed to the Fuh-kien Mission; but it was with unfeigned pleasure that they found themselves able to give permission for their sailing in January, and, since then, for their going on from the treaty port to their country stations. The fields, indeed, seem riper than ever for the harvest. Archdeacon Wolfe reports a wide-spread spirit of inquiry, such as he has never before seen. Mr. Martin has been cordially received at Ku-cheng itself. The C.M.S. Native Christian community in the Fuh-kien Province now numbers (including catechumens) more than 13,000 souls; and in this year of sorrow and alarm 503 adult converts in that Province alone have been admitted by baptism to the Church.

New Hon. Secretary.

It was on August 13 that the Committee met under the shadow of the Ku-cheng disaster, and were led by God's gracious guidance to pass the resolutions which have so comforted and strengthened their friends at home and abroad,—and when the memorable Prayer Meeting in Exeter Hall united all Christians in loving sympathy and believing intercession. And it was on that same day that the Society received a new Honorary Secretary. With deep gratitude the Committee recall the fourteen years' devoted service of their honoured brother, Mr. Wigram. They pray that, relieved from the incessant pressure of office work, he may long be spared to render valuable assistance in their deliberations, and to watch with joy the faithful work of the two sons and the daughter already given by him and Mrs. Wigram to missionary service. The Committee unfeignedly thank God for the fourth Honorary Clerical Secretary in succession given to it in fifty years, in the person of the Rev. Henry Elliott Fox, whose honoured father went out to the Mission-field in the same year that the first of the four, Henry Venn, assumed the office; and they to-day hereby formally submit his name to the Annual Meeting for confirmation, in accordance with Law XX.

Office developments.

The office of Honorary Clerical Secretary has greatly changed since the days when Mr. Venn himself corresponded with the missionaries in all parts of the world, and wrote the large Annual Report with his own hand. Notwithstanding the more systematic division of the work among Group Committees and Foreign Secretaries, the work of the Honorary Secretary's Department proper is continually growing. The Candidates' section, owing to the great increase in their number—quite fourfold since Mr. Wigram came to the office—now absorbs the whole time of the Rev. D. H. D. Wilkinson and Miss Brophy, who are rendering important service. The growing recognition also of woman's work, both in the Mission-field and at home, has necessitated the creation of a Women's Department; and the Committee view with much thankfulness the tone and spirit in which this branch is carried on by its new Lady Secretary, Miss Gollock, who has been transferred from the Editorial Department for the purpose.

Medical Department.

Another important development of recent years is the Medical Department under Dr. Lankester. Not only is its work valuable in professionally examining missionaries on furlough and candidates, but it is extending practical interest in Medical Missions over the country. The funds it thus raises now suffice to provide the current expenditure upon all the Society's Medical Missions, except the personal allowances of the missionaries, and thus relieve the General Funds of more than £4,000 a year. The Committee look forward hopefully to the extension of medical work in heathen lands; and they have lately arranged to assist, under certain conditions, during their years of preparation, medical students who intend to devote themselves to missionary service.

Candidates.

The number of missionary candidates accepted during the year for foreign service—including those who have passed through their training, and not including those received with a view to training—has been 89, viz. 22 clergymen, 7 medical men, 16 other laymen, and 44 women. The latter include two fully qualified lady doctors to add to the one already on the Society's roll. Of the men, ten are from the University of Cambridge, three of Oxford, one of Durham, two of Dublin, three of Edinburgh and Glasgow, and one from London University. In the total are included five clergymen, one doctor, one other layman, and two women belonging to the new Canadian Church Missionary Association, and three women and two laymen accepted by the other Colonial Associations. As four of the Canadians hold University degrees, the total of graduates added in the year is 25. At a time when all parts of the British Empire are coming closer together in mutual co-operation and sympathy, and when Federation is widely regarded as one of those dreams that have a tendency to become facts, the Committee note with much satisfaction the growth of the Colonial Church Missionary Associations. The new Canadian Association has welcomed a deputation from the Society—Mr. Stock and the Rev. H. P. Grubb—whose visit, as the Committee are glad to have heard from the Canadian friends, was of great service in stimulating and directing missionary interest in the Dominion. Thirty missionaries (including six wives), selected, sent forth, and mostly supported by these Colonial Associations, are now labouring in C.M.S. Missions, and two others, the "sister-martyrs of Kucheng" (as Canon Berry's delightful Memoir calls them), have laid down their lives for Christ.

The S.V.M.U.

But a still greater and wider movement inspires new hopes for the speedier evangelization of the world. The Student Volunteer Missionary Union is being used of God to touch the consciences of theological, medical, and arts students in the various universities and colleges of Great Britain and its Colonies and Dependencies, of the United States, and of Protestant Europe, as no other previous agency has done. The Committee view this remarkable movement with thankful sympathy, and pray God to bless abundantly the efforts of the ardent young men and women—some of them closely linked with the C.M.S.—who are directing it.

Funds.

While, however, the Lord is calling forth an increasing number of His servants for foreign service, the question how they are to be supported is becoming more and more urgent, and is raised in an acute form by the Society's financial statement for the past year, presented with this Report. That statement, indeed, is in some aspects encouraging. When the account is carefully analyzed, it is seen that the Society's living friends have given for its general missionary work, and apart from special funds, several thousand pounds more than ever before. Under the ordinary heads of Associations, Benefactions, &c., the increase is £2,200; in addition to which there is an increase of £8,000 under the head of Appropriated Contributions. Many of the new missionaries are specially supported by individual friends or groups of friends; and but for the new system under which these appropriated offerings are encouraged (provided that they are in addition to the general subscriptions), it is not easy to see how the Society could have added to the missionary force as has been done in the last few years. Nevertheless, the Expenditure has grown faster than the Receipts; and this, with a falling-off in Legacies, and with the Indian exchanges not favouring the Society so much as in recent years, accounts for the deficit of £17,000. The Committee are fully alive to the need for watchful economy, both on their own part and on the part of their brethren in the field. During the past year a most careful and minute inquiry has been made into all branches of home and foreign expenditure, and no effort will be spared to reduce it wherever possible; but the inquiry has shown that the expense of administration is not rising nearly so rapidly as the expense of actual missionary work, and therefore is a smaller percentage of the whole; and it is clear that the real cause of the present position is the increasing missionary force. Now the Committee have in nowise lowered the standard of qualifications for missionary service: the tendency is rather the other way. All that they have done is to receive, train, and send forth those who seemed to them really called of God. They are persuaded, therefore, that they have but followed the indications of His will, and that they may with confidence rely upon His enabling and moving His people, both to clear off the deficit, and to provide for the still larger number of labourers coming forward even now. Let believing prayer never cease, and the Committee cannot doubt the result. God will open the eyes of His servants. Every appeal for more labourers at home—who are, indeed, sorely needed—will emphasize the infinitely more urgent claim for more labourers in lands where the clergy are, not one to 5,000 or 10,000 souls, but one to 250,000 souls; and every official return showing that £6,000,000 a year are given for Church purposes at home will be a reminder of the small proportion—under one-tenth—given by the Church of England for missionary work abroad. The Committee beg their friends to remember that there is only one way to stop the continual increase in the Society's expenditure, and that is to keep missionaries back and to decline candidates. This the Committee are prepared to do when it can be made clear to them that it is the will of the Lord of the harvest Whom they and the whole Society have prayed to send forth labourers into His harvest.

The expenditure.

The most urgent of all claims.

Having thus looked back over the year, and around over the wide field, the Committee, in a few concluding words, look forward to the future, and up to Him Who holds Past, Present, and Future in His hand.

A solemn epoch.

An epoch of special solemnity is approaching. As the Nineteenth Century draws towards its close, one great missionary organization after another is celebrating its centenary or bi-centenary. The London Missionary Society, honoured by all Protestant Christendom for its work in South Africa and Madagascar, India, China, and the Islands of the Southern Seas, and for such missionary heroes as Morrison, Williams, Moffat, and Livingstone, has just completed its first hundred years. The great Church Societies, and others, will soon have similar commemorations. The Church Missionary Society earnestly desires that such an epoch should be marked by strenuous and prayerful efforts to do existing work more efficiently, and to advance more rapidly towards at least the proclamation of the Gospel to all mankind. The Committee have accordingly invited their friends to combine in the Three Years' Enterprise referred to at the commencement of this Report. They have laid their proposals before the Archbishops and Bishops, and have already received several sympathetic replies. The Archbishop of Canterbury in particular expresses in warm terms his interest and approval, and prays that God will guide and abundantly bless all the Society's efforts to extend His Kingdom and promote His glory.

The Three Years' Enterprise.

It now remains for all who desire that the glad tidings of a free and full salvation through the Crucified and Risen Christ should be made known to all men, and that the true Church of redeemed souls should be quickly gathered out of a dark and sinful world, and thus the way be prepared for the Advent of the Lord, to unite in the work with heart and mind and soul and strength. Such a work as this will not be done by committees, and secretaries, and deputations. "To every man his work" must be the motto of the Three Years' Enterprise. No one, rich or poor, young or old, should be exempt. But the Committee would respectfully urge that a special responsibility rests upon the parochial clergy. Their influence is unique. If, as the Committee hope, successful efforts are to be made to reach various classes of the community, such as business men, working men and women, school boys and girls, or, by means of "Missionary Missions" and the like, the body of the communicants in the different churches, the efforts must to a large extent be made through the clergy. Is this merely a call in the interest of a particular Society? Is it not rather the call of the Ascended Saviour to His chosen ministering servants to render simple obedience to what has lately been so well called "the Command of commands?" Let us all remember, reverting to the motto of this Report—that we are "compassed about with a great cloud of witnesses;" let us "lay aside every weight" in "running the race," not merely the race of our personal life, but the race of our service in the spread of the Gospel; let us run, "looking unto Jesus, the Author," or rather Leader, "and Perfecter of our faith:"

The Text again.

Our glorious Leader claims our praise
For His own pattern given;
While the long cloud of witnesses
Show the same path to heaven.

Home Operations.

THE autobiography of the late Edward Hoare, upon which the Rev. Dr. Townsend's record of his life is based, concludes with several paragraphs regarding the Committee of the C.M.S. After forty-five years' experience in the Committee Room of Salisbury Square, his testimony deserves to be recorded for the glory of God, to Whom the Committee render unceasing praise for His Presence in their midst and for the spirit of love and harmony which pervades their counsels. Canon Hoare wrote :—

Committee Room, Salisbury Square.

> I can quite believe that the business of the Committee might be conducted with more dispatch, and I have myself desired to see some changes in that direction, but for calm, patient, and prayerful consideration of the business before them I have never known anything to exceed the conduct of the C.M.S. Committee. I cannot express the confidence that I feel in the fidelity of that Committee, and when I have heard men finding fault with their decisions, I have often wished that, before finding fault, they would attend our deliberations and see for themselves the prayerful process by which they have been led to their decisions. Again and again have I known them kneel down in the midst of their business, and plead with God for His guiding Hand. And although it would be absurd to expect, upon every difficult question, forty or fifty independent minds should think exactly alike, yet I do not remember ever to have known an interruption of the unity of spirit.

During the year under review there have, as usual, been frequent times when the Committee have "knelt down in the midst of their business" to "plead with God for His guiding Hand." There were, however, two occasions when the sense of human weakness and insufficiency, and of God's very present help and all-sufficiency, were realized in an exceptional degree, and when the privilege of pouring out in prayer the heart's sorrows, and of spreading out in faith the mind's plans, was an inexpressible relief. The latter of these occasions was in March, as the year drew towards its close, and may be more suitably referred to at the end of this section of the Report. The former occasion was on August 13, when the telegraphic intelligence from China announcing the murder of the Rev. R. W. and Mrs. Stewart, and of several ladies, both of the C.M.S. and of the C.E.Z.M.S., was reported to the Committee. The Church Missionary House was like a house of mourning. The whole staff was, as it were, dumb, as though a personal bereavement had fallen upon each. The Secretaries, who had been out of town—some of them on the Continent, being holiday month—had all returned upon learning the terrible news, and, though many of the usual members of Committee were unavoidably absent, there was a large attendance. After the scanty available information to hand had been given and a series of Resolutions passed, it was a most sensible and real comfort to lift up the voice with one accord to God, and to ask Him to stretch forth His hand to heal both the hearts that were broken with sorrow and the hearts that were burdened with the guilt of blood, and to give all boldness to His servants to speak His word, that signs and wonders might be done by the Name of Jesus.

Committee's Minute

The Committee's Minute, after expressing their profound sorrow, while bowing in humble resignation before God under the appalling disaster, for the losses sustained; their assurance that, in His own time, God would cause "the blood of the martyrs to become the seed of the Church;" their sympathy with the bereaved families of the missionaries, and with the C.E.Z.M.S., the Victoria C.M. Association, and the Australian Auxiliary of the C.E.Z.M.S., and with Bishop Burdon and the Fuh-kien Mission; their thankfulness for the grace vouchsafed to the missionaries who "by life and lip had preached among the Heathen the unsearchable riches of Christ, and had been counted worthy to seal their testimony with their life-blood, being 'faithful unto death;'" their gratitude for numerous letters of sympathy received; their confidence in the missionaries in Fuh-kien that they would act with all due wisdom and discretion; and their regret that under the circumstances they had no option but to retain for awhile in England the ladies who had been about to go forth to commence work in Fuh-kien; concluded with a statement of their views regarding the duty resting upon the C.M.S., and regarding any action which the British Government might take, in the following words:—

> The Committee, in the midst of this sorrow, desire to place on record their unfaltering belief that no disasters, however great, should be allowed to interfere with the prosecution of that purpose for which the Society exists, viz. the Evangelization of the World, which in its Divine origin is without conditions. They deprecate any suggestion that evangelistic enterprise in China or in any other part of the world is to be necessarily dependent upon the possibility of protection being accorded to the missionaries, either by the Government of the country in which they labour or by Great Britain. At the same time, the Committee recognise the responsibility resting upon them to carry on their missionary work with due prudence and discretion, and to take all steps in their power for the safety of their missionaries, and particularly of the Christian women whom God is at this time calling forth in such large numbers. The Committee, while they would deplore any action on the part of the British nation savouring of the spirit of retaliation, are confident that Her Majesty's Government will take such steps as are necessary to induce the Government of China to act effectively in the interests of order and justice, and to secure the protection pledged by treaty rights for the foreign residents, and liberty of conscience for the Native Christians.

Reference in Queen's Speech.

In the Queen's Speech at the opening of Parliament, the following allusion was made to the massacres:—

> I deeply regret to say that most atrocious outrages upon a body of English missionaries have been reported from the Province of Fuh-kien, in China. In reply to earnest representations addressed to the Chinese Government by my directions, active measures, which I trust will prove effective, are being taken for the punishment of the murderers and of all persons who are in any degree responsible for these crimes.

No claims for compensation.

A few months later, when a communication from the Foreign Office was received intimating that any claim for compensation from the Chinese Government that might be in contemplation should be made without delay, the Committees of the C.M.S. and C.E.Z.M.S. decided not to make any such demand, their desire being that nothing should be done that could be interpreted by the Chinese as springing from vindictiveness, or which could be regarded as a demand for an indemnity for the precious lives laid down.

Expressions of sympathy.

An enumeration of the bodies by whom expressions of sympathy were sent to the Committee would literally occupy pages of this Report. From Missionary Societies, great and small, in Great Britain, the Continent, and America, and from Missionary Conferences in heathen lands; from Diocesan Synods and Rural Deaneries, and congregations; from Conferences and Presbyteries; from S.P.G. Auxiliaries and C.M.S. Associations and Unions; from Methodists, Congregationalists, Baptists, the Countess of Huntingdon's Connexion, and the Synod of the Moravian Church, in Great Britain and Ireland; from Y.M.C.A.'s and Y.P.S.C.E.'s, Minutes of condolence, some of them expressed in most touching terms, were received and most gratefully acknowledged by the Committee. From the New South Wales C.M. Association the cablegram was received: "Intensest sorrow, sympathy. John sixteen, last. Peace, tribulation, victory." To the Victoria Association, bereaved by the loss of the Misses Saunders, the telegram had been sent: "Deepest sorrow. Psalm seventy-two, fourteen;" and the reply came: "One Corinthians, twelve, twenty-six." From the Rev. J. Hudson Taylor, in China, a cablegram: "Deepest sympathy," was also received.

United Meeting for Prayer at Exeter Hall.

The general sympathy which was thus so widely expressed in Resolutions and letters and cablegrams was manifested to the eye at a united prayer-meeting called by the C.M.S. and C.E.Z.M.S. at Exeter Hall on August 13. Though only five days' notice had been given, the hall was filled, and representatives of the S.P.G. Junior Clergy Union, the South American Missionary Society, the China Inland Mission, the London Missionary Society, the Baptist Missionary Society, the English Presbyterian Mission, the Friends' Foreign Mission, the British and Foreign Bible Society, and the Religious Tract Society were present, several of them taking part in the proceedings. The passages of Scripture read were: Acts vi. 3–8, vii. 54–viii. 4, Psalm xlvi., St. Luke ix. 57–x. 4; and the topics for prayer and thanksgiving were: "Thanksgiving for our brethren and sisters now with Christ, and Prayer for their relatives and friends, and for the injured and uninjured survivors; Prayer for the Missionaries of all Societies in possible peril in China, and for their relatives and friends, for Native Christians, that they might be kept safe and be faithful witnesses for Christ; and Prayer for China in view of its needs, and for the Church of Christ in view of its duties."

How impressive this meeting was, and how its tone affected the representatives of the press, appears in the following extract from an article contributed to the Saturday Review by the Bishop of Ripon on "Missionary Risks and Gains." The Bishop, after observing that missionary enterprise "now holds such a place in the life of the civilized world that it cannot be ignored," that it cannot now be "snuffed out with a sneer, or dismissed with an epigram," proceeds to remark on the character of the people who support Missions:—

Remarks of the Secular Press.

> If we would understand their temper and character, we must recall the spectacle of the meeting held in London after the news of the recent massacres. No long notice was given—the time was too short, the crisis too urgent—but there assembled a multitude of serious, devout, sorrowful, but not despairing people. Their sincerity was beyond doubt. They mourned dead men and women who were dear to them for worth and work sake. The enterprise in which they had embarked had received a heavy blow; but there was no cry of dismay, no suggestion of retreat, no voice asking for vengeance. In the deepest solemnity, softened by the thought of personal sorrow, they conferred with one another, they calmly reviewed the facts, they addressed their prayers to God. There was no hysterical excitement, no bravado, no thought of retaliation. The quiet and restrained spirit displayed was recognized and acknowledged by the London and provincial press. The meeting was "remarkable." It exhibited "a lofty tone of feeling," a "great moral motive," a "high and unalterable purpose." "It would puzzle the most cynical critic of Christian Missions to justify his sneers by anything that was said." "It was a splendid illustration of the forgiving spirit." "It was impossible not to feel sympathy with the spirit of calm heroism breathed at this gathering." The men and women whose bearing during an hour of supreme trial can draw forth such spontaneous and impartial eulogy are not men and women to be turned aside by trifles. And such are they who support missionary work.

Meetings of a similar character were held in several provincial towns.

Valedictory Meetings.

The public meetings called by the Committee to bid farewell to departing bands of missionaries were seasons of deep interest. A fortnight after the Anniversary Meetings of May, 1895, the new Queen's Hall, Langham Place, was filled with the first C.M.S. gathering held within its walls. The occasion was the dismissal of the year's reinforcements for Uganda, consisting of five men and five women—the first ladies to be sent thither. In the autumn the arrangements which had been made for the first time in 1894 were repeated. Public meetings were held on two successive evenings in Exeter Hall; on October 2nd the missionaries proceeding to Egypt, Palestine, Ceylon, China, Japan, and the North Pacific Mission, and on the 3rd those sailing for India and Africa were dismissed. The Revs. R. C. Joynt and S. A. Selwyn gave the closing addresses at these meetings respectively. At the more private gatherings in Salisbury Square, when the Committee's instructions were delivered to the missionaries individually at three prolonged sittings, the Ven. Archdeacon Moule and the Revs. E. A. Stuart and J. Stuart Fox delivered each a few words of parting exhortation in the Lord's Name; and at the Holy Communion in St. Bride's Church, Bishop Royston preached from Eph. iii. 14–21. Again, on January 17th, 1896, the eight women missionaries for Fuh-kien, whose departure, as mentioned above, had been delayed until assurances were received that their going was not attended with undue risk to themselves or the missionaries in the field, were taken leave of at Sion College, and the Rev. E. W. Moore spoke to them in words sure to be remembered, from Matt. iii. 12, of the Floor, the Fan, and the Fire. But besides these more or less public dismissals, and those in Committee of the autumn reinforcements, scarcely a month passed during the year without a party, sometimes of one or two, at other times of ten or twelve, being sent forward from the Committee Room with words of counsel and with prayer.

Instructions to departing Missionaries.

The "Instructions" of the Committee on such occasions relate not merely to the external duties and relations of the missionaries' future lives; they are also of the nature of fatherly counsels, and relate to the soul's inmost needs. For example, on one of the six dismissals which occurred between January 1st and May 1st, 1896, after the secretaries in charge of the several Missions to which the missionaries were about to set forth had said what it concerned them individually to know, the Honorary Clerical Secretary addressed them in the Committee's name, and the following extract from his "General Instructions" will serve as a specimen of what is usually said:—

> You have already received, dear brothers and sisters, at the hands of other secretaries the particular instructions which appertain to the work allotted to each of you. It remains only that the Committee offer to you some general counsels which may be useful to you all, whether going forth for the first time to the Mission field, or returning thither with riper experience and renewed strength for your blessed ministry.
> You have been called and consecrated to a life than which, perhaps, none has more trials, temptations, or dangers. But do not suppose that it is a different life. There, as here, difficulties are balanced by grace; and every day brings the children's bread. The Saviour's presence and the Holy Spirit's power are as real and certain for you in Africa or China, Palestine or America, as they are in this assembly of Christians, or in the sweet home circle from which some of you are stepping forth for the first time. Jesus Christ, Who is the same for ever, is the same everywhere. Grasp this fact: live it out day by day, and you have the whole secret of successful service anywhere For always, and in all places, the general conditions of the Christian life are the same. Wherever you may be, its three-fold aspect never changes. Discipline of self, duty to others, devotion to God, make up the invariable ethics of the Gospel. The Committee call to your minds the sacred words incorporated in our General Confession with which we and our fathers have been taught to ask day by day that "we may hereafter live a godly, righteous, and sober life, to the glory of Thy holy Name." The words have a dignity and depth which familiarity must never obliterate. Look at them in the order in which they stand in the Apostolic Scriptures.

(1) SOBRIETY.—It is a grace we all feel to be far larger than that to which modern use has often narrowed its meaning. It implies not only sanity but sound sense. . . . It carries with it the sense of a controlled self, of an ordered life, of a disciplined will. It is evidence of the victory of the spiritual over the natural. Surely your ministry for others will have little power if you have never known yourself the restraints and constraints of the Master Hand. . . . A controlled self.

(2) Thus out of sanctified sobriety there will come habits and actions of RIGHTEOUSNESS towards your fellow-beings. For righteousness is the right execution of right judgments. It is the honest discharge of dues which each man owes to others. To those in authority over you there will be rendered by you loyal submission, cheerful allegiance, and willing co-operation, so far as the demands made upon you are consistent with the declared will of God. To your companions you will always give brotherly love, the honour which prefers others to ourselves, and the charity which seeketh not her own, is not easily provoked, thinketh no evil. You will allow no discords to be sown between you and others. You will do your utmost to promote holy fellowship by united prayer and united study of the Word of God. Towards others of your own race with whom you may be brought in contact you will display such friendliness and courtesy as may best commend your Master's Name, and least interfere with the duties of your sacred calling. Your protest against the world (and a protest there must be) will show itself not by the narrow Pharisaism of one who assumes that he is holier than others, but by the influence, more often felt than heard, of your Christlike consistency, as of one living in the world yet not of the world. The Christian converts will claim from you a glad welcome into the family of God, patience with their faults, sympathy in their sorrows, unwearied help by your own counsel and example. To the non-Christian people for whom and among whom you minister, the Committee would call on you to exercise in its highest sense this sacred righteousness—a tender longing for their souls, an intense pity for their woes, a constant recognition of all that is good in them, a no less constant hatred of all that is evil. Never let the routine of your work dull the edge of your sensibility. Think often rather of your indebtedness to them than of theirs to you. Let the love of Christ in which you rest your soul keep your love for them ever fresh and real. Think nothing too great, nothing too long, that you may win one immortal soul for whom Christ died. This, not less than this, is righteousness. Defraud no man, Christian or Heathen, of his rights at your hands. Remember "the righteous Lord loveth righteousness." Sanctified intercourse.

(3) But beyond all, before all, beneath all, it is the GODWARD life which must be kept clear, strong, unsullied. Is there a word of more profound meaning in Christian experience than this? Godly—of God, for God, in God, with God, yea, like God. It tells of Divine possession: "Know that the Lord hath set apart him that is godly for Himself." It speaks of Divine presence, for "God hath said, I will dwell in them, and walk in them; and I will be their God, and they shall be My people." It is the pledge of Divine protection and power: "If God be for us, who can be against us?" Not least, it commands Divine resemblance: "As He which hath called you is holy, so be ye holy in all manner of conversation." Divine communion.

Very earnestly do the Committee commend you to the word of His grace, which is able to produce all responsive grace in you. Very earnestly do they desire that your lives may be moulded on the life of Christ, Who alone has shown us the perfect life of sobriety, righteousness, and godliness, because He alone of men was perfectly holy, harmless, and undefiled. Very earnestly do they pray that "our God may count you worthy of your calling, and fulfil every desire of goodness, and every work of faith with power: that the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ may be glorified in you, and ye in Him, according to the grace of our God and the Lord Jesus Christ."

The number of missionaries who sailed from this country during the year, from June 1st, 1895, to May 31st, 1896, was 156; of these, 73 went out for the first time in connexion with the Society, 27 men and 46 women, and their names have been added to the list at the beginning of this Report. They will be found also on the page which follows that list, where a statement is made regarding the number of missionaries on the list on June 1st, 1896, and the proportion of them who were abroad and at home at that date. Sixty-three of the missionaries are honorary, drawing no allowance from the Society's funds; fifteen are partly honorary, drawing only a portion of the usual allowance; forty-six are supported by individual friends of the missionary or of the Society; and 108 are supported by various bodies, such as the Gleaners' Union and its branches, local C.M.S. Associations, &c.

Honorary Missionaries.

Contributions for support of individual Missionaries.

The plan which the Committee have recommended from time to time of individuals, families, parishes, and associations becoming responsible for the support of individual missionaries has been somewhat widely adopted, as the above figures show. There seems no reason to doubt, although the doubt has been expressed, that the bulk of the sums thus raised represent gifts additional to what had previously been contributed to the Society's General Fund; the Committee would not otherwise be disposed to urge a wider participation in the practice, as it seems to be beyond question that interest centred upon an individual rather than upon a world-wide work, though it may show greater results for a time, is not likely to have the elements of permanence. When, however, the appropriated contributions are additional, so that the interest of the contributors is not withdrawn from the world as a whole, there seems no reason to apprehend for the donor either a narrowing of sympathy or its cessation when from death or any cause the individual missionary supported fails to excite it.

General Income of the Year.

An examination of the items which made up the Society's income for 1895–6 is reassuring upon this point. The total receipts, excluding Special Funds, amounted to £261,153, which, when compared with the receipts of 1894–5—£271,971—shows an apparent falling-off of nearly £11,000. It is only apparent, however, inasmuch as the amount for 1894–5 included £16,676 given during 1894–5 to meet the deficit of the year 1893–4; consequently, if this special sum contributed for a special object be deducted—as it should be when the two years are brought into comparison—instead of a falling-off, there is an advance of nearly £6,000. How has this advance been made? The total General Receipts were £230,696, as compared with £233,414 in 1894–5; hence that branch of the year's receipts was less than the corresponding branch of the previous year by £2,718. But Appropriated Contributions amounted to £30,457, as compared with £21,881—an advance of £8,576. Consequently the year's advance appears, so far, to be entirely due to Appropriated Contributions, which converted a falling-off in the General Receipts of nearly £3,000 into an advance on the total of nearly £6,000. Upon a cursory glance at these figures, the inference is liable to be drawn that donors have simply changed their method of giving, and that Appropriated Contributions are swollen at the expense of the General Fund. Happily this is not borne out, as will appear upon a comparison of the items of the General Fund with the same items of the previous year, as follows:—

Advance of nearly £6,000.

	1894–5.	1895–6.
Associations . . .	£157,586	£159,127
Benefactions . . .	26,276	27,519
Legacies . . .	40,432	35,934
Interest, &c. . .	3,781	3,241
Other Receipts . .	5,339	4,875
	£233,414	£230,696

It will be noticed that the more reliable heads of income, Associations and Benefactions, have both increased, the former by £1,541, and the latter by £1,243, and that the falling-off in the total is almost entirely due to that always variable and precarious head, Legacies, which are less by £4,500 than in the previous year, and than any year since 1891–2. In addition to £159,127, Associations remitted £8,868 of the sum acknowledged under Appropriated Contributions, as compared with £4,822 so remitted in 1894–5.

Legacies less by £4,500.

The Society's financial position at the end of the year 1895–6 will be made intelligible by the following presentation of the main figures of the year's account:—

The year began with a Deficit of		£1,422
The Expenditure of the year was		279,732
Making a total to be met of		£281,154
The funds applicable to this Expenditure have been:—
(a) General Contributions	£230,696
(b) Appropriated Contributions (including portions of the balances of certain Special Funds in previous years, but excluding other balances carried forward)	33,139
(c) Drawn from Contingency Fund	250
Leaving a Deficit on March 31st, 1896, of		£17,069

Deficit.

It is clear, therefore, from the above that while there has been a real and thankworthy advance, and one also which upon examination furnishes no grounds for fear that the Society's friends, in increasing their special gifts, are ceasing to care for "the world" which God cares for, and the "all nations" which they are bidden to evangelize, that the advance, nevertheless, has been insufficient to avert a heavy deficit—a deficit, indeed, which has only twice been equalled in the Society's history. The deficit is entirely due to the advance of expenditure. And, moreover, this progression in the spending departments had been foreseen for some time past as an inevitable consequence of the large yearly additions to the number of missionaries. Indeed, the correspondence between actual expenditure and the estimates of expenditure which were presented by the Joint Estimates and Finance Committees in June, 1895, is remarkably close. The amount estimated was £280,307 (see C. M. Intelligencer for July, 1895, pages 543 and 558), which, with the deficit, made £281,729—within £600 of the actual figure. The Society's friends were forewarned—as was indeed clear, if the estimates could be trusted—that an income exceeding that of the previous year by £25,000 would be required to avert a deficit. The income has advanced by £6,000, and there is a deficit of £17,000. It is true that a few months later—in November (see Intelligencer for December, page 938)—the Estimates Committee presented a revised report, which took a more favourable forecast of expenditure by some £7,000; but their original anticipations proved the more correct.

The Estimates Committee, with extra members added for the purpose, were engaged in the task of considering the whole expenditure of the Society, and in inquiring whether, and in what quarters, economy could be introduced. A most patient and detailed scrutiny of expenditure under the various heads for many years past was made by one of their number, Mr. J. W. Rundall, who presented a report thereon. The Committee ultimately adopted a series of fourteen Resolutions, of which the following were the most important:—

That the best thanks of the Committee be given to Mr. Rundall for the patient labour and skill which he has devoted to the examination of the Society's expenditure during the last ten years.

The Committee note with satisfaction that, in the opinion of the Sub-Committee, the increases in expenditure in the Missions generally during the past ten years have been due in almost every case to the development in all its branches of the Mission-work of the Society; and that the percentage of home expenditure, calculated on the total ordinary expenditure, has decreased in the period of five years by 1·74 per cent., the figures being 10·64, against 12·38 in the first period. The mean average of the two periods of five years has been 11½ per cent.

The Committee regret the want of regularity in the past in the rendering of accounts from certain Missions. They are confident that the Lay

Secretary will exercise a strict watch over the punctual rendering of accounts. They request the Secretaries to bring up a report upon such arrangements as are needed to provide for more regularity, and to set missionaries more free for purely spiritual work, by giving efficient lay help where it is needed.

Outlay on buildings

The investigation shows that the outlay on buildings in the Mission-field is steadily increasing. Recognizing that in some Missions building is the only method of providing suitable accommodation for missionaries and their work, the Committee are of opinion that requests from the foreign field for expenditure under this head demand the most careful scrutiny, and that such requisitions should be framed with the greatest economy by the Finance and Corresponding Committees abroad.

The Committee note that there has been a decrease during the last five years' period in outlay per head for passages. This is due to the increased number of Honorary Missionaries, the shortness of voyage nowadays compared with former times, and the almost universal use by missionaries of second-class accommodation on board ship.

At the end of each quinquennial period the expenditure and administration of the Society during the previous five years shall be carefully reviewed by a Select Committee appointed for that purpose.

The above Resolutions, while they bear testimony to the Committee's steadfast purpose to watch all the items of expenditure with the utmost care, offer no prospect of a pause in the enlargement of the yearly aggregate. It is clear, indeed, that the only method open to the Committee of arresting the increase is by declining offers of service, or by detaining at home some of those whose offers they have accepted. One of these courses may become an imperative duty. The Committee have not, however, been led to believe that even so large a deficit as £17,000 is in itself a clear indication of such duty. Looking back only five years, the European missionaries on the Society's staff have increased in number from 303 ordained men to 362, from 57 laymen to 96, and from 76 females to 213; and not only have the needs of this increasing staff been met, but a debt of £20,000, which cumbered the Society's estate at the commencement of the five years, has been discharged out of income.

Increased Expenditure due to increased staff of Missionaries.

Such a marvellous experience of God's readiness to supply the actual needs of His work seems to the Committee to justify them in regarding the deficit as possibly a trial of their faith, but not as a summons to stand still. Accordingly, with their eyes open to the possibility of a deficit, and with the frequent statements of their Estimates and Finance Committees before them, the Committee have not wavered in this regard. The candidates accepted during the year ending April 30th, 1896, numbered 89—namely, 45 men and 44 women. Of these, 36 (23 men and 13 women) were at the time of their offers qualified for immediate service, except as regards the language and other qualifications which have to be acquired after reaching the field; 33 (9 men and 24 women) were accepted after training in the Society's Institutions or under the Committee's supervision; and 20 (13 men and 7 women) were accepted by the Colonial Associations or by the Society's representatives in the Missions. The total of 45 men consists of 22 clergymen, 7 medical men, and 16 other laymen. Ten are from the University of Cambridge, three from Oxford, one from Durham, two from Dublin, three from Edinburgh and Glasgow, one from London University, and three from University College, Toronto. Two of the ladies also possess medical diplomas. The following are the names of the 45 men and of the 44 women, with the places from which they offered, and the Missions to which those of them who had sailed before June 1st have been assigned. In the case of the men their college and degree are also given:—

Candidates.

In addition to those mentioned in the last paragraph, 53 (27 men and 26 women) were accepted for probation and training, out of 163 (98 men and 65 women) who made offers of service and whose cases were investigated by the Committee. It is interesting to notice that besides these, nearly 300, two-thirds of whom were men, entered into correspondence with the secretaries whose cases for various reasons did not during the past year proceed beyond the initial stages. The above-named fifty-three were sent—the men to Clapham or Islington; the women to The Willows, The Olives, the Society's Training Home at Highbury, or to some clerical friend of the Society. These will, God willing, be among the accepted missionaries of the current and future years.

Islington College,

The Church Missionary College, Islington, had fifty students in residence, forty for the whole and ten others for part of the year. Of University graduates, medical men, lay missionaries on furlough, and others, studying special subjects, there were eighteen; of regular students taking the full three years' course, 27; of men taking the short course arranged for lay agents, five. In the spring of 1895 eight men from the College entered for the Oxford and Cambridge Preliminary Theological Examination for Orders, of whom six (Messrs. Bland, Cutten, Devereux, Hack, Kitley, and Pargiter) were placed in the first class, and two (Messrs. Le Feuvre and Woodward) in the second. In 1896 seven men entered, of whom three (Messrs. Macintyre, Thompson, and Williamson) were in the first class; one (Mr. Tegart) in the second; and three (Messrs. Butterworth, Hill, and Petch) in the third. Messrs. Cutten, Woodward, and Williamson obtained asterisks for special distinction in Hebrew and the Septuagint. These make 80 Islington men who have entered for this examination since 1884, and of the whole number, fifty gained a first class, twenty-two a second, and seven a third, while one failed. In this connexion it is interesting to notice that in October, 1895, for the first time a student of the Allahabad Divinity School, Mr. John Qalandar, entered for this examination and obtained a second class; while in April, 1896, four students of the Madras C.M.S. Divinity Class were among the candidates, who were placed as follows:—Mr. Jesudason Albert in the first class, with distinction in Hebrew and the Septuagint; Mr. J. Gnanaprakasam, B.A., in the second class; and Messrs. V. Abraham and D. Singh in the third class.

and other Training Institutions.

The Preparatory Institution at Clapham has had 17 students, and 12 have gone forward to Islington. At The Willows, 23 women have been in training during the whole or part of the year, and at The Olives, a new similar home opened at Hampstead, 14. These two do not belong to the Society, but the Committee gladly accept the valuable training given, and among the lecturers are some of the Society's secretaries and other friends. At the Highbury Home, which belongs to the Society, and is for women unable to contribute to their training, there have been 19 students.

Medical Missionaries

Hitherto the Society's medical missionaries have received their medical training without any cost to the Society, either at their own charges or with pecuniary help from one or other of the Medical Mission Associations, especially the Edinburgh Medical Mission. The Committee hope that the supply of men qualified independently will continue and increase, but they recognize that the Society's Missions afford scope for larger reinforcements than they have hitherto been able to send out. They have decided, therefore, to render help when needed from the Society's funds to well-attested candidates desirous of qualifying for the medical branch of the missionary service. The first qualified medical man sent out as such by the Society was Dr. Ilott, who sailed for Sierra Leone in 1840. Altogether the Society has sent out 49; and it is interesting to notice the rate of increase. During the twenty years from 1840 to 1860 inclusive, three were sent out; during the next fifteen years, from 1860 to 1875, five were sent out; during the next ten years the number was fifteen; and during the ten years from 1886 to 1895 it was twenty-five. Four have died in the Missions: Dr. Ashwood, at Sierra Leone, Dr. Elmslie, at Gujrat, Dr. John Smith, at the south of the Victoria Nyanza, and Dr. Percy Brown, of the Niger, who died at sea. The Society's list in this Report shows thirty-one European medical missionaries, besides three qualified native doctors. In the Society's Mission hospitals there are 830 beds. During 1895, out-patients' visits to the number of 418,449 were recorded, 6,432 in-patients were treated, and 1,504 major operations were performed. The Medical Mission Auxiliary, under Dr. Herbert Lankester's active leadership, is doing admirable service in fostering sympathy with this department of the Society's Missions, and in raising funds to carry on the work. During the year £3,046 was received in contributions appropriated to this object, and the Auxiliary Committee have felt justified in undertaking all the costs incidental to the medical work of the missionaries, viz., for drugs and instruments, food and fuel for patients, native assistants and attendants, &c. The Annual Meeting of the Auxiliary was held at St. James's Hall on July 3rd, 1895, under the presidency of Mr. C. E. Tritton, M.P.

The Minute of the Committee on the subject of the development of women's work in behalf of the Society at home was quoted in last year's Report (page 34). In pursuance of the policy therein indicated a Consultative Committee of ladies in connexion with the Home Organization Department was formed during the year. A further development, which was not contemplated when that Resolution was passed, has been effected by the appointment of a Ladies' Consultative Committee in connexion with the Foreign Department. The functions of these bodies, as their names indicate, are not administrative, but consultative. Upon questions relating to the lady missionaries of the Society and to their work, and relating to women's work for the cause at home, they give their counsel to the secretaries and the Committee. Moreover, in order to provide a link between these bodies and the Society's executive, the Committee have created a new office, and have appointed Miss G. A. Gollock, who had worked for five years in the Editorial Department, and who visited India in the winter of 1894–5, to be Secretary for the Women's Department, with the status of an assistant secretary. The home work contemplated at the time of its inception by the Department was thus defined by Miss Gollock:—

Women's Department at Salisbury Square.

On the Home side, the Department is worked in close connexion with the Central Secretary, he being the Chairman of the Ladies' (Home) Consultative Committee. A women's deputation staff is being quietly and gradually formed, and arrangements for women's meetings throughout the country will lie in the hands of the Lady Secretary for the Department, acting in conference with the Central Secretary.

It is not proposed to start any new union or organization in connexion with the Department, and great care will be taken to fit in with local methods, thus strengthening, not subverting, that which already exists. The workers of the Department go forth commissioned as women to women, seeking, by God's enabling grace, to strengthen any existing work in which they shall be invited to take part, and wherever they are used to stir fresh interest, to set it flowing through such channels as are already recognized by the C.M.S. Whether further knowledge will bring to light a need for further organization remains to be seen.

A beginning of the "Women's Deputation Staff," referred to in the above, was auspiciously made by the appointment of Miss S. M. Etches, daughter of the Rev. W. H. Etches, of Bath, as an honorary worker, to take an active part in developing this branch of the work. Miss Gollock made the following request for prayer:—

Pray that each Ladies' Consultative Committee Meeting may be guided and controlled by the Holy Spirit of God; that each interview with a missionary sister may be true fellowship in the Spirit; that each letter written to the Mission-field may be dictated by the spirit of love and of power and of a sound mind; that every plan in the Home work may be God-given, and that every meeting may be blessed by the manifest presence of the Holy Ghost. Pray that all who go forth to speak may walk in the Spirit day by day, and be used through His power to quicken consciences, to deepen consecration, and to inspire true devotion to Christ. And pray that the Women's Department may be so full of Divine Love that all women who work at home for Foreign Missions may be drawn nearer to one another, in being drawn nearer to their common Lord and Master, that many whose hearts are not now touched may be kindled and drawn in, and that the honoured missionary sisters far away may feel the glow of our love and union, and be sent forward in fresh faith and hope to their work.

A Women's Missionary Prayer-meeting, jointly conducted by Miss Mulvany, of the C.E.Z.M.S., and Miss Gollock, at the C.M. House, on the first Thursday of the month at 2.45 P.M., was commenced in November. On March 4th and 5th, at the invitation of the Women's Department, a large number of ladies from all parts of the country assembled for two days' conference and prayer at the C.M. House, for whom a Communion Service was held on the latter date at St. Bride's Church, and an address given by the Rev. Prebendary Wigram.

Relations with C.E.Z.M.S.

Negotiations were carried on for several months between the Secretaries of the Society and the Secretaries of the Church of England Zenana Missionary Society, with the view to placing the mutual relations of the two Societies on such a basis as would most tend to a happy development of women's work both in the Mission-field and at home. The problem presenting itself for solution was expressed as follows in the C.M. Intelligencer for August, 1895:—

The C.E.Z.M.S. was established on the same Evangelical Church principles as C.M.S., with the express object of supplying women missionaries for C.M.S. fields; and it has taken the principal share in providing for India, besides sending also to China and to Ceylon. It has worked in close co-operation with C.M.S.; many of the extensions and developments of its work have been undertaken at the request of C.M.S.; and its missionaries have done splendid service in the C.M.S. Mission-fields. Its interests, therefore, are our interests; and in seeking them, we are seeking our own. But it has been found that the fact of C.M.S. sending out women missionaries tells in some quarters at home against the C.E.Z.M.S. The grounds of appeal which C.E.Z.M.S. would have if C.M.S. employed no women would naturally be much stronger than they are in existing circumstances. Of course the needs and claims of the great world call for the first consideration; and it cannot be doubted that the provision by C.M.S. of women missionaries for its Missions in West and East Africa, Egypt and Palestine and Persia, parts of Ceylon and China, Japan and the North Pacific, has been of immense advantage, not only to C.M.S., but to the entire missionary cause. It is quite certain that a large proportion of the two hundred women sent forth by C.M.S. would, if C.M.S. had not sent them, either not have gone out at all, or have gone to other fields than those occupied by C.M.S. and C.E.Z.M.S. Moreover, the interest aroused by their going forth has had much to do with the general advance of missionary zeal and sympathy in the circles supporting both Societies. Nevertheless, the fact remains that C.E.Z.M.S. cannot now put forward the very strong plea it would otherwise have had. To meet this difficulty is the problem which has needed to be solved.

Basis of co-operation between the two Societies.

The various proposals made on both sides are briefly described in the same article. Eventually a memorandum drawn up by a sub-committee, to which the subject was referred by the C.M.S. Committee, was generally approved by both Societies, except as to the "three years' period," in lieu of which stipulation it was agreed that the arrangement should continue until terminated or modified by due notice on either side. The memorandum was as follows:—

1. That the status quo be continued for a definite period of three years, viz., C.M.S. continuing during that period to regard C.E.Z.M.S. as the chief agent for women's work in the C.M.S. fields in India, and only retaining or sending C.M.S. ladies there in exceptional cases.

2. That C.M.S. assist C.E.Z.M.S. by arranging to recoup C.E.Z.M.S. its expenditure on the personal allowances, &c., of such C.E.Z.M.S. ladies as are or shall be engaged, at the request of C.M.S., in working C.M.S. institutions (girls' schools and the like).

3. That C.E.Z.M.S. retain its independence, the proposals made by it for C.M.S. exercising an official share in its counsels and control over its proceedings being dropped.

4. That C.E.Z.M.S., during the time specified, make a strong and earnest effort, under the blessing of God, to enlist and send forth a large number of additional missionaries, with a view to a more adequate supply of the needs of India.

5. That in this special effort C.M.S. render C.E.Z.M.S. definite and vigorous help, by publicly advocating the needs of India and the claims of

C.E.Z.M.S., and by encouraging to the utmost offers of service and contributions for India in connexion with C.E.Z.M.S.

6. That the Women's Organization in connexion with C.M.S., which is needed not only for the support of C.M.S. woman's work in Africa, Palestine, Persia, China, Japan, &c., but also for the development of woman's work at home in behalf of the Society as a whole (and which would be needed equally even if C.M.S. had no women missionaries at all), be established and started on an active career as quickly as possible, with a view to reaching many circles not reached, or only partially reached, by C.E.Z.M.S., and that this organization be definitely used, not only in behalf of C.M.S. work, but also to advocate the claims of C.E.Z.M.S., as virtually responsible for a large department of the Society's missionary operations.

7. That C.E.Z.M.S. on its part, in accordance with its proposals as laid before C.M.S., give frank recognition and open sympathy to the women's work of C.M.S. in Africa and the other lands above referred to, as a development neither anticipated nor thought of at a time when India alone had been fully recognized as a field for women's work, but to which the providence of God has plainly pointed in the last few years.

8. That while C.M.S. will loyally refrain from taking steps to increase its staff of women missionaries in India during the period of three years, or even to fill up vacancies in its existing staff, unless in either case the necessity for doing so should in the judgment of the C.M.S. Committee be clear, C.E.Z.M.S. will offer no objection to its maintaining its present staff or slightly increasing it should special circumstances arise; and that while it is not possible to define beforehand what these special circumstances should be, the following should be mentioned by way of illustration as warranting C.M.S. (in friendly communication with C.E.Z.M.S.) in sending ladies to India:—(a) Need for them arising in parts of India to which C.E.Z.M.S., in virtue of any understanding with Z.B.M.M., does not send women; (b) the inability of C.E.Z.M.S. to meet an urgent need in those parts of India for which it is primarily responsible; (c) exceptional cases due to personal considerations.

9. That no defined division of work, either by geographical area or by the nature of the work, is practically possible, as between the women missionaries of the two Societies respectively; but C.M.S. will loyally seek, as far as possible, not to place ladies at stations occupied by C.E.Z.M.S., though cases where C.M.S. and C.E.Z.M.S. ladies are now together at one station need not be interfered with.

10. That at the end of the period of three years either Society be at liberty to bring forward new propositions.

The C.E.Z.M.S. sent out twenty-one new ladies to India and China, and the Zenana Bible and Medical Mission eleven to India in the winter of 1895–6.

Missionary Unions.

The Ladies' C.M. Union for London lost one of its indefatigable secretaries—Mrs. Fry—by death. On the invitation of the members, who number about 1,300, large bodies of Sunday-school teachers attended at different times at Salisbury Square, and were shown views from the Mission-field, and addressed by missionaries and others. On one occasion also a number of members of the Nurses' Union were welcomed and entertained in the same way. Reports of large gatherings of ladies organized by the provincial Ladies' Unions have been received. At Manchester one of these was held in the Lord Mayor's parlour. The Lay Workers' Unions continue to do excellent work in enlisting the sympathy and co-operation of laymen in the Society's cause, and also in giving addresses in Sunday schools. A Missionary Mission to men on an extensive scale was organized by the London Lay Workers' Union in November, 1895. Sermons were preached, or meetings held, or both, in no fewer than 185 parishes; and there were numerous "aggregate" meetings, i.e., for districts containing several parishes. The effort concluded with a heart-searching and heart-stirring meeting for men only in Exeter Hall, at which the Bishop of London presided on December 3rd. A Conference of the Hereford, Malvern, and Worcester L.W. Unions was held at Malvern in September; and Conferences of the Missionary Bands in and around London were held at Shooters' Hill and at Tufnell Park, over 150 being present on each occasion. The Federation of the Younger Clergy C.M.S. Unions was mentioned in last year's Report. As agreed upon at the conference of delegates which met at Sion College in April, 1895, a Clerical Luncheon was held at Norwich in October on one of the days of Congress Week, at which Archdeacon Perowne presided, and Archdeacon Sinclair (of London) addressed those present. The Archbishop of Canterbury visited the C.M.S. House on February 17th, 1896, to address the London Y.C. Union, and strongly urged upon the members the study of Missions. A former member of the London Y.C.U., upon his appointment as warden of the Theological College at Kingston, Jamaica, started a "Jamaica C.M. Union," the members using the C.M.S. cycle at their daily intercessory service. Reports have been received of annual or half-yearly meetings of most of the County Unions, some of which gatherings were of the nature of conferences with discussion, while some were mainly devotional; at a large number of them the Secretary of the Home Organization Department, the Rev. W. E. Burroughs, was present.

Gleaners Union.

The arrangements of the Anniversary of the Gleaners' Union on October 31st and November 1st, 1895, were similar to those of the previous year. 10,124 members were enrolled during the year ending September 30th, making a total of 79,028 during the nine years and three months since the Union was founded. Eighty-eight new branches were registered during the year, not including those in India and the Colonies, and four were disbanded or amalgamated, leaving a total of 653. Eight of these branches support each their "own missionary," viz.: St. Andrew's, Barnsbury, Branch; Christ Church, Gipsy Hill, Branch; Glenageary, Kingstown, Branch; St. Matthew's, Brixton, Branch; Chislehurst Branch, and a Friend; Salisbury Branch; Harold's Cross, Dublin, Branch; and St. Luke's, Redcliffe Square, London, Branch. The "O.O.M." Fund of the Union received £1,321 (besides £2,260 sent in as renewal fees and as gifts), and is responsible for the support of fourteen missionaries, seven men and seven women. The Revs. A. Armitage and E. Bacheler Russell kindly acted for short periods as visitors of the branches; and the Rev. and Mrs. Hugh Stowell Phillips undertook in the spring of 1896 to do so for a few months. Mr. and Mrs. Percy Brown, who in 1890 started the Gleaners' Union Circulating Library, which is used by many of the branches, and who worked it with untiring energy, were obliged on grounds of health to discontinue the work, and Mr. and Mrs. Flint, of Hampstead, succeeded them in the onerous charge. The letters received at Salisbury Square bring frequently touching examples of missionary devotion of individual Gleaners. A child of thirteen years and seven months, whose description in the Roll Call was "No. 62,915," bequeathed the amount to her credit in the Post Office Savings Bank "to help teach little ones in heathen lands who are afraid to die because they know not Jesus." A barber whose customers consist chiefly of working men, but who occasionally receives more than the ordinary charge from persons in better position, devoted these extra gifts towards helping the spread of the Gospel, and sent £3 to the C.M.S. Some of the Colonial branches have become important and influential bodies. The New South Wales Branch reported 1,779 members at its anniversary in December, and 36 sub-branches. The Primate presided at the large anniversary meeting. The Victoria Branch held its anniversary on November 1st and announced 2,244 members and 65 sub-branches. A picnic at Brighton Beach, with open-air evangelistic meetings, is an annual event just after the anniversary. The Tasmanian Branch held its anniversary on November 13th and 14th. It has 265 members and six sub-branches. The Bishop of Tasmania presided. The branches in South Africa held their anniversary at Wynberg on November 1st. In Canada there are 17 branches and 1,128 members. The Sowers' Band has 280 branches.

Less known Organizations.

The above furnish a sufficiently lengthy category of unions for the object of helping forward the Society's work. The list, however, is by no means complete. The zeal of local friends is ever originating some new effort, and starting organizations which, though not heard of by the Society as a whole, or perhaps even known of at Salisbury Square, accomplish good work, at least for a time. Which of the readers of this Report (out of Dorset) has ever heard of the "Gleaners' Odd Minutes Knitting Society"? "The Foreign Missions Ready Band" has the following excellent objects:—

(1) To unite in prayer and systematic Bible study all who have the desire to engage in foreign missionary work, that they may be "ready" when God calls them; (2) To provide definite training during their waiting time for such as are within a measurable distance of going out; (3) To band together as associates all whose way is at present closed.

"Do Without" bands, again, are (a) to promote systematic self-denial, and (b) to assist God's work, especially abroad, by the proceeds of such self-denial.

But whatever names these organizations bear, and however numerous they are, it is clear that they have one great aim in common—that of promoting personal consecration to the Lord Jesus Christ, and of spreading among Christians an intelligent acquaintance with His revealed will regarding the evangelization of the world. Missionary Missions, which are efforts for the same object but of a more concentrated character, were held during the year in more places than in any previous year, owing to the appointment of several home clergy on the Deputation Staff, referred to last year. The Missionary Mission to men, organized and carried out by the Lay Workers' Union for London, has been already referred to. On a comparatively small scale an effort of like kind, directed to men only, was conducted at Salisbury by Mr. T. E. Alvarez, of the Sierra Leone Mission. "Such a Mission, steeped in prayer, and guided by the Holy Ghost, cannot fail to produce practical results," is the comment of one of the clergy. Missionary Missions were also conducted at various other places. At Sunderland in May, 1895, the Revs. E. N. Thwaites and W. J. L. Sheppard being the "Missioners," but other workers also taking a considerable share, ninety-four addresses were given to audiences of all classes, and a number of inquiries were made which showed that the question of personal service was being debated. Mr. Thwaites was obliged soon after this Mission to resign his appointment as missionary missioner, in consequence of the failure of his voice. At York, in November, the programme included sermons in churches, noon-day prayer-meetings, afternoon Bible-readings in two churches, drawing-room and parochial meetings, and general meetings in the evening in the Corn Exchange. The Revs. H. Newton and W. J. L. Sheppard were the special deputations. A Younger Clergy Union, an additional parochial Gleaners' Union, and a training class for missionary candidates were formed as immediate fruits of the effort. The Rev. E. A. Stuart, of Bayswater, was the missioner at Sheffield in January. At the half-hour addresses to business men at noon some 80 attended; from 300 to 400 were at the afternoon Bible-readings; and from 500 to 900 at the evening services. At Radford, Nottingham, in February and March, Mr. Sheppard conducted the Mission. The Vicar, the Rev. C. Lea Wilson, wrote: "It has proved one of the greatest encouragements to me in the home work that I have experienced, and I am full of hope that the results will be seen in the foreign field." At St. John's, Cheltenham, the Rev. H. Newton was the missioner, and the Vicar of the parish wrote afterwards: "I feel my work here is revolutionized. It is as though I was beginning in a new place. I see blessing on all sides. Workers for home work have been found, and posts vacant have been filled up by earnest Christians."

The above examples have been instanced in some measure of detail because the movement is a new one, and appears to have in it elements of great promise if the parochial clergy are led to take it up seriously, with due preparation, and in a spirit of prayer and expectation. Meanwhile the more general and the old and well-tried methods of diffusing information and promoting interest do not become less but more important. The reports of Association Anniversaries which are sent up to Salisbury Square by local friends corroborate the testimony of the deputations as to the reality and depth of interest in the work in many parts of the country. In one large city in Yorkshire an audience of 3,000 crowded the largest hall in the place. At another city in the same county an overflow meeting was held to which the chairman, the Bishop of the diocese, withdrew after his address, and where he spoke again. At a town in Lancashire the report mentions that one parish had contributed a missionary to Japan, another one to Palestine, and a third one to the Punjab; and it adds, "The collection was double that of last year." At this place the Nonconformist ministers were invited as well as the clergy to meet the deputation at a "missionary breakfast," and they went and "were particularly hearty in commending the great work of the C.M.S." At a city in the West of England the attendance was too large for the room which had been engaged, and the meeting, with the Bishop in the chair, adjourned to a larger hall. At a large town on the south coast both the public meetings of the anniversary were crowded, notwithstanding a counter-attraction of so powerful a kind as a visit to the town of the Prime Minister. Mr. Pilkington, of Uganda, visited both Oxford and Cambridge. At the latter University he was entertained at breakfast by the Master of Pembroke, of which College he was himself formerly a scholar, and over fifty senior members of the University, besides a large number of graduates and undergraduates, met him. The report states, regarding this and a large public meeting in the evening at the Guild Hall:—

Association Anniversaries.

Mr. Pilkington at the Universities.

> Mr. Pilkington's address caused a profound impression, while he spoke to his learned and influential audience, as a scholar and linguist, of the intensely interesting literary aspect of the work, and, as a devoted evangelist and teacher, of the wonderful story of genuine conversions and missionary zeal, as evidenced by the 200 teachers who are carrying the Gospel to their own countrymen and to the regions beyond. In the evening a large public meeting was held in the Guild Hall, at which the Master of Pembroke presided. At this, among other things of deep interest, Mr. Pilkington gave a most vivid picture of the monthly missionary meeting held in the great church at Mengo; the welcome of the teachers, lately returned from their work, as they gave an account of what God had done for them; the collection of shells poured into the great basket; the "valedictory dismissal" of those teachers, who were shortly going out in their turn.

A meeting of lady students from Girton, Newnham, and the Training College filled the Martyn Hall; and Mr. Pilkington also addressed the Girton students in their own college. At Oxford Mr. Pilkington was the first layman who has given the address at Canon Christopher's Annual Missionary Breakfast, to an audience including heads of houses, professors, clergy and ministers of the city, and many undergraduates. A layman also, Sir Henry Acland, the aged late Regius Professor of Medicine, was chosen to express the thanks of the meeting, and expressed his regret that at eighty years of age he could not go to Africa himself, and made a strong plea for medical missionaries. At the public meeting Professor Burrows spoke of the holy rivalry of Oxford and Cambridge in good works, and called upon Oxford to send forth a trio like the three Cambridge men who had spoken (Messrs. Pilkington, Baskerville, and Carless). Most happily he applied to the two Universities Keble's lines for St. Andrew's Day:—

> Or if before thee in the race,
> Urge him with thy advancing tread,
> Till like twin stars with even pace
> Each lucid course be duly sped.

Many anniversaries of parochial associations are evidently seasons of true blessing. At one place, where the church will hold only 200 people, £67 was collected at the Sunday services, and the total pecuniary result of the services and meetings was £125. The explanation given is, "The reason of this success is the mighty wave of prayer which is continually going up from this place."

Loan of Lantern Slides, &c.

The Loan Department at the Church Missionary House supplies helps which are extensively used by officers of parochial associations and others for diffusing information and exciting interest in missionary work. During the year sets of slides supplied from the department were used 2,103 times; sets of diagrams were lent 504 times; maps, 776 times; 5,405 curios; 1,813 books were lent; and lecturers and exhibitors were provided on 73 occasions.

Missionary Boxes and Sales of Work.

The Rev. C. D. Snell has made an approximate calculation from the Report of 1894–5 of the amounts raised for the Society by means of missionary boxes and sales of work. In the Province of Canterbury the total from boxes was £25,791, of which £7,850 was in the boxes of children (Sunday schools, &c.); in the Province of York the total was £8,640, of which £4,186 was from children. The grand total from boxes was £34,431. From sales of work the total was £23,073, viz., £18,748 from the Province of Canterbury, £4,325 from York.

Honorary District Secretaries

In most counties meetings of the Honorary District Secretaries were held, and wherever possible a representative from Salisbury Square was present. In the county of Durham an attempt is being made to strengthen the position of the Honorary District Secretaries by forming a Committee in each district to meet at regular intervals to concert measures for extending the work. The Rev. E. Lombe was compelled by failing health to resign in the summer of 1895 the rectory of Swanton-Morley, and also to resign the post of Honorary Association Secretary for Norfolk, which he had held for twenty-nine years. The Committee entertain a grateful memory of his valued services. The Rev. G. C. Williamson, Association Secretary in the South-Western District since 1889, retired in June, 1895, on his appointment to the Vicarage of Holy Trinity, Bordesley. He was succeeded by the Rev. Hubert T. G. Kingdon, M.A., Rector of St. Philip's, Manchester. The Rev. E. A. Wilson, M.A., Curate of Upton, Torquay, has been appointed to one of the Midland districts, which includes Derbyshire, Shropshire, and Staffordshire. The Committee have appointed the Rev. E. D. Stead, Rector of Falmer, Honorary Association Secretary for Sussex. The Committee record with much sympathy that the Rev. T. T. Smith, secretary for the Western District of Yorkshire, had the sorrow of losing his wife in February, 1896. The Association Secretaries held their Annual Conference at the Church Missionary House on January 15th–17th. For the first time at these gatherings papers, written by request, were read on specific subjects relating to several branches of the Home Work—on Missionary Missions, Lay Workers' Unions, Work among Children, &c.

Association Secretaries.

Deputation Staff.

The missionaries engaged on the Deputation Staff were the following:—The Rt. Rev. P. K. Fyson, Bishop-designate of Hokkaido, Archdeacon Maundrell, Archdeacon Moule, the Revs. W. P. Buncombe, T. Kember, F. G. Macartney, W. A. Roberts, J. Williams, J. Hines, Ll. Lloyd, A. Elwin, Dr. R. Bruce, A. R. Blackett, J. S. Collins, C. J. F. Symons, F. Lawrence, E. Sell, J. Stone, G. K. Baskerville, A. F. Chappell, H. Carless, H. S. Phillips and Mrs. Phillips.

A large proportion of the sermons and meetings were taken by voluntary helpers. These, as well as the home clergy on the Deputation Staff, derive their knowledge of the work mainly from the Society's publications, which fulfil a ministry of incalculable importance to the Church at home, and to the world. The chief new publications of the year were:—An eighth edition of the Church Missionary Atlas, published in four parts, and also in one volume complete. The last complete edition was the sixth, issued in 1879. The Atlas not only consists of maps, and an index, but also of 250 pages of letterpress equal to 450 of an ordinary crown octavo book, giving full descriptions of the Society's Mission fields, brief histories of the Missions, statistical tables, &c. The Story of the Year 1894–5, the second issue of the popular illustrated Report of the Society; A Winter's Mails from Ceylon, India, and Egypt; a fifth Christmas book for Children, entitled Ever Westward through Heathen Lands. A third edition of 5,000 copies of the Gleaners' Atlas and Key to the Cycle of Prayer has been published, and is selling well; and second editions of Candidates-in-Waiting and Other Lands and the People who live There have been called for during the year. A second Missionary Game for Children, entitled Missionary Out-Posts, has been issued, and a second set of Missionary Lotto is in hand; 4,000 boxes of the first set of Missionary Lotto have been disposed of. The Sheet Almanack was published as usual, and has had a fair sale. The circulation of the monthly periodicals shows an upward tendency, an average of 6,300 copies of The Intelligencer being printed each month; 73,000 of The Gleaner (of which 30,700 were for localized editions); 41,000 of Awake; and 55,000 of The Children's World. The Gleaner has been localized in Canada from January, and in Ireland from April, the copies now being supplied for localized editions being almost one-half the entire issue. Of the Quarterly Paper 20,000 each quarter were printed, of the Quarterly Token 215,000 in English and 5,000 (for three quarters only) in Welsh, and of the Medical Mission Quarterly 6,500. The total circulation of the Society's magazines and papers has been about 4,500,000.

At the beginning of this section of the Report, it was stated that there had been a second occasion, besides the one on August 13th which was instanced, when the Committee had in a very special sense realized the necessity and the privilege of resorting to prayer. That occasion was on March 10th, 1896, when a manifesto was adopted relating to a Three Years' Enterprise leading up to the celebration of the Society's hundredth birthday on April 12th, 1899.

Three Years' Enterprise

From time to time the Society's monthly magazines have had references to the approaching second jubilee and centenary of the Society. The Gleaner of March, 1892, gave a letter from Canon Acheson, suggesting that the Society's friends should begin at once to lay aside weekly a small sum to provide a Centenary Thanksgiving Fund; and in March, 1896, the Gleaner contained a letter from one who had acted on the suggestion, though under a mistaken impression as to who had made it. The Bishop of Exeter, in his charge delivered in the summer of 1895, said, after referring to the Society's second jubilee:—

Society's second jubilee.

> Is it too much to hope that the warm-hearted friends of that Society throughout the world will give a Jubilee offering of one million pounds that year? I think not. Is there not a cause? The claims of India are unfolding every day: England's Church is bound to evangelize the two hundred and eighty millions there of the subjects of England's Queen. Islam seems filling up the measure of its iniquity by the oppression and torture and massacre of our fellow-Christians in Armenia. Man's extremity is God's opportunity, and ours must be the holy crusade of the evangelists of the Gospel of peace, till the Cross has vanquished the Crescent. The Morians' land is stretching out her hands unto God, and access has been given us to the strongholds of slavery that we may proclaim there the glorious liberty of the children of God. And in the Far East, with her island empire enlarged and consolidated, Japan, if she is won for Christ and rises to her true vocation, will be to China what England is to Europe, and will need our missionary staff there multiplied tenfold. Who knows whether this imperial Saxon race has not come to its empire (Esther iv. 14) for such a time as this?

Early in February the secretaries called together some friends of the Society with whom they took counsel, and on February 11th the Committee passed a Resolution approving a programme which was submitted to them for "employing the interval of three years in strenuous special efforts towards fulfilling more vigorously the Society's aim in the great work of the evangelization of the world," and appointing a Special Committee to bring up further recommendations in March.

Committee's Manifesto.

The Report of this Special Committee and the statement or manifesto which they recommended for adoption and circulation by the Committee were read and considered and unanimously accepted on March 10th, the consideration being preceded by a special prayer, regarding which one afterwards wrote: "Among all the solemn and moving times of prayer associated in the memory with that room, the few minutes occupied by us on that occasion will ever be conspicuous."

The importance of the document thus endorsed requires its insertion in full in these pages. It was as follows:—

APPROACHING COMPLETION OF THE FIRST HUNDRED YEARS OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

On April 12th, 1896, the Church Missionary Society will have completed its Ninety-Seventh year. On April 12th, 1899, the Society will have completed its first Century. Three years lie before us, between these two dates.

The Second Jubilee and the Centenary.

Following the Divine Command to Israel, to observe the Fiftieth Year as a year of Jubilee, a year of thanksgiving and of large-hearted liberality, the Society observed its Jubilee in 1848-9; and its One Hundredth Year, from April 12th, 1898, to April 12th, 1899, will be (according to the usual reckoning) its Second Jubilee year, and will call for an observance marked by still deeper thankfulness and still greater large-heartedness in offerings to the Service of the Lord. The Committee doubt not that the members and friends of the Society all over the world will rejoice to take part in a glad and inspiring Commemoration.

But the Committee earnestly desire that the joyful observance of the Second Jubilee, and of the completion of the Society's First Hundred Years, may not be uppermost in their minds or in the minds of their friends. At such a time, the temptation is natural to exult in the greatness of the Society's organization, in the world-wide extension of its work, in its faithfulness to its fundamental principles, in the excellence of its missionaries, in the devotion of its supporters, in the largeness of the results it has achieved. These are indeed causes for profound thankfulness to God. But while the Committee would praise Him for His blessing, they feel that the attitude before Him of all His servants should be one of deep humiliation on account of the inadequacy of their efforts, and of the neglect by the Church as a whole of His solemn Command to preach the Gospel to every creature, to make disciples of all nations. That after the lapse of nearly nineteen centuries since that Command was given, at least one-half the present population of the world should never have heard that there is a Saviour for them (to say nothing of the myriads who have died without hearing such glad tidings), is a fact that should humble the Church in the dust; and no joyful Commemoration should be allowed to cause it to be forgotten for one moment.

Advance First: Commemoration Afterwards.

For this reason, the Committee desire to turn the thoughts of the whole Society from the mere observance of the Second Jubilee or Centenary, and to direct them to the consideration of the great and world-wide work of evangelization in which the Society takes a part. They call upon all their friends to rally round them in a resolute and prayerful effort to make the Three Years that have yet to elapse before the completion of the Hundred Years an epoch of development and extension in actual missionary work all round the world. The joy and thanksgiving at the Centenary Commemoration will be immeasurably enhanced if the blessing of the Lord shall have enabled the Society to take such forward steps during the Three Years as shall give promise of greater success in all branches of its operations in the time to come.

The Committee accordingly propose to devote all the attention that can be spared from the constant demands of current work during the Three Years to two great objects:—

Three Years' Work: (1) Review.

I. A comprehensive review of the Society's position and methods, particularly in the Mission-field—though not excluding its home administration—with a view to the detection of weak points, the correction of errors, the application of the experiences of one Mission to the circumstances of another, the more effective distribution of forces, the inauguration of such fresh plans as may conduce to more stable and lasting results. The Archbishop of Canterbury has lately urged the study of the Philosophy or Science of Missions. The Committee hope not only to make some contributions to that study, but to profit by their own inquiries and those of other students, to the more effectual fulfilment of their great responsibilities in the administration of the Society's Missions.

In particular, the Committee desire to give careful attention to the position and needs of the Native Christian communities called out of Heathendom through the Society's instrumentality. For the evangelization of the great Heathen nations will not be accomplished by foreigners. If Asia is to be fully evangelized, the larger part of the work must be done by Asiatics; and in like manner, the vast populations as yet unreached in Africa will only be evangelized by Africans. To arouse the small existing Christian communities to give themselves heart and soul to seeking the salvation of their countrymen, and to guide them in their earlier efforts, is one important branch of the Society's work; and it is hoped that a review of its present agencies and methods may lead to more vigorous and effective steps in that direction.

In these inquiries the Society's missionaries and other friends in various parts of the world will be invited to co-operate with the Committee; and, if need be, special commissioners will be sent to some of the great Mission-fields.

This branch of the Three Years' Enterprise, however, is mainly for the Committee themselves, the missionaries, and other experts. In the second branch, the Committee will invite the co-operation of all their friends, young and old, rich and poor, at home and abroad.

Three Years' Work: (2) Advance.

II. A large increase in the Society's evangelistic forces; and this with three great objects in view, viz.:—first, the strengthening and consolidating of the existing Missions of the Society; secondly, the extension of its operations, both in development of present work and in advance into the regions beyond; thirdly, the promotion of the spiritual life of the Native Christian communities, with a view to more active and fervent evangelistic effort on their part.

How best to promote these objects will no doubt be ascertained by the review of the Society's Missions above proposed. But there are two essential requirements for the taking of whatever measures may prove to be desirable, viz.—

More Missionaries; and More Means for their Maintenance.

And with a view to calling forth More Missionaries, and to obtaining More Means for their Maintenance, the Committee propose to take the following steps:—

Measures to promote Advance.

1. To foster and extend in every possible way the Society's existing agencies, old and new, for spreading and deepening missionary zeal and interest. In particular, the Committee trust that the recent plans for Missionary Missions and other special efforts, with a view to which, primarily, three or four home clergymen were lately added to the Deputation Staff, may be adopted more widely in towns or districts or individual parishes; so that the obligation lying upon every Christian to take a definite part in obeying the Lord's Last Command, and to follow the Church's efforts to obey it with sympathy and interest and prayer, may be pressed home upon the minds and hearts of God's people.

2. To seek fresh opportunities of reaching various particular classes of the community. For example—

(a) The Committee hope to commission one or two laymen to undertake the special task of influencing the men of our congregations, especially business men in great centres. Thousands of such men are devout Christians, and in a sense supporters of Missions, but have never realized their personal responsibility either to go themselves to the Heathen or to take a substantial share in sending others.

(b) By means of the same laymen, and in other ways, the Committee hope to take definite measures for interesting boys, especially of the upper and middle classes, in Missionary work.

(c) For women and girls, including scholars in ladies' schools, the Women's Department is already vigorously at work. The Committee note its rapid development within a few months with deep interest and thankfulness, and are confident that great opportunities of expanding influence lie before it.

(d) The important class of students, male and female, theological, medical, arts, &c., is being reached in a remarkable way by the Student Volunteer Missionary Union; and the Committee are prepared to render any assistance in their power to the efforts of that Union, which God has already so graciously blest. At the same time, they will consider whether any further steps can be taken to foster the growing missionary spirit at the universities, &c.

(e) The Committee feel that neither by the older Juvenile and Sunday-school Associations, nor by the newer Sowers' Band, is the promotion of a missionary spirit among children as yet sufficiently provided for, and they have requested a special Committee to take this branch of the subject into earnest consideration.

3. To open communications with several organizations already at work among some of these classes, such as the Church of England and Church of Ireland Young Men's Societies, the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations, the Girls' and Young Men's Friendly Societies, the Children's Special Service Mission and Scripture Union, &c.; not with any idea of their specifically helping the Church Missionary Society, but rather that the Society may be able to help them in the efforts already being made by them (or some of them) to awaken a missionary spirit among the classes for whose benefit they exist.

4. To take fresh steps for the circulation of missionary information, particularly of the latest current intelligence. The Committee feel that something is needed in addition to the Society's regular periodicals, useful as these undoubtedly are; and they propose to issue a Monthly Letter, containing the latest missionary news, in such a form that it may, if desired, be read as it stands from the pulpit at a Sunday or week-day service, or at parochial or other prayer-meetings, or at the intelligence meetings now becoming common in connexion with the Gleaners' Union and similar organizations. This letter it is proposed to send free by post to any clergyman, or Secretary of a Missionary Union or Band, or conductor of a prayer-meeting, or other person with opportunities of definitely using it, who may express a wish to receive it.

5. To encourage definite and believing prayer, private, or in the family, or in social or parochial meetings, by supplying friends with topics for prayer, either in the above-mentioned letter or separately. And to this end it is desired to form a register of prayer-meetings throughout the country—not only of those held with a definite missionary purpose, but also parochial or general devotional gatherings to which these suggestions could be sent. The secretaries will be glad to receive materials from all quarters for such a register.

The Three Years' Reinforcement.

6. All the above measures may be regarded as of a more or less preparatory character; that is to say, their influence will tell more in the future than in the immediate present. But the Committee fully hope that the general interest aroused by these and other plans to be specially developed during the Three Years will, if inspired and directed by the Holy Spirit, give such an impulse to missionary zeal and interest as will call forth immediate and numerous offers of service. And although many of these offers will no doubt be from men and women who will need training, and who are not likely to reach the Mission-field itself within the Three Years, the Committee hope to see, even within the Three Years, considerable accessions to the Missionary forces in the field. Some, of course, are already accepted and awaiting orders, or under training. Others, men and women ready to go out at once, or after a short period of special preparation, will, the Committee trust, be increasingly stirred up to dedicate themselves to the work of "bringing the King back"; for indeed it is true that the King's business requireth haste. If in the seven years from October, 1887, to October, 1894, the Society did, without realizing it at the time, send out additional missionaries in such numbers that, at the end of the seven years, its staff had actually doubled, surely in the coming Three Years a similar advance may be looked for, if the Lord pour out upon His people the spirit of self-sacrifice.

In order to give definiteness to the thoughts and prayers, both of those who shall offer and of those who will have to give up their sons and daughters, the Committee propose to issue from time to time particulars of the actual reinforcements needed for actual posts in the various Missions, in the earnest hope that the Lord will enable His Church to rise to the occasion, and give Him a worthy Centenary Contribution of Living Witnesses for Christ.

Centenary Funds.

7. The Committee consider that the sending forth and the maintenance of these immediate recruits should be a principal purpose of the new and special freewill offerings which many friends will wish to make during the Three Years. No object will so surely call forth liberality and self-denial as the sending out of more missionaries for the Evangelization of the World. The Committee therefore propose to apply to the support of the new Missionaries not otherwise provided for, and of any development consequent upon their going out, such of the Centenary or Second Jubilee Offerings as may be made in the following ways :—

(a) The Committee invite their friends to adopt St. Paul's direction in 1 Cor. xvi. 2, and to "lay by them in store," Sunday by Sunday, some additional weekly contribution, however small, over and above their ordinary subscriptions, towards the support of the Three Years' Reinforcement; such offerings to be paid in from time to time, either through the Associations or direct.

(b) The Committee recommend the adoption, more widely than hitherto, of the plan lately followed by many friends, of raising additional contributions for the support of individual missionaries, either as personal substitutes for service, or as "Our Own Missionaries" for individual parishes or branches of the Gleaners' Union or other bodies. With a view to this, the Committee propose to issue from time to time lists of vacancies and urgent fresh needs.

(c) Any other specially designated contributions towards the Three Years' Reinforcement will be so applied.

The Committee would remind their friends that, while they rejoice to continue the policy of faith to which they believe God led them eight years and a half ago, and to send out all qualified missionaries in full trust that He Who has called them will provide the means for their support, they are bound to combine effort with faith, and to seek new methods of increasing the funds; and as the Income, notwithstanding its unexpected growth in the last few years, is still insufficient for the upkeep of the existing staff and machinery, the Committee do not doubt that the plan of utilizing the interest which the Society's Second Jubilee or Centenary will arouse, and of employing the funds that will be contributed, primarily for the increase of the Society's evangelistic forces, will command general approval.

The Committee do not contemplate the formation of a great Centenary Fund. To name a figure for such a fund would be either to cause disappointment if it were not reached, or to limit the liberality of God's people if it were reached. But as the Year of the Second Jubilee approaches, the Committee will issue a list of special objects, other than the Three Years' Reinforcement, to which special thankofferings can be appropriated. These, together with the additional contributions above suggested for the Reinforcements, will be separately accounted for, and will all together make up the Centenary or Second Jubilee Funds (not Fund), the total of which, the Committee anticipate with confidence, will be such as to encourage them to go forward in the path of faith, and of unhesitating advance as God opens door after door. For they cannot doubt that He will pour out upon His people a spirit of glad liberality, of joyful self-sacrifice; and then, when offerings on a scale exceeding past experience are brought into His storehouse, it will be but the fulfilment of His own sure promise if He pour out also such a blessing that there shall not be room to receive it.

Visits to Provincial Centres.

In the conviction that personal conference is the most effectual way of communicating the ideas embodied in this paper to the members and friends of the Society, and of obtaining from them further suggestions for the working out of the foregoing or other plans, the Committee are prepared to send members of their own body, or others especially interested in the scheme, to visit large provincial towns and other centres where the Society's friends can be gathered for the purpose of such conference. It seems very desirable that leading friends in the country should be able to discuss the whole matter freely with those who come from headquarters. On each occasion it might be possible for a special public meeting to be arranged in addition, at which the plans for the Three Years' Enterprise might be set forth to a wider circle of missionary sympathizers. In this plan the Women's Department will co-operate, and, where it is desired, separate gatherings of lady friends may be arranged to meet members of the Ladies' Committees or others.

Proposal to Address the Bishops, other Societies, &c.

The Committee earnestly desire that the Three Years should be a period, not only of progress on the part of the Church Missionary Society, but also of a general advance in the whole Church towards a deeper realization of her responsibilities to her Divine Master for the fulfilment of His great Command. In several ways these and succeeding years will be a period of centenaries. In 1898 the Society for the Promotion of Christian Knowledge will celebrate its second Centenary; in 1901 the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel will celebrate its second Centenary; and in 1904 the British and Foreign Bible Society its first Centenary. In addition to this the close of the Nineteenth Century itself is suggestive of solemn considerations. It is true that if the Christian era should date four years further back than the common reckoning, as is generally believed, 1900 years since the birth of our Lord will be completed this year; but still the very change from the expression Nineteenth Century to Twentieth Century will be a natural occasion for review of the past and preparation for the future. The Committee therefore propose to approach the Archbishops and Bishops of the Church of England, and of its sister and daughter churches, and also the heads of other Churches and Societies and Missions, with a view to a wider co-operation in prayer and effort for the Evangelization of the World. The Committee desire that the Centenary should not be an occasion for glorifying the Society, but for advancing the whole work of Evangelization, whether carried on by the Church Missionary Society or by other organizations.

The Committee, therefore, trust that the Archbishops and Bishops in all branches of the Anglican Communion may be led to take such steps as may tend to arouse the Church to a livelier sense of its obligations, and to greater energy in the fulfilment of them. The Committee further hope that all Societies and Missions which have for their object the preaching of Christ to the non-Christian world may share in the advance which ought to mark such a period as this.

The Commemoration Itself.

The Committee do not at present put forth any suggestions for the observance of the Society's Second Jubilee itself. Plans for the Commemoration may fitly be postponed until the nearer approach of the Hundredth

Year; and the Committee would repeat that they are especially anxious to concentrate the thoughts and prayers of their friends, not upon the Commemoration itself, but on the work in which, day by day, and week by week, and year by year, the Society and the whole Church of Christ are engaged.

Meanwhile, Work for Every One.

In this paper the Committee have dwelt mainly upon the measures to be taken by themselves. But all that they can do will be of no avail unless their friends generally—clergymen, laymen, and women—are moved by the Holy Ghost to unite in solemn and resolute purpose to make the Three Years a time of real and definite advance. What is needed is that every member and friend of the Society, and of the Missionary Cause, should (1) intend to move forward, (2) actually move forward, and (3) feel and know that he is moving forward; that he is not to-day where he was yesterday, and will not be to-morrow where he is to-day. And this applies to prayer for Missions, to the study of Missions, to the exercise of influence upon others in regard to Missions, to the dedication of our substance to the Lord's Service in Missions, to the daily "submitting" of "ourselves wholly to His holy will and pleasure," ready to go where He sends us and to do what He bids us. It is little indeed that any of us can do; but if every individual Christian will do that little—not the little he is doing now, but the little he can, if he will, do besides—in prayer, in influence, in offerings, in personal service—then the Lord will do great things for us whereof we shall be glad.

The First Thing to be Done.

And the Committee conclude with the following practical suggestion:—

That Sunday, April 12th, 1896, be observed as far as possible as a day of humble and earnest prayer for the guidance and blessing of God in the carrying out of the above-mentioned proposals. The Committee would respectfully suggest that the Clergy all over the Country might mention the matter in their respective Churches, and invite their congregations to fervent and definite prayer. In some places a short special service or meeting might be held after Sunday evening service or at some other time during the day; and it is hoped that in private and in family prayer the whole Three Years' Enterprise may be remembered.

Thus the whole matter will be committed to the gracious direction of the Lord God of Hosts. Then the Holy Spirit will grant to the Committee and to all their friends wisdom to devise right plans, and strength to carry them out, so that all may be done with a single eye to His glory, and the extension of the Kingdom of our Lord Jesus Christ.

By order of the Committee,

John H. Kennaway, President,
F. E. Wigram, Chairman of Special Committee,
H. E. Fox, Hon. Secretary.

Church Missionary House, Salisbury Square, London, E.C.
March 10th, 1896.

The Society's birthday, 1896.

Many of the clergy responded to the Committee's invitation by making special reference to the Three Years' Enterprise in their sermons on April 12th. And on April 13th a conference of London clergy and laymen was held at the C.M. House under the presidency of Sir John Kennaway; and the same evening a public meeting for prayer was held in the large new hall of the Church House.

In pursuance of the Committee's proposal to approach the Archbishops and Bishops of the Church of England and of its sister and daughter churches, letters were written by the Honorary Clerical Secretary, in reply to which encouraging letters were received from several of the English prelates. The Archbishop of Canterbury wrote:— Letters from the Archbishops and Bishops.

I was most interested with the letter and important paper I received from you with reference to the approaching completion of the first Hundred Years of your Society. I have no doubt that all will do their best to promote such great objects as those you have in view, and I certainly will gladly do what I can to further them. The broad extension of your sympathies and the disregard of self-glorifying must commend themselves to all who set true value on missionary work. My earnest prayer is that God may guide and abundantly bless all your efforts to extend His Kingdom and to promote His glory.

And the Archbishop of York's Chaplain:—

I am desired by the Archbishop of York to acknowledge the receipt of your circular letter of March 17th, which his Grace has read with deep interest, and will have much pleasure in doing what he can to further the objects which it has in view.

The Bishop of Worcester, in a letter to his clergy, drew their special attention to the enterprise. The Bishops of Durham, Winchester, Rochester, Salisbury, Newcastle, Sodor and Man, Stepney, Coventry, Thetford, St. Andrew's, and Argyll and the Isles wrote very cordially.

It remains to tell of the Committee's losses by retirement and death, and of new appointments made. The first loss to be chronicled is in a sense the most serious one which they could be called to bear, but it has been most mercifully lightened by a loving Providence. The loss referred to is the retirement of the Honorary Clerical Secretary, the Rev. F. E. Wigram. For several years before this became necessary Mr. Wigram's health repeatedly gave cause for anxiety. In May, 1895, after the Anniversary Celebrations were over, he sought and obtained permission to take six months' absence from the work, but it was scarcely a surprise to his brother secretaries and the Committee when a letter addressed by him to the President was read on July 16th, at a special meeting of the Committee summoned for the purpose of hearing it and taking action upon it, tendering his resignation on grounds of health. It was a deeply touching occasion, and one the memory of which must be indelibly impressed on the mind of one especially who was present, while at home from the Punjab Mission recruiting after sickness. Member after member rose up and testified, in no fulsome terms, but in words of truth and soberness, to the admiration for his work, and the personal affection which the Hon. Secretary had inspired. His colleagues bore testimony that his untiring and self-forgetting anxiety and determination at all costs to leave nothing undone had been felt in every department of the Church Missionary House, that he had been eyes, and ears, and hands, and feet to Retirement of the Honorary Clerical Secretary.

all in turn, it might almost be said to all at once. During the nearly fifteen years since he had succeeded his much-lamented brother-in-law, the late Rev. Henry Wright, he had with few and brief intervals been absorbed in the work, body, soul, and spirit, night and day all the year round, and the marvel was that he should have been able to go on so long.

It was not expected that Mr. Wigram's retirement would take effect for some few months. He had left the date to be determined by the Committee, who would, it was thought, require some time to find a successor. Their prayerful search was, however, so graciously and so quickly prospered that Mr. Wigram's resignation was accepted within a month, and the following Resolution was adopted:—

That the Committee, in accepting his resignation, desire to place on record their devout thankfulness to Almighty God for having permitted their valued friend and long-trusted counsellor, the Rev. F. E. Wigram, M.A., to labour for fourteen and a half years in official connexion with the Society. They gratefully recognize his whole-hearted devotion in the cause of Christ at home and abroad; his faithful adherence to the great fundamental principles on which the Society has ever rested; the wisdom and sound judgment which, through God's grace, has marked his actions; his unwearied labours both in and out of the Church Missionary House; his important visit paid to the Mission stations round the world, involving the expenditure of much time and strength; his unfailing and tender sympathy with the Missionaries, alike as touching their work and their families; his brotherly dealings with his colleagues; his loyalty to the Committee; his large-hearted hospitality, in which he was so sympathetically supported by Mrs. Wigram; and his unostentatious liberality. The Committee also record with thankfulness to God that Mr. and Mrs. Wigram have cheerfully given two sons and a daughter to the ranks of the Missionaries of the Society.

The Committee earnestly pray that through God's goodness the relief from office strain may tend speedily to restore Mr. Wigram to the enjoyment of a fair measure of health, and that he may long be permitted to help forward the Missionary enterprise so dear to his heart, by his valued experience and counsel in the Committees of the Society.

Appointment of the Rev. H. E. Fox.

On the same day—the memorable August 13th on which the Ku-cheng massacres were reported to the Committee, the anniversary also of the day when, fifteen years before, Mr. Wigram's predecessor met his death in the waters of Coniston Lake—the Committee appointed the Rev. Henry Elliott Fox, M.A., Vicar of St. Nicholas', Durham, as a Secretary of the Society in succession to Mr. Wigram, subject to the approbation, in accordance with Law XX., of the next Annual Meeting. During the few months until Mr. Fox could enter upon the duties of the office, the Rev. H. E. Perkins rendered valued help in the House as Honorary Assistant Secretary. Mr. Wigram, relieved from the cares and the responsibilities of office, has been able to attend the meetings of Committee, where his ripe experience is so valuable, and he took an active part in the deliberations of the Special Centenary Committee, and as the chairman of the same brought up their report to the General Committee. In his case, therefore, the Committee's loss is only so in part.

Obituary.

The other losses to be mentioned are to the Committee losses not only in part; but to the brethren, and sisters, and fathers themselves, some of whom for Christ's sake suffered literally the loss of all things, the Church's loss is their gain, for they have won Christ, having been found in Him. The obituary list of the year includes the following:—Eight Vice-Presidents: the Bishop of Winchester (Dr. Thorold), the Bishop of Chichester (Dr. Durnford), the Archbishop of Armagh (Dr. Gregg), Bishop Campbell (late of Bangor), Bishop Suter (late of Nelson, New Zealand), Bishop Hills (late of British Columbia), the Bishop of Antigua (Dr. Jackson), and Sir Charles U. Aitchison; three Honorary Governors for Life: the Rev. W. Gray (a Secretary of the Society until a few months before his death), the Rev. Charles Marson, and Colonel George Channer; one Honorary Member for Life: Mrs. Fry; and many other friends who laboured much in the cause, among whom the Rev. James Hewitt (Dublin), the Rev. A. R. Lloyd (Hengoed, N. Wales), the Rev. F. Woods (Nottingham), and Miss Catherine Tucker (Southborough), may be mentioned. Three Retired Missionaries were taken: the Rev. C. F. Cobb, the Rev. J. Matthews, and Miss L. Ellwanger; ten Missionaries in Active Service: the Rev. C. E. Watney, of the Niger, the Rev. A. Liggins, of Palestine, Miss C. Lancaster, of North-West Provinces, the Rev. A. H. Sheldon and Mrs. E. S. Carr, of Tinnevelly, the Rev. J. D. Thomas, of Ceylon, the Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Stewart, and the Misses H. E. and E. M. Saunders, of Fuh-kien, and Miss F. E. Turner, of Mid-China; and thirteen Native Clergy: the Rev. N. M. Bull, of the Sierra Leone Native Church Missions, the Rev. Nikodemo Sebuwato, of Uganda, the Revs. A. U. Carr, J. K. Arumanayagam, P. David, A. Gnanamuttu, and D. Arulanandham, of Tinnevelly, the Revs. S. Samuel, W. L. Boteju, and P. Peter, of Ceylon, the Rev. Tiong Muk Tung, of Fuh-kien, the Rev. P. Te Mahauarika, of New Zealand, and the Rev. Baptiste Spence, of Rupert's Land.

New Vice-Presidents, &c.

The Bishop of Rochester (Dr. Talbot), the Bishop of Newcastle (Dr. Jacob), the Bishop of Southampton (Right Rev. G. C. Fisher), the Bishop of Derry (Dr. Chadwick), the Bishop of Honduras (Dr. Ormsby), Bishop Awdry of Osaka, and Bishop Cassels of Western China, have accepted the office of Vice-President; and the Committee have also appointed H. H. Bemrose, Esq., M.P., W. D. Cruddas, Esq., M.P., General Hutchinson, C.B., C.S.I., and the Rev. Preb. Wigram. To fill seven vacancies in the list of Honorary Life Governors, they have elected the Rev. Canon Falconer, the Rev. Canon Fausset, the Rev. Canon Eliot, the Rev. H. E. Perkins, the Rev. R. B. Ransford, General Brownlow, and C. A. Mather, Esq.; and they have added the names of Lady Kennaway, Mrs. Percy Brown, and Miss Ryle to the list of Honorary Life Members.

The Colonial Associations.

"Ecclesiastical Expansion of England."

In the exceedingly valuable Hulsean Lectures for 1894–5, of which the subject was, "The Ecclesiastical Expansion of England in the growth of the Anglican Communion," the lecturer, Bishop Barry, formerly Bishop of Sydney and Primate of Australia and Tasmania, stated, with the peculiar weight which his knowledge and experience bestow, two important facts regarding the relations between the Colonial branches of the Church of England and the Mother-Church in this land. He said: "We are beginning to understand that the Colonies and Dependencies of the Nation, and the Colonial and Missionary branches of the Church, are not excrescences, possessions, aggregations, but integral parts of the national and ecclesiastical life." And later on he added, explaining the nature of the relation which he had declared to be so intimate and essential: "This expansion has not been on the principle of absolutism on the one side and dependence on the other. The ideal of the Roman Church may be spiritual Empire; ours is free spiritual Federation. It is the desire of the Church of England, true to her ancient spirit and traditions, to sit, not as a queen over spiritual dependencies, but as a mother among her daughter-churches."

"Spiritual federation."

The ideal of "spiritual federation," so happily expressed and contrasted with "spiritual empire," has in the unevangelized countries of the world a wide field in which it may be most usefully realized. The Colonial Associations in co-operation with the Church Missionary Society which sprang into being in 1892 and 1894 were probably the first concrete organisms, having the functions of vitality and the prospect of a vigorous growth, to exemplify this ideal in a visible shape. When the C.M.S. friends in Australasia and Canada devised, in conjunction with the Committee at home, a modus operandi by which the missionary energies and missionary offerings of Evangelical Churchmen and Churchwomen in the Colonies might be directed to the fields which had long been tilled by the labours and watered with the tears and fertilized with the blood of missionaries from the mother-land, they manifested a spectacle of "free spiritual federation," which, however insignificant at first in the eyes of some, the great and glorious and world-wide ends in view rendered an eminently worthy exemplification of a noble ideal.

List of Colonial C.M.S. Missionaries.

Before proceeding to report on the year's work of these Associations one by one, it will be convenient for reference to give here the names of the missionaries on the list in this Report for whose maintenance (except in the cases of honorary missionaries, and those in North-West Canada who are supported wholly or in part by funds at the disposal of the Bishops and partly supplied by the C.M.S.), the Associations are responsible. The names are given in the order in which they came into connexion with the Society; their colleges and degrees are also given, and the Missions in which they are at work:—

Missionaries of the Colonial Associations on the C.M.S. list.

Year.	Name.	College.	Association.	Mission.

	Young, Miss M. M.		Canada	Japan.
	Hockley, Rev. E. F.		Canada	N.-W. Canada.

Three other names, those of Misses H. E. and E. M. Saunders, who were among those slain at Hwa-sang, and were sent out to South China in 1893 by the Victoria Association, and that of Miss A. Wilkes, who, after reaching the field (Baghdad), was married to a missionary of the American Arabia Mission, make thirty-three men and women (counting seven wives) who are, or have been in connexion with the Associations.

I.—NEW SOUTH WALES.

Anniversary of New South Wales Association.

The Seventy-first Anniversary of the New South Wales C.M. Association, the fourth since its reorganization in 1892, was celebrated at Sydney on April 8th, 1896, the Monday in Passion Week. The Annual Meeting was preceded by Divine Service at St. Andrew's Cathedral, when the Dean of Sydney read the appointed lesson (Isaiah lv.), and the Primate preached an exceedingly striking sermon from St. John x. 16. His heads were: (1) Extension, i.e., wide sympathy; (2) Invitation, i.e., a loving message; (3) Completion, i.e., a final unity. The Primate occupied the chair at the meeting held in the large hall of the Y.M.C.A., and it was a happy circumstance that His Excellency, Sir T. Fowell Buxton, Governor of South Australia, late Treasurer of the Society, was in Sydney at the time, and was present as one of the speakers. The other speakers were the Rev. J. Dixon, the Rev. J. D. Dathan, Chaplain of H.M.S. Endymion, and the Rev. J. Southey, of the China Inland Mission. The Annual Report was read by the Hon. Secretary, Mr. C. R. Walsh. It begins by quoting Luke xxiv. 46–49, and, after a few words of comment, proceeds to notice those members of the martyred band at Ku-cheng who had had a personal connexion with Australia :—

Martyrs of Ku-cheng.

> The events of the past year made us realize more fully than ever that we need a supernatural power to enable us rightly to bear our part in missionary work. Very real was the suffering which fell to our lot in consequence of the martyrdom of our beloved friends at Hwa-sang. We mourned for the loss sustained by our sister Association of Victoria in the deaths of those devoted sisters, the Misses Saunders, personally known to very many of us. We mourned, too, with Queensland the death of Miss Annie Gordon, known to us by what we had heard of her gentle life and quiet devotion. And what shall we say of the sense of bereavement in the death of Robert Warren Stewart? We learnt to know him, and, through him, his wife, though we saw her not, during those all-too-brief months that he spent in our midst in company with Mr. Eugene Stock in the year 1892. How naturally and truly did our acquaintance with him ripen into sincere and affectionate regard as we recognized the transforming grace of God so manifest in his life and conversation. Such loving tenderness, such simple faith, and intense devotion, have exercised no little influence upon the members of our Church in Australia, and, we are assured, will long continue to do so.
> But while we have been thus called upon to endure these trials, intensified, as they were, by the reproaches, misconceptions, and misrepresentations of many who either are opposed to, or who do not understand, the effort to evangelize the world, our Heavenly Father has already gladdened our hearts with the good news which comes from China of the marvellous work which has been going on since that fateful 1st day of August, especially in the province of Fuh-kien.

Then the various features of the operations of the Association are referred to seriatim, as follows :—

"Needs fully met."

> Now we turn to the operations of the Association for the year, and your Committee most thankfully have to report continued growth and expansion. Though it is true that the total amount received by the Honorary Treasurer is somewhat less than in the preceding year, yet all our needs have been fully met and there was a sufficient balance in hand at the end of the year to enable remittances to be sent to meet the necessities of those in the field for the first quarter of this year.
>
> The growth we refer to is evidenced by the fact that two additional missionaries, after due training, left us for their stations in the Mission field, whilst it is expected that two, and possibly four others, will be fully prepared to go out before the close of this year. Fresh offers of service have been coming before the Committee for consideration from men as well as from women, though, as in England, the men are fewer in number than the women.
> Our highly valued friend, Miss Hassall, to whose goodness we are indebted for the boon we possess in the existence of the Marsden Training Home, reports that the work of the Home has been carried on with regularity, and that five ladies were resident during some portions of the different terms. Lectures were delivered as follows:—"The Old Testament," by Canon Moreton; "The New Testament," by Rev. Henry Martin; "Church History," by Rev. B. Schleicher; "Prayer Book," by Revs. M. Archdall and R. Noake; "Christian Evidences," by Rev. R. Noake; "Christian Doctrine," by Rev. E. S. Wilkinson. The work under the supervision of the Lady Superintendent included studies in the Acts of the Apostles and the Book of Revelation, Bible Readings, and Missionary Geography, &c. Frequent opportunities were afforded the candidates for taking part in Open-air Work, District Visiting, Mothers' Meetings, Gleaners' Union Meetings, and Bible Classes for South Sea Island Boys. The Committee are very grateful to the Clergy, who, notwithstanding their many parochial engagements, delivered the courses of lectures referred to. Training Home.

Many here to-night remember with deep thankfulness the sustained interest and manifest presence of God in the large gathering held in this hall early in December last, when we assembled to say "Farewell" to Miss Amy Oxley prior to her departure for China. We have now intelligence of her safe arrival at Fuh-chow, and that she had plunged in her whole-hearted way into the study of that most difficult of all languages. Had Mr. Stewart's life been spared it was the express wish of himself and his wife that Miss Oxley should have lived with them as a daughter, and it is therefore most fitting that she should be the first recruit to land at Fuh-chow to step into the gap caused by the Hwa-sang massacre. Valedictory Dismissal.

The Monthly Prayer Meetings on the second Thursday in each month at 4.30 have been well maintained, and are greatly prized by those who are able to attend. We are glad to notice that nearly every city and suburban parish has some representatives that attend regularly. Prayer Meetings.

The New South Wales branch of the Gleaners' Union is still expanding. A half-yearly meeting was held in June last, and the Annual Meeting on December 6th. It was then reported that the total number of Gleaners was 1,779, showing an increase of 524 upon the total of the preceding year. There are now 36 branches, being an increase of nine.

The Sowers' Band, an organization for interesting the children, is making rapid strides. There are now 18 branches, and a membership of 453.

Remembering the important bearing that the perusal of Missionary Literature has upon the increase of intelligent interest in Missions, your Committee report with satisfaction that since the completion of the Catalogue at the end of last June, when the Honorary Secretary's Library was again opened for the use of Gleaners, 581 books have been taken out. This number is considerably within the mark, for in several instances complete records have not been kept and returned by the secretaries of country branches. Missionary Literature.

The Depôt for the sale of Missionary Literature and gifts of needlework and other articles continues to prove a very valuable auxiliary.

The Ladies' Committee have rendered most admirable and effective assistance to your Committee throughout the year, and it is only the truth to say that but for their ready and energetic help the affairs of the Association could not have been in so prosperous a condition.

The Treasurer's statement is satisfactory. The receipts for the year were £967 6*s.* 2*d.*, being £37 17*s.* 1*d.* less than the preceding year, but it must be borne in mind that in 1894 the revenue was increased by donations in response to a special appeal for funds to defray the outfit and passage of several missionaries who were proceeding to their respective stations. During the year just closed no such special effort was made to stimulate the liberality of members and friends of the Association, but still the revenue was sufficient to meet the ordinary expenditure for the year, and at its close the Treasurer had a credit balance of £337 16*s.* Funds.

The Balance Sheet presented by the Treasurer of the Association, Mr. John Kent, was as follows:—

II.—VICTORIA.

Anniversary of Victoria Association.

The Annual Sermon in connexion with the Fourth Anniversary of the Victoria C.M. Association was preached in St. Paul's Cathedral, Melbourne, by the Dean of Melbourne, Dr. Vance. His text was Jonah iv. 11. In the course of his sermon the Dean referred as follows to the Association, eloquently echoing Bishop Barry's sentiments regarding confederation, which have been quoted above:—

We ourselves have an Australian Board of Missions, the creation of our General Synod, whose enterprises have the first undeniable claim of all on us for sympathy and support. Shame on us indeed if we allowed the work of Bishop Patteson or of Albert Maclaren to languish and die because of our apathy—or our proper message to the aborigines of this colony, or to the Chinese within our borders to be kept back, because funds or men were not forthcoming.

But because these claims are undeniable, are we therefore to refuse help or support to an Association identified with the heroic age of English missions? Are we to be content to say, our duty is to the Board of Missions, and we can spare none of our interest or gifts for any other? Have we a right so to restrict our operations or our sympathy? Have we even reason from the past for believing our Board of Missions sufficient in itself to carry out all that is in our heart for the evangelization of the Heathen? Can we afford to dispense with the advantages to be gained from the experience, the resources, the organization, the enthusiasm of the great society that has advanced the outposts of Christianity to the heart of China, of Persia, and of India?

Dean Vance on benefits of confederation.

Or could we bear to cut ourselves off, and that at a time when a wave of missionary feeling is passing over Christendom, when the story of her latest martyrs recalls some of the noblest and most affecting pages in early church history—from the work which the C.M.S. is doing in the countries I have named—in the Soudan, where better victories await the men of the Gospel than the men of the sword—in Uganda, where the battle for the evangelization of tropical Africa is being fought and won? Could we bear that these things should be being done by our countrymen and our Church, and we have no part or lot in the matter?

The Anniversary Meeting was held in the Cathedral Chapter House on March 10th, four days before the Sermon was preached, Archdeacon Langley being in the chair. A few paragraphs from the able and interesting Report will explain best the salient features of the year:—

A river of grace, bearing on its bosom the Gospel Ark, fringing for one little moment a field of blood, and then pouring its healing waters into a sea of sorrow—this has been our portion in the year gone by! A few golden grains from the missionary memories of 1895 will unfold our meaning. [Then follows a brief account of the travels and work of each missionary on the Association's staff.] The flame of Hwa-sang has been one of the reddest, hottest, and "world-widest" in the Nineteenth Century. Lighted on the far Pacific, its heat has penetrated not alone into the Southern Hemisphere, but right across Asia and Europe and the Atlantic into the far West, until China herself feels the force of the wave returning to her Eastern shore—returning, not in red-hot anger, but in love, and prayer, and yet more heralds of the Cross. Our Association has been the first in the Colonies to give Christ a few hearts that were "faithful unto death." "The flame of Hwa-sang."

We have not to complain of lack of offers of service. No less than fifty-seven candidates having applied since 1892. Of these, fifteen have come in since our last Report, and eighteen out of the fifty-seven have been approved for service. Besides the two of whom we were bereaved on 1st August, we have (as you just now heard), one in India, one in East Africa, and one (married) in Persia; besides which we have in training three men and three women, who are to go forth as soon as their location has been determined. Candidates.

The Gleaners' Union continues to be a power throughout both these Dioceses. It is begun, continued, and ended in prayer. The number of Gleaners on the roll is over 2,500, and the number of branches in Victoria alone is 74: showing an increase of 29 in twelve months. Still, the life of the branches is only a "Branch-Life," and therefore needs the care of the husbandman, and continuous watering. We cannot too urgently insist on the need of frequent and fervent visitation, and the Committee are looking and praying for the time when this part of the work can be taken in hand with more than ordinary vigour.

The "Sowers' Band" is a lovely little society, a "wee, modest, little tippet flower," excellently and cheerfully managed, and with large possibilities. The hardened condition of most grown-up people makes us turn wistfully to the young, to find in them both prayerful life and willing sacrifice.

The circulation of the Church Missionary Gleaner has latterly gone forward by leaps and bounds, and the paper of Questions prepared by the Hon. Secretary of the G.U. is proving most useful.

Our principles, financial and expansive, are a reproduction of those now prevailing in Salisbury Square: in other words, "Test every candidate thoroughly. Accept all who pass the test; and once they are accepted, trust God for the money." These principles have been fully tried, and have not been found wanting.

Our total receipts in money and kind from all sources during 1895 amounted to £988. Our outgoings and liabilities to the end of the year absorbed the whole within a pound or two. We would earnestly remind our supporters that we have already incurred heavy responsibilities for three great countries, and shall have to incur many more before next December. We fully hope that our progress in both income and outlay may be in Finances.

geometrical rather than in arithmetical proportion. The Lord's last command is still unobeyed; the need of Heathendom is more intense than ever by reason of the rapid and extraordinary increase in its birth-rate; the blood of Atonement is still available for all sin; therefore the Church should come forth, Samson-like, from grinding in her prison, to shake the pillars of the whole earth.

The "Own Missionary" idea has been adopted by St. Matthew's, Prahran, in the case of Mr. Blackett; and by St. Alban's, Armadale, in the case of Miss Louie Bruce.

The vacancy in the body of Trustees created by the death of Dean Macartney has been filled up by the appointment of his son, the Rev. H. B. Macartney, of Caulfield. The following are the Trustees of the Association:—the Ven. Archdeacon Langley, the Rev. Canon Mercer, the Rev. S. C. Kent, the Rev. H. B. Macartney, and J. H. Maddock, Esq. And the Committee are:—Canon Berry, M.A., Canon Goodman, M.A., Revs. E. J. Barnett, M.A., H. Collier, J. B. Gason, S. C. Kent, A. C. Kellaway, M.A., H. B. Macartney, M.A., A. R. Raymond, Geo. Sproule, W. T. C. Storrs, M.A., E. S. Sumner, B.A., T. B. Tress; J. H. Maddock, Esq., H. M. Nicholson, Esq., Charles Webb, Esq. The Rev. E. J. Barnett, Honorary Secretary, has been appointed Secretary, to give his whole time to the Association.

III.—NEW ZEALAND.

The third anniversary of the New Zealand Association was observed at Nelson on March 5th, 1896. The Holy Communion was celebrated at the cathedral in the morning, a devotional meeting was held in the afternoon, and a public meeting was held in the evening, presided over by the Bishop of Nelson (Dr. Mules). The Report of the Committee commences with the text (Exodus xiv. 15), "Speak unto the children of Israel that they go forward"; and proceeds:—

"Forward."

The Committee desire to take this as the motto for the coming year—Forward. We are thankful to Almighty God for what He has already done, for having stirred up the hearts of so many in all parts of New Zealand to help foward the great work of the evangelization of the heathen world, and for having called and sent forth into the harvest field two missionaries this year, now making five in active service, and of whom the Committee rejoice to say good reports have been received, both as to their devotion and progress. This is the third year since the Association was formed, and the Committee feel that it is time now to push forward. The doors are open everywhere, and labourers are wanted to occupy fresh fields; we must not stand still, but must scatter wide the information as to the needs of our Foreign Missions, and then be ready to send forth those who are called to the work.

Addition to Reserve Fund.

The Treasurer's statement has not been received at the time when this Annual Report goes to press, but the Report states that the receipts of the year 1895–6 were about £64 less than those of the preceding year, but that notwithstanding this, and the larger expenditure on missionaries, a balance had remained which had been added to the Reserve Fund.

Miss Violet Latham, after receiving a year's training in the Marsden Home, Sydney, received the Instructions of the Committee on December 3rd, 1895, and a farewell service was held in Nelson Cathedral, Bishop Mules preaching the sermon, on December 8th. Miss Latham was assigned by the Parent Committee to Agra, in the North-West Provinces of India. In accordance with the liberty given by the Constitution, and in response to the invitation of Bishop Wilson, the Association sent forth an ordained missionary to the Melanesian Mission. The Committee also made a small grant towards the support of a Chinese catechist to work among the Chinese in New Zealand.

The New Zealand Branch of the Gleaners' Union received an accession of 254 members, making 1,038 after deducting those who had died. The receipts of the Union were £22 18*s.* 4*d.* in excess of those for 1894–5. Of the Society's monthly publications the following were in circulation:—Gleaners, 821; Children's World, 452; Awake, 89; and Intelligencer, 9.

IV.—CANADA.

C.M.S. Deputation to Canada.

The original arrangements for the tour of Mr. Eugene Stock and the late Rev. R. W. Stewart to Australasia in 1892, included a visit to Canada on the way home. This did not prove to be possible, but Mr. and Mrs. Stewart visited Canada on their way back to China in 1893. The earlier proposal was not, however, forgotten, and at the inaugural meeting of the Canadian Association in June, 1894, its chairman, N. W. Hoyles, Esq., Q.C., was requested, during the visit which he was about to make to England, to urge upon the Parent Committee the desirability of their sending Mr. Eugene Stock as a deputation to visit Canada at an early date. The Committee promised to comply with the request, and they would have done so as desired in the autumn of 1894, but it proved impossible to spare Mr. Stock at that time; indeed, it seemed doubtful more than once whether he could go in the autumn of 1895. He sailed, however, accompanied by the Rev. H. Percy Grubb, whom the Committee had requested to accompany him, on September 21st, and arrived at Toronto on the 30th. They visited the dioceses of Toronto, Niagara, Huron, Ontario, Montreal, Fredericton, and Nova Scotia, and returned home in December, arriving on Christmas Eve. The following extracts from Mr. Stock's letters convey information regarding the Missionary work of the Church in Canada:—

Church opinion in Eastern Canada.

The Church in Canada exhibits the usual variety of Church opinion and practice. The majority of the clergy are more or less High, but the bulk of the laity are by no means of that complexion. In the dioceses of Montreal and Huron the clergy are largely Evangelical. Toronto, however, has been the most important Evangelical centre; but this is mainly due to a powerful body of leading laymen who have made their influence felt all over Canada. Of this Evangelical influence centred at Toronto, Wycliffe College has been the home and headquarters. The theological colleges at Montreal and at London (Diocese of Huron) are also Evangelical in doctrine, and exercise good influence; but it is universally admitted, by friends and foes alike, that Wycliffe has been the great rallying-point for Reformation teaching and resistance to modern innovations. Men speak of "Wycliffe" as men at home spoke of "Islington" thirty years ago, or of "Clapham" in the early days of the century. Naturally "Wycliffe" is not a popular word in many Church circles; but it is acknowledged that, quite apart from controversial questions, the College has earned, and maintains, a high reputation by its success in turning out good and able men for the work of the Church.

Wycliffe College, Toronto.

Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society.

The Canadian Church has an official missionary organization of its own, under the authority of the Synods, called the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society—a name also used by the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States. The basis of this Society is that every baptized member of the Church is a member of it. The "Society" is not a voluntary association like C.M.S. or S.P.G. in England, but is in fact the Church itself in its missionary capacity. It is therefore a good deal more than a mere Board of Missions; though its governing body corresponds to the idea of such a Board, and is in fact so called. The word "Domestic" in the title is meant to apply to Missions within the Dominion of Canada, and "Foreign" to those in other parts of the world. But "Domestic Missions" are not what we call Home Missions. Each diocese has its Diocesan Missions, which are in fact Home Missions, for settlers, &c., within the diocese, though including work among any Red Indians who may happen to live within its boundaries. The "Domestic Missions" are to all intents and purposes the Missions to the Red Indians of the North-West and British Columbia. The majority of these are Missions of the Church Missionary Society, but a good deal of auxiliary work for particular missionaries and missionary bishops is done by Canadians through the medium of the "D. & F.," as the Domestic and Foreign Society is commonly called. As regards Foreign Missions, the D. & F. has been, until lately, practically an organization for creating interest and raising funds for other bodies. It has received and forwarded "designated" (or, as we should say, appropriated) funds for many English Societies, C.M.S., S.P.G., S.P.C.K., C.E.Z.M.S., Jews' Society, &c.; and it has divided its undesignated general receipts, in certain proportions, among the same Societies. But the D. & F. is now not merely a collecting organization. It has its own missionaries in Japan, in connexion with the S.P.G. Mission there. So far, however, it has not gone further.

Women's Auxiliary.

The D. & F. has a very important branch in its Women's Auxiliary, which really does a very large part of the work of collecting money and diffusing information. As an organization it seems to me admirable. Its machinery is very complete; it has branches in almost all the parishes; its leaders are capable and influential ladies. Nevertheless I cannot help feeling that such an organization, with such widespread and unique influences, ought to produce larger results, both in missionaries and in money. Only a few women (not more than five or six, I think) have been sent into the field; and the contributions (which form part of the D. & F. income to be described presently) are as yet on a small scale. The chief work is in the shape of numerous bales of clothing, &c., sent to the dioceses in the North-West, both for the Red Indians and for the missionaries themselves. Several C.M.S. bishops and missionaries are largely helped in this way. Many are the sewing parties engaged in this work. About £1,500 a year appears to be spent upon materials and freight, the latter item being, of course, very heavy to the remoter Indian stations.

The total income acknowledged by the D. & F. last year was (in sterling) about £8,500, of which £5,350 was for Domestic Missions and £3,150 for Foreign Missions. Seven-eighths of the former sum, and two-thirds of the latter, were "designated" contributions for particular objects, and the D. & F. was to that extent practically only a forwarding, in some cases only a recording, organization.

Of the £5,350 just mentioned, about £3,000 was either designated or granted to the North-West Dioceses, about £1,300 of it being for the C.M.S. dioceses of Moosonee, Athabasca, Mackenzie, and Selkirk, and the C.M.S. Missions in Rupert's Land, Saskatchewan, and Calgary receiving a share of the remainder; Caledonia alone of them all getting nothing.

Of the £3,150 acknowledged by the D. & F. as received for Foreign Missions, rather more than two-thirds were designated contributions. These included £120 for various C.M.S. objects, of which about £50 was for Fuh-kien, evidently in response to Mr. Stewart's appeals when he was in Canada; £350 for S.P.G.; £220 for C.E.Z.M.S., in which is a contribution of nearly £100 from one parish in Toronto towards the support of Miss Mitcheson, of Peshawar; £470 for Jewish Missions (chiefly offertories on Good Friday), partly for the London Jews' Society, and partly for the Parochial Missions to the Jews; and smaller sums for the Colonial and Continental Society, the S.P.C.K., some South African dioceses, Corea, and even the China Inland Mission. But the largest item among the designated funds was about £760 for "Wycliffe Mission in Japan."

"Wycliffe Mission in Japan."

The Wycliffe Mission to Japan arose in this way. The Rev. J. Cooper Robinson, a Canadian clergyman trained at Wycliffe College, applied, a few years ago, to the D. & F. to send him as a missionary to Japan. The D. & F., however, had no machinery available for doing so, its arrangement with S.P.G. not having then been yet made. Mr. Robinson therefore asked the alumni of Wycliffe if they would send him. They—i.e., the rectors of parishes who looked to Wycliffe as their alma mater—formed themselves into an association for the purpose. Hence the "Wycliffe Missions," which have since sent other missionaries to Japan and also to the Red Indians of the North-West. They have had their own Committee, Treasurer, Secretaries, &c.; but all their funds have been duly accounted for to the D. & F., as the official representative of the Church, and are included in the D. & F. totals already given. Last year, besides about £450 for the North-West, Wycliffe received the £760 for its Japan Mission already referred to, so that nearly a fourth of the whole sum acknowledged by the D. & F. for Foreign Missions belonged to the Wycliffe Association.

Its amalgamation with Canadian Church Missionary Association.

The "Wycliffe Missions" referred to in the closing paragraph of the above extracts were amalgamated during the visit of the Deputation with the Canadian C.M.A., the latter accepting the responsibility for the support of the missionaries on its list. These were the following:—

Japan.—Rev. J. Cooper Robinson and Mrs. Robinson, 1888; Rev. H. J. Hamilton, B.A., and Mrs. Hamilton, 1892; Rev. J. Macqueen Baldwin, M.A., and Mrs. Baldwin, 1890; Miss E. Trent, 1894; Miss Margaret M. Young, 1895.

North-West Canada.—Mackenzie River—Rev. I. O. Stringer, B.A., 1892; Rev. T. J. Marsh, 1892; Mr. Chas. E. Whittaker, 1895; Henry Le Roy Reazin, M.B., 1895. Rupert's Land—Rev. R. F. Nie, B.A., 1895.

South America.—Chili—Rev. C. A. Sadlier and Mrs. Sadlier, 1895 (in partial connexion).

Of these Mr. Stringer and Mr. Marsh were already on the list of C.M.S. Missionaries, marked with an asterisk as in local connexion, having been reported to the Society as such by Bishop Reeve. The others in North-West Canada appear in the list in the present Report as in local connexion, with the exception of Mr. Nie, regarding whom the Committee have not up to the date when this Report goes to press received information whether his sphere of work is in the Society's Mission. Those in Japan become C.M.S. missionaries in full connexion, but are supported from Canada, and look to Canada as their base. Mr. Sadlier was a Wycliffe missionary in Rupert's Land, but responded to a special call from Chili, and went thither under the South American Missionary Society, the C.C.M.A. retaining a partial connexion with him under the clause in their Constitution which enables them in special circumstances to work in fields other than those occupied by the C.M.S.

Before the absorption of the "Wycliffe Missions," the Association had accepted the offer of service of the Rev. J. R. Shields Boyd, B.A., and Mrs. Boyd, who were appointed to the Fuh-kien Mission, in accordance with their own special desire, by the Parent Committee. Mr. Stock and Mr. Grubb were present at the impressive valedictory meeting at Toronto on October 30th, when they, and Mr. and Mrs. Cooper Robinson, and Miss Young, for Japan, were dismissed. Much interest was added to the occasion by the presence also of the Misses Tristram, Hamilton, Julius, and Fox, who were en route for Japan, and Miss Carleton, going to Bishop Ridley's diocese.

Valedictory Dismissal.

At Charlottetown, Prince Edward's Island, Mr. Grubb met a gentleman, Mr. F. W. Hales, who in his leisure hours had prepared a most minute index of the Society's publications. Mr. Grubb wrote:—

A zealous student of C.M.S. literature.

> With a patience scarcely known outside his own doors, he has spent much of his leisure in making a full index of the C.M.S. magazines since the year 1865. The index comprises first the C.M. Record, then the C.M. Intelligencer and Record, and lastly the C.M. Gleaner since it was first issued in its present form, twenty-two years ago. To these has been added an index of the Missionary Review of the World since it appeared in 1888. Mr. Hales showed me three thick volumes of minute manuscript, every line by his own hand. The first volume consisted of indices under the headings of Places, as "India," "Ceylon," "Africa—General"; then would follow a page or more devoted to each separate Mission station, or place, or classes of people, as "the Bheels," or "Hill Arrians," or "Bedouin." The contents of the second volume were classified under Subjects and under Persons. Under "Subjects" would be found full references to everything in the magazines on the "Church Missionary Society at Home," and "Sermons," "Speeches," "Missionary Boxes," Missionary Anecdotes," &c. Under "Persons" are references to all the principal Missionaries and Home Workers mentioned during the past thirty years, so that if you look out the name, say, of "Robert Clark," you can turn at once to the chief events of his missionary life and to his letters. The third is the Alphabetical Index to Vols. I. and II. As an illustration of the care bestowed upon the compilation, we find under "Uganda" six pages of references, each page with some forty lines, a line in itself being often not a single reference, but a series of particulars.

THE WORLD.

Bible translations.

In 1890 Dr. R. N. Cust published a list which he had prepared of the translations of the whole or portions of the Word of God. That list registered translations in 269 languages and 60 dialects—total 329. A supplementary table has been published by Dr. Cust of the additional translations made during the quinquenniate 1891–5, which shows 41 languages and 11 dialects, making a total to 1895 of 381. Of the 52 new translations, 29 were published by the British and Foreign Bible Society, and the rest by other Bible or Missionary Societies in Scotland, Germany, America, &c. Among new versions of the British and Foreign Bible Society are found Chagga, Giriama, Sagalla, Taveta, and the Mombasa form of Swahili, all from C.M.S. East Africa. The American Bible Society has issued the whole Bible in Punti, the Canton (China) vernacular; single Gospels in the Shan-tung and Hing-hwa Colloquials, and in Laos, an Indo-Chinese language. The Netherlands Bible Society, which makes the languages of the Dutch East Indies its speciality, has issued St. Luke in Rotti, an island near Timor; and Gospels have been published by the National Bible Society of Scotland in Akunakuna and Umosu, languages spoken near Calabar. The output of Bibles, Testaments, and portions by the British and Foreign Bible Society in 1894–5 was 3,837,222.

Medical Missions.

Medical Missions have made steady progress during the past few years. In 1890 there were 125 fully-qualified medical missionaries in the field, sent out from Great Britain; in 1895 there were 216, of whom 39 were women. Thirty of the 216 were connected with the C.M.S., 29 with the Free Church of Scotland, 20 with the London Missionary Society, 19 with the United Presbyterians, 14 with the Presbyterian Church of England, 10 with the China Inland Mission, 8 with the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and the remainder were divided among 32 different Societies. India claimed 71 of them, and China 70; the whole of Africa (including Madagascar) had 40; Syria and Palestine, 16.

British contributions.

Canon Scott Robertson's annual Analysis of British Contributions to Foreign Missions for 1894 gave a total of £1,375,571, as compared with £1,288,257 for the previous year. The total for 1891 was £1,421,509. The Church of England Societies received £572,712; Joint Societies of Churchmen and Nonconformists, £211,486; English and Welsh Nonconformists £379,550; and Scotch and Irish Presbyterians, £195,944; while Roman Catholics are credited with £15,879. The following is the list of Church of England Societies:—

FOREIGN MISSIONS OF THE CHURCH OF ENGLAND.

Church Missionary Society	£264,538
Society for the Propagation of the Gospel	109,537
London Society for Promoting Christianity among the Jews (about)	24,000
Church of England Zenana Missionary Society	42,879
Colonial and Continental Church Society	24,352
Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge (portion of Receipts spent in aid of Foreign Missions, about)	20,500
Universities' Mission to Central Africa	22,631
South American Missionary Society	10,628
Missionary Leaves Association	10,543
Fifteen smaller Societies	31,510
	561,118
Estimated value of other gifts sent direct to Mission stations	11,594
	£572,712

London Missionary Society.

Of the great Societies connected with the various denominations of British Christians, the London Missionary Society claims attention as having celebrated its Centenary during 1895. The Committee of the C.M.S. sent a cordial expression of sympathy with that Society in the great and blessed work which God has permitted it to carry out during the last hundred years, and of thankfulness for the tokens of the Divine favour which have crowned its labours. In the South Seas, in South Africa, in Madagascar, in Travancore, and in China the L.M.S. has been represented by names which will be eminent among the missionaries of the nineteenth century, and the fruits of their labours have abounded. Especially has the Society been prospered in its wise plans for promoting self-support in the Native Churches. The Society's hundredth Report stated that in addition to £2,512 contributed to the Society's funds by Native Christians, no less a sum then £28,454 (including £8,000 given as school fees) was raised and expended in the Missions, mainly by Native Christians, for the support of Church ordinances and the propagation of the Gospel. The centenary celebrations in May, 1895, were of a varied character. Besides numerous meetings, a conversazione was held in Queen's Hall, a "Children's Day" was enjoyed at the Crystal Palace, and a missionary convention was held from September 21st to 27th, to commemorate the "Founders' Week," 1795. A Centenary Fund was opened, and £100,000 aimed at, as was done by the Baptist Missionary Society in its Centenary Year in 1892.

AFRICA.

AFRICA may be called the passive Continent. Her past history has certainly been a record of suffering; and the future appears likely to depend, not upon the initiation of her own sons, but upon the energy of strangers. May God in His mercy grant that in the issue Africa's children, if they may not own or rule, at least may thrive and prosper in the land where their fathers have endured and died; that they may under their own vines and fig trees worship and serve Him whom their fathers did not know. The passive Continent

A subject of great importance as affecting Africa's future, especially so in view of that inertia and inaptitude to initiate which is referred to in the last paragraph, was discussed at the meeting of the International Congress, held at the Imperial Institute, London, in August, 1895. It was on "The Extent to which Tropical Africa is suited for Development by the White Races, or under their Superintendence." Sir John Kirk, who opened the discussion with a valuable paper, admitted that the data for a final verdict as to considerable regions are most inadequate, whether regarding the climate, the presence of malaria, or the productions and resources; it appeared to him, nevertheless, that a few general conclusions might be safely inferred. For the purposes of colonization the maritime zones of both the east and west coasts must be dismissed as useless; so also may all lands in tropical Africa having a lower general level than 5,000 feet, while the high temperature and humidity of much of the rest are very exhausting to the average European; but the higher central and more mountainous regions are possible areas for future colonies. In effect his conclusions were: (1) that all the possessions on the West Coast under Great Britain, Germany, France, Portugal, and Spain, and the Congo State (with the possible exception of German South-West Africa, which suffers the disadvantage of having no convenient port) are throughout their extent too malarious, too hot, and too damp to offer a chance of European colonization; (2) that in the vast region under British rule in South-East Africa all the conditions necessary for successful colonization are present, and the same probably is true of the region further north across the Zambesi Valley, the extensive plateau to the west of Lake Nyasa, of which the administration has been taken over by the South Africa Company; (3) that the elevated plateau and escarpment which forms the greater portion of British East Africa, varying from 5,000 to 7,000 feet in height, appears also to be adapted for colonization; and (4) that possibly the mountainous district of Abyssinia included in the Africa as a home for the white races.

Italian protectorate may fulfil the same conditions, but no data are available on which to base conclusions.

Commercial value awaiting development.

How intimately this question bears upon the development of the Continent is self-evident. A valuable article contributed to the Times of February 15th, 1896, on "The Commercial Value of Africa" furnished some suggestive figures relating somewhat closely to this point. The writer reckons the total commerce of Africa, exports and imports combined, to value 100 millions sterling—"a miserable yield" he calls it for 11 million square miles, and less than that of India, with only 1½ million square miles (India, however, has a population nearly double that of the whole of Africa), and exceeded by 60 per cent. by that of South America, with seven million square miles. But the writer divides the Continent into three parts, North, South, and Central or Tropical Africa, taking the last as extending roughly between 18 degrees S. and 18 degrees N. latitude, a distance of 2,500 miles, and including about seven million square miles. The North African States have a population of about 17 millions, of whom about 400,000 are whites or more or less of European origin. The total area, excluding the Sahara, which is practically uninhabited, is 1¼ million square miles, and the trade amounts to 46 millions sterling annually, one-half of which is claimed by Egypt. In South Africa, viz., south of the Zambesi, the area is 1⅓ million square miles, the population includes about 800,000 whites, and the total commerce is estimated at 35 millions, the bulk of which belongs to the Cape Colony. In both North and South Africa the area over which the trade is spread represents only a fraction of the whole area in the respective parts, and is concentrated in the districts where the white population is found. Central Africa as defined above covers 7 out of the total 11 million square miles, and the present commercial value of this vast area is represented by only seventeen millions sterling—only about twice as much as the trade of Ceylon, whose area is less than a 250th part of that of Central Africa. Moreover, of the total exports (about 8½ millions sterling), all but an insignificant fraction are what may be called jungle products—such as palm oil, palm kernels, ground nuts, ivory, caoutchouc, gums, and similar articles. Nine and a half millions sterling is credited to the territory under British protection or within its sphere of influence, which embraces two million square miles. The total white population, including officials, missionaries, traders, and others in the whole of Central Africa does not exceed 6,000. There can be no doubt, from what has been said above, that a hundred times this number of Europeans could manage to lead a healthy and vigorous life in the country if only the means of transit to the more eligible regions were rendered economically possible and physically safe.

Meanwhile, the supposition that the advent of Europeans, beneficial as it may be to Africa, will necessarily prove beneficial to the African, must again and again be challenged. The report of Mr. Donald Mackenzie, after his visit as Special Commissioner of the British and Foreign Anti-Slavery Society to Zanzibar and Pemba, in the spring of 1895, carried surprise to many who had hoped and believed better things. It is well known that the treaty concluded in 1873 between England and Zanzibar, through the instrumentality of the late Sir Bartle Frere and Mr. (now Sir) John Kirk, rendered the importation of slaves into the above islands illegal, and that the decree of the Sultan of Zanzibar, issued on August 12th, 1890, shortly after the islands in question came under the sole protectorate of Great Britain, prohibited under severe penalties the sale, purchase, or exchange of slaves, and placed restrictions on their inheritance. The hope was naturally entertained that slavery would soon cease under these conditions. Mr. Mackenzie, however, has brought home the surprising and painful fact that these treaties and decrees have been practically a dead letter, and that slavery is as prevalent now as probably at any earlier time. Of a total population in the islands of some 400,000, he estimates the slaves to number 266,000. To maintain this number, since the slaves have very few children, he calculates that an annual importation of at least 6,000 fresh slaves from the mainland is required, and he further calculates that to obtain these not less than 24,000 lives yearly are sacrificed, while 40,000 others are sacrificed to secure a further supply of 11,000 yearly, who are shipped from the mainland of East Africa to the Arabian coast. Mr. Mackenzie explains that the porters who form the caravans to the interior are in reality slaves, who, though they are paid direct by those who employ them, hand over to their masters one-half of their earnings. The mortality among these porters was represented to him as thirty per cent.—a terrible loss of human life! One traveller who went up country a few years ago with 450 men returned, Mr. Mackenzie says, with only 190. Mr. Mackenzie urges the total abolition of the status of slavery in the British protectorates, and Bishop Tucker, in a letter which the President of the C.M.S., Sir John Kennaway, forwarded to the Times, strongly advocates the same course. The Bishop wrote:—

Slavery in British East Africa.

Yearly sacrifice of 60,000 lives.

> May I be allowed to express the anxiety of many out here with respect to any possible postponement of the abolition of slavery within the limits of the Zanzibar protectorates? Very clever schemes have been sketched for the gradual abolition of the hateful "institution." So clever, indeed, and plausible are these schemes that I am somewhat fearful lest principle should be drowned in the sea of plausibility. Stress is laid upon the expense that would be incurred in compensating the slave-owners were immediate abolition proclaimed. Are we, may I ask, to weigh expense against principle?

Bishop Tucker's opinion.

To my dull comprehension the question seems to be simply one of right or wrong. If it be wrong, then no question of £30,000 a year should be allowed for a moment to interfere with the doing of the right. Our fathers, thank God, had sufficient moral courage to insist on the abolition of slavery in the West Indies, even at the cost of millions, and England at that time in point of prosperity was immensely poorer than the England of to-day. Has England degenerated? I cannot and will not believe it.

Energetic efforts against slave trade.

The source of these slave supplies in the lake regions is being effectually dealt with, especially by the energetic officers of the British Central African Protectorate. During 1895 expeditions of considerable strength, consisting of Sikhs and negroes, attacked in succession the forts of the remaining Arab slave-dealers within the British protectorate, and took them, establishing British forts in their stead. One of these Arabs, Mwasi Kazunga, brought as many as 20,000 fighting men into the field, but he was utterly routed, lost many killed in the fighting and subsequent flight, and 632 prisoners were taken, including fourteen chiefs and a celebrated slave-raider named Saidi Mwazunga, who in 1891 treacherously enticed Dr. Boyce and Mr. McEwan into his village under a flag of truce and then murdered them. The result of these operations has been to open the trade route into the far interior westward and north-westward of the Nyasa, and to close the slave route to the Zambesi.

The Nile Valley and Eastern Soudan.

The advance of Egyptian troops under British command up the Nile Valley is directed against one of the most formidable and least accessible of the centres of oppression and misgovernment which yet remain in Africa. The Khalifa, the successor of the Mahdi, at the head of his brave and fanatical dervishes, may be expected to make a stubborn resistance; but ere long Eastern Soudan, it may be confidently hoped, will enjoy once more the blessings of civilization and of a just government.

Liquor Traffic on West Coast.

If a dubious verdict is conceivable regarding the benefits to the Natives of contact with European Governments and commerce on the East Coast, it is unhappily no less so on the West Coast. The liquor traffic advances at an alarming rate in British West Africa. In the Niger Protectorate alone the value of liquor imported increased from £130,000 in 1893 to £234,000 in 1894. The number of gallons imported in the latter year reached a total of 2,612,515, and the spirit duty bears a proportion to the total customs duty of £128,965 to £135,966. Bishop Tugwell testified, in a letter to the Times of June 7th, 1895, that whole towns are upon occasion seen in a state of drunkenness; and he mentioned a recently opened market at Ejmeni, where 30,000 persons congregate once in ten days, at which no fewer than seventy licences to sell spirits were issued during 1894. Captain Lugard reported in the early months of the same year (1895) that "Lagos gin is found at every town and village from the coast to the far north-western boundary of Yoruba, and penetrates even to Borgu." "From all sides," as the Times remarks, "the same conclusion seems to be reached—namely, that the development of trade, rendered possible by the extension of peace and order under British jurisdiction, is in serious danger of degenerating into a development of the traffic in cheap spirits." It is probably within the mark to estimate that fully one-half of the produce brought by the Natives to the markets of British West Africa is bartered in exchange for spirits. The contrast afforded to this condition of things by Basutoland, in South Africa —where, in consequence of its geographical position and the absence of white population, it has been found possible to enforce a law of absolute prohibition—is striking indeed. The population in 1891 was estimated as 218,000, and the value of its import and export trade was variously estimated at from £350,000 to £380,000. A movement of trade bearing a like proportion to these figures in British West Africa would realize about sixty millions instead of seven or eight millions, as at present. It afforded much satisfaction to the friends of Africa that Khama and the other Bechuana chiefs who visited this country in the summer of 1895 were successful in obtaining from the Government conditions which, as they hoped, would enable them to maintain an effective prohibition of liquor in their country.

Deleterious to legitimate commerce.

The bloodless campaign in Ashanti at the close of 1895 entailed a heavy personal loss to the Royal Family of Great Britain, by causing the death from fever of H.R.H. Prince Henry of Battenberg, the husband of Princess Beatrice. Still more tragic were the deaths of several missionaries in Africa and in the neighbouring island of Madagascar. The Committee of the C.M.S. felt deep sympathy with the Universities' Mission and with the Friends' Foreign Missionary Association. With the former, in the heavy losses which fell upon them through the drowning of Bishop Maples (a few months after his consecration) and a missionary companion in Nyasa Lake, in the autumn of 1895; and through the murder about the same time of the Rev. G. Atlay, a son of the late Bishop of Hereford, in Portuguese territory, and near the same lake. And with the latter, because of the murder of Mr. and Mrs. W. Johnson and their child in Madagascar shortly after the completion of the French expedition to Antananarivo and the proclamation of a French protectorate over the island.

Deaths in and near Africa.

SIERRA LEONE MISSION.

Africa was the first field entered by the Society. Its first two Missionaries were sent in 1804 to the Susu tribes on the Rio Pongas. In 1816 the Society's efforts were concentrated upon the colony of Sierra Leone, which had, since the abolition of the slave-trade in 1807, become the depôt for Negroes rescued from slave ships by the British cruisers. Much blessing attended the labours of W. A. B. Johnson and other missionaries, and in 1822 nearly 2,000 of the freed slaves, adults and children, were in the Mission Schools, several thousands were attending public worship, and some hundreds had become sincere Christians. The work continued to prosper, but at a great cost of life; fifty-three missionaries and missionaries' wives dying between 1804 and 1824. In 1851 the Bishopric of Sierra Leone was founded, and the first three Bishops—Vidal, Weeks, and Bowen (the two latter C.M.S. Missionaries)—died within three years of their consecration. In 1842 a Parliamentary Committee attributed the "considerable intellectual, moral, and religious improvement" of the people to "the valuable exertions of the Church Missionary Society more especially." Port Lokkoh was occupied from 1840–1850 and reoccupied in 1875.

In 1862 the Sierra Leone Church was organized on an independent basis, and undertook the support of its own pastors, churches, and schools, aided by a small grant from the Society. In 1876 the Sierra Leone Church Missionary Society was founded, and has since carried on the outlying Missions established by the C.M.S. in the Bullom, and Quiah countries. About eighty African clergymen have been ordained on the West Coast (including Yoruba and the Niger). Several of them are Government chaplains.

Bishop Ingham's Visit to the West Indies.

BISHOP INGHAM paid a visit in the summer of 1895 to the West Indies, at the invitation of the Bishop of Jamaica and his Diocesan Conference, in the hope that he might arouse a desire in the hearts of some of the Christian Africans now resident there to take part in the evangelization of portions of West Africa. He was very warmly welcomed in the islands of Barbados, St. Lucia, Antigua, Bermuda, St. Kitts, Nevis, and more especially in Jamaica, and upon his return to England he expressed to the Committee his fervent hope that suitable spiritual agents for work in the Hinterland of Sierra Leone would in due time be called forth from the West Indian islands. A few weeks later the Committee had under their consideration a generous offer from the Lady Mico Trustees to give a free education at their College in Jamaica to a certain number of young men of African descent, to be selected by the Committee or their representatives, with the view to their proceeding subsequently to West Africa for further training and for service under the Society. The Committee passed a hearty vote of thanks to the Lady Mico Trustees, and forthwith took steps to inquire into the possibilities of their being able to avail themselves of the offer.

In their deliberations on this question the Committee were assisted by His Excellency Colonel Cardew, Governor of Sierra Leone, who, on the day when the subject happened to be on the agenda, had an interview with the Committee, and earnestly drew their attention to the unevangelized interior behind the peninsula of Sierra Leone.

The Rev. Canon Taylor Smith, in response to an invitation

Governor Maxwell, of Lagos, and of Sir Francis Scott, and with the consent of Bishop Ingham, accompanied the Ashanti Expedition from the coast to Kumassi in the capacity of Chaplain to the Troops, and of course on War Office pay. He was entrusted with a message from the late lamented Prince Henry of Battenberg to Princess Beatrice. He came home in March, 1896, and was immediately invited to Nice, where he was favoured with several interviews with the Queen and Princess, and preached by request before the Queen on March 22nd.

Canon Taylor Smith and the Ashanti Expedition.

Two widows of former missionaries died in July, 1895. One was Mrs. Haastrup, who passed away at Herrnhut, the home of the Moravian Missions. Her husband, the Rev. Neil Christian Haastrup, was a Native of Denmark, and after being trained at the Basle Seminary and at the C.M. College, went out to Sierra Leone in 1840; he died at Kissey in 1849. The other was Mrs. Brierley, who went out to Sierra Leone as Miss Bywater in 1858, and did good work for five years at the Female Institution (now the Annie Walsh Memorial School). In 1863 she married the Rev. L. H. Brierley, then in pastoral charge of Charlotte, and in that parish she continued to labour after her husband's death in 1870, until 1876. In 1882 she was appointed by the American Board of Missions to superintend a large and important Missionary School at Cape Mount, Liberia, where she laboured indefatigably for over ten years without taking any furlough. She visited England and America in 1893, returning the next year, though over sixty years of age, to labour on till taken to her rest.

Deaths of Mrs. Haastrup.

Mrs. Brierley.

The Rev. N. M. Bull, of the Sierra Leone Church Missionary Society, died in January, 1896. He was ordained in 1877. He laboured indefatigably for twenty years in the Quiah stations, and during the last four years of his life he also superintended the Bullom and Tasso Missions.

and Rev. N. M. Bull.

The reinforcements to the Sierra Leone Mission during 1895–6, consisted of the Rev. Edmund Henry Elwin, B.A., Merton College and Wycliffe Hall, Oxford, Curate of St. Peter le Bailey, Oxford; Mr. Frank S. Allen, who volunteered while a student at Islington College, in response to an appeal for workers in the Hinterland of Sierra Leone; and Miss Clara Jane Elwin. Mr. and Miss Elwin are nephew and niece of the Rev. A. Elwin of the Mid-China Mission. The latter sailed, together with Mrs. Pickthall (a lady appointed to the Eastern Equatorial Africa Mission, but who consented to go first to Sierra Leone and to render assistance for a few months, if needed, at the Annie Walsh School), in August, 1895; Mr. Allen sailed in January, 1896, together with Mr. T. E. Alvarez and Miss H. Bisset, returning to the Mission after four and six months' furlough respectively; and Mr. Elwin sailed in April, 1896. Miss A. J. Long came home under doctor's orders in

Reinforcements.

December, 1895; and the Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Alley and the Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Humphrey in May, 1896.

Ordinations. On December 1st, 1895, at Kissey Church, Bishop Ingham admitted the Revs. E. T. Cole, D. J. Coker, and J. N. Grant to priest's orders; and on February 23rd, at St. George's Cathedral, Freetown, he admitted the Rev. A A. Elba to priest's orders, and Mr. F. S. Allen to deacon's orders.

SIERRA LEONE.

Fourah Bay College. The Principal of the Fourah Bay College, the Rev. W. J. Humphrey, continued at his post during the year, but his doing so occasioned the Committee much anxiety lest his health should fail. So much, however, depended on his presence that he felt it right to remain. The calendar of Fourah Bay College, giving particulars of the examination results for 1895, states that one student of the College passed the Durham University Proficiency Examination with distinction, one passed his final B.A. examination, another the examination for the Degree of B.C.L., and two others the First Year Examinations in Arts and Theology. Forty students have passed the final B.A. Examination since the College was affiliated to Durham University in 1876. Fifteen of these have also taken the licence in theology, and eight others who did not graduate obtained the licence in theology. There were in June, 1895, only ten resident and three non-resident students, but the number was soon afterwards increased. It has long been felt that the candidates for service in the Lord's work in Sierra Leone, whether in the settled parishes of the peninsula or in the Missions to the Heathen, were disappointingly few. It has not of late years been found possible to fill up all the scholarships which the Society offers at the College to such as are judged to be fit subjects for training for spiritual work. The Committee therefore gladly sanctioned an experiment, proposed by the Principal, being tried, namely, to seek in the village pastorates of the peninsula for a number of earnest Christian young men, who, though not likely to respond to the full course of training at the College, might be expected with God's blessing to prove useful evangelists after a year spent there in the study of God's Word and of Christian doctrine. Accordingly, in June, 1895, the Principal and the Rev. E. T. Cole, tutor at the College, and two of the students visited Kissey, Wellington, Hastings, Waterloo, Benguema, Kent, York, and Wilberforce, being joined at Kissey by the Rev. Canon Taylor Smith and Mr. T. E. Alvarez. Sermons were preached or meetings addressed at each place, and the result was that about one hundred young men offered themselves for missionary work, and were interviewed. A number of them were members of other communions, whom Mr. Humphrey referred to their respective ministers, on whom in several instances he called himself. The remainder were carefully sifted, and six were admitted as C.M.S. Scholars, one as a schoolmaster-student; two entered the College School as monitors, being under age for admission to the College; four others were accepted for up-country work.

Jubilee of Grammar School.

The Grammar School was founded on March 25th, 1845, by the Rev. T. Peyton, its first Principal, and accordingly its jubilee was celebrated during the year under review. The pupils received into the school during the fifty years have numbered 1,661. They have come from almost every point along the West Coast, from Senegal in the north to Fernando Po and the Cameroons in the south-east; sons of native chiefs, Mendis, Sherbros, Susus, Timnes, and even Dahomians have been among them, while the far-distant West Indies and East Africa have also been represented. The jubilee was celebrated by a gathering of "old boys" early in the year (1895), of which the Rev. O. Moore, the Native Principal, says:—

Gathering of "old boys."

> Over 250 were present in connexion with the jubilee of the school. The gathering was characteristic and unique. Pastors of the Native Church and other clergymen, one an archdeacon and another a canon and colonial chaplain; ministers of other religious bodies; men high in the service of one branch or other of the Government, retired or still in active service; honourable members of the Legislative Council, lawyers, doctors, prosperous merchants, schoolmasters who magnify their office, artisans, mechanics, some young, some old, most in the prime of life, all were there, and all recognizing the one Alma Mater. They resolved to do what they could in raising funds to establish scholarships, in order to extend to others disadvantageously circumstanced the benefit of the training which they had themselves received at the school. Old boys along the coast have responded to this resolution in an appeal made to them through Mr. Farmer, our senior tutor, and contributed over £100.

At the end of September the pupils numbered 146, of whom 63 were boarders. One, a lad barely fourteen, passed the Durham Proficiency Examination, securing a certificate. Once more a former pupil of the school, as on previous occasions, headed the list of successful candidates for the Civil Service Examination. Three of the pupils were baptized, two of them being sons of native chiefs maintained in the school by the Colonial Government.

Annie Walsh School.

The Annie Walsh School has eighty-four girls. Six passed the College of Preceptors Examination (three in the second and three in the third class), and two the Durham Proficiency Examination out of three who entered. Two of the senior pupils were appointed pupil-teachers, and four ex-pupils became teachers in other Freetown schools. The Governor, Colonel Cardew, presided at the prize distribution held in January, 1895, instead of the previous December, and Mrs. Cardew presented the prizes. Besides the daily Bible-classes, a weekly address was given by Canon Taylor Smith; on Saturday an evangelistic service was held, and weekly prayer-meetings were conducted for the girls. Mrs. Pickthall, as mentioned above, rendered assistance in the school from October, 1895, till the following January, when she returned to England.

Native pastorates

The income of the Native Pastorate Auxiliary Association for 1894-5 amounted to £1,852, but the expenditure, owing to an increase in the number of the clergy and to larger outlay than usual in repairs of churches and parsonages, was £2,006. The chief items of income were: Class-pence (of which two-thirds is paid by the congregations to the funds of the Association), £814; pew rent (of which one-half is paid to the Association), £93; and annual subscriptions, £828. The reports from the several pastoral districts tell of active church life and interest, but it is confessed and grieved over in some instances that the moral and spiritual tone of the congregations is far from what it should be. Immorality is lightly thought of, and marriage vows are little regarded. "But," one of the clergy writes, "we do not despair; we are determined at all hazards to fight the Lord's battle, and in His own strength." If the workers are so fighting with one heart and mind, the victory, however long deferred, is assured in the end. The Society's friends should help continually by prayer.

PORT LOKKOH.

Port Lokkoh.

At the beginning of 1895 the Rev. J. A. and Mrs. Alley (now at home) were joined at PORT LOKKOH by Miss A. Edwards and Miss S. Hickmott. Services and classes are conducted in Temne and in English, the latter for the English-speaking Natives from Sierra Leone. The average attendance at the services was respectively 49 and 84. A new roof was put on the church at a cost of £84, contributed by the people. The ladies gave assistance in the day school, which has now 47 pupils. Miss Edwards says the children are usually most attentive and good, and their knowledge of Scripture would put many an English child to shame. She also has a Bible class of men and women whose ages vary from fifteen to fifty. Evangelistic open-air meetings are held on Sunday alternately in the town and in neighbouring villages. Mr. Alley has compiled a Temne hymn book containing 124 hymns, and has revised the late Rev. C. F. Schlenker's translation of St. Matthew's Gospel, the Acts, and the Epistle to the Romans. Bishop Ingham confirmed six candidates at Port Lokkoh in January, 1896. At Makomp, sixteen miles up-country from Port Lokkoh, an African deacon, the Rev. A. A. Elba, is stationed. There is a small congregation of about a dozen people and a school with 37 scholars. Mr. Elba and a fellow-helper itinerated in the dry season, on one occasion going into the Sanda country, which is considered the mother-land of the Temnes. Mr. Elba baptized four adults at Makori, another out-station, situated about mid-way between Freetown and Port Lokkoh.

YORUBA MISSION.

From this country, which is 1,000 miles east of Sierra Leone, a large proportion of the freed slaves gathered at the latter place had been carried away. About the year 1840 many of them, having now become Christians and traders on their own account, returned to their fatherland. The result was the establishment of Missions at Badagry (1845) and Lagos (1852) on the coast, and at Abeokuta (1846), Ibadan (1852), Ode Ondo (1876), and other towns and villages in the interior. The Yoruba country (excepting Lagos, which was (and is) within the jurisdiction of the Bishop of Sierra Leone) was a part of the titular diocese of the Bishop of the Niger territories. When, in June, 1893, the Rev. J. S. Hill succeeded Bishop Crowther, he received the title of "Bishop in Western Equatorial Africa," and at the same time two experienced African clergymen, the Revs. C. Phillips and I. Oluwole, were consecrated as Assistant-Bishops for the Yoruba country. Bishop Hill died in January, 1894, and Bishop Tugwell was consecrated the following March.

Movements of Bishops Tugwell, Phillips, and Oluwole.

THE movements of Bishop Tugwell up to March, 1895, when he had an opportunity of conferring with Bishop Ingham at Lagos, were mentioned in last year's Annual Report. The six months which followed were spent in this Mission, except for one short visit to the Niger Delta in June; twice, in April and again in August, he went up to Abeokuta. On February 14th, 1896, the Bishop was married to Miss Caroline White, who joined this Mission in 1894. Bishop Phillips was at Lagos the first three months of 1895, the remainder of the year being spent in his own district in and near Ode Ondo. Bishop Oluwole, except for a five weeks' tour in the interior Yoruba country in August and September, and a visit to Abeokuta in December, was at Lagos throughout the year in charge of the Training Institution and the Grammar School. He had an illness in the summer, when there was an unusual amount of sickness and much mortality among the Natives at Lagos, but he was mercifully raised up.

Death of Miss M. Goodall.

A footnote in the last Report (page 59) mentioned the death of Miss Marion Goodall. The news had been received by telegram as that Report was going to press. Miss Goodall was one of the first of the Christian ladies of experience who have offered to the Society of late years for foreign work. She had, as principal and proprietor of a ladies' school at Margate, been largely used of God both in winning souls to Christ and in training up the young in Scriptural knowledge. Her call to the foreign field was clenched at the all-day devotional meeting held by the Society in January, 1888, and she offered soon afterwards. She reached Lagos from home after furlough in April, 1895, and wrote with a heart overflowing with thankfulness for travelling mercies on the journey, for being allowed to be back in Africa, and for the loving welcome she received from all. At the end of the month she went up to Abeokuta in Bishop Tugwell's company, and arrived there on May 3rd apparently in excellent health. Fever commenced on the 13th, and she died on the 21st, manifesting singular patience and sweetness of disposition during the week of suffering. Bishop Tugwell wrote on the day of her death :—

As a rule, in later stages of malarial fever a stupor clouds the brain. In this case, until 3 A.M. this morning she was in all but perfect possession of her mental faculties. On Sunday she received the Holy Communion with great comfort and joy. Every word of the General Confession and of the Gloria in Excelsis was clearly enunciated, and with wondrous intelligence of expression. The recital of the words, "Therefore with angels and archangels and all the company of Heaven, we laud and magnify Thy glorious Name," seemed almost a foretaste of a chorus in heaven as we knelt together around the bed and repeated the words with one so soon to go into that blessed company. Earlier in the week, I had asked in prayer that "God would control her in thought, in heart, and in mind; that in all things in her Christ might have the pre-eminence." On our rising, she said, "It is so," "I am kept."

A glorious triumph and a wondrous testimony.

Such a life is not a wasted life; it is a life gloriously laid down. Surely, that is a wasted life which is laid down without one effort to extend our dear Master's Kingdom. For a poor weak woman to come forth in faith and love and for Christ's sake to cast herself into the midst of this dark mass of Heathenism, with the single desire that by all means she might save some— it is surely a glorious triumph and a wondrous testimony to the power of the Gospel.

Reinforcements.

Mr. Arthur Smith,* of Islington College; Miss Hester Jane Duncum, daughter of Mr. Joseph E. Duncum, assistant to the Honorary Clerical Secretary at the Church Missionary House; and Miss Caroline Cleggett Boyton reinforced the Mission. Miss Duncum sailed in July, 1895, the others in October. The Rev. W. E. Godson has been transferred to the Mid-China Mission.

While on furlough the Rev. F. G. Toase was married at Penge to Miss Alice Rose Silk in May, and sailed in July, 1895; and the Rev. F. Melville Jones and Miss F. Higgins, both of this Mission, were married at Ambleside in July, and returned to the Mission in October. The Rev. James Johnson, native pastor of Breadfruit, Lagos, well known to many friends in England, was married to an African lady in April. The Rev. T. and Mrs. Harding returned to the Mission in November, 1895, and Mr. T. Jays in January, 1896. Mr. E. Fry, Mr. J. McKay, and the Misses E. Ballson, S. C. Grover, A. J. Hudson, P. Leach, and J. Palmer came home on furlough in January, and Miss M. Tynan in May, 1896.

Ordinations.

Bishop Oluwole admitted Mr. J. J. Ransome-Kuti and Mr. Francis Lowestoft Akiele to deacon's orders at Abeokuta on December 22nd, 1895. The service was in the Yoruba language. Mr. Akiele was the first boy committed by his friends to the late Rev. D. Hinderer for Christian instruction in 1853. The Revs. D. Olubi and R. S. Oyebode were also among the youths whom he taught and trained. On March 1st, Bishop Phillips admitted the Revs. E. W. George and E. M. Lijadu to priest's orders.

*The sad news is received by telegram as this Report goes to press that Mr. Smith died on May 25th.

Death of a native pastor.

The Rev. E. S. Willoughby, native pastor of St. Peter's, Faji, died at Lagos on April 24th, 1896. He was admitted to deacon's and priest's orders in 1880 and 1882 respectively.

The Rev. J. B. Wood is the Secretary of the Mission. He resided in Lagos until April, when he, with Mrs. Wood, went back to his old station Abeokuta, from whence he visited Lagos in July, and Ibadan, Oyo, Ogbomoso, &c., in October.

LAGOS.

Jubilee of the Mission.

The jubilee of the Yoruba Mission was celebrated at Lagos in December, from the 8th to the 19th. Special sermons were preached at all the churches on the 8th, and various gatherings and services were held on the other days. At one of the meetings an address was delivered by the Rev. S. Pearse on the lives of Bishop Crowther and the Revs. C. A. Gollmer and H. Townsend, the founders of the Mission. On the 18th and 19th thanksgiving services were held at several of the churches. A devotional conference of the workers was also held at Lagos in February, 1896, at which Bishops Ingham, Tugwell, Phillips, and Oluwole were present. The general subject of consideration was "These Fifty Years."

Memorial on Drink Traffic.

A public meeting on the Drink Traffic was held at the Glover Memorial Hall, Lagos, on August 15th, 1895, at which the following Resolution was passed :—

> That this meeting, recognizing that the traffic in spirits, i.e., gin, rum, and other poisonous liquors, introduced into Western Equatorial Africa, as elsewhere in Africa, is working immense harm, physically, morally, and spiritually amongst every section of its communities, and further recognizing that the time has come when a decisive blow should be dealt against the traffic, pledges itself to support every effort which may be made in Africa or Europe to suppress it.

A generous native donor.

No report of the Lagos Native Pastorate has been received. A member of one of the congregations, an African merchant, presented the sum of one thousand pounds to the church on his fiftieth birthday, to be invested, and the interest only to be used. He offered a like sum also to the Society for establishing a Technical Department in connexion with the Lagos Grammar School.

Christ Church.

The Rev. F. G. Toase, upon his return to the Mission in July, took again, at the request of the Finance Committee, the charge of Christ Church, Faji. He reports an improved attendance at the services, and his visits to the jail and hospital have been blessed to souls. He regards the work, however, as only on "the borderland of the Mission," and he longs to be set free for work among the Heathen. Fifty-nine candidates from this congregation were confirmed by Bishop Oluwole on Whit Sunday, 1895. The Training Institution had eighteen students. The senior class, Bishop Oluwole reports, made a fair attempt at reading the Greek Testament. Eight of the students left to take up work as schoolmasters. The Grammar School has seventy pupils. The Girls' Seminary has 65 pupils, of whom twelve are boarders. All the twelve girls who were candidates, as mentioned last year, in the Government examination for teachers' certificates were successful, nine obtaining a third class and three a fourth class. Miss Ballson speaks of the sorrow caused in the school by Miss Goodall's death. Educational Institutions.

Bishop Tugwell twice visited Leke or Leckie, in April, 1895, and January, 1896. It is some fifty miles from Lagos eastward along the coast. He baptized an adult there on the latter occasion and confirmed 21 persons. He urged the Christians to endeavour to evangelize the district around, which they promised to do. They are mostly poor farmers and fishermen, but they contributed during the year £8 to the Lagos Native Pastorate, £5 to the Lagos Church Missions, and £4 10*s*. to the British and Foreign Bible Society. The Bishop was greatly encouraged by his visit. He had, however, to forbid one thing which they were about to do. The town is built on sand, and in order to secure a firm foundation for a new church rubbish had to be obtained. It is a melancholy evidence of the excessive traffic in spirits that the most available rubbish was gin bottles collected from beneath the bushes throughout the town. The Bishop protested against the House of God being erected on such a foundation. The Rev. D. Coker mentions as great difficulties the indifference of the Heathen and the bigotry of Mohammedans at Badagry, but he rightly puts before these, as being more serious than either, the low moral tone of the professing Christians. At Ijebu Ode the Rev. E. W. George suffered the loss of his wife. He notices an improvement in the behaviour of those who attend the services. Leckie. Gin bottles the only available rubbish.

ABEOKUTA.

A bridge is in course of construction connecting Lagos with the mainland, and a railway to the interior is in contemplation; hence the often-described canoe journey or marches through the forests to the interior stations will soon be experiences of the past. But the changes consequent upon the British Protectorate are seen in all parts of the country, especially in the greater sense of security which now prevails. The Rev. J. B. Wood writes:— Improved state of security in interior Yoruba country.

> I have travelled years ago on roads where one might journey for hours and not meet a single person. On those roads now one may meet, not strong parties prepared to resist attacks, but women in twos or threes. One who knows the contrast between then and now cannot but be thankful for the change.

Jubilee observances at Abeokuta.

The jubilee of the Mission was observed at ABEOKUTA during the week commencing December 22nd, 1895. On this date two catechists were admitted to the diaconate, as already mentioned, by Bishop Oluwole. On the following days, at a large general meeting, papers were read on Early Efforts, Progress, Disappointments, Present Condition of the Work, and Future Prospects. There were several processions to different townships, and it was observed that the people generally manifested great friendliness, giving numerous presents, but refraining, as requested, from offering spirits. A sum of £40 was contributed almost entirely by Heathen and Mohammedans towards a Sustentation Fund made up of jubilee offerings. This fund is in connexion with the Native Pastorate Auxiliary, two anniversaries of which occurred during 1895. The former of these was held in January, 1895—a few months later than usual. The income acknowledged by the treasurers to the Pastorate Fund, exclusive of the Society's grant, was £543, which was £112 in excess of any previous year. The account, however, included some subscriptions which, at the time, had been promised but not actually paid, and of the total announced £40 remained still unpaid at the next Anniversary in September. On this occasion a more robust policy was adopted, and all unpaid subscriptions were rigorously excluded from the report. The receipts amounted to £406. Bishop Oluwole presided, and the meeting lasted over four hours. The sum last-named does not by any means represent all that was raised by the Native Christians during the year. A considerable amount was given to the Abeokuta School Board for the maintenance of the day-schools, and each pastorate only remits to the Council Fund a proportion of its receipts. Altogether, over £1,000 was contributed, exceeding the highest previous total—that of 1894—by £146. A new church was opened by Bishop Oluwole in September at Igbein. This township was the second station taken up in Abeokuta, and was the scene of Samuel Crowther's labours. The old church and mission-house were entirely destroyed in 1867, when the missionaries were expelled. At that time Bishop Oluwole was a student in the Training Institution which was stationed at Igbein, and was an eye-witness of the work of destruction. The new church is on the site of the former one, and was opened free of debt. Over 11,000 people were present at the service. The Rev. J. B. Wood gives the following particulars of the intermediate history:—

Friendliness of the Heathen.

Improved Finances of Native Church.

Remarkable history of a Church site.

> The place was attacked on October 13th, 1867, and the chiefs of Igbein were conspicuous as leaders of the attacking party. They stole everything in and about the place that could be carried away on that day, and later, more leisurely, they pulled down the buildings, and carried off the whole of the material of them of every kind, even the mud of which the walls were built. The Mission land was confiscated, and given to an Igbein man. He did not live long afterwards; then it passed to another; he died also, and likewise a third, and a fourth, into whose possession it came. This seemed remarkable, and people began to fear, and then we were asked to take the land back and use it for Mission purposes again; this was a few years since. We, of course, consented. A small house was put up upon it, which will be a schoolmaster's residence. We are now building a pastor's house there, and the new church, good and substantial, and capable of holding about four hundred persons, was opened in September by Bishop Oluwole.

The Rev. S. Doherty, of Igbore, refers to one of his out-lying congregations at Meku, the male communicants of which are unable to read, and consequently the services are usually conducted by a female slave, the wife of a polygamist who often has "sat under her addresses with profound attention." During Bishop Tugwell's visit to Abeokuta in August, he held a conference of the native agents to consider the Drink Traffic, and after his departure a meeting was held in the town under Bishop Oluwole's presidentship to prepare and sign a memorial against the traffic. Bishop Oluwole wrote :—

A female slave conducts services at an out-station.

The speakers were limited to fifteen minutes, to the distress of some of the Abeokuta Demosthenes, who felt handicapped. And, indeed, when they began to speak to the Resolutions entrusted to them, I wished it were in my power to extend their time. They had something to say. The many evils caused by the rapidly increasing trade in rum and gin were presented to the meeting in, as it were, tangible forms. And a little real knowledge of the place will show that the strongest representations were not exaggerated. Not only the drunkards suffer, but total abstainers too. Custom compels a profuse use of rum and gin on various occasions. They are largely used in entertaining visitors, at the many annual festivities, at marriage feasts, and funerals. They are so largely used at funerals that it has been remarked that when death takes place in a family in Abeokuta now, the sorrow is less for the loss sustained than for the ruinous expense which must be incurred on drink. Some Heathen were present throughout the meeting. Towards the close a respectable deputation from the Mohammedans came in. A résumé of the proceedings of the meeting was put before them, and the Resolutions of the meeting were read to them; they signified their hearty concurrence with everything that was done. As a result of the meeting, a memorial was prepared for signature, and many have readily signed. I am satisfied that 90 per cent. of the Egbas would only be too pleased at the suppression of the traffic. A heathen chief who signed the memorial said that he was not only ready to sign, but was prepared to pay, if necessary, to be allowed to do so.

Spirit drinking customs.

This memorial with 8,207 names attached has been forwarded to this country. It measures 250 feet in length, and is a powerful appeal from the Natives in Africa to the nation in whose hands their destinies have been placed. One of the native catechists in his journal supplies a striking testimony to the havoc caused in Abeokuta and its neighbourhood by imported spirits :—

A huge memorial

My experience about this drink since 1887 in this country is a very sad one. One thing is certain, and it is this : we must extirpate gin and rum, or gin and rum will extirpate us. The free use of this stuff which obtains in all quarters in this place is fearful. Men, women, and little children indulge in the free use of it. Go wherever you like, at home, or at farm, in streets, and in compounds, you meet with people drinking it. At every idol feast, at every jovial club, at every funeral, at every marriage feast, and at every social gathering, this fire-water—gin and rum—is drunk to a degree incredible except to an eye-witness.

"We mus extirpate gin and rum."

Go out into the streets. Gin-bottles, whole and broken, supply a strong evidence that drink in this country is going on at a rate we little think of. The worst of it is, the elders of the town—I mean the Ogbonis, who are the reputed magistrates of the town—indulge freely in drink.

Drink is a great impediment to the progress of the Gospel, and a great barrier to a betterment of the condition of the people. It renders futile and abortive all the civilizing agencies sent forth to make us Yorubas rise and improve our condition. It is an enemy within the walls; an enemy that has taken the stronghold of the town; an enemy that has chained our elders, sent into poverty and bondage our young men and young women, filled our streets with broken bottles, filled our homes with desperate and hardened inmates, and peopled hell with souls that might have been saved by the sound of the Gospel.

And Miss Goodall in a private letter, written on the way up to Abeokuta:—

We arrived at Mokoloki soon after breakfast, and as the men wished to buy "chop" we went and took a walk to see a little of the bush, and were much distressed at the fearful signs of what the liquor traffic is doing all around. It seems hopeless to work alongside of such wholesale wickedness: gin cases in immense stacks, and every woman and child dipping their daily supply of water from the river in an empty demijohn which had held rum. Even little wine-glasses on the stalls in the market sold as measures for the dram. It does seem hard on these poor creatures; they are bad enough, but the drink makes them demons in the heat, and they have nothing to control them, and then it is such vile stuff it inflames the blood.

"Hard on these poor creatures"

At Abeokuta itself Miss Goodall, who had not before visited the interior, wrote:—

Devil-houses everywhere.

The town is ragged, and dirty, and unkempt, and heathenish, and devilish, one may well say, from the number of devil-houses about everywhere. One gets so dirty out of doors, and I have nearly worn a pair of boots through in a week. You walk in gutters and over dunghills, and when it is a little better you grind your boots on a small flint beach. But oh! the rocks are splendid. Miss Palmer and I climbed up to one high one on Tuesday evening, and had such a nice time of fellowship with the Lord and each other in the Word and prayer; it was like going up into a high mountain apart.

Women's Work.

The Work of the Ladies among the women and children was partly pastoral and partly evangelistic. Five weekly classes were taken by Mrs. Harding and Miss Tynan, assisted by Miss P. Leach and Miss J. Palmer, besides a fortnightly class of agents' wives for Bible-reading. One of these classes was for young married women, the nucleus of a Y.W.C.A., Miss Tynan calls it. The members of this and of another class formed a Bible Union to read daily the portion of Scripture of the Children's Special Service Mission. At the instance of the ladies, the wives of the native agents have begun work among the women of their husbands' districts, with only one exception and she was prevented by sickness. The Dispensary was under Mr. E. Fry; 3,700 cases were treated, the number of attendances being 13,000. In last year's Report the 9,000 "patients" should have been written "attendances." The Lepers' Camp outside the walls is visited fortnightly. Bishop Tugwell went to it in May, and wrote:— Lepers' camp.

A more distressing picture it is impossible to imagine. At first I felt sick and ill, and fit for nothing, but this passed away before we left them. The camp lies outside the town walls. How little the world realizes what is being quietly done for suffering humanity for Christ's sake!

Evangelistic Work is done in the townships and beyond the walls. Mr. Fry, with the members of the training class, conducted open-air preaching at the chief centres of Ake township, and subsequently at Ikija, with an average attendance of 150. The Rev. D. O. Williams baptized ten persons at Ishan in September, and the number of baptized Christians there is now 23, under the pastoral care of Jacob Fadipe, who is now a paid agent (see last year's Report, page 63). Regarding the blind slave referred to last year Mr. Williams says:—

Among the converts is a blind slave boy, Adanri by name, baptized with the Christian name of Stephen. He is living in Aberu-agba, a small village about eight miles from Ishan. The loss of his sight is made up by a very powerful memory, and his efforts to teach the little he knew would put many of our Christian people to shame. He showed me eleven children, boys and girls, whom he had taught the Church Catechism, and I examined them, and their knowledge of Christianity surprised me. I have baptized two of them, and the rest are not yet allowed to come to church. The blind boy has prayers with them regularly every morning and evening. His method of work has been peculiarly his own: he used to go with them two or three at a time to their farm, sitting under a tree repeating the Catechism, whilst they followed him till they knew the portion for that day. A blind slave evangelist

Miss H. J. Duncum arrived at Abeokuta in August to engage there in language study.

IBADAN, OYO, AND OGBOMOSO.

The three lady missionaries, Miss J. J. Thomas, Miss S. C. Grover, and Miss A. J. Hudson, were at IBADAN until the end of 1895, when the two last left to come home, and all enjoyed excellent health, which is a great mercy, inasmuch as no medical aid was procurable within a five days' journey. They resided at Kudeti, where the native pastor, the Rev. David Olubi, is stationed. They were much helped by the presence of one of the girls who had just completed her education at the Lagos Girls' Seminary, and who wished to engage with them in missionary work. The first aim of the ladies has been to set before their African Christian sisters their privileges and responsibilities. Ibadan.

Miss Thomas had an inquirers' class, with an average attendance of nineteen. Nine of these were baptized in November. One was a man who first heard the Gospel at the little Dispensary which the ladies opened twice a week. On one day as many as 128 patients were treated, and, besides the man just Dispensary.

mentioned, another patient was baptized during the year, of whom the ladies heard that after returning home to a distant part of the country he became an attendant (once a month) at church and class, walking a distance of over fifteen miles to do so. The ladies were allowed to visit the wives of the new Bale of Ibadan, and the wives of the Balogun several times visited the Mission-house. A memorial church in memory of the late Rev. David Hinderer is in course of erection at Kudeti. The Rev. J. Okuseinde, of Aremo, and the Rev. R. S. Oyebode, of Ilesha, who were together admitted to deacon's orders in January, 1895, were the first Natives of Ibadan to enter the sacred ministry. The Aremo congregation has 99 communicants. The Rev. and Mrs. T. Harding returned to Ibadan in December.

Oyo.

The town of Oyo was bombarded in November by the Queen's troops. A British officer is now stationed at Oyo with a small force of Hausa soldiers. The Mission premises were uninjured by the bombardment. Mr. J. McKay states that the ground of the attack was that the king had allowed certain abominable practices to be carried on in defiance of warnings. After the bombardment a large number of slaves had their shackles removed. The Rev. and Mrs. F. Melville Jones arrived at Oyo in December, 1895, and a beginning was at once made in erecting buildings for a Training Institution, it having been decided to transfer that institution from Lagos to this place.

Mr. McKay's own station was (he came home in January) Ogbomoso, where he had no European companion. He was fully occupied with services, school, dispensary, and open-air preaching. He had as in-patients in the dispensary a son of the Bale (or king) of the town, and a son also of the head chief. Mr. T. Jays returned to Ogbomoso in the spring of 1896.

ODE ONDO AND ILESA.

Bishop Phillips reports that influenza in the summer of 1895, and small-pox in the autumn, caused a serious mortality in the district under his charge. The almost entire immunity of the Christians was very remarkable. The Bishop writes:—

Immunity of Christians in an epidemic.

> You know that small-pox is worshipped as a god all over the Yoruba country. We did our best to show them the folly of appealing to the rod rather than to the holder. We have to acknowledge God's miraculous preservation over His people with many thanks. Though some of the Christian adherents caught the contagion, yet until this day only one infant and one candidate for baptism have died of it. God's care over the Mission-houses has been still more singular. Except at Itebu, where our catechist and his household were infected, there has been no small-pox patient in any of the Mission-houses, though the surrounding houses and compounds are full of it, and though our agents still go in and out among the people. God's promises in the ninety-first Psalm have been fully verified by us.

Tranquillity of the country.

The Bishop expresses thankfulness for the perfect tranquillity of the country, and for the facility for travelling without danger, the effects of the increasingly effective influence of the British authorities at Lagos. Naturally, however, the old order of things has its apologists, and some of the ODE ONDO chiefs show a disposition to resist the abolition of human sacrifices and the slave trade. In January, 1895, a number of the inferior chiefs broke out into rebellion, but accepted the king's bribe after a few days, and disarmed their followers. The Rev. E. M. Lijadu, who was alone for several months at Ondo after his admission to deacon's orders in the summer of 1894, compares his position, in the face of great responsibilities, and with little experience, to "one carrying a ton of marble on a bald head, and without a pillow between." He explains:— Ode Ondo.

> It was not how to keep myself afloat on the surface of the work, but how to touch its depths and reach its height that so much perplexed me. The difficulties of a young successor to an aged missionary do not appear so much in dealing with the good and well-disposed, as in grappling with the wicked and treacherous, many of whom are ready at hand to spoil every good work. A native pastor's sense of responsibility.

Mr. Lijadu makes a request for prayer:—

> I hope that when you pray for this portion of the Lord's Vineyard, you will tell the Master of the tares that are growing here in the shape of worldliness, love of money, immorality, and want of Christian sympathy. You will please tell Him also that wild boars from the forest, in the shape of petty annoyances and persecutions, are constantly breaking through the hedge upon His tender vine, and blighting His choicest grapes. Request for prayer.

Five adults and three school-children were baptized by the Bishop at Ode Ondo in April. In July the congregation chose one of the church elders to occupy as their "own missionary" an out-station at Oke Igbo, where the chiefs had built a Mission-house. Eighteen inquirers are reported, including an Ifa priest of some renown, whose bag of ifa (fetiches) has been surrendered to the Bishop as a Gospel trophy. Seven candidates were confirmed, and four adults baptized in March, 1895, at Itebu, which is four days' journey south-west of Ode Ondo. Nine were confirmed at Aiyesan in the following month.

At ILESA the Rev. R. S. Oyebode was placed in April, 1895, in succession to the Rev. M. J. Luke, transferred to Lagos. Mr. Oyebode is a Native of Ibadan, with which place the Ijesas and Ekitis were formerly at war, and the Bishop was somewhat uncertain as to the wisdom of placing him there; he was the more thankful, after six months' trial, to find how he had succeeded in gaining the confidence of the Ijesan authorities. A new church which the latter had built at a cost of £150 was opened by Bishop Phillips in May; a debt of £30 remained on the outlay. At the opening service 320 were present, the majority of them Heathen; a number of chiefs with their attendants represented the new king. The collection amounted to £3 18*s.* 1¾*d.* On the following Sunday 66 received the Holy Communion. Ilesa.

Ekiti Country.

Bishop Phillips' tours in the Ekiti Country, to the east of Ode Ondo and Ilesa, were mentioned last year. The prevailing tranquillity now experienced in the country encourages the Natives of the several Ekiti States who had in the years of disquiet taken refuge at Lagos, Abeokuta, Ibadan, &c., or had been held there as slaves, to return to their own towns. Many of them are Mohammedans, and are likely to prove influential factors in determining the future religious history of the country. A few of these returning immigrants are professing Christians, but of these, alas! many are only nominal Christians and are addicted to polygamy. The Bishop is anxious without loss of time to place Christian teachers in these populous towns, and he succeeded in doing so in two of them during 1895. He regards their occupation as a step towards the junction with the Niger Mission at Lokoja and Asaba. The two new Ekiti out-stations are Ijero, to the east of Ilesa, and Ado to the north-east of Ondo. Both were occupied in May. At Ijero Bishop Phillips' former relations with the chiefs, when in 1886-7 he acted as mediator, at the request of the Governor of Lagos, between them and the Ibadans, were recalled, and had much to do with their readiness to welcome an agent, though the Bishop was careful to explain that he was in no sense now acting as an agent of the Government, but as a messenger of God. The "Ajero," or King, sent at once one of his own daughters to be taught at the school, and subsequently sent a son to reside with the catechist, and when the Bishop was about to leave on Monday morning, the King sent him on the previous Saturday a parting present of 20,000 cowries, explaining apologetically, "I do not want to violate the Lord's Day by sending the cowries to-morrow." At Ado, which is one of the largest towns of the Ekiti Country, the Bishop had a very different welcome. Prejudice had been excited against him by some Ado people lately returned from Lagos, and the chiefs showed no disposition to receive a teacher. The Bishop thereupon announced his intention to leave, and begged the king's and chiefs' acceptance of a small present (an English chair and four pieces of cloth) as a token of his friendly feelings towards them. The sight of the presents immediately changed their sentiments, and they begged that the teacher might be left, but the Bishop declined to comply, lest it should be represented by any that he had bribed them to accept a teacher. Their importunity, however, increased, and eventually after a night's deliberation the Bishop consented to leave the teacher, and he was formally presented to the king and chiefs. On his next visit in October he found nine adherents, three of whom were baptized Christians from Lagos, and a fourth was the son of the king, whose earnestness impressed the Bishop.

NIGER MISSION.

In 1841 a Government naval expedition, accompanied by a C.M.S. Missionary, the Rev. J. F. Schön, and by Samuel Crowther, a liberated negro slave (who in 1864 was consecrated Bishop of the Niger), explored this great African river. In 1854 a second expedition penetrated up the stream 500 miles, and found the Natives everywhere ready to receive Christian teachers; and in 1857 Mr. Crowther, accompanied a third expedition undertaken for commercial purposes, and laid the foundation of the Niger Mission by establishing three stations. One of these was Onitsha. Other stations were subsequently occupied by African teachers, under the direction of the Bishop—viz., Lokoja, 1865; Bonny, 1866; Brass, 1868; Asaba, 1875; Gbebe, reoccupied, 1879; Okrika, 1884; Ido, reoccupied, 1887; Ogbonoma, 1888; and Obotshi, 1890. Bishop Crowther continued to labour zealously in the Mission till the end of 1891, when he died at Lagos. (For account of Bishop Crowther's successors see notes at head of "Yoruba Mission.")

The superstitions of the people, and demoralization caused by the increasing European liquor traffic and by the general low tone of Christianity on the West African Coast, have proved formidable obstacles to the spread of the Gospel; but more than 4,000 persons have been baptized, including several influential chiefs, and some of the converts have exhibited Christian fortitude in enduring persecution, and liberality in contributing to the building of Mission churches, &c. At Bonny the once famous idol temple, decorated with human skulls, has been destroyed. Nevertheless, a higher standard of Christian life is much needed.

In 1890 a party of Missionaries went out under the leadership of the Rev. J. A. Robinson and Mr. G. Wilmot Brooke, with the idea of residing at Lokoja, on the Upper Niger, and thence making an effort to reach the Mohammedans of the Soudan. The climate, however, shortly proved fatal to both the leaders, and drove the rest home.

Death of the Rev. C. E. Watney.

THE Rev. Charles Ernest Watney died at Lokoja from fever on June 9th. Mr. Watney was a graduate of Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, and had been for two years a curate at West Ham when he offered as a missionary of the Society in 1893. His friend Dr. C. F. Harford-Battersby states that the decision so to offer was made at the time of the February Simultaneous Meetings of 1891. He sailed in November, 1893, one of a party of seven for the Mission, and he alone of all the party was permitted at that time to reach the river, the Bishop and Mrs. Hill and Miss Mansbridge having died at Lagos, and the Revs. E. W. Mathias and A. E. Sealey in the creeks between Lagos and the Niger, while Miss L. M. Maxwell had been obliged after a serious illness to return home. In allusion to this fact the Natives gave him the name "Ogboputalunaozo," viz., "the slave that was left when his master sold all the rest," counting it in their ignorance a mark of special favour that he was left to labour when the others were all removed. Miss Maxwell, who returned to the Mission at the close of 1894, is now the only survivor of the party.

Mr. Watney's companion at Lokoja, Mr. L. H. W. Nott, related the circumstances of his death. On June 1st, after being out under a very hot sun, he was seized with ague during evening prayers, his temperature rose to 106°, and remained abnormally high until his death. While he was suffering, the Rev. Charles H. Robinson, whose party included a medical man, arrived at Lokoja en route from Kano to the coast, and the doctor attended Mr.

Watney during the three days of their stay at Lokoja. Bishop Tugwell wrote :—

Dear Watney! we shall miss him very much, so gentle and true, and loving and pure-hearted. He was one upon whom lay very heavily the burden of the sins of Heathendom, and of those of some professed members of Christendom, and for a time he lost in great measure that spirit of joy which, at the outset, was so eminent a feature in his gentle, Christ-like character; but latterly there were evidences of its return, but running in a deeper channel. At first there was much that was almost boyish in his character: that passed away in the face of the stern realities of the conflict "against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places." And there were many evidences of a greater depth of character. I thought God was preparing him for a great work at Lokoja, but it has been a preparation for a higher and more perfect and blessed service. And now it behoves us once more to close our ranks and march on. He would not have us look back, or sorrow as those that have no hope; rather, he would say, "Let no man's heart fail because of these things."

"Close our ranks and march on."

Bishop Tugwell spent a short time in the Delta in the spring and again in the summer, and in the autumn he visited Bonny and Brass and proceeded up the river past Lokoja to Egga and to Bida, the capital of the Nupé States.

Reinforcement.

The Rev. Nathaniel Hamlyn, L.Th., Durham, Curate of Kelloe, Durham, was the only reinforcement sent out during the year. He sailed in January, 1896.

The Rev. H. H. Dobinson came home on furlough in June, 1895, and Mr. L. H. W. Nott in August, on sick leave; both returned in February, 1896. Mr. P. A. Bennett, who was married to Miss G. R. Hill, of the Japan Mission, in July, 1895, returned to the Niger, accompanied by Mrs. Bennett, in October.

Translations.

The Committee have requested the British and Foreign Bible Society to print a tentative edition of the four Gospels in Idzo, which were prepared by the Rev. P. J. Williams, a native pastor in this Mission since 1885, but who has been obliged to retire from the work in consequence of his wife's state of health, and has been appointed to a pastorate in Sierra Leone. The B. & F.B.S. has also been requested to print an Ibo version of the Psalms and several of the Pauline Epistles, translated by a Native, Mr. Anyaegbunam, and revised by Mr. Dobinson.

DELTA AND LOWER NIGER.

Bonny Pastorate.

A DRAFT Constitution for the BONNY PASTORATE, drawn up by the leaders of the Pastorate in conference with Bishop Tugwell, mainly on lines originally suggested by the late Bishop Hill during his visit to the coast before his consecration, was submitted by Bishop Tugwell during the year to the Committee for their consideration and advice, and an intimation was returned that, with certain suggested amendments, the Committee would gladly approve it, and would recommend it to the Archbishop of Canterbury for his approval. On the last Sunday in June, 1895, Bishop Tugwell preached in St. Stephen's Cathedral, Bonny, to a congregation of over 800 persons, and in the evening exhibited lantern slides of Old and New Testament scenes. Again, in September, assisted by the Rev. James Johnson, of Lagos, he held devotional meetings for the agents and their wives; and the Bishop admitted the Rev. J. A. Pratt to priest's orders on the 22nd of that month. Not less than 1,200 were present at the ordination service, including the Vice-Consul, and several naval officers and European traders. Mr. Johnson preached the sermon.

Brass.

Attack on Royal Niger Co.'s Depôt.

The attack of the Natives of BRASS upon the Royal Niger Company's depôt at Akassa was referred to in the last Annual Report. The attack occurred on January 28th, 1895, and some 3,000 people took part in it. The appearance of a large steamer scared the assailants for a time, and afforded a providential opportunity for the six European officers of the Company to escape. A large number of Kroo boys and Sierra Leone and coast employés were, however, killed; and a horrible outbreak of cannibalism was then perpetrated on Sacrifice Island, half-way between Brass and Nembe, a number of the prisoners being made the victims, and that without secrecy or shame, but with public rejoicing and disgusting merriment. These terrible events produced a feeling of unrest far up the river. On February 17th a man-of-war, the Thrush, shelled and burnt several villages whose people had joined in the attack. On the 20th, two gunboats and other vessels went up the creeks to Nembe, a distance of twenty-five miles, where the Brass chiefs reside, and burnt the town. Happily Mr. Allen, the native catechist, had left Nembe several days before in order to go to Sierra Leone on furlough. Tuwon was burnt on the 25th, and the little congregation were thus scattered into the bush.

Destruction of Nembe.

It was at such a time (on February 17th) that Mr. H. Proctor arrived at Brass-Tuwon from Onitsha, when the people were feeling embittered against the white men, and after they had committed deeds which probably exceeded in wickedness any known on that coast, where deeds of darkness are so sadly prevalent. The people of Tuwon, with the exception of a few chiefs, are household slaves, whose employment is to carry trade goods—gin (alas!), cloth, salt, &c., to the markets, and bring back palm oil, &c., for shipment to England and Hamburg. Those who had fled into the bush gradually returned, and by the autumn a congregation of about 200 gathered in the neat little iron church built some ten years ago. At Nembe the king, who at one time was a professing Christian, is a pronounced ju-ju worshipper. There is a congregation of about fifty, but they are openly polygamists. There is no resident catechist, only a young untrained schoolmaster, a Native of Brass, who holds services on Sundays when Mr.

Proctor is not at the place. A small school with some dozen boys is held; the hindrance, Mr. Proctor says, is that "the power of thinking and reasoning is choked by the overgrowth of the memory, everything being learned by rote"—a common evil in West African schools. The Committee sent out in May a small oil-motor launch for use in the Delta in traversing the creeks on which Nembe is situated, as also is Ogbonoma, which was without an agent throughout the year.

The Rev. T. J. Dennis, at ONITSHA, discharged the duties of the Secretaryship during Mr. Dobinson's absence on furlough. He sends a full and interesting report of the work. The town of Onitsha contains a number of villages, nine of them being larger than the rest. At one of these, Iyawu, but convenient also for four others, a church capable of holding 800 was built at a cost of £115. The walls, floor, and seats are of mud, and the roof is of palm-leaf thatch. The Natives, Heathen as well as Christians, contributed £50 in cloth, cowries, and other goods. Many contributed besides their labour voluntarily, and the work was "a labour of love throughout," Mr. Dennis writes. The Bishop opened the church on November 23rd, and named it "Immanuel." The congregation numbered 850, and included many chiefs. New schools were opened at two of the other villages, Umuarola and Umuasele, and there are now over 250 children under instruction. The Ibo week contains four days, and the first day, called Eke, is a day of rest; about once a month this day falls on a Sunday, and then, instead of a Sunday-school, a large children's service, with sometimes 500 present, is held. Valued help was rendered in the Sunday-school by the ladies, Misses Maxwell, Warner, Frisby, and Wilson. These enjoyed excellent health throughout the year; one of them writes:—

New church at Onitsha.

> Ladies are much needed, and the Natives are so glad to have us. We have proved, too, that they can live on the Niger, keeping well and happy. We think sometimes if only our friends who pity us, and think we just try to make the best of things, could see us in our beautiful airy home, they would really believe what we tell them about our life at Onitsha.

Ladies "can live on the Niger."

Miss Maxwell, assisted by Miss Frisby, conducted the dispensary, attended daily by some fifty patients; and the other ladies, so far as language study permitted, took classes of women and children, teaching to read and sew and always giving Scripture lessons, visited from house to house in the town, and took part in the open-air services—Miss Warner's violin serving to attract audiences to the preaching. They also visited the houses of the people. "The hardest thing," Miss Frisby says, "is to make the people understand what sin really is. They will confess that all men are sinners, but if spoken to individually as sinners they scorn the idea." A girls' training class—i.e., for training them in laundry work, cooking, needlework, &c.—was opened in November, with nine pupils, of ages between eight and eighteen. Mr. E. A. J. Thomas resides at Obotshi, where there are some 50 Christians who have suffered much persecution for Christ's sake. At no station in the Ibo country, Mr. Dennis says, have the Heathen shown such determined hostility as at this place. Three adults were baptized at Oba, and nine at Ogidi. At the latter place a mud-built church, holding 200, was opened in April, 1895.

Asaba.

ASABA, on the right bank of the river, opposite Onitsha, has a population of over 6,000. The Rev. J. Spencer, an African deacon, ministers to a congregation of about 230, including children, and preaches to the Heathen. A new school-house, built wholly by the Christian Natives, was opened in December, 1894; and the church was reopened after repairs in April, 1895, forms made of wood having replaced the old mud seats. A small building has been erected to accommodate a training class, of which Mr. Merriman, a Sierra Leone agent, whose wife before her marriage was trained as a nurse at the Princess Christian Cottage Hospital at Freetown, is tutor. The station, and indeed the whole Ibo Mission, suffered a serious loss through the death of Mr. F. Akpom, who had charge of the school. "He was a singularly humble-minded man, and full of love to Christ," is Mr. Dennis' testimony regarding his character. One of the voluntary helpers of the congregation, who is also prominent in every good work, is a king named Enoch Obiecie. Eighteen adults were baptized. Two out-stations were opened during the year, being occupied by Natives of Asaba, for whom a valedictory dismissal was held on January 7th, 1895. The places are Akwukwa and Onitsha Olona. At the former a church was built by the united efforts of the Natives of the place and of the Asaba Christians.

"Humble-minded and full of love to Christ."

UPPER NIGER AND SOUDAN.

Lokoja.

FROM July, 1895, LOKOJA has been without the presence of a European resident missionary, the Rev. C. E. Watney having died, as already stated, in June, 1895, and Mr. L. H. W. Nott having left for home on account of sickness in July. It was, however, visited in October by Bishop Tugwell and the Rev. T. J. Dennis. The latter baptized a man whom Mr. Watney had instructed, and two other adults. Mr. J. J. Williams, the African catechist, visited the Native Governor of Lokoja on his dying bed in November. He had some thirty-two years before relapsed from Christianity to Mohammedanism.

Gbebe.

Mr. O. Thomas, the native catechist of Gbebe, returned to his station in November, 1894, after sixteen months' absence at Sierra Leone and at Ogbonoma, in the Niger Delta. During his absence Abraham Aikuta, one of the converts, maintained the services. The average attendance at the Sunday morning services is 60; the leading women of the town attend regularly, and the head chief, who is heir-apparent to the throne, occasionally. Mr. Thomas preaches in Igbira and Nupé. Mr. Dennis baptized two men and one boy in October, 1895. The Committee have sanctioned work being opened up in the Basa country, in the angle made by the junction of the Binué and the Niger.

Bishop Tugwell's visit to Bida.

At the end of October Bishop Tugwell, while at Lokoja, heard of the death of the Emir of Bida, and it was suggested to him that he should take the opportunity of visiting that city and presenting his salutations to the new Emir. He immediately decided to do so, and after four days' travelling he reached the place, accompanied by Mr. J. J. Williams, who had twice been there before. On October 30th he had interviews with the Prime Minister and the Emir, which he thus describes:—

The Prime Minister friendly.

The Prime Minister is an elderly man—possibly sixty-five years of age—but manifestly a shrewd and clever politician and man of business. Some ten or twelve well-fed horses stood champing at their bits or pawing the ground under the trees which shade the plot of ground outside of the minister's gateway. With the high-backed saddles and bright-coloured saddle-cloths and trappings, with the long robes worn by their owners, who sat chatting under the trees or moved to and fro, together with the circular buildings of red earth, the scene had an Eastern character, effective, and to some extent impressive.

There are three houses in the town which in turn serve as palaces, one belonging to the Massaba family, the second to the Othman family, and the third to the Imoro family. The late Emir, Malaki, was of the Othman family; the present Emir is of the Massaba family. From one or other of these families the king is chosen, and the house of the family becomes the palace for the time being. The palace of the late Emir is an iron-covered building; the palace of the new king is covered with the usual thatch. Outside of the palace is a large open space, a part of which is used as a market. In this space, as we approached, there were some hundreds of people assembled—many marketing, others, like ourselves, visitors come to salute the king. Horses were tethered or held by boys under every group of trees; drums were beaten, women were dancing and shouting, whilst musicians with curious instruments with great energy added to the Babel of confusion and noise. We passed from court to court and from house to house, all densely crowded, ere we were invited to sit down in a cool building, in two easy, comfortable chairs.

After some further delay, the Emir entered the building in which we were seated, accompanied by a Mallam only. He is a middle-aged man, slightly grey. There was nothing in his manner to indicate that he had so recently been elected to fill so important an office. An anxious, careworn expression settled upon his features when he was silent; when conversing, however, he brightened up and appeared to be interested in what was said. After the customary salutations, I quoted the words of Scripture, "Righteousness exalteth a nation," &c., giving expression to a hope that he would, in all his judgments, have respect unto the judgment of the King of all the earth. I spoke also re the gin traffic and the work of the C.M.S. He stated, in reply, he was glad to hear we proposed to reopen the station at Kipo Hill; he hoped I should come again, and make a longer visit; that, with regard to the gin traffic, he felt as strongly as his predecessor that it was an injurious traffic, and that he would do all that lay in his power to prevent its introduction into Nupé territories; that in this matter they had sought the aid of the Royal Niger Company. If at any time I desired further to confer with the Prime Minister upon the subject, I should find he would be prepared to act in conference with me regarding the adoption of any measures for the prohibition of the traffic. With the interchange of presents and renewed expressions of good-will the interview came to an end, and we were again hurried by the steward through the crowded buildings out into the open market or courtyard. On our way back we passed a number of young blind people led by children—a very pitiable sight.

Rev. C. H. Robinson's visit to Kano.

The Rev. C. H. Robinson, of the Hausa Association, whose visit to Kano was alluded to in last year's Report (page 70), left that city, after a three months' stay, at the beginning of April, 1895. The serious illness of his three companions obliged him to abandon the proposal he had entertained of returning to Europe viâ the Sahara Desert. Instead, however, of taking the route they had pursued in their up-country journey and striking the Binué at Loko, they travelled south-westward and reached the Quorra branch of the Niger at Bida, a distance of 375 miles, making 825 altogether to the coast. Between the kingdoms of Kano and of Nupé they passed through the territories of a prince who called himself the King of Soudan, which they found disgracefully misgoverned even for an African state. For sixty miles after leaving the camp of this potentate every village was found desolated by his recent raids for slaves. On entering Nupé the contrast in this respect was great; the inhabitants there evidently enjoyed a sense of security, seldom even troubling to erect a wall around their villages.

EASTERN EQUATORIAL AFRICA MISSION.

In 1844 Dr. Krapf, having lately been expelled from Abyssinia, established himself at Mombasa, and in the following year was joined by the Rev. John Rebmann, who opened the station at Kisulutini (Rabai) in 1846, and laboured on the coast twenty-nine years. Their remarkable journeys into the interior led to all the subsequent geographical and missionary enterprise in East Africa. It was chiefly through the Society's efforts that the Parliamentary Committee of 1871 was obtained, which led to Sir Bartle Frere's Mission to Zanzibar in the following year. In 1874 the Rev. W. S. Price, formerly in charge of the Asylum for rescued slaves at Nasik, Western India, was sent out; some 200 African Christians from the freed slaves entrusted to his care were collected as the nucleus of an industrial colony; land was purchased for a settlement, which was named Frere Town, in honour of Sir Bartle Frere; and some 500 rescued slaves were, in 1875, received from H.M. cruisers, and housed, fed, instructed, and led to work for their living. A Mission was started in the Taita country in 1883, and in 1885 a Mission was founded in the Chagga country, at the base of the snow-capped mountain Kilima-Njaro, but the latter Mission was removed in 1893 to Taveta, within the British sphere of influence as fixed by treaty with Germany in 1886.

The first impetus to the exploration of Africa from the East Coast was given by the Society's missionaries, Krapf and Rebmann. In November, 1875, in consequence of information sent home by the traveller Stanley of the readiness of Mtesa, King of Uganda, to receive Christian teachers, and of two anonymous donations of £5,000 each being offered to send a missionary expedition to his dominions, the Society resolved, in dependence upon God, to organize a Mission in Uganda, and a well-equipped party proceeded accordingly to East Africa in the spring of 1876. The first leader, Lieut. G. Shergold Smith, R.N., and Mr. T. O'Neill, were killed; others have died, or been invalided home; but the Mission, in the face of tremendous difficulties, maintained its position in Uganda from July, 1877. A French Roman Catholic Mission arrived in Uganda in 1879. King Mtesa died in 1884, and Mwanga succeeded to the throne. The new king, in 1885, was led to regard the missionaries with suspicion, and the Mission was in danger. The storm reached its climax in the arrest of many Native Christians, and several were tortured and burnt to death. In August, 1888, King Mwanga was driven from the throne. In October, through the hostility of the Mohammedan Arabs, the English and French missionaries were expelled from the country. A period of revolution and bloodshed ensued. In October, 1889, exactly a year from the missionaries' expulsion, Mwanga re-entered Uganda, regained his throne, and the missionaries returned with him. King Mwanga accepted a British flag from the representatives of the Imperial British East Africa Company in 1889. The late Sir Gerald Portal, as Queen's Commissioner, reached Uganda in March, 1893, instructed to report on the best means of dealing with the country, and in April, 1894, the British Government declared Uganda a British Protectorate.

Intermediate stations between the East Coast and the southern shore of the Lake have been established in the Usagara hills—at Mpwapwa in 1876, at Mamboia in 1879, and at Nassa, in Usukuma, the south end of the Lake, in 1888.

For these Missions a new bishopric was established in 1884, with the title "Eastern Equatorial Africa," and the Rev. J. Hannington was consecrated the first Bishop on June 24th, 1884. He was murdered on October 31st, 1885, in Busoga, by the orders of King Mwanga. His successor, Dr. H. P. Parker, previously a C.M.S. Missionary in North India, was consecrated on St. Luke's Day, October 18th, 1886, but his episcopal career was also of brief duration; he died from fever on March 26th, 1888. The present Bishop, the Right Rev. A. R. Tucker, was consecrated by the Archbishop of Canterbury on April 25th, 1890.

First party of ladies for Uganda.

To a large degree the interest in this Mission has been centred during much of the year on the party proceeding up country from the Coast to Uganda. Their names were given in the last Annual Report, and it was stated that they were commended to the Divine care and blessing by a large gathering of friends on May 16th, at Queen's Hall, Langham Place, and that they sailed on the 18th, travelling viâ the Cape. A most hearty and sympathetic greeting was accorded to them on their arrival there. During their few hours' stay four public meetings in different parishes were held. At Mowbray the Bishop of Cape-town, the Metropolitan, presided over a meeting in the Municipal Hall, and gave the missionaries a most touching welcome and a fatherly God-speed. It was an interesting coincidence that the Rev. G. Litchfield, who was one of the pioneer missionaries (though not of the first party sent up) to Uganda, was present on the platform at this meeting with the pioneer band of lady missionaries, his wife's health having necessitated a visit to South Africa from the North-West Provinces of India. The party reached Frere Town on July 9th, in perfect health, and after a few busy days spent in overhauling loads, packing stores of provisions, &c., &c., the journey of 800 miles was commenced on July 15th, the whole Mission party at the Coast having first joined with them in a solemn service of communion, the hymns "Peace, perfect peace," and "God be with you till we meet again," being sung. "I think we all realized," one of the Coast missionaries wrote, "that we should never, the whole number of us, meet on earth again, but we shall all meet at the marriage supper of the Lamb."

The caravan.

The caravan was a large one. The Europeans numbered fourteen, namely, Bishop Tucker, the ten missionary recruits from home, Dr. Baxter and Dr. Rattray (the latter having offered to accompany the party when it was uncertain whether Dr. Baxter could go), and Mr. Munro, the agent of Messrs. Boustead & Ridley, who had made the business arrangements for the caravan under the Bishop's directions—probably the largest party of Europeans that had gone up-country from Mombasa. The porters and other attendants were about 500. Then a small menagerie, as the Bishop remarked, was included in the caravan: four camels, three cows with their calves, two oxen for killing, twenty-three goats and sheep, and twenty-six donkeys. Chairs for carrying the ladies were contrived by Dr. Baxter, and consisted of light wicker-work arm-chairs, to each of which were fixed two long bamboos and an awning. The bamboos were held in the carriers' hands, thus relieving the pressure on the shoulders, which sustained the lion's share of the weight by means of shoulder-straps attached to the bamboos.

The route.

The route taken was the same which the Bishop took on his second journey to Uganda in 1893, and which is marked with tolerable accuracy on the map in this Report, viâ Rabai, Sagalla, Tsavo, Kibwezi, Machako's, Fort Smith, Lake Navaisha, Lake Elmeteita, and thence, bordering Nandi, to Mumia's in Kavirondo, and Luba's in Busoga, and through Kyagwe to Mengo. At Kibwezi the party were entertained with most ungrudging hospitality by Dr.

Wilson and Mr. Watson, of the Scotch Free Church Industrial Mission. "It was a day of luxuries," Miss Furley wrote, "tea, and biscuits, and black currant jelly, and we ladies had real sugar for the first time since leaving the coast." The Government officials also at Machako's and Fort Smith, Messrs. Ainsworth, Gilkison, and Russell, were equally kind and generous. When approaching Lake Navaisha the party met the Rev. G. K. Baskerville and Mr. G. L. Pilkington on their way from Uganda to the Coast—a meeting which gave great pleasure to both sides, and which forcibly recalled to the Bishop's memory his first journey to the Lake in 1890, leading a party of seven, four of whom had entered into their eternal rest, and these two brethren had continued in the country until now, doing "such yeomen's service."

Two marches beyond Lake Elmeteita the caravan which had carried up the Government steamer for the Lake, the William Mackinnon, was met on its return journey to the coast. Many loads had been lost, in the absence of which it seemed doubtful whether it would be possible to put the steamer together. Later, as the Bishop's party pursued its course on the route which this down-country caravan had just passed over, sad evidences of the waste of human life involved in the caravan traffic came to light. First a sick man in the care of two other men left to carry him forward, then a dead man, then three men entirely without food, which they had not seen for four days, waiting in an old encampment in the wilderness for death. Of course these cases received the care and relief which the party could afford. Drs. Baxter and Rattray were kept busy all through the journey in giving medical and surgical aid to the porters of their own caravan, Misses Pilgrim and Thomsett rendering their skilful assistance. This work was greatly appreciated, not only by the patients themselves, but also by their companions who watched the operations. "See how they love their porters," was a remark which was overheard, and the fact that very few deserted was probably mainly due to the kindness and consideration with which they were treated. "Surely no caravan of porters that ever went up-country was so well looked after as this," is the Bishop's comment.

Waste of human life.

"See how they love their porters."

But a little further on, at the Eldoma Ravine, traces of disasters of another kind to which caravans are exposed were met with. A wounded man was there who stated that he had belonged to a caravan carrying C.M.S. mails and loads of beads to buy food for the Bishop's caravan, which it had preceded by a week or two. He related how this caravan had been attacked in the night on the borders of Kavirondo by the Wanandi, and almost the whole party, consisting of thirty men, massacred. The Bishop describes the scene of this dark episode, which was reached a few days later :—

On arriving on the river bank (the Guaso Masa) I found books, letters, fragments of boxes, and (strangest of all) fragments of plaster images scattered about in all directions. The books lying about were mostly Luganda New Testaments. Here and there were tracts of various kinds (Protestant) and broken crucifixes. It was strange indeed to see a tract on "Christ our Righteousness" lying on the ground side by side with a broken plaster image. These crucifixes and images were evidently the property of the Roman Catholic Mission under Bishop Hanlon, which is some three or four weeks in front of us on the road. The Bishop was obliged to leave several men and loads behind him at the Eldoma Ravine. These came on with our advance caravan and shared its fate. Certainly the sight at the devastated encampment was a striking object-lesson as to the methods of the two Missions—the Church of England and the Church of Rome. Here, copies of God's Word, expositions of Christian teaching; there, plaster images and scraps of pictures of impossible saints.

Methods of the Church of England and Church of Rome respectively.

In the midst of these reflections, induced by the sight of the ruin around, one could not be forgetful of the cruel fate of the poor men who carried these loads. It was easy to see how they came by their death. In front of the encampment, and very close to it, was a swiftly flowing river—the Guaso Masa. To the rear the ground rose very abruptly and then sank into a gentle depression. On the right and left flanks was a more or less open bush. It was night. The men, wearied with heavy burdens and a long day's march, lay down to rest; no watch was kept, for all were equally tired. It was dark, for the moon would not rise until late. Gradually the enemy, who had watched the movements of their victims all day, crept nearer and nearer until they were gathered in the little depression above the encampment. At a given signal the rush was made, and the spear and simè did their fatal work. There was no doubt a scream here and there, a rush of a few to the river bank, a plunge, and the swiftly flowing current carried one and another with the torrent rushing down into the broad expanse of the Victoria Nyanza. Loads were quickly broken open; what was considered of value (beads, for instance) carried off, and the scene was left. The morning at length broke, and after a while one frightened face and then another showed itself at the edge of the bush. These were the sole survivors of the party of thirty-three who had lain down to rest the night before—six wretched human beings, some with spear wounds and some half dazed with club blows, all hungry and weary, and four or five days from any help.

Such is one of many similar scenes enacted from time to time in this dark land, and which nothing but the Gospel of Christ can really put an end to. It is said—though I cannot vouch for the truth of the story—that this act of hostility on the part of the Wanandi was due to the harsh and unjust treatment accorded to them by a trader. Whether this be so or no, the remedy is the same—the conversion to God of those who know Him not.

Greetings in Kavirondo.

In Kavirondo they had peculiarly grateful and scarcely expected indications that their long journey was nearly concluded. Letters and greetings were received from several Waganda chiefs, who were in that country on a Government expedition, expressing great joy at the prospect of seeing the party; and the same day about a thousand Waganda accorded them an unspeakably warm welcome. This was the beginning of scenes which even Bishop Tucker confesses himself utterly baffled to describe, the manifestations of enthusiasm and delight increasing day by day until Mengo was reached on Friday, October 4th. Three days before, at Ngogwe, in Kyagwe, the Bishop received a letter from King Mwanga, sent by the hand of Mika Sematimba; and a little later the ladies received communications from several of the Christians. A letter from Zakaria and his wife Elizabeth was written in Swahili and addressed to "the five mamas who came with the Bishop," and told how the writers had prayed God to keep them in the road, and how they were rejoicing at the thought of seeing them. Another was from Samwili Mukasa, and was in Luganda, but a translation accompanied it, and ran as follows:—

A Native Christian's letter to the "stewardesses of Jehovah."

MULAGO: Oct. 2, 1895.

TO MY DEAR FRIENDS, all the ladies, the faithful stewardesses of Jehovah, who have unspeakable love, who love us with all love, which comes from the love of God our Father. In Christ Jesus our Saviour here now I write my greetings, with which I greet you very heartily, and I tell you that I and my wife Rebeka greet you very much with the joy of the love which we have, and we see that our Lord is pleased that you should work for Him in this country of Buganda, because He thus preserved you from all fever on the roads, and He will not fail to keep you all the days of your service in Buganda. And we beg of you very much to consent to come in here to the house, on Mulago, of your brother, of your kinsman, for there is no difference, because Christ has made us all kinsmen in His blood, which thus joins us. Though we have nothing to give you which will please you, come into the house of your slave and drink tea, because my house is near the road. Consent with joy, not with reluctance. Rebeka and Sara sent you many greetings, all of you. I am your friend that loves you without ceasing, SAMWILI MUKASA.

Entrance into Mengo.

The entrance into Mengo is thus described by the Bishop:—

On the following morning, October 4th, we commenced our last march at 6.30. Detachments of people continually met us on the road, until the procession assumed very large proportions. At the house of our friend Samwili we halted for the refreshment to which he had so kindly invited us. Here we were met by Archdeacon Walker, Mr. Pike, and Mr. Sugden. A great many of our native brethren from Mengo also met us here—Henry W. Duta, Andrea, Henry Mukasa, and a host of others. The delight of the people was extraordinary. The ladies were embraced and hugged by Samwili's wife and sister, and also by many other Waganda women who had assembled at Samwili's house to welcome them. After resting for about an hour the journey was resumed. Large numbers of people met us continually, and as we drew near to the Chagwe market we found every place of vantage from which a good view of us could be got occupied by interested spectators—Mohammedan and Heathen, as well as Christians, both Protestant and Roman Catholic. The mass of people was now so great that it was difficult to get along. The Katikiro, who had just met us on his white horse, dismounted, and, fearing lest I should be trampled under foot by the thronging crowd, led me by the hand. As we passed along under the hill of Namirembe, in full view of Kampala—the Government fort—the officer in charge, Mr. G. Wilson, most courteously dipped the flag as a salutation. Still the crowd increased, until the atmosphere about me was almost suffocating and the perspiration most profuse. It was a wonderful sight, never to be forgotten, as we reached the Mission compound. Its picturesqueness goes withou saying. When Waganda, in white dresses and red bark-cloth, were mingled with Wasoga in their more sombre garments, and Nubians in their varied costumes, under a tropical sun undimmed by a cloud, the result must be a sight striking in the extreme. I saw great crowds come together when Sir Gerald Portal entered Mengo, but they were nothing to the crowds which welcomed the first English ladies to set foot in the capital of Uganda.

And by Miss Furley:—

Oh, the rejoicing! They fly to greet us, and we are embraced, and laughed over, and shouted over, and joyed over, from simple, loving hearts just over-full with the joy of welcoming us. Here are nearly all the Christian deacons and elders, and numbers of women, their wives, and friends—and our friends, too, in a very few minutes. We cannot talk beyond the greeting, but we hold one another's hands, and laugh together from sheer joy. What bright, happy faces they have, and how simple and modest they look in their bark-cloth clothing. . . . The crowd follows us all the way, and seems to get thicker and thicker: there are men, women, and children. The universal joy is most touching. We have to be smuggled into Mr. Roscoe's house, where more tea is ready for us. . . . Mr. Millar has kindly arranged (to keep our house from being crowded) that the women should meet us in one of the schoolrooms at 2 P.M., so at that hour we go up to be looked at! It is a large schoolroom, crowded with women sitting in order on the floor. What a shout there is when we appear! The king's chief wife is here. She is a baptized Christian. This is she sitting in the front to the left. What a sweet face she has! All want to shake hands and embrace us, so a way is cleared, and we pass down the room, and both hands are seized at once by the dozens held out to us. It is some minutes before this greeting is over, and then they want to begin all over again! They sing to us, and then we sing the same hymns to them in English, and they are delighted. We tell them, through one of the gentlemen, how glad we are to come among them, and how thankful we are that God has brought us, and thank them for their loving reception—and then the embracing begins all over again. It is most difficult to get away, but we tell them we have not come just to look at, but to live among them. . . . It has been a day—a siku kun (i.e., great day), to us and to them. Thank God for all His loving goodness!

Universal joy.

Special providences.

Thus was crowned with the Lord's wonderful goodness this memorable journey, which day by day had been attended with loving marks of His presence and care. The Bishop in reviewing it wrote:—

One is most struck with the wonderful way in which God's care and guidance have been manifested. When, in the Coast districts, we might have expected close heat and hot sunshine, it was delightfully cool and pleasant. When in the higher regions, and cold and possibly wet weather might have been looked for, we had bright sunshine. When other travellers before us on the road had rivers almost impassable, and mud deep and sticky, we found the path comparatively dry and easy. Special providences seem to have marked our path.

When extracts from the letters on the day when they were delivered at the Church Missionary House were read to the Committee, all were moved by one desire to render thanks to Almighty God for all His goodness, and to commend the brethren and sisters and their work to Him.

Proposed division of Diocese.

It has long been felt that the long distance separating the Missions in Uganda, Usagara, and on the Coast from each other would speedily render it necessary to subdivide the quasi-Diocese over which Bishop Tucker presides, and on hearing from him the Committee gave instructions to the Secretaries to approach the Archbishop of Canterbury with a view to such division.

Ordinations.

Bishop Tucker admitted the Rev. Ishmael Semler to priest's orders on June 30th at Frere Town. On November 3rd he admitted Mr. F. H. Wright, one of the party whose up-country journey has just been traced, to deacon's orders, at Mengo in Uganda, and on December 21st, at Ngogwe, in Kyagwe, the Revs. F. Rowling and G. R. Blackledge were admitted to priest's orders.

Death of Rev. N. Sebuwato.

One of the Waganda Deacons whom the Bishop ordained in 1893, the Rev. Nikodemo Sebuwato, died on March 27th, 1895. Being one of the leading chiefs of Uganda he was advised to retain his chieftainship, but his own wish was to resign it and to prepare for priest's orders, in order that he might devote his whole time and strength to the work of the ministry.

Execution of Mr. C. Stokes.

Mr. Charles Stokes, the English trader who was executed in the summer of 1895 by a Belgian officer in the Congo Free State, was a lay missionary of the Society from 1878 to 1886. He was one of the second party sent to Uganda after the news had been received of the death of Lieut. Shergold Smith and Mr. O'Neill. For a time he was virtually the Society's caravan leader and general agent, and he conducted Mtesa's envoys back to Uganda in 1880. While at Zanzibar in 1882 he stood sponsor to Henry Wright Duta, who had been brought from Uganda by the Rev. C. W. Pearson, and was baptized at the Universities' Mission. In 1886 Mr. Stokes retired from the Society's service, and engaged from that time until his death as a trader between the Victoria Nyanza and the Coast. He retained the affection of the missionaries to the last.

Reinforcements.

The following recruits sailed for the Eastern Equatorial Africa Mission during the year: the Rev. E. H. Fincher, of St. John's College, Highbury, Curate of St. Matthew's, Islington; Mr. John Heselwood, of Islington College; Miss Gertrude Elizabeth Bird, Miss E. Lockett, Miss Emily Frances Goyen, and Miss Dinah Mayor. These all sailed in October, 1895, except the two last, who sailed in February, 1896. Mr. V. V. Verbi, a Hungarian, who accompanied the Rev. A. R. Steggall from the Coast to Taveta on the former's return thither after furlough in the spring of 1894, has, with the sanction of the Committee, been accepted by the Frere Town Finance Committee as a lay agent in local connexion. Independently of the Society, but with the sanction of the Committee, two lay evangelists, Messrs. Barham and Roberts, accompanied Mr. Hooper out in February to labour (D.V.) under his supervision at Jilore. Mr. E. Luckock has been transferred to this Mission from the Mauritius Mission after furlough at home. He, with Mrs. Luckock, sailed to join the Mission in October. On the other hand, the Rev. W. Morris has been transferred on grounds of health from this Mission to the Egypt Mission.

Locusts and famine and war.

The year was one of trial throughout a very extensive area of East Africa. The ravages of locusts affected the greater part of German East Africa, and that so seriously as to cause a very perceptible diminution of revenue. They reached also the Coast stations of the Society, and those in Teita and Taveta, and are referred to in the Annual Letters of nearly all the missionaries at those stations. The revolt of several Arab chiefs near the coast between Mombasa and Melinde was a cause of disquiet and of occasional alarms in the Coast Missions, but more particularly Jilore suffered from this cause. The letters of the missionaries notwithstanding breathe a spirit of peaceful confidence and of praise.

I. COAST DISTRICT.

The Rev. D. A. L. Hooper, who came home on furlough in June, 1895, was married in August, at St. Mary's, Kilburn, to Miss Elizabeth Mary Wells. He returned to the Mission with Mrs. Hooper in February, 1896. Miss M. C. Brewer returned after furlough in October, 1895. The Rev. T. S. England and Miss M. Bazett came home, the former on furlough, the latter on sick leave, in July; Mrs. W. E. Taylor and Mrs. Gardener in December, 1895; and Mrs. J. A. Wray in April, 1896.

FRERE TOWN.

Frere Town.

The Rev. H. K. Binns, the Secretary of the Finance Committee, and the superintendent of Frere Town, had the privilege of baptizing thirty-two adults. Several of these could scarcely speak a word of Swahili; their consistent walk, together with a simple expression "of their faith in Christ, in His dying love for them upon the Cross, and in His power to save and keep, and of their desire to love and serve Him," was all that could be required, and enough if this was all correctly understood and sincerely believed, as doubtless was hoped. On Whit-Sunday, 1895, the Bishop confirmed 38 candidates. The Divinity Class.

Divinity Class, under the Rev. J. E. Hamshere, had six students, one from Mamboia, one from Taveta, and the rest from Frere Town. A seventh student completed his course—a very elementary course of necessity—and returned to Mamboia. In addition to the above, three Uganda Christian men were left under Mr. Hamshere's care for reading by the Rev. G. K. Baskerville when he passed through Frere Town on his homeward journey. The Boys' School, after the Rev. T. S. England left in June, 1895, also devolved upon Mr. Hamshere, assisted by Mr. R. A. Maynard, until the arrival of Mr. E. Luckock in November brought relief. The native staff also was much below its normal strength, so that the divinity students had to be requisitioned for some of the classes.

Miss S. Bazett succeeded Miss Hill in the charge of the Girls' and Infants' School, removing from Mombasa in order to do so in March, 1895. She also had to labour under the disadvantage of an inadequate supply of native assistants, having spared three of the most experienced teachers to go to Taveta. Of these three she says: "They were thoroughly competent to give a thoughtfully worked out Scripture lesson to their children, and I have often enjoyed listening to them myself." Mrs. E. Gardener continues to have the responsible charge of the somewhat older girls. She has a Y.W.C.A. branch with 66 members. She mentions the death of one of the girls who were sent back to Africa from Bombay in 1893, after a period of instruction in the Nasik Orphanage. She says of her:—

Native teachers sent up-country.

Death of a "Nasik girl."

> She was a beautiful girl, and so ready to go. I always visited her morning and evening, to read and pray and sing to her, and often went in once or twice during the day; it soothed her, and many times she would say, "Bibi, ask Jesus to call me to-day." At last the call came, and the poor tired child fell asleep, "safe in the Arms of Jesus."

Frere Town was attacked on January 21st, 1896, by a force of 200 under a son of Mbaruk, one of the Arab chiefs in revolt against the Government. Happily no one was seriously hurt.

MOMBASA.

Mombasa.

The preaching of the Gospel at Mombasa met with less opposition during 1895 than in the previous year. In a few instances, indeed, the Rev. W. E. Taylor states, Mohammedans of ability discussed patiently and fairly the claims of the Gospel. An accomplished Swahili scholar (who asserts that he belongs to the stock of the "kings of Mombaza": see Milton's "Paradise Lost," Book xi., line 399), who had previously declined to give help in translational work lest he should "sell his soul," has recently done so for a very trifling remuneration. Another, who is referred to as more or less under Gospel influence, is the son of a prominent Swahili Suzee, or head of a clan, who, though still young, had led a wandering life as a Daruwish Dauwar, or "Vagabond Dervish," and was "as familiar with the sand-billows of Central Arabia and the Sahara as with the orange groves of North Africa and the Mango topes of India." Another Swahili—the first of Mombasa to do so—confessed his faith in Christ as the only Saviour in Mr. Taylor's house, but soon afterwards left the place. The testimony at the open-air services in the market-place of Mr. G. L. Pilkington and the

A Mohammedan's explanation of the success of the Gospel in Uganda.

Rev. G. K. Baskerville, while at Mombasa en route for England, regarding their experiences among Mohammedans in Uganda, created a great sensation. A Mohammedan friend of Mr. Taylor's who had previously declared the conversion to Christianity of a Mohammedan to be impossible, on being asked what he thought of their testimony, said, "Oh! these Waganda were written down (ordained) for you Christians from the beginning."

Women's Work.

The band of Women Workers at Mombasa consisted of the Misses M. R. Gedge, A. I. Grieve, E. C. Wilde, M. J. Lockhart, and for several months Miss A. Higginbotham, from Jilore. Miss Gedge, who had charge of the ladies' house, wrote:—

> I can indeed thank God for making us such a united family party. My work has been almost entirely in the house; but as I see one or two sisters starting forth soon after our early breakfast to teach boys who have been under no training and discipline, and another sister who goes day after day from house to house teaching women and girls to read, and at the same time telling them the "sweet story of old," and yet another who has a native house in the middle of the town where every morning she gathers a few slave women and girls and their little children, my heart goes out after them and I ask God to bless them in their "work of faith and labour of love"; and I am encouraged as I think of St. Paul's words, "Helpers together by prayer."

Miss Gedge found not a few opportunities for direct spiritual work, and mentions her intercourse with a Goa lady, a Roman Catholic, to whom she gave English lessons, always attended with Bible reading and prayer. Another effort, "by the way"—i.e., not coming in the regular course of mapped-out work—is mentioned by Miss Grieve. She had occasion to accompany Mrs. Bailey, formerly Miss Harvey of this Mission, to Aden in the spring, and found an opportunity of witnessing for her Master before a number of women pilgrims en route to Mecca. She says:—

Among women pilgrims journeying to Mecca.

> Some Arab ladies, relations of the late Sultan Saïd Berghash, were on board, en route to Mecca; with them travelled a teacher of the Koran (a woman). They were all very intellectual, and listened very eagerly as I told them the story of the love of Jesus. They accepted a Gospel of St. John and the Psalms in Arabic, given me by a passenger on board. I had talks, and was privileged to read the Gospel to the deck passengers. On the return journey I had the pleasure of sitting for hours with the deck passengers—the women sitting on their bales and bundles, overhead their fruit supply, and at their feet their earthly possessions. Thus nearly the whole of St. Luke's Gospel was read and talked over. One woman said, "Then who is Mohammed, our prophet?" She said he was not wanted. They begged me to go on to Zanzibar with them. One of the ladies of the Universities' Mission has tried to find them out there. These were truly happy hours; and when one thinks of the hundreds of deck passengers on the coasting steamers of India, one would think it an opportunity for a special effort of Deep Sea Fishing—people coming and going from places where there is no missionary.

"Deep Sea Fishing."

Miss Grieve conducts a small boys' school, the pupils at which are all Mohammedans, excepting one Parsi. Their attendance is irregular, as it is entirely optional, their parents consenting to but not requiring them to go. The school is opened with prayer, and there is a daily Scripture lesson; they also commit the Ten Commandments to memory. Miss Grieve continues the visits to the Beluchi, which Miss S. Bazett began. She says of them:—

"You must be my Koran."

It is a great privilege to talk to these dear sisters, as they sit in groups sewing under the eaves of their houses, or in the shade of bushes. They are a very intellectual people, and ask many questions. We have not yet had the joy of a conversion, but we have had many little encouragements. One woman said, "Some years ago I lost my Koran; so you must be my Koran, Bibi," and she is willing to hear of Jesus. Another said, "Oh! how these love one another. We do not know how to love." Another said, "These ladies never, never tell lies"; and yet again, "I do love to hear these stories; all your words are beautiful." One yearns so for these dear sisters to know this story to be more than beautiful words.

Work among slave women.

Miss Wilde has undertaken the visitation of a district of Mombasa known as Mji Mpya, "New Town," inhabited chiefly by slave women—wives of porters who go into the interior, and slave wives of Arabs of the town. A room has been hired in this district, some seats provided, and reading sheets placed on its mud walls, and Miss Waite attends daily to instruct those who visit it, both children and adults. Miss Lockhart visits the homes of the better-class women, and has under instruction in reading fifteen women and girls, and she can point to four who are able to read the Gospels themselves.

Hospital.

Dr. C. S. Edwards describes the work of the year at the Mission Hospital at Mzizima, as one of steady progress. He requires of those patients who are able that they do some little services for their more helpless comrades, and also sweep the wards, &c. "It is a great thing," he writes, "to get a proud Somali to do any menial work." The first-fruits of the congregation of liberated slaves at Kilindini, four men and two women, were baptized on Easter Day, 1895; one of the men was sick, and died soon afterwards. At the harvest thanksgiving in September the sum of Rs. 7½ was contributed in pice and in food by these people. A Pastorate Committee has been appointed from among the congregation.

RABAI.

Rabai.

Troubles, and fears of greater troubles, which followed in quick succession during 1895 will make it probably, one of the missionaries says, for a long time to come a conspicuous mark in the history of the Natives of Rabai and the neighbourhood, by comparison with which they will reckon the ages of their children and other events. The visitation of locusts in the winter of 1894-5 was followed naturally by a famine; in May a shock of earthquake caused great alarm; and from July onwards frequent scares were occasioned by several Arab Swahili chiefs—Kibaraka, Agiz, Mbaruk, and Hamisi Kombo—rising in revolt against the administration. While Bishop Tucker and the Uganda party were delayed a few days at Rabai in July the Acting Administrator with a number of soldiers arrived there for the purpose of watching the motions of the Arabs, who were only three hours distant, and the Consul-General with Admiral Rawson also visited the place the same week. Again, in September a party of eighty marines from H.M.S. Barrosa, under Captain Marks, arrived to protect the place, as it was rumoured that Mbaruk was intent on destroying Rabai. The night of September 30th, it was supposed, had been chosen for the attack, but it passed over without alarm. The marines remained ten days. Of the Sunday they were at Rabai Miss M. A. Ackerman wrote :—

A guard of marines.

> The men being in the schoolroom, we were not able to have Sunday school, so instead we had an English service for the Englishmen. It was such a treat to have with us a number of our own countrymen ; and in the evening we had as many of the men as could come to our room for hymn-singing, which they very much enjoyed. They chose their own hymns, and many of them were those they had sung long ago, when with their mothers I should think, being some of the loved old ones. One of the men asked for a chapter to be read, so Mr. Vale, who is here on his way to Taveta, read Psalm xx., afterwards praying for the men very earnestly and simply.

And on their last evening :—

> This evening we had our Navy men in for hymn-singing and two or three short addresses, to which they listened intently. Since they have been here several have received blessing ; we know of three who have been converted and two backsliders restored. Although they came up to fight an earthly enemy, many, we believe, have begun to battle for the right on the side of the King of kings. God has been very good in giving us this blessing just when our hearts were a little discouraged in not seeing much result from our Mission-work.

Attack on Rabai.

The attack which had been so long feared was made on November 2nd. At 4 A.M. the Rev. W. H. Jones, the native pastor, was awakened by a man from one of the out-stations, who reported the approach of the enemy, and their firing was heard in the village before he had finished delivering his message. Mr. Jones barely succeeded in removing his wife and children to the ladies' house before his own house was set on fire. Some fifty houses were burned down. A guard of 30 Zanzibari soldiers drove back the rebels, and retook the women whom they had captured. Five men belonging to the congregation were killed and seven wounded, the latter of whom were sent to the hospital at Mzizima. The intention of the assailants, so the Rev. A. G. Smith was informed by a prisoner, was to kill the European missionaries, and the people heard them directing an assault on the iron house of the Mission. Most providentially this danger was warded off ; bullets reached within a few yards of the ladies' house, and the iron roof of the church was penetrated. After the attack Mission-work was interrupted for a week, as the Consul insisted on the ladies going to the coast. Miss Tobin mentions the following incidents of the attack:—

An instance of filial devotion

When the town was attacked, I heard of a beautiful case of filial devotion, worthy to be placed beside the classic story of long ago. A poor, weak, sickly woman tried to run away when her house was set on fire by the enemy, but she was too ill; she only got a short way when she sank down exhausted. Her son, quite a lad, who was running away, returned, and took her on his back a long distance to a place of safety. One man here is pointed out now as the man who saved the town. He saw the enemy passing his house, and heard them say, "Shall we fire the town first, or go on to the big house?"—ours. He instantly comprehended the situation, and thought if he shot an arrow, one of them, thinking he was attacked, would fire a gun, which he did, and aroused the town. Immediately the soldiers were ready and met them with the volley which compelled them to retreat.

On January 20th, 1895, Mr. Jones was admitted to priest's orders at Rabai, before a crowded congregation of the people, among whom he has laboured for twenty years; and on the following day the Bishop admitted four to the office of lay reader, namely, Timothy Mapenzi, Lugo Gore, Josiah Kimba, and Levi Mwangoma, in whose behalf Mr. Smith pleads for prayer. Of some other members of the Congregation Mr. Smith says:—

Work "for Christ's sake."

A band of some six men have promised to do any work needed "for Christ's sake," and not for wages. Their first work was to carry in a poor heathen woman, who had burnt her foot most terribly. She lives about three miles from Rabai, and I found that she had started to crawl on her knees to Rabai; when the men found her she had accomplished about half a mile in six hours, and was preparing to sleep in the grass. Her joy and that of her friend when they saw the men with a hammock amply rewarded them for any loss of time and money.

The Girls' School has a register of 110 names, and a daily attendance of 90. In application and in general conduct Miss J. B. Tobin observes a decided improvement. But she adds:—

Robbed of the inheritance of childhood.

It seems to me that it will be years and years before these dear children can take their place in the kingdom of childhood. As I look around the school and see the knowledge of evil so plainly marked on some of their young faces, I cannot help feeling bitterly towards a system which has robbed them of the inheritance of childhood, purity, happiness, love; as some of these children have been slaves, and nearly all are the children of slaves, these words mean nothing to them. Some of the little children are most lovable, and give promise of better things.

The Boys' School is under James Deimler, a native catechist and well-tried Christian man from Frere Town. The Dispensary had an average monthly attendance of between 400 and 500. This is worked by Miss M. Ackerman, who also visits in one of the districts of Rabai, Miss Tobin visiting in another.

Earnest lay-readers.

The lay-readers, or "Wasomi" referred to above, reside in the out-stations, Cha-Ngombe, Fimboni, and Ganga. Mr. Smith holds a weekly Bible reading with them and their wives. Of the two readers stationed at Ganga, Levi and Josiah, Miss Ackerman says:—

> These two Wasomi at Ganga had of their own accord a week of special prayer and praise when God removed the locusts. They also started from that time a weekly Saturday night prayer-meeting in three different parts of their village, conducted by the "Mzee" or elder of each district; so they have three little groups, of perhaps twelve to twenty people, gathered to pray for blessing on the Sabbath day. These dear men I have been telling you about have real godly homes, with prayer ascending, and their wives are striving to be real helpmates to them, and each have dear little children.

Miss F. I. Deed and Miss M. L. Holmes, who both speak Kinyika, visit these out-stations and other neighbouring villages, some thirty in number. They would have taken up their abode at Cha-Ngombe but for the disturbed state of the country. Fifty-eight adults were baptized at Rabai on March 4th, 1895.

JILORE.

Jilore.

Bishop Tucker, accompanied by the Revs. W. E. Taylor and W. H. Jones, visited JILORE in April, 1895, and the Bishop confirmed eight candidates and set apart Gona and Paulus as catechists. Three adults had been baptized on Easter Day, one of them being a brother of the aforesaid Gona, for whom prayer had been offered for many years by him and others. The Rev. D. A. L. Hooper left Jilore with the Bishop in order to take furlough, the Rev. F. Burt, who had joined Mr. Hooper the previous January, succeeding to the charge of the work. In June, the disturbed state of the district, to which reference has been made under Rabai and in the introductory notes, led the Consul-General to order all the missionaries (Mr. Burt, and the Misses A. Higginbotham and A. E. Wyatt) to go to Melinde, and thence to Mombasa. During a week spent at Melinde daily services were held on the beach, which large audiences—Arabs, Swahilis, and Hindus—attended, to whom the simple up-country lads from Jilore told each in turn what they knew of salvation from sin.

Missionaries ordered to the Coast.

Soon after the party reached Mombasa the Consul consented to Mr. Burt and five of the Jilore youths returning, offering them a passage from Kilifi to Melinde. This would have involved a walk of over thirty miles through the disturbed district, and they elected in preference to make the journey through the Giriama country. Unhappily, three of the youths —David Tuva, Benji Gogwe, and Nafua—were captured by the rebel chief. An old Arab, to whom the lads had read the 116th Psalm some time before, interceded for their lives, and soon afterwards the fathers of the two first-named obtained their release. Nafua was offered for sale, but the people were afraid to purchase him. He succeeded in making his escape, but was betrayed for three yards of calico and taken to Mwele. He was there when the place was destroyed by Admiral Rawson in the autumn, and by running into the English lines was saved. Mr. Burt paid several visits to Jilore from Melinde, and took a number of the Christian women and children to Mombasa, where they were lodged at the Mission hospital. The year was one of severe testing to the little body of Christians, who were scattered from their homes and obliged to live in rudely-built huts in the forest, and the missionaries ask for earnest prayer on their behalf. Mr. Burt wrote in November:—

We feel the time is one of severe test to the personal Christianity of the converts. Pray that their faith fail not. They are losing much now; may they be gainers hereafter!

A scattered and tried infant Church.

Last week I made a journey to Melinde by sea, and saw the catechist Gona and his wife. It was a very great pleasure, though at the same time pain, to see him. He represented a scattered and tried infant Church struggling to weather the storm. He prayed that the joy of seeing me might not be as madness, nor more than he could bear, but the joy of the Lord giving strength.

The Consul sanctioned the return of Mr. Hooper and his party to Jilore in March, 1896.

II. TEITA AND TAVETA.

Bishop Tucker's visit to Taveta and Sagalla in February and March, 1895, was noticed in last year's Report, but his account of the visit was not received in time to be quoted. His visit resulted in the re-occupying of the station in the Teita country—namely, Sagalla, where Mr. J. A. Wray resided from 1882 to 1890, but which since the latter year, except for a few months' visit by Mr. Wray in 1893, was left without a European missionary. The Bishop wrote:—

Sagalla re-occupied.

Position of the Mission.

The Mission-house is situated in a scene of exquisite beauty. On one side lies a lovely valley, highly cultivated, and watered by several streams running down the undulating hills which shut the valley in. On the other side of our look-out from the door of the Mission-house, over vast forests and plains some 1,200 feet below, in one direction lies the grand mountain of Kisigau; in another the Matate ranges of hills, rising to an elevation of some 7,000 feet, and quite hiding a view of snow-clad Kilima-Njaro. Occasionally, more especially in the early morning, the clouds roll down upon the mountain and the Mission-house is wrapt in mist. The air is delightfully bracing. At night you almost wish for a fire. Such is the scene of Mr. Wray's work for very nearly eight years. We were warmly welcomed by the people. It was evident that a great change has come over them since the days when Messrs. Wray and Morris were almost besieged in their house.

The Bishop was greatly cheered by his visit, and by the apparent desire of the people to be taught, and he felt that every effort must be made to resume the work. Accordingly, as soon as an opportunity arose for travelling through the district disturbed by the hostile Arab chiefs, Mr. and Mrs. Wray and Mr. R. A. Maynard (of the Victoria C.M. Association) went up to Sagalla in October. The caravan which they accompanied was under Mr. Dick, the trader who a few months later was reported to have been killed in an engagement with Natives in the Mau Plateau. They received a cordial welcome, the women greeting them with "Welcome home at last!" The numbers present at the Sunday services rose from 100 to 400 in the course of a few weeks.

Taveta. The site of the Mission premises in TAVETA is at Mahoo, just outside the forest in which Taveta itself stands, and the situation has proved itself decidedly healthy. The Rev. A. R. Steggall writes that his health throughout the year was better than in any previous year in Africa or in England. The settlement, which had 58 residents at the close of 1894, had 94 at the close of 1895, the new arrivals being persons who elected to place themselves under the influence of the Mission. Bishop Tucker wrote after his visit:—

"Happy Land." This piece of land has, with the consent of the governing chiefs of Taveta, been secured to us by the I.B.E.A. Company, and is now C.M.S. property. The name given to it is Mahoo, i.e., Happy Land; and to very many young men and boys it is proving a veritable happy land. It was to Happy Land that I and Mr. Wray were welcomed by Mr. Steggall and his fellow-labourers on Saturday, March 2nd. I was surprised and delighted with what I saw around me. Here were banana plantations on every hand, each tree apparently in full bearing, and in a most luxuriant condition of growth.

Irrigation works, &c., by Boarding school boys. The secret of this apparent abundance is found in the system of irrigation which, with great perseverance and labour, has been worked out by the boys living on the Mission station. Under Mr. Steggall's direction, a canal some three miles long has been dug, and the waters of the River Lumi have been made available for the cultivation of a large tract of land. I find that there are now some 46 boys under Christian instruction at Mahoo; these all live upon the station, and maintain themselves entirely by their own labour. A certain proportion of time each day is allotted to general education in school, which each boy attends. Four days a week, cultivation, and building, and manual labour of some kind or other for the general good is undertaken regularly. Each boy, moreover, has allotted to him a small garden, or shamba, some 40 yards by 20. The produce of this piece of land is his own property, and he is allowed one day in the week for work upon it. In addition to all this, each boy is required from time to time, when extra work is in hand, to bring building materials, wood, rope, or grass, in quantities proportioned to his strength. With the exception of four boys who are specially engaged in teaching, each lad is also required in turn to assist in cooking for a fortnight or a month at a time. Thus the work of the station is carried on, and the whole made self-supporting.

Morning and Evening Prayers. A temporary chapel has been built at Mahoo by the boys, and here at 6.15 every morning they assemble for prayers, which are usually read by Mr. Steggall. Each evening at six o'clock there is a somewhat similar service, prayers, two hymns, and a lesson from Holy Scripture, usually read by one of the elder boys. The whole service is in the language of Taveta. On Sundays the boys attend the service at the church in the forest, near the river. This church was also built by "the Happy-landers," and a very admirable building it is. Everything connected with the service is exceedingly well arranged. Nothing could be more decently or reverently done. Our only regret is that the church is not built of more substantial materials than those supplied by the palm and banana trees. But everything must have a beginning, and no doubt the more substantial church will come in due course.

Conference between Bishop and Taveta elders.

The Bishop held a conference with the Taveta elders on March 6th, at their place of national assembly in the heart of the forest. At the conclusion of his address, he was interested in observing the order with which they deliberated before making their reply :—

First of all, the twelve chief councillors rose up and slowly walked away to a neighbouring tree, where they consulted together; then the married men moved off to another spot some distance away; and lastly the young warriors took up their position under some trees in our front. In about a quarter of an hour, the seniors, having apparently made up their mind, were joined by the married men, and a further conference took place. While this was going on, the young warriors were seen to be in motion, and in a little time were observed to take regular order. Then it was apparent that they were about to give us their war song and dance; this they did. There was a certain melody in the former, but not much grace in the latter. With uplifted spears they advanced slowly, shouting and leaping. This went on for some time, until they apparently received a message from their elders, with an intimation that the council had made up its mind, and was returning to give an answer to my address. The dance and song then came to an end, and every one took his proper place once more beneath the shauri-tree. Then the spokesman rose up and delivered an address which was supposed to embody the result of the conference, and to be an answer to my speech.

First female convert.

Among the twelve candidates whom the Bishop confirmed during his visit, one was Yeyo, the mother of Yohana. She was the first female convert of the Mission, as he was the first male convert. The Bishop set Yohana apart as a lay-reader. One of the boarding-school youths went to Frere Town in the spring of 1895 to join the training class there, and five others are regularly engaged as teachers in two of the five day-schools, the other three schools being conducted by Mr. McGregor and Mr. Verbi. Several of the scholars belong to the Masai tribe. At the end of October Mr. and Mrs. L. J. Vale and Miss M. E. Conway, with five native girls from Frere Town—three of them experienced teachers—arrived at Mahoo, and Mr. Vale commenced at once to give instruction to some of the boarding lads in carpentering, blacksmithing, boot-mending, &c. The Sunday Services, &c., consist of (1) an early Communion at Mahoo, some seventy being present at the ante-Communion service, and about twelve remaining to the Lord's Supper; (2) morning services with preaching, more especially to the Heathen, at Sela Ndongo, about a mile from Mahoo, and at Mboghoni, the national place of assembly, where a new church, capable of accommodating 200, was opened in August; (3) Sunday-schools at three centres with about fifty children; (4) afternoon services at Sela Ndongo and Mboghoni. At the former of these two last-named places the women preponderate at the services, while at the latter place they are altogether absent, being afraid of witchcraft, and their native ideas of propriety preventing their sitting at a public assembly in the presence of men. Hitherto the elders and people generally have shown indifference to the teaching, but during the past year the nature of Christianity and the consequences of embracing it have been more clearly perceived, and some active opposition has been put forth. Mr. Steggall wrote in November:—

Opposition.

> Assemblies have been called, and long consultations held, during the past two or three months by various sections of the men, and by different clans. Some fear that there will be less riotous drinking if people take to learning—they will get fewer invitations to drinking festivals, and so on. The Dighiri clan, which has most members inclined to join the Mission, has brought considerable pressure to bear upon these inquirers, and practically expelled from the clan Yohana and Yakobo, two of our Christians, with a few others. The Christians are by no means the losers by this proceeding, and their party seem to have kept their tempers and stood their ground in quite a satisfactory way. Several children in various parts of Taveta have been prevented from coming to church or school, and hidden influences are evidently at work. Of course, we can go on quietly and confidently, knowing that our opponents "imagine a vain thing" when they dream of succeeding in their counsels against the Lord's Anointed.

III. USAGARA AND USUKUMA.

With the exception of Dr. E. J. Baxter, who was absent from his station at Mpwapwa from May, 1895, till January, 1896, in order to accompany the Uganda party from the Coast to their destination, the Mission staff in Usagara and at Nassa experienced no changes during the year under review.

MAMBOIA.

The Rev. A. N. Wood's journal for November, 1894, mentioned his discovering at a village called Magubika the grave of the late Mr. W. C. Tytherleigh, who died there in 1878. Traces of his initials were still discernible on a tree near the spot, viz.: $\frac{\text{C.T.,}}{\text{M.S.,}}$ for $\frac{\text{W.C.T.}}{\text{C.M.S.}}$. The Natives were about to build a church within a stone's throw of the grave, though in all probability the famine dispersed them before they had done so. Evangelistic work was practically at a standstill during a great part of the year, owing to the depopulation of the neighbourhood by the famine; and, alas! of the little body of the adherents of the Mission at Mamboia, several caused much sorrow by their falls into grievous sin. Mr. and Mrs. Wood and Miss E. E. Waite were at Kisokwe for several weeks. The work in Mamboia Valley, two or three miles from the station, is under Mr. D. Deekes' charge. Some thirty or forty villages are found clustered there. Miss R. Colsey, who visits among them, says:—

Land depopulated by famine.

Amidst much to cheer and encourage, we are saddened that at present there are none ready to stand up boldly on the Lord's side, willing to renounce all known sin. We do long to see them under the convicting power of the Holy Ghost. They love their sins, and they are steeped in sin from infancy. As a woman said to me the other day in a village: "You don't know what it is; you haven't been living in sin since you were a baby. We are so used to it." "So used to sin."

MPWAPWA AND KISOKWE.

The successive visitations of locusts and of famine have not softened the hearts of the people at Mpwapwa and Kisokwe towards the Gospel. Mr. E. W. Doulton (of the New South Wales C.M. Association) reports with sorrow that, judging by visible results, there was no advance at MPWAPWA during the year. No less than five of the little band of baptized Christians had to be suspended for grave faults, and amongst them was one, Natanyeli, whom all considered the most intelligent and promising of the Christians. The other Christians too give little evidence in their lives of a new heart. It is therefore not surprising to read that the people generally in and around Mpwapwa manifest extreme indifference to the Gospel message. Mr. Doulton hopes that praying friends at home will especially remember Mpwapwa. Mr. J. H. Briggs, who removed to Mpwapwa from Kisokwe after the death of the late Rev. J. C. Price, refers to special meetings held for the Christians at Whitsuntide, 1895. He says:— Mpwapwa. Appeal for prayer.

The subject chosen was "The New Life." The meetings were held at Mpwapwa, the Kisokwe Christians coming over here to attend them. We made a special effort to get the people to understand what the new life is, and how obtained. There was certainly a measure of blessing. Nearly all said that they had before looked upon the new life as a thing to be entered into after death. Many stayed behind to the after-meetings. Some few, we thought, really got a blessing, but I regret to say that, so far as Mpwapwa is concerned, they all settled down into their old ways again, and the desire for something more than they had as yet received was only transitory.

The doctrine of the Resurrection is looked upon by the heathen Wagogo of KISOKWE as an idle tale, but the Rev. H. Cole says that some of the Christians show signs of spiritual life and a desire to glorify their Master by making the truth known to others. A weekly Bible class has an average attendance of twenty, a few of whom are intelligent, but the majority make great demands on the teachers' patience. The funds supplied by home friends for the relief of the famine-stricken people were wisely distributed as wages, in return for work rendered in building and cassava cultivation. A school, a dormitory, and a hospital were erected by this means. Mr. Cole and the Rev. J. E. Beverley have revised and rewritten the Kigogo versions of the Gospels and Acts, which the late Mr. Price translated, and have translated the whole of the Prayer-Book, excepting the Psalter. Mr. Beverley made a fortnight's itineration tour in the Ugogo country. Kisokwe.

NASSA.

Nassa.

The isolation of the brethren at NASSA, the Rev. E.H. Hubbard and Mr. J. P. Nickisson, has been greatly relieved by improved postal arrangements made for the Mission through the kindness of Captain Langheld, the German officer of the district. Whereas previous to the summer of 1895 letters seldom were delivered under six months of the date of their despatch, they have since then been received at home in less than three months. The news has been uniformly encouraging. In July Mr. Hubbard baptized two men, both Natives of Nassa, one of whom, Luka, had been with him as a servant since 1892; and on Christmas Day four other adults, one woman and three youths, one of the latter being a Mganda whom Archdeacon Walker had examined and passed for baptism, and sent across the Lake to give help in the work at this station. The woman was the first of her sex to confess Christ, and Mr. Hubbard was much impressed with her bright and intelligent and earnest manner. Nearly a thousand people were present at the Christmas morning service. The attendance at the day school averaged 100 throughout the year, but at the close of the year it reached 240. Mr. J. P. Nickisson says regarding the boys' progress, and regarding the need of books in the vernacular:—

First woman convert.

> Most of the children know the Lord's Prayer, Belief, Ten Commandments, and are also learning 100 selected texts and other portions of Scripture. Some fifteen boys read the difficult Swahili Testament fairly fluently, but unfortunately understand very few of the words. We are still in great need of a book in the language. St. Matthew's Gospel we heard with much joy had been printed by the Bible Society, and had arrived at the coast. But being sent by mistake to Buganda, the books were seized and destroyed by the Kavirondo Natives, so we are doomed to disappointment.

Out-stations.

Services are held on Sundays at three places in Nassa simultaneously, and also at three out-stations. At Mwamanyile, seven miles from Nassa, the chief built a church and three teachers' houses. The population of this village are Bageta, from the country of Ugeta on the other side of Speke's Gulf, and beyond the island of Ukerewe. At Lwangwe, fourteen miles from Nassa, a resident teacher is placed, and forty children attend school. The Gospels of St. Mark and St. John, and the Acts, in Kisukuma have been received at home in manuscript, the first translated by the Rev. E. C. Gordon—who visited Nassa for a few weeks in December and at the beginning of January, 1894–5—the last two by Mr. Hubbard. On his return to Uganda from the above-mentioned visit Mr. Gordon presented a report to the Uganda Finance Committee, in which he pleaded for more Waganda teachers to be sent to Nassa. He said:—

An outlet for zeal of Buganda Church.

> Nassa is a healthy outlet for the growing energies of the Buganda Church. The work there is so difficult that it needs some of the very best men to undertake it, and I hope you will not begrudge these, or think their time lost if they leave Buganda to labour at Nassa. At Nassa the Baganda learn patience and perseverance, and they are thrown upon God in prayer; they endure some hardship for Christ, for they sacrifice a good deal to go there—home, friends, and the food they love best; and they also brave sickness. I trust you will show sympathy, and give us your assistance in helping us to choose two more men suitable for the school and itinerating work at Nassa.

In February, 1895, on the fifth anniversary of Alexander Mackay's death, Mr. Hubbard, accompanied by the Rev. G. R. Blackledge, paid a visit to Usambiro, the place where Mr. Mackay laboured for the last three years of his life, and where he died in 1890. Mr. Hubbard wrote:—

Alexander Mackay's grave.

Words fail me to describe our thoughts as we looked at these graves here in the wilderness, covered as they were with the quick growth of an African rainy season. We prayed, and the Baganda Christians who accompanied us seemed to feel the solemnity, as I noticed they also, apart from us, uncovered their heads. In the evening, with the help of Makolo, Mackay's blood-brother, and his men, we cleared the cemetery from the grass and weeds of three years, and prepared a fence around the five graves. I also left some cloth with Makolo, to see the place looked after for some time to come.

The Rev. F. H. Wright, one of the party that accompanied Bishop Tucker from the coast, arrived at Nassa on December 6th.

IV. UGANDA.

Decision of Government regarding Uganda.

The first proposals of the Government regarding the administration of Uganda and the countries between it and the Coast, as announced to Parliament in April, 1894, and more fully in the following June, were briefly stated in last year's Report (page 89). It was also stated that the Government had not, up to the time of that Report's going to press, felt prepared to make proposals for spending money on a railway from the Coast, and that this part of the Government's announcement had encountered strong criticism. Twelve months later, Sir Edward Grey, the Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs in Lord Rosebery's Government, indicated that in three particulars the Government had modified their original views. In the first place, he informed the House that the Government had come to the conclusion that it was necessary to make a railway to Uganda. He then proceeded to state that a British protectorate was to be proclaimed over the territories intervening between Uganda and the East Coast, and that the administration of these territories would be direct British administration, and not that of Mohammedan Zanzibar.

A railway to Uganda.

All these announcements, which elicited unusually genuine and irrepressible cheering in the House of Commons, were grounds of thankfulness to the Committee, and to all concerned in the well-being of East Africa. That missionary work is not dependent upon favourable conditions of transit from place to place, or upon the friendly or impartial attitude of the powers that be, is proved indisputably by the past history of the Uganda Mission, which was taken in hand when the route throughout its 800 miles had to be tentatively essayed step by step, and was carried on in the teeth of obstacles and opposition and persecution until Christianity had become supreme in the land. Nevertheless, it is permissible and right to rejoice, and to recognize the leading hand of a Divine Providence, in arrangements which seem to tend to peace, development, and good government in Africa, and to trust that as the pax Romana was used of God to facilitate the early spread of the Gospel in Europe, so the pax Britannica may be equally used to facilitate its progress in Eastern Equatorial Africa.

In the course of 1895 a considerable and unprecedented enlargement of the missionary force in and near Uganda took place, by the arrival of two bands of missionaries whose names appeared in the list at the beginning of last year's Report. On February 22nd the Rev. E. C. Gordon, who had crossed the Lake in October, 1894, to spend a few months with the brethren at Nassa, returned to Uganda, accompanied by the Rev. A. J. Pike and Mr. H. B. Lewin; and on March 6th the Rev. G. R. Blackledge and Mr. A. B. Lloyd arrived at the capital. These four last-named were recruits to the Mission who had sailed from England in July, 1894, travelled viâ the Cape, and started from the Coast by the old route through German territory from Zanzibar on October 1st. The slow progress up-country—a tedious journey of five months—was due to the famine prevailing in Usagara. Mr. Lloyd wrote:—

Increase of missionary force.

Journey through famine-stricken country.

> Our sorrows really began after we left Kisokwe. Leaving here our good and kind friend Dr. Baxter, who had accompanied us thus far, we immediately plunged into the terrible famine district; for although we had seen distress on account of the famine in the country through which we had already passed, what we now experienced eclipsed all. Not that we ourselves actually suffered for want of food, as some may think, for we always had our European provisions upon which to fall back; but who with a speck of humanity within him could look upon the sufferings of our poor porters without suffering too?
> As I think of these poor fellows—living skeletons many of them—struggling along under a hot sun with a heavy load on their backs, it makes me cry aloud, "How long, O Lord, must this continue?" and when I saw, as frequently was the case, one of these half-fed men carrying with the utmost pain a heavy box marked with my own name, it was like a sword-thrust to my heart. We do thank God that the railway is now in course of construction, that this inhuman and barbarous system may be done away with.

Nearly one hundred of the porters engaged at the Coast died between Kisokwe and Nera, a place about ten miles from Nassa, which was the destination to which the porters had been engaged, and where the party were met by Messrs. Gordon and Nickisson.

Three of the party—Messrs. Pike, Lloyd, and Lewin—were seriously ill on reaching Nassa on January 17th, but were able to resume their journey in canoes across the Lake a few weeks afterwards.

On October 4th the Bishop's party, whose progress up-country has been traced in the introductory notes to this Mission (supra, pages 92–96), arrived at Mengo, consisting of (besides the Bishop and Doctors E. J. Baxter and P. Rattray): the Revs. M. J. Hall and T. R. Buckley; Messrs. F. H. Wright, A. Wilson, and J. B. Purvis; and the Misses E. M. Furley, M. S. Thomsett, E. L. Pilgrim, E. E. Browne, and J. E. Chadwick. On November 3rd the Bishop admitted Mr. Wright to deacon's orders, and sent him across the Lake to relieve Mr. Hubbard, whose furlough was overdue; and Dr. Baxter left Uganda to return viâ Nassa to Mpwapwa in November. Meanwhile, on July 15th, the Rev. G. K. Baskerville and Mr. G. L. Pilkington left Uganda to take furlough in this country, where they arrived at the end of October, having passed the Bishop's party in the Mau Plateau on August 22nd. Consequently, whereas at the beginning of 1895 the European staff actually in Uganda and Busoga consisted of eleven, at the end of the year there were 23, viz., 18 men (eleven in orders) and five ladies.

Distribution of workers.

This increase, notwithstanding that so large a proportion were new arrivals, and therefore to be regarded in the main as language students rather than effective missionaries, rendered possible a distribution of the workers in the several provinces of Uganda, and in consequence the more effectual supervision of the Waganda teachers. This is the most striking feature in the history of the Mission during the year under review. At its commencement only four places were occupied:—Mengo, the capital; Namukozi, in the province of Singo; Ngogwe, in the province of Kyagwe; and Luba's, in Busoga. At the close of 1895 the number of places occupied was ten, and at least two others had been occupied for a longer or shorter period. The distribution of forces, as arranged by Bishop Tucker in November, was as follows:—In Mengo, Archdeacon Walker, the Revs. E. Millar and A. J. Pike, and the five ladies; at Gayaza, a few miles north of Mengo, and in the same province of Kyadondo, Messrs. A. B. Lloyd and J. B. Purvis; at Buzinde, the capital of the province of Bulemezi, the Rev. T. R. Buckley and Mr. H. B. Lewin; at Namukozi (or Mityana), in the province of Singo, the Rev. H. R. Sugden and Mr. T. B. Fletcher; at Bamusuta (Kina Kulya's), also in Singo, some fifty miles north-west of Mityana, and near the borders of Unyoro, Mr. A. B. Fisher; at Ngogwe, in the province of Kyagwe, the Revs. G. R. Blackledge and Martin J. Hall; on the island of Bukasa, one of the Sese Islands, the Rev. E. C. Gordon. The above are all in Uganda. Then in Busoga, the country to the east of Uganda, separated from it by the Nile, are two stations—Luba's, where the Rev. F. Rowling and Mr. A. Wilson are stationed, and Miro's, where is the Rev. W. A. Crabtree. And lastly Koki, the country to the south-west, beyond Budu (the province occupied by the French Roman Catholics), is occupied by Mr. R. H. Leakey. The Rev. J. Roscoe, after Mr. Pilkington left, visited all the stations in turn, assisting the missionaries as his experience enabled him to do.

The above list is but an enumeration of main centres from which the work of the native teachers is supervised. That work extends through the length and breadth of the country, wherever the chiefs are favourable in any degree. Only four provinces—and three of them very small ones—out of the ten provinces of Uganda have been hitherto almost untouched by the Mission, namely, Budu, Kayima's, and Kasuju's, where the Roman Catholics are, and Katambala's, assigned to the Mohammedans. Toro, stretching westward towards the Albert Nyanza Lake, has been actively evangelized by Waganda teachers.

Sale of books.

The number of Bible portions sold in the country during ten months of the year, from January 1st to October 31st, was 13,211; of Catechisms, 4,036; and of reading books, 15,227—a total of 32,474, as compared with 26,273 in 1894, and 30,754 in 1893. The Rev. E. Millar, who has charge of the books, says that the supply of New Testaments and of copies of St. Matthew's Gospel has never lasted for a whole year; and that they have often been out of Catechisms. The total number would be increased by several thousands if the smaller books, such as hymn-books, Bible-stories, collects, &c., were included. The following list supplied by Mr. Millar, showing the sales of each class of books in each of the several districts, will be found interesting:—

MENGO.

Changes at Mengo.

The Bishop draws a striking contrast between the capital as it was on his first visit to Uganda at the close of 1890, and as it was when he arrived in the autumn of 1895. Then Uganda was a desolation, and Mengo was the scene of ever-recurring panics, the drum beating from morning till night, gathering the people together in excited crowds; now order reigns, and if the drum beats it is to call the people either for service in the church or for classes in the teaching houses. Then many of the gardens were neglected and little better than waste lands; now they have been reclaimed and fresh land taken into cultivation, and Mengo has become one great garden. Moreover, every chief of consequence has now a double-storied house, and a marked improvement is observed in the houses of all classes; the roads, too, are much better kept, swamps have been mostly bridged, and some have even been drained.

Great, however, and numerous as were the evidences of material prosperity which met the Bishop's eye, the marks of progress in spiritual things were even more pronounced. As to this the reader can judge by comparing the account in the Annual Report for 1890–1 with that which follows.

Eager students of the Scriptures.

The eagerness of the people to acquire an intelligent knowledge of the Holy Scriptures, which has been noticed in former years, continues and increases. Archdeacon Walker writes:—

"Which Herod put which James to death?"

It is nothing uncommon to be asked by some labouring man, "Which Herod put which James to death?" or "How far is it from Nazareth to Jerusalem?" "In what did the wealth of Capernaum consist?" and hundreds of such questions about the life and manner of the Jews in our Lord's time, as well as the much more difficult questions about repentance and forgiveness of sin. It is often far better to say, "I do not know; I must take time to think about it," than to give some answer that the missionary himself feels to be unsatisfactory. These people will not let you off if you pretend to know, but cannot explain your meaning.

And again, writing in January, 1896:—

Yesterday I had been telling the people how our Lord's words, "There shall not be left one stone upon another," came true, and to-day a good woman (Kawa, the wife of Namenyeka) asked me if the Romans conquered the Jews before our Lord was born. Then she said, "But Jerusalem was destroyed after He had gone into heaven. What made them destroy the city so long after they had taken the country?" This shows you how the people think. When I came back to this house Dr. Ansorgé came in to say farewell, as he is going home. But though there was a guest in the room a young man came in to ask who was the father of Judas Maccabeus. Dr. Ansorgé smiled at the man's persistency. The young man went off to write it down, and then came back to know who sent "Tito" to capture Jerusalem. Dr. Ansorgé thought this most remarkable; so it might seem to me, only I am so accustomed to it.

And the Rev. E. Millar says:—

Questions are constantly being asked of us as we walk along the roads.

I was stopped a few days back, when about four miles from the capital, by a man who was coming in and had some difficulty, and so stopped me on the road to get it explained. If I walk through the gardens near the capital I am often stopped by people racing out of their houses with books to ask me about a passage; and as Pilkington was going through the market some while ago, a man rushed up to him and merely said, "What is a wine-press?" meaning, he wished for an explanation of the wine-press in Matt. xxii. 33; that is to say, what was the spiritual meaning of making a wine-press in the vineyard.

Curious mistakes through disregarding punctuation.

Some very curious mistakes occur from the disregarding of stops, the use of which the majority of Baganda have not yet learned. A man came to Mr. Pilkington when he was in the country, and read the following passage: "As they were sitting, and eating a woman; one came who had an alabaster box," &c., and asked, "Why were they eating a woman?" I put in the stops according to the way in which the passages were read. These mistakes will doubtless die out in time, as the people get more used to reading.

This desire for instruction gives very special importance to the classes which are held at Mengo and all the other stations to instruct the Christians, and especially those for the instruction of the native teachers. Archdeacon Walker says—:"The great need of Uganda was evangelists, the great need now is teachers and pastors." Upon the departure of Messrs. Baskerville and Pilkington in July an important change was made in the work at the capital. It was felt necessary to place more responsibility, both for teaching and the government of the Church, in the hands of the Natives. The Rev. Henry Wright Duta and Messrs. Hama Mukassa, Tomasi Semfuma, and Bartolomayo Musoke had each two native assistants assigned to work under them, and were made responsible in a great degree for the formation of classes, the choice of teachers, and the examination of candidates.

Classes for catechumens and others.

The course pursued in the case of catechumens was as follows:—After some elementary instruction by native teachers they were examined, if men, by Henry Wright Duta, if women, by Elizabeth, wife of Zakaria Kangawo, or by Juliya Nalwoga. If they succeeded in passing this examination their names were then entered as candidates and they received instruction in two of the Gospels from teachers appointed by the European missionary in charge of this branch of the work (Mr. Pike since Mr. Roscoe took up the work of visiting the country stations). They then had a month's catechetical teaching by one of the above-named more advanced teachers; and finally they were examined individually. At each stage in the course the candidates were brought before the European missionary. From the beginning of the year to the end of July, 1895, Mr. Millar, who was then responsible for the occasional services, baptized 1,200; by the end of the year the number was 3,500. Confirmation classes were conducted in a similar way, the missionary giving about two hours daily to examining the candidates. And besides these there were large Bible-classes for the other members of the congregation, some of them consisting of 200 members.

3,500 baptized in the year.

The Gospels and better-known Books were taught by the Natives, the Europeans taking only the classes reading the more difficult Books, such as the Revelation. In these more general classes teachers and catechumens, chiefs and peasants, sit side by side. Mr. Pike writes:—

Scholars so determined to learn.

It is less difficult to teach than one might imagine, because the scholars are so determined to learn. At home the great difficulty often is to get learners to ask questions about the subject being taught; here no one is ashamed to expose his ignorance by seeking information, and until the point is thoroughly cleared up the teacher finds himself catechized. And the people all have such an intimate knowledge of the text of the New Testament as can only come from the most persistent and systematic reading of it.

Classes for teachers.

Special classes were held for the teachers by Mr. Millar. On four days of each week he had a morning class for junior teachers, with an average attendance of fifty, with whom he read carefully through the Gospels and the Epistle to the Romans; and in the afternoons of the same days he had a class for lay readers, native deacons, and a few of the more intelligent junior teachers, with whom he read Exodus, Joshua, part of Judges, St. Luke, and Romans. This latter class was taken by the Bishop after his arrival, and he says, "I do not know that anything has encouraged me more than the assurance which I have received on every hand that the young men who are coming forward as teachers are in their spiritual life far in advance of the standard which for some years has prevailed." The pay received by these teachers from the Church Council is Rs. 20 per annum (about £1 2*s.* 3*d.*), which suffices for clothing, &c.; their food is usually found by those whom they teach. The allowance is increased for those who are married, and a boy as a servant is also provided for.

Pay of native teachers.

Meetings of Church Council.

As mentioned above, additional responsibility was placed in the hands of the Natives in respect to Church government. At the meetings of the Church Council one of the leading Waganda teachers was made the chairman, the Europeans being present only as advisers. Of the questions which come before the Council for decision, Archdeacon Walker gives the following illustrations:—

Every Saturday morning we have a meeting of the Church Council, and we try to settle and arrange matters. Every week there are many cases of men who wish to leave their wives, or women who wish to leave their husbands. Much of this is due to the entangled state Christianity found things in here; and now that there is liberty, many who have hitherto been forced to live with people they did not like now wish to leave.

It was refreshing this morning to hear quite another kind of matter. A man who had been a reader for a long time wished to be baptized, but the teachers refused to bring him, because he had been keeping company with the Mukwenda, who is excommunicated. The man said hunger drove him to it. Whereupon the teacher reminded him of a poor blind man whose action put him to shame. This blind man having had his eyes put out has learnt to play the harp, and is one of the Mukwenda's men. One day he was ordered to play the harp and did so, but when the Mukwenda invited him to eat with him he refused to do so. He said, "I am a Christian man and I cannot eat with you, a man who has thrown his religion away. I play the harp for you because I am your slave, and it is my duty to do so, but to eat with you is only for my pleasure, and I refuse to do it." It is very encouraging to hear of this good confession of faith.

Friendly re-proaches.

Very fervent and affectionate remonstrances and appeals are addressed by the elders of the Church to delinquents brought before them from time to time. An example of this is given in a letter from the Archdeacon, which Mr. Baskerville read at the Annual Meeting of the Society at Exeter Hall, on May 5th, 1896:—

> Some of these poor fellows have become rich men now, and are giving way to drink. The Church elders sent for some of the more prominent wrong-doers to try and reason with them. One man, Matayo, the Mujasai, was called in, and they begged him to give up the drink that was ruining his soul. One man Teofilo, the Musalosalo, said, "When you were shot in the war you gave up all strong drink till your wound got well, because you thought the drink would make your wound worse, and that it would kill you. You have a big wound in your soul caused by drunkenness, give up the drink or assuredly the wound will get worse, and kill you eternally." The Mujasai replied, "I don't see why you all hate me so much, why can't you leave me alone!" Mika Sematimba then replied, "When you were shot, did we not pick you up and carry you home? Did you then think we hated you? You are shot now, and we want to carry you home. Do you remember when we were carrying you how you said, 'Let me walk, your carrying makes the wound hurt me'? We didn't let you walk, we knew you could not walk, but that you would faint on the road, and now we know you cannot keep sober, and we want to help you. You say, 'Leave me alone,' but we won't leave you alone. We know you will get worse if we do." I wish you could have heard these dear fellows, pleading with their companion, and then praying for him. There was something about the whole scene that was very touching.

On the first Friday of each month the missionary meeting which was inaugurated in 1894 (as mentioned last year) continues to be held. At these meetings native teachers, and sometimes European missionaries, from the country districts were usually present to give an account of the work and its needs; and on these occasions recruits also received their valedictory instructions. Now and then speakers from Toro and Koki were present. As many as 2,000 people have at times attended these gatherings. Archdeacon Walker wrote in February, 1895:—

Two thousand people at a Missionary meeting.

A pattern controversialist.

> Yesterday one man told us how he had met one of the Roman Catholic priests, and how he had argued with him. What struck me most was the man's own account of his controversy. He was so modest, respectful, and meek, and yet at the same time so confident in all his answers and arguments. To finish up, he asked the priest for some writing-paper, to show he had no ill-feeling; and this the Roman Catholic priest kindly gave him. A lad told us how he went to call on one of the principal men in the place he was sent to, and the man refused to allow him to enter his fence. The lad said he was like a man who had good medicine, and when he met a sick man the man refused the medicine. The chief replied he was not a sick man, but one who was quite well. The lad replied, "That was just what I thought of myself once, and yet I was not only dead, but actually decomposing and poisoning others." The lad's confidence and respectfulness seemed to have struck the chief, and he asked him to stop and eat with him, and then, after much talk, bought a book, and promised to learn to read. Now the man comes to church, and is reading for baptism. A faithful evangelist.

And again in August:—

Last Friday we had the best missionary meeting here we have ever had. Natanieli Mudeka gave the opening address, and he told us in the most touching words of the needs of the people in the gardens near Gayaza, where Lloyd is. One of the teachers had died there some little time ago, and Natanieli began his address by telling us of the work this man had done, and how, when he was buried, the people of all classes—Roman Catholic, Heathen, and Mohammedan—came to the funeral, and showed their respect and love for the good man. Natanieli quite broke down, and with many tears begged the people to find another teacher in his place. He then told us of the needs in other gardens, where the people have built churches but have no teacher. As for himself, he told us many of the Roman Catholic Baganda sent him food to help in supporting him, and asked him to help them in things they did not understand. An affecting appeal.

And Bishop Tucker in October:—

A large audience came together, notwithstanding the rain, to listen to the accounts that were to be given of the work going on in other parts of the country, and also to send forth, with prayer and blessing, nine new missionaries—messengers of the Gospel to the Heathen around. A teacher from Kyagwe spoke first, and told of the work and the needs of that district. Then another worker from Busoga spoke, after which Mr. Sugden gave an account of the work in Singo. Then a statement of accounts was made, and contributions were collected. These consisted of shells, and produce, such as sugar-cane, corn, bananas, fowls, &c. Then, with solemn prayer, the nine missionaries were dismissed to their work. Needless to say, there was no vote of thanks to the chairman and deputation; we have not risen to that yet, and fervently I trust we never may. There was a reality, a solemnity, a power about this missionary meeting which, to my mind, was a more striking evidence of the advance in spiritual things than even the existence of so many new churches and their crowded congregations. A valedictory dismissal.

A new church on Namirembe Hill, on the site of the one which, as mentioned last year, was blown down in October, 1894, was formally opened on Sunday, July 14th, 1895. It had been used during the previous five days for Special Mission Services, in which Mr. Baskerville and Mr. Pilkington, who left on July 15th, took part, and they were blessed to many souls. This new church accommodates 4,000 worshippers, and the Bishop bears testimony to the decent and orderly way in which the services are conducted, though it is felt that the singing admits of improvement, and this the ladies have taken in hand. Opening of new church.

The suburban churches around the capital have increased to twenty-three. These are all served from Mengo, and a list is prepared (type-written) for every Sunday in the year, giving the names of those who are responsible for the services at each of these churches. At the foot of the list the lessons for the day Suburban churches.

are printed. Bishop Tucker, in a letter to Salisbury Square, enclosed one of these lists which is deeply interesting. It is as follows:—

The words "Asoma" and "Abulira" mean "Reader" and "Preacher" respectively; and the line at the bottom beginning "Olunaku" is the name of the Sunday—the ninth after Trinity. Lusaka is now the residence of the Namasole, or queen-mother. The Bishop found the church at this place crowded on Sunday, October 13th, with about 150 people. The queen-mother herself was present — carried in on a man's shoulders. There were twenty-three communicants. The following Sunday the Bishop visited Kasubi, where the church stands on a hill, about 300 yards from Mtesa's tomb. There also was a crowded congregation, and thirty-two communicants. The Nalmija—the queen-sister when Mtesa died—lives on this hill, and is a most intelligent Christian, taking a warm interest in the work. Special Mission services, with after-meetings, are conducted at these churches from time to time, and missionary meetings are held in one or other of them every week.

Church in King's enclosure.

On October 27th a new church was opened in the king's enclosure as a private chapel for Mwanga and his household. The Bishop says of him:—

> Mwanga is not a Christian, but he knows a great deal of Christian truth, and has, I believe, been more than once on the point of deciding for Christ; but "he has been hindered that he should not obey the truth." This church, built by the king's order, indicates the drawings which he has towards Christianity. He greatly needs our prayers. His environment is all against him. But there the church is, in the midst of much sin, a witness to Him Who "was manifested that He might destroy the works of the devil." There are probably some 400 people living inside the king's enclosure, very many of whom are Christian, either Protestant or Roman Catholic. But still there are many who know nothing of Christ and His salvation. There is therefore a considerable work to be done among the king's people, and more especially among the women. For this reason I am most thankful that the ladies are permitted to visit the king's chief wife and his other women at least once a week. Their influence, or rather the influence of that Gospel message which they carry with them, must tell.

Confirmations.

During the four months following his arrival Bishop Tucker confirmed in all 1,200 candidates, 576 of them at Mengo. The first of these confirmations was on October 16th, when ninety-eight were confirmed. The Bishop thus refers to the service :—

The contrast between such a service here and in England is very striking. The great stillness which pervades the whole church is perhaps its most impressive feature. Although scores of people, of necessity, are moving about, not a sound is heard, save the voice of the Bishop repeating from time to time the solemn words of the prayer, "Kuma ai Mukama wufe" ("Defend, O Lord"). The hymns, "I heard the voice of Jesus say," and "Onward, Christian soldiers," were sung, the ladies assisting with their voices and the harmonium. One very interesting incident of the service was the coming forward for confirmation of two blind men, one of whom had lost both his ears. They had been cut off by order of the king some years ago by way of punishment for some offence or other. Both men in their sightlessness were victims of the king's cruelty. I do not know that one could have had a more striking proof of the way in which the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ has changed things in this land, which was once one of the very habitations of cruelty, than this affecting incident of the confirmation of these two men. To God be all the praise. By His power, and His power alone, the change has been wrought.

Two blind candidates.

One of the confirmations, on Advent Sunday, was at Jungo, in the province of Busiro, the country place of the Gabunga, the chief who has charge of the canoes. The Gabunga is quite a young man, and his wife is a daughter of Nbago, one of the late king Mtesa's brothers. Both are baptized Christians, and greeted the Bishop and Archdeacon very warmly, placing a large house at their service. Forty-nine were confirmed, and a new church was opened, which the Bishop thus describes :—

The church, which is a thoroughly well-built one (but, of course, of reeds), stands in a fine situation on the top of a commanding hill. The whole of the work connected with the structure has been done absolutely without any European supervision. The model that has been followed is that of the church on Namirembe, but instead of there being two vestries there is only one.

New church at Jungo.

Over 800 were present at the afternoon service, and the Bishop was struck with the heartiness of the singing and the responses, proving that the people had been well taught. The Rev. Yairo Mutakyala has been transferred to this place from Namukozi, in Singo.

GAYAZA.

Gayaza.

Upon his arrival in Uganda in March, 1895, Mr. A. B. Lloyd was assigned to labour at GAYAZA, a place some twelve miles to the north of Mengo, and in the same province of Kyadondo. Until July he had Mr. R. H. Leakey as a companion, but from then till October, when Mr. J. B. Purvis joined him, he was alone. The Bishop, who visited Gayaza in October and confirmed 44 candidates, describes the place as "one huge plantation of bananas." There is a large population of some ten thousand people. Mr. Lloyd observes a strong tendency to formalism in the congregations which have come under his notice, and also to hypocrisy in individuals. The desire for baptism, he says, is so strong that some will submit to the course of study, and live irreproachable lives during the time of probation, only to resume their sins when they have attained their object. He instances the chief of Gayaza as an example of this, and asks prayer in his behalf. In the province of Kyadondo, not including Mengo and its suburban district, Mr. Roscoe found 23 churches served by eight Church Council teachers. The Sunday congregations aggregated 2,313, and those on week-days 469. There are 442 baptized Christians and 186 catechumens, and he estimates the number of readers at 6,580.

Tendency to formalism.

BUZINDE.

Mr. Leakey visited the province of Bulemezi in 1894, as mentioned last year (see Annual Report, 1894-5, page 97), and he resided there from July till October or November of 1895. In the latter month the Rev. T. R. Buckley and Mr. H. B. Lewin took up their abode at BUZINDE, the capital of the province. The church holds 500 people, but is too small. Mr. Roscoe gives the number of churches in the province as 60, of baptized Christians as 438, and catechumens as 291. There are 21 teachers supported (in part as above explained) by the Church Council; and 8,398 readers.

Buzinde.

NAMUKOZI.

The name NAMUKOZI, meaning "Hill of the labourers," was given to this station in 1894. The Rev. H. R. Sugden is in charge, and he was joined in August, 1895, by Mr. T. B. Fletcher. At the beginning of 1895 it became necessary to exercise discipline by suspending for drunkenness and adultery the powerful chief Yona Waswa, who holds the title of "Mukwenda," and is over Singo, the largest of the ten provinces. He is the only one of the important chiefs who has visited the coast. His conduct had never been quite satisfactory. His place is at Mityana, about a mile from the Mission-station, and his suspension naturally had the immediate effect of largely reducing the number of adherents, but the true Christians were drawn into closer bonds of fellowship. On Whit-Sunday, June 2nd, twenty-two adults were baptized; and on June 7th the new church, which was referred to last year as in course of erection, was opened. An eight days'

Excommunication of a leading chief.

Special Mission was held in connexion with the opening, with the view both of deepening the spiritual life of the Christians and of reaching outsiders. Mr. Sugden believes that many benefited from the effort. Services are held every Sunday at some sixteen villages within a radius of a three hours' journey from Namukozi. A dozen young men who are under instruction and probation for teachers take part in this village work. Mr. Fisher, who visited this station and examined the candidates for baptism referred to above, who were prepared by the Rev. Yairo Mutakyala, writes :—

I was most pleased with their knowledge, and only fear that in some ways he had given them an overdose of facts; but I am quite sure that all of them could give a clear reason for the hope that is within them. Two women and one man we thought well to put back for a short time—a most painful business in Uganda, as nothing will prevent them weeping like children at the disappointment; but we are all of one mind in Uganda that we cannot be too careful in testing candidates in every possible way before admitting them to baptism. One small boy, in answer to the question, "Why did our Lord say to Mary, What is that to thee?" gave me several different reasons, as if he were anxious to let me know that he not only knew the question, but all about it. I asked the same boy, "What is your great desire now?" when he gave me as an answer the following: "First, I desire to glorify God, with my light shining in dark places; second, by preaching the words of God to every one; third, by teaching people to read His Word." Numbers of such questions were asked and answered in quick succession without a moment's hesitation, in a manner that would put to shame most of us at the same age.

Well instructed candidates for baptism.

On the transfer of the Rev. Y. Mutakyala in the autumn to Jungo, as mentioned above, he was succeeded by the Rev. Yoana Mwira.

The three small islands in Singo Lake, which is about twelve miles long and eight broad, were visited by Mr. Fisher at the close of 1894 and beginning of 1895. He found on the island of Zigwe ten who were able to read the Gospel, and thirty learners; on Kiraza he found twelve readers and sixty learners; and on Bagwe thirty readers and sixty learners. On the last-named island the readers, with one or two exceptions, were all women. The men at first refused to learn, but did not prevent the women; on finding the latter, however, making rapid progress and so much superior to themselves in consequence, the men began to learn from a sense of shame.

Men shamed into learning by women.

It was mentioned in last year's Report (page 100) that Mr. Fisher spent some months of 1894 in the province of Kitunzi. He visited it again in the summer of 1895; and Mr. Lewin also spent some time there. Kasaka, where they resided, is one day's journey from Namukozi, and is at present worked as an out-station from there. It has a large church, but the chief, an uncle of Mwanga, is not friendly, and much opposition has been encountered from the Mohammedans and Heathen, and also from the Roman Catholics. Kitunzi is surrounded on east, west, and south by Roman Catholic and Mohammedan provinces, and it was itself a Mohammedan province until June, 1893, when Captain Lugard gave it to the Protestant party, in consequence of the revolt of the Mohammedans, giving Kasuju's at the same time to the Romanists. Notwithstanding the opposition, Mr. Fisher wrote in October, 1895, that 300 attended the church at Kasaka, and fifty had been baptized. On two occasions the house occupied by Messrs. Fisher and Lewin was burnt down, once by firing a flaming arrow into the thatch by daylight, and once at midnight when Mr. Fisher was within. There are eleven other churches round Kasaka, and the number of readers almost doubled during the year—being about 500. Mr. Fisher gives the following instance of the intense eagerness of the women to learn, and of their influence over the men :—

One old heathen chief, whom we call "The Last of the Barons," had ninety wives, only one of whom could read, and the rest were Romanists or Heathen. The old man did all he could to prevent them learning, still we worked on quietly, and succeeded in winning his confidence and that of his women. Seventy-five out of the ninety came to me asking for books, which I had to give them, as they were too poor to buy them, and at the end of the year ten out of that number could read a Gospel well ; while I have seen others, who could not make such quick progress, weep, and others would sit up at night and by the light of grass reeds peg away at letters and syllables. I taught these women two hymns, and got them to commence daily prayers, but the old man at first would not attend, whereupon his wives all gathered round him wherever he happened to be and commenced, so there was no getting away, and at length he agreed to join them.

Women learning at night by the light of grass reeds.

And he adds :—

Prayer-drums going all round the country.

In this way all around God blessed us abundantly ; so that if you could stand with me outside my house as the sun went down you would hear the prayer-drums going all round the country, which a little time ago knew almost nothing about Jesus. "Why do you beat the safari (caravan drum-beat) when you go to pray?" says a Romanist to one of our readers. "Because we are on safari to heaven," answered he, "and we cannot camp always here, as this is not our home."

BAMUSUTA.

Bamusuta.

In October, 1895, Mr. Fisher made a tour through the north and west of Singo, and a little later, at the request of the Bishop, he opened a new station at BAMUSUTA. The meaning of the name is "They praise him," and Mr. Fisher writes about it :—

I have not given this hill a new name. Bamusuta is the name by which it has always been known. It is the same word which is used in the closing of our beautiful Communion Service, "Tukusuta" ("We praise Thee"). I suppose the "him" in "Ba-mu-suta" ("They praise him") in times past meant Lubare. Please pray that henceforth it may mean Him Who is Lord of all.

The station is fifty miles (or five days' march) from Namukozi, and about 22 miles from Kabba Rega's old capital in Bunyoro.

Work had been carried on by native teachers, and also by two earnest Christian chiefs, Tera Sekibamu and Maliko Kironde, who reside near. Mr. Fisher found over a hundred candidates for baptism when he first arrived. A small church existed, but a larger one was at once begun. In November Mr. Fisher made a twelve days' itineration on the borders of Bunyoro, and found a dense population, a large proportion of them being Banyoro who crossed the border into Uganda during the late war. Two Church Council teachers had been working amongst them for twelve months, and two small churches had been built. A Banyoro princess who ran away from her father at the commencement of the war, and received some gardens in Singo from Mwanga, is learning to read, and has learnt by heart much of the Gospel.

NGOGWE.

The Rev. G. K. Baskerville was joined by the Rev. G. R. Blackledge at NGOGWE, which is about thirty-two miles from Mengo, and in the province of Kyagwe, in March, 1895. Shortly afterwards, on March 27th, a great sorrow fell upon the workers through the death of the Rev. Nikodemo Sebuwato, the principal chief of the province, and holding the rank of Sekibobo. He was formerly Pokino, chief of Budu, but exchanged offices with the Roman Catholic chief of Kyagwe at the time when the Roman Catholics retired to Budu. Bishop Tucker admitted him to deacon's orders as a perpetual deacon, in 1893. Mr. Baskerville wrote in his journal on the day after his death :—

Ngogwe.

Death of Rev. N. Sebuwato.

> His advice was always solid and good, and I ever sought it. He was like a father to us all, and his death has left a great blank. He had several times said he wished to resign his chieftainship so as to take priest's orders, but everyone advised him not to, knowing him to be of more solid use to the cause as he was. However, as chief of course he had to go to wars, and I always trembled for him, as he was fast becoming an old man and constantly ailing. He had just returned from the last Bunyoro expedition, and seemed so bright, and gave us all such a warm greeting, and especially Blackledge, who had just come out here with me. The next morning he complained of fever and pleurisy, and finally his lungs became affected. We did all we could, but, knowing little or nothing of medicine, that was little. Yesterday I was at his house up till 7 P.M., and at 10.30 we heard the women wailing, and knew he had passed away. Dear old man! Oh, Nikodemo, when shall we see your equal again? We hurried down, and managed with difficulty to silence the wailing, telling them how out of place it was. Finally I got the house cleared of all but one or two special ones, his wife, steward, and one or two others, and then outside in the courtyard, at a little before midnight we prayed and sang, "Here we suffer grief and pain."

The funeral sermon was preached by the Rev. Yonasani Kaidzi, and he remarked, "God had lent to the Uganda Church an axe. This axe had done its work, and now God had asked for it back." Mr. Baskerville left in July, and Mr. Blackledge was alone from that date until he was joined in November by the Rev. Martin J. Hall. The congregations at Ngogwe are uniformly good, over 600; and Mr. Blackledge says of their behaviour:—

Reverence in public worship.

I cannot help but refer to the way in which the Baganda Christians conduct themselves in church, so reverently, they enter so earnestly into the spirit of our services. Although the vast majority are without prayer-books and hymn-books, yet they have learnt the words by heart, and so our service is very hearty. Everybody joins in the prayers, as much as to say, "If I do not take my part God will not give me the blessing," and so everybody prays, and the effect is very inspiring. Then the singing is a source of delight. The Baganda are not musical, but if they cannot make a musical sound they can, and do, make a cheerful noise, and this I am sure is very acceptable to God.

"A cheerful noise."

The Church Council, consisting of the European missionaries, the native deacon, and six churchwardens, meets once a week to choose and send forth teachers, hear the reports from the out-stations, and settle disputes, &c. The meetings usually last from two to three hours. Such cases as the following, showing, as Mr. Blackledge says, that Satan is alive to the fact that he is losing his inheritance, are often brought to the notice of the Council:—

Instances of persecution.

Now it is a chief refusing to let his people read; they persist, and so he cruelly beats them, and smashes the arm of one woman. Now it is a father daily thrashing his son for reading the Word. The lad therefore runs daily into the plantation, and there reads that which has now become so dear to him. Then a father sells his daughter for three cows; then a teacher comes from one of the islands to tell us that the work is greatly hindered by the daily traffic in human souls—men, women, boys and girls being sold like so many sheep.

The out-stations in Kyagwe number 36, and the whole number of native teachers in the province is 70. The whole province is "pretty fairly covered." At Kyabazala, one of these out-stations, there are three churches. The contributions amounted to 23,497 shells, but Mr. Blackledge says these were the gifts of the chiefs. The people generally, as yet, have no idea of giving. Three hundred and twenty-four adults were baptized. The Bishop visited Ngogwe in December. On St. Thomas' Day he admitted Mr. Rowling and Mr. Blackledge to priest's orders, and held a conference in the afternoon with the seventy native teachers. The previous day he confirmed 252 candidates. The Bishop wrote:—

Contributions of the chiefs.

A great many Christians have come in from the districts around Ngogwe for the confirmation. The result is that the Mission station is (as they say in the "north countrie") "gaily thronged." It is a great joy to see them, and the deep interest which they take in spiritual things. Here is a man reading the Book of Exodus for the first time. He is deeply absorbed in it as he lies under the verandah of the house. But every now and again he breaks off from his reading to exclaim in a sort of ecstasy, "Oh, this book! oh, this book!" as though it were too entrancing for utterance. This will give some little idea of the way in which the people who have learned to read enjoy and feed upon the Word of God. What a day of joy it will be when the whole of the Scriptures are in the hands of the people!

"Oh, this book! Oh, this book."

SESE ISLANDS.

The Rev. E. C. Gordon took up his abode on the island of BUKASA in March, 1895. The chief, Daniel Kaganda, is a Christian, and manifested throughout a real interest in the work. When Mr. Gordon arrived there was a weekly congregation of about 280 at the place named Kaganda, where the chief resides; a congregation of nearly 200 worshipping in another part of the island where there was a church but no resident teacher; and a third congregation which met in the house of a subordinate chief. This last place was supplied with a church and a teacher during the year, and a fourth church was built and a teacher supplied. On the island there were ten Basese teachers, and five went from it to evangelize and teach in neighbouring islands. The Bishop confirmed fifty-five candidates on January 29th, 1896. He wrote:— Bukasa.

Confirmation services in Buganda are always, to my mind, very solemn occasions; but this confirmation service on this far-off island of the Nyanza seemed to me to be especially solemn. We were face to face with what must appear to every thoughtful mind a marvellous example of the sovereign grace of God. That the Gospel should have reached this distant island and have been embraced so simply by so many souls in so short a while, is almost without precedent in the history of Missions. "A marvellous example of the sovereign grace of God."

On the previous Monday the Bishop preached to a congregation of three hundred people, and he wrote:—

Earnest attention characterized the service. During the sermon this was most marked. Every passage which I quoted in the course of my address was "turned up" in a way that would astonish some of our friends at home. You never see anything like it in an English Church. Every passage "turned up."

Mr. Gordon visited nineteen of the islands during the year, seven of them twice; these visits took up three months. The Island of Komi has a population of about 10,000. The teacher is Yoere Wamala. There are 1,000 readers and four churches, the largest congregation numbering between 500 and 600. The chief is a reader but not a baptized Christian, as yet he cleaves to sinful practices. The Bishop wrote during his visit in January, 1896:—

Mr. Gordon's conviction is that the Basese are lovers of truth for the truth's sake, and I quite believe it. There is a simplicity about them which is very impressive. Very recently a number of the people of Komi came in a body to see the missionaries at Mengo. What was their errand? Well, they had been under the instruction of a Native teacher for a long while with a view to baptism; but still no one came to baptize. "Hope deferred makes the heart sick," and these Komi people got tired of waiting. They made up their minds that they would see for themselves whether there was baptism for them or not. About twenty of them therefore travelled up to Mengo to see the missionaries. The result was that the Archdeacon wrote a letter for them to carry to Mr. Gordon, asking him to visit Komi and examine these people, and if found fit, to baptize them. Some of these very men were in Church yesterday morning, joining apparently heart and "Lovers of Truth for the Truth's sake."

soul in the service. There was an administration of the Lord's Supper, when some five-and-twenty people gathered round the Table of the Lord. At the afternoon service a native teacher named Timoteo, who is travelling with us to his sphere of work at Bukasa, preached. His sermon was Romans vi., and a very striking one it was. He is evidently a man of considerable ability and spiritual power.

To-day Mr. Gordon has been very busy selling books and making arrangements for the confirmation to-morrow. It was truly delightful to see the joy of the people as they became the happy possessors of this or that book—the New Testament, the Gospels, or a single Epistle, as the case might be. In some cases it was almost an ecstasy of joy. They seemed hardly to know what to do with their treasure. They clasped it to their bosom, then opened it and read a few words, then closed it again and clasped it once more to their bosom. Then several together got up and skipped about. They seemed almost ready to dance in the fulness of their heart's joy.

Joy in possessing the Scriptures.

The island of Bu'si is some thirty miles from Bukasa. The teacher is Samwili Kamwakabi, whom the Bishop describes as a "remarkable man in many ways—of gigantic stature, one of the tallest of the Waganda known to us, also a man of great force of character, and at the same time deeply in earnest in spiritual things." On this island there are five churches; the central one at Mamese accommodates 500 worshippers. This church was described in last year's Report (page 98). Between 600 and 700 of the 10,000 inhabitants can read the Gospels, and half as many more are learning. Between Bu'si and Bukasa is the island of Bujumira, where Adam Musoke, a voluntary Muganda teacher and a small chief, has for two years been labouring, and, in spite of the chief's opposition, has gathered round him a bright little band of eight young Basese teachers. Semugala is a large island and was originally given to the Roman Catholics, but the compact of territorial division having been annulled, Protestant teachers have visited it and two are stationed at Kizira; with the result that there are some 300 readers in the island.

"A remarkable man."

V. BUSOGA.

Country of Busoga.

The country of Busoga adjoins Uganda on the east, with the Nile as it flows northward out of the Victoria Lake as the boundary between them. It is more fertile than Uganda, and its wealth of sheep and goats and plantain trees has attracted numbers of Waganda across the border. They regard themselves as immeasurably superior to the Basoga, and in times past have oppressed the latter, and are disliked by them in consequence. Some of the Basoga chiefs were brought up in Mengo and speak Luganda. The other chiefs frequently have occasion to visit Mengo on business, and it is owing to the influence obtained over these by Christians at Mengo that some of them have been willing to encourage their people to learn.

Busoga is governed by five independent chiefs or semi-kings. The two southern ones are Wakoli and Luba; the three northern ones Miro, Tabingwa, and Gubula. Efforts made by the British Resident at Mengo to amalgamate these subdivisions under one king entirely failed. Except language the people have nothing in common, and are only restrained from fighting by a superior power. Many of the Basoga know something of Luganda, and the Waganda teachers have found it possible to have intercourse without learning Lusoga, to which they are much averse. A few have for Christ's sake made the attempt and succeeded, but the hope of the future lies in the effort to raise up Basoga teachers. The Rev. W. A. Crabtree, who has travelled throughout the country, regards the people as superior intellectually to the Baganda. They have a character for lying and stealing, but Mr. Crabtree has found the boys he has had as honest as, and more willing to work than, Waganda boys, and during his travels he never lost a thing except an umbrella, and then a man followed him to tell him about it, but Mr. Crabtree did not heed him as he was not sober—an exception which very forcibly proves the rule! Drink and bhang smoking are the two chief evils of the people.

LUBA'S.

Luba's. Much of the Rev. F. Rowling's time at LUBA'S was taken up with building. He received little encouragement from Luba and the other chiefs in his attempts to obtain pupils, but a few, six or eight, attended regularly and learned to read the Gospel. At the end of October, however, Luba sent fourteen youths, including one of his own sons, to be taught, and expressed his intention to build a church, and to allow any of his people who wished to read to do so without hindrance. Possibly this change of attitude was due to Bishop Tucker's visit on his way to Uganda at the end of September. The Bishop was much interested in meeting Luba, the instrument of Mwanga in the murder of Bishop Hannington, and describes him as "a striking personage, tall, with a somewhat aquiline nose, broad of shoulder, and strong of limb, certainly a remarkable looking man." There is a congregation at Luba's of from fifty to seventy, and the service is now in Lusoga. Mr. Rowling has found the medical knowledge he acquired at Islington very useful. Sometimes as many as 100 in a day come to him, mostly with ulcers or "jiggers"; there were 9,000 attendances during the year, and 500 new cases. Mr. Rowling has been able, he believes, to save four lives.

Visit to one of the Buvuma Islands. The Bishop visited Luba's in December, and spent a Sunday on one of the Buvuma Islands, Bugaya, about eight hours' journey by canoe from Luba's. It had only once before been visited by a European—in 1894, by Mr. Pilkington—but two Waganda teachers, Sira and Samvili, have worked there and on neighbouring islands. The Bishop was met on landing by the chief in snow-white garments, and on the following day was surprised and rejoiced at all he saw. He wrote:—

> Early this morning (Sunday) the drum-beat for prayers was heard, and the sound filled one's heart with thankfulness and praise. That here in this far-off island of the Nyanza there should be those who meet together at sunrise for the worship of God is indeed a marvel. But we were to see greater things before the day was out. At nine o'clock those who for more than an hour had been reading were gathered together in the church for the regular service. Again the drum-beat was heard. A few minutes later I and Mr. Crabtree wended our way thither. What was our astonishment to find the church full of people. There were at least 200 present! Nearly all were readers. Ten, we found, were able to read the Gospels, and about 140 the Walifu, whilst about forty can read the Mateka. The responses in the service were both loud and general. The people had evidently been well taught. I preached, while Mr. Crabtree interpreted for me in Lusoga. At the afternoon service almost as many people came together as in the morning. Previous to this latter service there was a sort of Sunday-school. It is remarkable how the system requiring those who are taught to teach others has taken hold of the minds of the people. In Buganda the taught are fast becoming teachers, and so in this far-off island of Bugaya. Although the people know so little—many of them only the alphabet—yet even these are teaching their fellows what they themselves have learnt. I found in this church the two Baganda teachers at work it is true, but I also found some dozen people belonging to the island at work as teachers.

The taught becoming teachers.

The Bishop thinks it probable that Lusoga is spoken also on the large island of Uvuma, with 15,000 people. On the return journey to Luba's the Bishop visited Kajaya's, a sub-chief in the district under Wakoli. A teacher went there in February, 1895, and there were two readers in August, when Kajaya, the chief, died. One of these two was Kajaya's eldest son, and heir to the chieftainship, to whose succession Wakoli was strongly opposed because of his being a reader. The Bishop opened a "beautiful" church there on December 31st; the chief and most of the readers were, however, absent during the Bishop's visit.

MIRO'S.

Miro's.

In spite of opposition from the chief, the Rev. W. A. Crabtree says that thirty-five Basoga at MIRO'S are able to read the Gospel. One or two of the sub-chiefs have allowed their people to be taught, braving Miro's displeasure thereby. A Lusoga reading book and some hymns have been printed, and a portion of the Prayer-Book and the Gospel of St. Mark have been translated. One of the two Waganda teachers sent to Tabingwa's left, but the other kept faithfully to his work, and two people learned to read the Gospel. The teacher at Gabula's told Mr. Crabtree that some who wished to read were deterred by fear of death.

VI. KOKI AND TORO.

KOKI is to the south-west of Uganda, adjoining the Roman Catholic province of Budu. It was mentioned in last year's

Report that the king, Kamswaga, returned from a visit to Mengo in the summer of 1894, accompanied by four Waganda teachers. Mr. A. B. Fisher visited the country in June, 1895—the first European missionary to do so—on a two months' visit. He gives the following account of his journey thither through Budu, and of his reception and work in Koki:—

First European to visit Koki.

On June 4th we started for Koki. All my porters were baptized Christians, and although our road led right through Budu, we were able to have our songs of praise and preaching every day; perhaps the only songs some of these people ever heard, for the Romanists do not teach them to sing. In fact, they have no new song, and the darkness of the country is terrible; even their baptized converts cannot read, and the only religion they have is that (as they say themselves) "caught from the mouth." Everywhere I met with the greatest kindness, the people bringing abundance of food.

We reached Koki in seven days from Kasaka, and found the king about to start for Mengo over some judgment he had with the Frenchmen. The Bakoki met us in great numbers, and were delighted with our visiting them. The king saw me at once, and looked after our comfort in every way, and together with the chiefs, sent us presents of food, goats, &c. The king was delighted to hear that we would as soon as possible start work in his country. Most of the readers went to Mengo with the king, who started after our morning service in the church, leaving a great chief to look after me during my stay.

The French priests have built a station quite close to the king's capital, although with few exceptions all those who are being taught by them are Budu people. They are sure of the Budu people, and therefore build in Koki, compelling the people in Budu who wish to be baptized to come to Koki, as the king said, in order to joga (bully) him.

The chiefs call themselves Protestants.

In Koki there are some eighty great chiefs in the whole country; only four are Romanists, and the remaining seventy-six might be divided as follows: twenty-four can read a Gospel, and twelve are reading mateka (reading-sheets), while the rest are simply Heathen, but call themselves Protestants.

During my stay of two months I saw much of the country and people, visiting most of the chief districts, selling books, preaching, &c. Everywhere great numbers came to see the Englishman (as they called me).

Mr. R. H. Leakey went to Koki, at the Bishop's request, in November or December.

The King of Toro a Catechumen.

It was also mentioned last year that Kasagama, the king of Toro, through the influence of his brother Yefeti, who was brought up in Uganda, had applied for teachers, and that four had been sent. The king visited Mengo in December, and Bishop Tucker hurried back from Busoga in order to see him. He describes him as a very intelligent man, with apparently a real interest in spiritual things. He applied for baptism, and was placed under instruction with the view to his being baptized in his own country after his return. The Bishop hoped to visit Toro in the spring of 1896.

Mr. G. L. Pilkington has proposed, à propos of the Society's Three Years' Enterprise, that a Three Years' Enterprise for Central Africa should be inaugurated. He urges with undeniable force that Unyoro, Kavirondo, Usukuma, Karagwe, and Koki are open—two hundred miles east, south, and west from Mengo, and seventy or a hundred to the north; that the country is healthy; that native help is available as nowhere else in the world; that the desire for reading has spread to some of the extreme points in the 200 miles radius; that in language and sentiment and mode of life the whole region is closely knit together; that, in a word, "there is good reason to hope that, as far as local conditions are concerned, a circle including within its radius of two hundred miles the three Lakes—the Albert, Albert Edward, and the Victoria—an area (excluding the Lakes) of nearly 100,000 square miles, might be fully occupied if not evangelized within three years' time!" For such an enterprise he asks for a hundred additional men and some lady-missionaries from home, "full of the Holy Ghost," to train and lead an army of Native Evangelists.

MOHAMMEDAN LANDS.

The religion and rule of the Turk.

THE deep feeling which has been aroused among all British Christians, irrespective of political ties and ecclesiastical position, by the sad events in Armenia has naturally drawn attention to the religion and rule of the Turk. In the Quarterly and Fortnightly Reviews and the Nineteenth Century a number of articles appeared during 1895, of which the most prominent writers were Canon MacColl, a close observer for many years of the outcome of the State religion of Turkey, and Mr. Justice Ameer Ali, one of the most accomplished of the Indian Mussulmans, who suffers, however, from the disadvantage, as a defendant of Islam, that his own liberal views are repudiated by all orthodox Muslims. The Rev. E. Sell, himself a recognized authority on questions relating to Mohammedanism, reviewed these and other articles in the C.M. Intelligencer for February, 1896, and concludes with these weighty words :—

The Muslim stands erect and scornful.

This controversy, with all that led up to it, brings plainly before the notice of the Church the great barrier which Islam sets up to hinder her onward march in the Eastern world. Possessed of a highly dogmatic religion, the dogmas of which are sharp and well defined ; accepting a law supposed to be Divine, complete, and final ; looking back to a history which records many former successful worldly conquests, with occasional gleams of borrowed splendour,—the Muslim stands erect, proud to be such, and utterly scornful of all other creeds and men. Has the Church yet realized the greatness of this force thus arrayed against her, or estimated aright the difficulties to be overcome ? Century after century passed by, and the Church was silent. It is only within this century that any very real and continued effort—and that all too feeble—has been made to place the true faith of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ before the Mohammedan world. When, then, we remember our past neglect, the points of contact in some matters of belief between us and them, the conscious groping after a higher light which some Muslims have shown, the repudiation of much that is narrow, superstitious, and immoral by a few Mohammedans now in India, whose ideas will doubtless affect more and more the educated classes ;—when we remember all these things, are we not distinctly called upon to try to understand this great Islamic system, and then to seek to win the Muslim for his rightful Lord and Master, and to set before him in all earnest love and patient sympathy the grace, the glory, and the power of the Eternal Son of God ?

The primary object of C.M.S. Mohammedan Missions.

The belief is entertained by some that the hope for the enlightenment and salvation of Mohammedans rests in the Oriental Churches, and that the problem to be faced in the first instance is how to raise the Oriental Churches to the ambition of undertaking this work. That at one time was the belief, and this was the aim of the C.M.S. Committee, and they still regard all such efforts with the deepest interest. For themselves, however, after a long experience of endeavours in this direction, they long ago arrived at the conclusion that it was their duty to offer the Gospel directly to the Moslem, and this is the primary object of the Society's Missions in Mohammedan Lands,

EGYPT MISSION.

The original object of the Missions formerly grouped under the heading of the "Mediterranean Mission," which were begun at Malta in 1815, at the close of the great war, and which were afterwards extended to Egypt, Abyssinia, Greece, Turkey, Asia Minor, and Palestine, was twofold: firstly, to revive the Eastern Churches; and, secondly, through them to evangelize the Mohammedans. Some very able and devoted Missionaries have been employed in this work—Jowett, Gobat, Krapf, Pfander, Koelle, &c. But the hopes of the first founders of the Society were not fulfilled. Oriental Christendom manifested no readiness to be quickened into life by emissaries from the West; and Moslem fanaticism, which barely tolerated Greek and Armenian Christianity, utterly repudiated the Gospel when presented in a pure form. Despite treaties and concessions on paper, missionary effort among the Moslem population of the Turkish Empire is carried on under the most vexatious restrictions, and a Mussulman can only become a Christian at the imminent risk of liberty and life.

As above stated, the Society had formerly a Mission in Egypt, as part of its scheme for the revival of the Eastern Churches. Many of the Coptic clergy, and one Bishop, were trained in the C.M.S. Seminary at Cairo; but the visible results were small. In 1882, in response to the appeals of the late Miss Whately, and in consequence of the British occupation of Egypt, the Rev. F. A. Klein, formerly of Jerusalem, was sent to Cairo to begin a new Mission among the Mohammedans. A Medical Mission was opened in 1889, and ladies were added to the staff in the following year.

Mosques at Cairo in a state of decay.

CAIRO has 300 mosques and 200 chapels, but it is an eloquent fact bearing upon the question of the religious energy of the Moslems of the city that many of these are in a state of decay, and were it not that their beauty as objects of art and examples of Saracenic architecture appeals to not a few Europeans, the process of deterioration accelerated by neglect would proceed to its natural end. In 1881 a "Commission for the Preservation of the Monuments of Arab Art" was formed at Cairo, which receives a small annual grant from the Government—the average expenditure for the past ten years was £5,000, a sum considerably in excess of the C.M.S. annual expenditure in this Mission—and which has actively engaged in the work of restoring some of the mosques. An article in the Times of February 29th, 1896, had the following reference to this work:—

Their restoration by Europeans.

The splendid gold inscriptional frieze in the Muayyad mosque was the result of patient scraping away of centuries of whitewash; and Mr. Herz is untiring in his efforts to get at the original surface and restore the original colouring in every sort of decorative work. . . . The latest restorations, such as the mosque of Abu-Bekr Mazhar or the ceiling of the Muayyad mosque, leave little to be desired in point of artistic effect or literal archæological fidelity. These mosques—so far as they have been restored—reproduce as nearly as possible the exact appearance which they presented when first opened to public prayer between four and five centuries ago. The carved woodwork, mosaics, marbles, painted ceilings, &c., have been restored and the missing parts replaced by scrupulous copying of what remained of the original work. The workmen employed by the Commission are, indeed, very nearly as skilful as the men who worked for the Mamluk Sultans in the golden age of Arab art, and it needs a highly-trained eye to detect which of the inlaid ivory and ebony panels, or bronze plaques, of a mosque door are original and which have been carved or cast in the ateliers of Herz Bey and his able though limited staff. . . . The native Mohammedans are far from insensible to the effects of restoration. They visit the mosque of El-

Muayyad, now that its liwân is restored to its original richness of decoration, in greater numbers than formerly; the sanctuary was crowded with worshippers when last I saw it, and a large class of boys were learning the Koran at the side. Though they are responsible for most of the decay of their own monuments, the Muslims do not admire ruins, but much prefer gold and colours. This forms by itself a practical justification of restoration.

The same correspondent adds that a "Department of Religious Trusts," known as the "Wakfs," exists—a sort of Ecclesiastical Commission professing to manage the pious endowments of Egypt—with an income estimated at nearly £300,000 per annum; but the department is entirely in native hands, and "how the money is spent no one knows."

Restoration of nobler temples.

The Society's present Mission in Egypt dates from about the same time as does the formation of the above-named Commission. Its object is the restoration of nobler temples, adorned and enriched at first by a lavish Hand with incomparable beauty, but for many ages a prey to decay and neglect. Would that it were possible to point to fruits of patient and prayerful labour as visible as those which the archæologist can produce! The ruin in this case is, alas! more advanced, and the manifest evidences of effective restoration are yet delayed. "When asked about our inquirers and converts," the Rev. F. F. Adeney, the Secretary of the Mission, writes, "we have to reply sorrowfully that we have none." And he proceeds to give examples of the formality and lovelessness of Mohammedanism:—

Formality,

The casual visitor stops to wonder at the grave Eastern in his flowing robes bowing reverently at the time of prayer, even in the open street. But he does not consider that the same man has very likely been cursing and swearing and cheating and quarrelling just before he began to pray, and will do so again when he has finished. He admires the stately intonation of the Koran, but he little thinks what historical absurdities, what sinful licences, what cruel and bloodthirsty injunctions it contains.

The Moslem sheikh who teaches me Arabic has been enlarging to-day on the superiority of Islam. He rejoices over the massacres of Christians in the Turkish Empire. So narrow-minded is he that he declares that it is impossible to translate the Koran, and that all nations are bound to learn Arabic in order to participate in the revelation of God. And so ignorant is he of the power of Christian love that he believes that were my wife to declare herself a Moslem I should drive her from me. He would kill all idolaters who refused to become Moslems, and thoroughly recognizes the obligation to fight against unbelievers.

and lovelessness of Mohammedanism.

Would that people at home understood how loveless the creed of Islam is. Of real, unselfish love a Moslem has no notion, and the great and crowning Christian truth that God is love is to him an enigma. Power is his only idea of greatness, and consequently the weak suffer terribly in a Moslem country.

And he adds an appeal:—

I do not write thus to asperse Islam or Moslems, but because I want Christian people at home to realize the great necessity for missionary work among Moslems, and, if God will, to stir up some to come and help us. We want men of marked spiritual and mental power to meet the wise men of Islam on their own ground, and to bear witness by their self-denying lives to the living power of Christ. We want gentle, warm-hearted women to come and take their poor, ignorant, degraded Moslem sisters by the hand and lead them into the light of God's love. Who will come?

Reinforcements.

Three ladies reinforced the staff of the Egypt Mission—Miss Henrietta Kate Cornford, M.D., of the University of Brussels, and L.R.C.P., L.R.C.S., Edinburgh, sister of the late Miss E. C. Cornford, of the Mid-China Mission, who died in 1893; Miss Florence Mary Sells, sister of Miss E. A. P. Sells, of the Japan Mission; and Miss Helen Adeney, sister of the Rev. F. F. Adeney, of this Mission. The first sailed in November, 1895, the second in January, 1896; the last in March. The Rev. W. Morris, of the East Africa Mission, who was sent to Cairo during his time of furlough for the benefit of his health, has been permanently transferred to this Mission; on April 7th, 1896, he married Miss J. Ellis. On the other hand, the Rev. W. F. Connor has been re-transferred to the Palestine Mission; and Miss E. Kauffmann was married in April, 1896, to Dr. G. Wright, of Nablous. Mrs. Bywater came home in July, and returned in October, 1895, and Miss L. M. Mann came home in August. Dr. F. J. Harpur came home in March, 1896, for a few weeks, to confer with the Committee regarding the proposed new hospital at Old Cairo.

Cairo.

The Rev. P. G. Wood, who has charge of the work at CAIRO, says that both the Services and the Boys' School are uncomfortably crowded, and that more accommodation is required. The services are held in one of the school-rooms, which has the disadvantage of being at the top of many flights of stairs. A few Copts are admitted to Holy Communion. When Mr. Wood wrote, in December, there were 106 boys in the school, most of them Mohammedans. The Girls' Boarding School, under Miss E. Kauffmann (now Mrs. Wright) and Miss J. B. Bywater, had in December 59 pupils, of whom seventeen were boarders. Eleven of the latter, and two-thirds of the whole number, were Moslems. Miss Kauffmann says:—

Moslem pupils at schools.

It is marvellous in our eyes how we have even better-class Moslem children now, whose parents let them come day after day, knowing well what kind of teaching they get here. One father hesitated much before leaving his little girl with us, asking anxiously, "Will you make her pray like the Christians? Must she read the Gospels?" And upon the answer that all the children did so, and they were mostly Moslems, he said, "Well, you teach her here at school, and I will teach her at home." Another came asking us to change the Gospels for another reading-book, saying it was too difficult for the children either to read or understand; and when he found us immovable, he threatened us with the reputation of this being called a school for converting Moslems. May the Lord grant it to be so, for it is the only kind of reputation we ever want! This happened about three months ago. The young man is a pasha's son, and the little girl, his sister, has been with us now about a year.

We have also much cause for thankfulness regarding the conduct of our boarders. There is certainly one Coptic girl of about fifteen who is a true Christian both in heart and life; always ready for any work, and doing it cheerfully; never impatient with the little ones, and the greatest help to us. Then we have a dear, untidy, thoughtful little Moslem girl of about ten, of whom the Lord has surely taken hold. She went home not long ago, and boldly told her father that Jesus is the Son of God, and the only way of salvation. Of course he told her not to repeat it; so when we were telling the children they must not keep the good news to themselves, this little girl said, "I told my father, but he will not believe it," and that evening she asked the Lord to open her father's and mother's hearts, that they might believe. May the Lord hear her!

Visiting the Homes of the people was the work of Miss J. Ellis (now Mrs. Morris), who wrote with thankfulness for the larger number of homes open to her and the greater interest attending the work as her knowledge of the language and people increased. She said, "I really do believe there are some now who truly believe on Jesus, but are afraid to own it."

Old Cairo.

As mentioned last year, the Hospital at OLD CAIRO is in a hired house. This building is both unhealthy on account of its insanitary condition, and unsuitable in other respects for its purposes, and as it seemed impossible, after repeated efforts, to rent more suitable buildings, the Committee have sanctioned a grant for the purpose of purchasing a site, and they have issued an appeal for funds to erect a hospital and dispensary at an estimated cost of £2,700. There were 79 in-patients during the year. The number of out-patients is not mentioned; it is stated, however, by Dr. F. J. Harpur that as many as 457 districts and villages were represented by the male, and 139 by the female patients. The Rev. W. Morris gave assistance in dispensing. Miss M. Cay speaks to the women while waiting for medicine, &c., and also visits in Old Cairo and neighbouring villages. She writes:—

Medical Mission.

Know more of the Bible than of the Koran.

The more I see of the Moslem women, the deeper becomes my conviction that it would be quite possible for many of them to receive the teaching of the Gospel into their hearts, and even to trust in Christ to the saving of their souls, without at all realizing that they had forsaken their own religion. They cannot read, they do not know what is in the Koran and what is not; and a woman who attends the hospital for a month knows at the end a great deal more of the Bible than of anything Mohammedan. So it may be that the word is already bearing fruit, not in manifest conversion to Christianity, but in ways of which God alone can judge.

In the spring of 1895, as in 1894, Dr. and Mrs. Harpur, with the medical assistant Dr. Agami and several missionaries, went in a dahabeyah, or house-boat, along the Tewfekey Canal. Forty-two villages were visited and 2,086 patients treated. One of the ladies of the party wrote:—

Warm welcome in the Nile villages.

In this part of the Nile Valley there are hundreds of villages, and all very thickly populated; in many there are two or three thousand people. We generally went first to the sheikh's house, and after making friends with him and drinking coffee we made our way to the women. As a rule they welcomed us very warmly, and would crowd into the room to see us. In one house they at once brought water to pour over our hands; they then brought honey, bread, cakes, and milk, which we had to drink out of very dirty bowls. When we had eaten, they brought water again for our hands. As soon as we were able to get the people a little quiet, we talked to them of the love of God, beginning with the story of Adam and Eve. They seemed greatly interested.

Miss E. Jackson, in a letter written in the summer of 1895, mentioned a visit to the tents of some Bedouins near the site of ancient Memphis, where she found some to whom the Mission Hospital was known. She wrote:—

There is a beautiful grove of palms there, and a lake, and the Bedouin tents, and, close by, the fallen statues of Rameses the Great. Mrs. Bywater and I set off for this place with a picnic party going further on to Sakkara Pyramids. When our friends left us we sat down under the palms and waited to see whom the Lord would send us.

Story of Prodigal Son told near the site of Memphis.

Soon the people gathered, and we read and talked to them a long time. Then we went off to the tents and talked to the Bedouins. They were so touched by the story of the Prodigal Son, and it had to be repeated over and over again; I saw one man wiping his eyes. We sat in the tents with Bedouins, sheep, goats—a happy family, but none so happy as we who were able to tell them of the Saviour we had found. After our return to the palms our "congregation" had gathered again, and passers-by were "compelled to come in" by the words, "Come, you haven't heard yet of the Prodigal Son, come and listen." Presently we saw a man hurrying up, out of breath, saying, "Oh, I am so glad you haven't gone yet. I met a young man who had been listening to you, and he told me of the two ladies and of the book they had given him, and I want one too." Happily we had just one Gospel left, and the new arrival, who was a superior sort of man and could read Arabic and speak French, sat on the grass and read the portion we pointed out to him. By-and-bye the donkey-men and the servants of the picnic party came up, and we had to have another little meeting for them. One man asked where we came from, and we said one from Cairo and one from Old Cairo Hospital. "Why," said a black man sitting near me, "I was there last week; my nephew is in the hospital, and my mother is with him. You have a text on the wall, 'Come unto Me, all ye that labour,' &c., and there is a black woman to wait on the patients called Gameela, and you have a well in your garden. Why, last week I pounded the linseed meal for poultices!" We were an hour by train and more than an hour further by donkey from home, and yet there we met this man, whose proofs were most convincing that he knew all about us. The men around us felt this was a kind of testimonial to us, and were much pleased, and forthwith we were shown bad eyes and told of other ailments.

"A kind of testimonial."

Miss Jackson reports on the Girls' School, which is under her care. Half the girls are Moslems, but of the elder girls the majority are Copts who remain a longer time at school, and a more marked influence is in consequence observed on their characters.

Statistics of the Egypt Mission, 1895.

Cairo.—Native Christian Lay Teachers: Male, 6; Female, 3. Native Christians: Baptized, 20. Native Communicants, 15. Schools, 2. Scholars: Boys, 63; Girls, 41. Native Contributions, exclusive of School Fees, £2.

Old Cairo.—Native Christian Lay Teachers: Male, 6; Female, 3. Native Christians: Baptized, 27. Native Communicants, 17. Baptisms during the year: Children, 3. Schools, 2. Scholars: Boys, 85; Girls, 75; Seminarist, 1. Native Contributions, exclusive of School Fees, £5.

PALESTINE MISSION.

The work in the Levant has for some years been confined to Palestine, to which the Society was invited by Bishop Gobat in 1851. The following places are occupied by European labourers: Jerusalem, 1851; Nazareth, 1852; Salt, 1873; Jaffa, 1876; Nablous, 1876; Ramallah, 1877; Gaza, 1878; Haifa, 1884; Acca, 1890; Kefr Yasif, 1892; Bir Zeit, 1892; and Ramleh, 1894. In 1887 the Society commenced to send unmarried ladies to this Mission, and their work among Mohammedan women has been greatly blessed. Medical Missions also have done much to diminish prejudice. The first Mission hospital was opened at Gaza in 1891. Since then Nablous, Acca, and Kerak have been made centres of Medical Missionary work. (See also Headnotes to "Egypt," p. 134.)

Death of Rev. A. Liggins.

In the mysterious providence of God, the Rev. A. Liggins, who in 1894 was transferred to this Mission from the Mid-China Mission, was summoned by death on October 20th, 1895, from the work on which he had most hopefully entered and from the band of workers whose esteem and affection he had completely won. A few weeks before he had proceeded with Mrs. Liggins to Mount Lebanon suffering from fever. This increased on the journey and developed into typhoid soon after he had reached his destination. He was received into the Friends' Mission Hospital at Brumana, where his death took place.

Reinforcements.

The following reinforced the Mission:—Mr. Frederick Johnson, M.B., Lond., F.R.C.S., Eng., of St. Bartholomew's Hospital; Miss Florence Brownlow, of The Willows, a daughter of General Brownlow, an esteemed member of the Committee; Miss Frances Emily Newton, sister of Miss Edith Eleanor Newton, of this Mission; and Miss Edith E. Watney, sister of the late Rev. C. E. Watney, of the Niger Mission. These sailed in October, 1895, except Miss Watney, who left in February, 1896. The Rev. W. F. Connor, who was transferred from Palestine to Egypt in 1889, has been re-transferred, as already mentioned under Egypt, and sailed in November. Miss S. L. Barker returned to the Mission in January, 1896. Several missionaries came home on short leave, returning after a few months, namely: the Rev. H. Sykes, Miss A. A. M. Bedells (on account of sickness), Miss E. E. Newton, Miss F. Patching (in order to accompany Miss Bedells), and Miss E. G. Reeve. A few weeks after her return to the Mission the illness of a near relative obliged Miss E. E. Newton to come home once more. Mrs. C. T. Wilson and Miss H. Campbell came home in September, 1895; Dr. and Mrs. J. Cropper in January, 1896; and Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Ellis, Miss C. C. Coote in April, and the Rev. J. R. L. Hall and the Rev. and Mrs. J. G. B. Hollins in May. Mrs. Wilson returned to the Mission in March, 1896. The Rev. D. M. Wilson was married to Miss M. Williams, of this Mission, in February, 1896, and Dr. Gaskoin Wright, as already mentioned under "Egypt," married Miss Kauffmann in April.

JERUSALEM.

Jerusalem.

The Rev. J. Zeller reports on the Preparandi Institution, which had its full complement of students, twenty; the Bishop Gobat Institutions.

School, with sixty-two pupils, including a lad who is the grandson of an Algerian sheikh, and whose father is a doctor, a Mohammedan who for a time was connected with Arabi Pasha, and including also an Armenian orphan from the unfortunate Diabekr district, admitted during the year; and the Printing Press. The Girls' Boarding School had twelve boarders, regarding whose conduct and industry in their work and improvement in character Miss A. Welch reports satisfactorily. The Rev. T. F. Wolters and the Arabic teacher from Jaffa, Mr. Abu Nadir, who examined the girls, stated that the results were very encouraging. A Sowers' Band among the girls raised £1 18s., which was sent to Kefr Yasif towards the new church being built there; members of the same Band received five prizes and nineteen certificates during the year for answers to Bible questions in the Children's World; and three of the teachers received a prize and two certificates for answers to Scripture questions in Awake. Miss J. Wenham gave help in the school in English and singing, &c., while engaged in the study of Arabic. The Girls' Day School considerably increased its roll of attendants. From 101 at the close of 1894, the number rose to 146 in December, 1895. A former pupil is now engaged as a pupil-teacher in the school, and a former teacher visits the parents of the girls as a Bible woman. "The ground is very hard in this land," Miss Welch writes, "but we are sent to prepare the way for our King. . . . Pray for us that we may be patient, faithful, and unwearying in our work."

Evangelistic agencies.

The Evangelistic Agencies in Jerusalem and the neighbouring villages are under the Rev. C. T. Wilson. The services in the Bible Depôt were regularly held, with varying attendance within the room, but invariably with an audience outside standing near the door. Mr. Wilson refers to encouraging circumstances connected with the village work, but he deems it more prudent to refrain from giving details. He mentions, however, a fact of much interest. A Moslem youth, of an influential family, to whom Miss A. M. Elverson gave lessons in French and English, with some other boys, soon after her first arrival in the Mission, wrote to her recently from Tunis, saying that he had gone there because he wished to follow his convictions, and that he had written to his relations telling them he was now a Christian. Some years ago he was sent to Constantinople to enter a school of engineering, and since then he had only been seen by the missionaries at Jerusalem on the occasion of his rare visits during holidays. Mr. Wilson baptized a man in the summer of 1895; and he also had under instruction for the greater part of the year a Pathan from the Punjab, who was sent with letters to the Society's missionaries at Bombay, and was subsequently admitted to the Training College at Allahabad.

Miss Elverson's report of her house visitation in the city, and her visits to some twenty villages, is very interesting. Of the city work she writes :—

Work amongst Moslem women.

In the city the Moslem women are very friendly, but of course there is a great variety in their real attitude towards the teaching. Some are afraid of it, some are curious, some inclined to argue ; some appreciate its beauty, and are evidently relieved to find it commend itself to their conscience in a way they had not been led to expect ; some assent to everything read or told, perhaps from ignorance of their own creed, or from desire to please. It is hard to discern the good ground from the bad ; for some who oppose it most at first turn out the most interested afterwards ; and those who assent at first get a warning from someone, and afterwards ward off all allusions to the Gospel. Two women, I have reason to hope, have accepted the Saviour.

The night-school class has been chiefly attended by Armenians. One has particularly interested me. He claims descent from the last king of Armenia. His remarks on the Gospel reading show a thoughtful appreciation of the holy words. He comes, too, to the boys' Sunday class, which is open to anyone, and generally includes my old cook and any of her Sunday visitors, besides a Druse who has lately been baptized, and occasionally Moslems.

The village of Kirjath Jearim was frequently visited on account of a sick woman there. This woman, who suffered from dropsy, was brought by Miss Elverson to her house in the city and treated by Dr. Cropper, of Acca, who was then at Jerusalem, but after returning home she died. Her husband appeared to take an intelligent interest in the Gospel. At Ramah, a Moslem village, Miss Elverson had an unique experience : namely, a prohibition to enter the village, with an intimation that she would be stoned if she persisted, as orders had been received from the Jerusalem authorities that English ladies were not to be allowed to enter the villages. A hint was added that backsheesh would open the way. Finding it useless to insist, Miss Elverson gave the man a gospel and a word of admonition, on which he remarked, "I told her not to come here teaching, and she is teaching me!"

"I told her not to come here teaching, and she is teaching me!"

Miss H. Attlee's work on the Mount of Olives grows year by year, and is pronounced by Mr. Wilson to be "quite unique." On two occasions the Mufti (the religious governor) of Jerusalem sent a special messenger to take down the names of those he found learning, but by God's providential ordering (so Miss Attlee is assured, and even the Moslem sheikh of the village declared it to be "min Allah"—"from God"), on each occasion Miss Attlee was absent from home. Some forty women's names were on the books, and the attendance was from 25 to 30 ; there was also a class of 25 girls, of ages between seven and sixteen. Miss Attlee wrote :—

It is interesting and delightful to see some of these poor women's minds little by little opening to understand and grasp something of the love of Christ. But no one who has not had some missionary experience can imagine how ignorant and untrained their minds are, and how they seem to think of nothing but what is happening at the moment. The thought of sin and a Judgment to come never troubles them. One girl, however, or rather young woman, the eldest in our girls' class, cheered me very much by coming in one day to me when I was sitting alone, and saying so earnestly, as if from her very heart, "If only one knew how to be saved from sin!" And when she did seem to realize the truth, unlike most, who are afraid ever to speak of Christ, she at once told her mother, "It is Jesus only who saves us from sin"; and afterwards she repeated the same to some poor women with whom she was engaged in labour on the open-air village threshing-floor, adding, "I know it is true, for I have proved it myself." This, and other instances among the married women, as well as amongst the girls, make one feel that God is working with us, and that one ought to go on expecting that in answer to prayer He will bring some of them out from the darkness of Mohammedanism into the light of Christ by true conversion. But oh! their hearts often do seem so like the "rocky ground" by which their dwellings are surrounded. They "receive the Word with joy," but have so little stability of character to endure.

"It is Jesus only who saves us from sin."

The villages of Anathoth, Geba, Michmash, to the north, and Abu Dis and Siloam, to the south, were visited, and the visits were always warmly welcomed, as were those paid to the Bedouin tents in the summer. Miss Attlee had a serious illness in November, which obliged her eventually to come home. What she wrote of the need of more prayer—a lesson which was impressed upon her mind during her illness—and her testimony to the spirit of unity prevailing among the lady workers, will be read with interest:—

Prayer a chief part of a missionary's work.

I feel more and more that certainly the chief part of a missionary's work must be prayer; for what except the power of God's Holy Spirit can convict of sin and lead to the Saviour? And when we are brought into contact with a soul, it seems to me to be chiefly in order that we may be "the Lord's remembrancers" with regard to that soul. Surely if there were more Jacob-like wrestling with God, more of the "taking no rest and giving Him no rest until He make Jerusalem" (yes, and the villages around it, and other places, too, all over the world) "a praise in the earth," we should see more results of our work. This is the lesson God has been impressing upon my mind while I have been laid aside, and I feel as if I ought to spend double or treble the amount of time and energy in prayer that I used to. One's prayers seem to me to be too easy, and to have too little of the earnestness and "striving" which St. Paul speaks of (Coloss. iv. 12, R.V.). Our dear friends at home do not even yet, I believe, realize how much they may, and do, help us by thus praying for us.

Spirit of love and unity.

I should like to bear my testimony to the true spirit of love and unity which I have felt exists between all of us lady workers, at least in the Jerusalem district, where I have spent the last happy five years. It has often made me very glad to think that during all this time, and amongst the fifteen or sixteen different ladies whom I have learnt to love, and have held intercourse with as workers in the same district, I can hardly remember hearing even the approach to an unkind or unsisterly word spoken by one missionary either to or about another; and I doubt whether this could be often said in England. Certainly our all being workers under one dear Society, with one Master as our Head, and one aim—to win souls for Him—and perhaps also the fact of our all being far from home friends, and therefore comparatively lonely—all these things together do make a bond of union between us which is very strong.

Ramallah has a congregation of 110 members, and an excellent boys' school with some 70 pupils. Mr. G. Nyland is the resident lay missionary; and the Misses F. Nuttall and C. C. Coote worked (the latter has come home) among the women and girls. Miss Nuttall says she is firmly persuaded that many of the women in the outlying villages are trusting in the Saviour. In September Mr. Wilson, of Jerusalem, who superintends the work, held devotional gatherings with the workers, European and Syrian, the addresses and prayers being in Arabic. Mohammedans often visit the book-shop, and listen to the reading of the Bible. The Syrian deacon, the Rev. H. Musa, ministers to a congregation of forty members at Tayibeh; at Jiffna and at Abood there are small congregations and schools; as also at Bir Zeit, where Miss G. F. Tindall and Miss E. E. Brodie worked in much loneliness, but with marked blessing. Miss Attlee spent a few days at Bir Zeit in the autumn, and the visit opened her eyes to the need for work among the Fellaheen Christians as well as Moslems. She wrote:—

The so-called "Christian" poor women, Greek and Latin, do not seem in most cases much, if at all, better in life, education, or in any respect than their Mohammedan neighbours; and in some cases they are far worse, on account of the horrid arrack (spirits) which they drink, and which, I grieve to say, they are gradually getting their Moslem neighbours to like too!

Willingness of Greeks to be taught.

One visit which I paid to the house of the Greek priest will show the willingness of the Greeks to be taught. After looking in at the house, which was every bit as dark and dirty as other Fellaheen houses, we preferred to sit out in the yard, where the cows and hens were walking about. So a straw mat was spread down for us, and soon the priest's wife brought the basket of wheat which she was picking (i.e., taking out the bits of stone and dirt from it, an occupation which employs them for a while daily preparatory to grinding the corn). Other women followed, and presently the priest himself, in his long black gown and tall hat, which looked strangely out of keeping with his surroundings! To my surprise he took his seat on the ground amongst the audience, and after saluting us kindly, encouraged us to go on reading and talking to the women, saying that they only thought of their corn-sifting and matters of that sort, and needed reminding of sacred things. We had previously noticed this same priest listening secretly behind a wall at the outdoor service held in the street on Sundays by our C.M.S. teacher. We read the account of our Lord's walking upon the water, &c., and the whole group listened as though they might never have heard the Bible-stories before. I took the opportunity of putting before them their duty, as Christians, of representing Christianity as it ought to be in the sight of their Moslem neighbours, and not disgracing the name of Christ, as so many of them so sadly do.

JAFFA.

Jaffa.

The Rev. T. F. Wolters, in his Annual Letter, dwells on the peculiar difficulties which beset aggressive work in this Mission. Writing in December, when the English Government, in concert with the other European Powers, was pressing upon Turkey the necessity for administrative reforms in its Asiatic provinces, Mr. Wolters says the English name was abhorred by Moslems, which added a double prejudice to be faced—that against the message for its own sake, and that against the bearer of the message. An Egyptian Moslem was baptized at JAFFA in the Mission-chapel on Palm Sunday, 1895, after a lengthened course of instruction. His conduct after baptism did not give satisfaction, and he went eventually to Cairo, where he appears to have tried to do better—so at least it was reported to Mr. Wolters. The Rev. J. G. B. and Mrs. Hollins' health obliged them in the summer to go to Mount Carmel, where they made a somewhat prolonged stay, he prosecuting his language studies there. The attendance of the Congregation is good, especially on Sunday mornings; and the Schools keep up well. Miss E. Armstrong observes a decided improvement in the behaviour of the school children during the past few years; the parents, too, begin to appreciate the advantages of education, the boys are left longer at school, and anxiety is shown to get them passed on to the Gobat School or the American College at Beyrout to complete their studies. Many of the lads also show a decided preference for the simple services of the Mission church as compared with the more elaborate ritual of the Greek Church, and attend the former from choice. In the infants' school some ninety children, mostly of the age of seven, are taught, all of whom, Miss Campbell says, can read, write, and do simple sums, and are even learning to read English. A large working party of native ladies is held weekly, to whom Mr. Wolters delivers an address in Arabic. Miss Armstrong and her Bible-woman, notwithstanding being hindered for a season by illness, spoke personally to over 1,000 individuals, paying visits lasting from half-an-hour to an hour and a half, and earnestly pressing home the truth. Miss F. Brownlow and Miss F. E. Newton joined the staff of ladies in October.

Schools.

Work among Women.

At Lydd the Moslem night-school, which had been closed, was reopened, and had some 25 boys, while forty Moslem girls are in the girls' school. Altogether some ninety Moslem women and children are under instruction at this place. For four months —from December, 1894, till the following March—Miss E. A. Cooke and Miss F. L. A. Roberts lodged in a hotel at Ramleh, but at the end of March they went into their own house, hired from an Armenian priest, whom they describe as "a very kind, good old man." In this house the people visit them freely, from the rich Effendi and his wife to the ragged Fellaheen.

GAZA.

Gaza Hospital.

In the Hospital at GAZA the Rev. Dr. R. Sterling treated 219 in-patients and 14,277 out-patients during the year, to whom, and to their friends and relatives who were often present, the Gospel was preached. Two services of half-an-hour each are held from 7.30 to 8.30 A.M. for the in-patients and out-patients respectively, at which the audiences consist almost entirely of Moslems. Dr. Sterling gives the following instances of encouragement: —

An incident of an interesting nature occurred recently. An Effendi belonging to one of the best families in Gaza had been under treatment for calculus, and was eventually relieved by operation. Some time afterwards he had a complicated illness, and in obedience to my wish he occupied a private room in the hospital, as he was suffering much. I did not adopt the usual plan of putting the Gospel before him, but in a few days, when feeling better, he said to me, "Why did I not read and talk to him as to the other patients?" I was only too glad to have the opportunity, and forthwith proceeded to read and explain the Scriptures to him. Simultaneously he began reading the Gospel, and in a comparatively short time had read the whole of the New Testament. Then at his request I gave him the Old Testament. He made no secret of his reading, and the Gospel was always by his side, even after his return home. On visiting him shortly after, his cousin was present, who asked me "if I could read, and if I would do so." Whereupon I read part of the Sermon on the Mount, and also took the opportunity to apply it. At my next visit I found the Effendi rather distressed because his cousin had taken the Gospel that he might read it, having been so much pleased and astonished at what he had heard. I soon gave him another copy, and he is still reading. May the Holy Spirit open the eyes of their understanding, that they may come to the knowledge of the Truth! He showed his gratitude by presenting me with a fine Arab colt, and the dispenser, who acted as nurse, with a partnership in a mare.

An Effendi reads the whole of the New Testament.

Several Moslems have asked me for copies of Scriptures during the past year, and others again have been induced to read them.

In the spring of 1895 the Rev. C. T. Wilson, of Jerusalem (who was one of the first Uganda party) gave an Arabic lecture on Uganda, illustrated with lantern views, and the story was listened to with great interest by many Moslem Effendis and by well-to-do Christians of the Greek and Latin Churches. A working party conducted by Miss H. Campbell (now at home) made garments which were sent to the Agarparah Orphanage, near Calcutta. In the summer a visit was paid to Gaza by Miss Nicholson, of the Jaffa Hospital, and Miss Campbell writes in grateful terms of the blessing which attended her visit: —

Dr. Sterling gave us leave to have what meetings we liked; so women were invited every afternoon, and men in the evening. Miss N.'s colporteur —who is one of the few Natives on fire for Christ and souls—as well as others, Mualim Elias from our book-shop especially, invited them, and they came. We were crowded out in the evenings, so we decided to hang lamps up in the courtyard and have our meetings there; and for ten successive nights they came—160 or more men, of all sorts and conditions, "learned" and "fellah"—and sat side by side to hear the message given in such clear, idiomatic Arabic that they said: "We understand (kul kilmat) every word"; and the teachers also told me afterwards, "She has made us understand these things in a way we never did before." Thank God for her message; He sent her to the Moslems by a distinct call of His Spirit, and wherever she goes Moslems come. Beginning with "Sin" as the first evening's subject, then "Salvation," "The Blood," "Justification," "The Doctrine of the Trinity," "The Atonement," &c., each night, till on the Saturday before Whit-Sunday she wound up with "The Work of the Holy Spirit." Ah! I felt His power as we sat there in the moonlight. It was a scene never to be forgotten, and we thank God for the effect it produced on our native teachers, &c. To God be the glory and praise! Many women came in the afternoon, and were dealt with more simply.

The Schools Dr. Sterling reports to be in a satisfactory state. The children are "all bright and intelligent, with wonderful memories, and an equally wonderful knowledge of the letter of Scripture."

For several months of the year Dr. Sterling paid weekly visits to Mejdel, near the ruins of ancient Askelon, and the work there was very encouraging. Sometimes the passage which he had chosen, bearing as a rule on our Lord's Divinity and crucifixion, was read and paraphrased to the people by one of the sheikhs present. Miss Nicholson spent some weeks at this place also.

NABLOUS (DENIS CROFTON MISSION).

Nablous Hospital.

Several attempts were made during the year at NABLOUS to get the Hospital closed. Petitions were sent to Beyrout and to Constantinople, signed in one instance by some of the local doctors and others possessing more or less of influence. In one of them it was falsely alleged that the patients were fed on swines' flesh and were given wine to drink, both which are forbidden to Mohammedans. But friends were raised up even among the Moslems. The Mufti himself, the local religious head of the Mohammedans, sent an aged man who was sick with a request that he might be taken in, and the municipal authorities sent an old woman who had been picked up ill on the road near the town, there being no accommodation for women in the municipal hospital. The women's ward was enlarged, and can now take in fourteen patients. Altogether there were 120 in-patients and upwards of ten thousand out-patients—Protestants, Roman Catholics, Greek Catholics, Jews, Samaritans, and Moslems—but most by far of the last. Miss Adamson's help in nursing is much valued. A site has been chosen for a new hospital outside the town in lieu of the present one, which is only, as explained last year, an old café—very small, and very far from being rain-proof. Dr. Wright is sure the hospital is breaking down the prejudices of the people, and the Rev. C. Fallscheer mentions the following incident, which shows that this is the case:—

Prejudices diminishing.

> One day our bookshop-keeper (who takes the morning and evening prayers in the hospital four times a week, and who visits the out-stations on Saturdays to hold the Sunday service) passed through a Moslem village on one of his journeys. A young man saw him who had been in the hospital, and who had heard his Bible-reading and prayers, and this young man insisted that the bookshop-keeper should dismount from his horse and enter his house. Then he made him breakfast; and according to the custom many people assembled to do honour to the stranger. Then the young man told all the people how much obliged he was to the English for their kindness to him in the hospital. He praised our Holy Scriptures and prayers, and told them all that he had seen and heard in the hospital.

Mr. Fallscheer also furnishes an interesting case of a Mohammedan who died, as he believes, trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ, as an indirect fruit of school work:—

You will be glad to hear that in Tobaz, where we have a school, a Mohammedan "died in the Lord." He heard the Gospel from a married woman who was formerly in our school. She and her husband were neighbours of the deceased in Tobaz, and in the evenings he often went to them, and the woman used to read to him from the Word of God. He became a believer, and I gave him a Bible, in which he used to read himself. By the grace of God, and with the help of our teacher, he made great progress in knowledge.

An old man's dying confession.

After a time he became very ill, and before he died a sheikh visited him and wished to read or recite a portion from the Koran, but he said, "I do not wish to hear it." Then the sheikh said, "Say there is only one God, and Mohammed is His Prophet." "No!" answered the sick man, "I believe that Jesus is the Son of God, and the Saviour of the world," and then he fell asleep. God has wonderful ways in which to save His people.

And Miss E. G. Reeve mentions another case which afforded her some encouragement. A daughter of a well-to-do Moslem, who had learned to read in a Mohammedan school, asked for a Bible, and both she and other members of her family showed much friendliness. Miss Reeve has a Sunday class of young women, with whom she keeps up in their homes, after their marriage, the acquaintance formed in the class. She, with the Bible-woman, are always welcomed by both Moslem and Christian women, but the reading of the Word of God is tolerated rather than welcomed.

Attack on the Mission.

On November 8th, a Mussulman mob who were following a party of soldiers attacked the Mission premises and also the Roman Catholic convent, but the consequences were mercifully not at all serious, and the commendable promptitude of the officials prevented the disturbance from being repeated. Dr. Wright wrote at the time:—

"The very day when our brethren and sisters were praying for us."

Yesterday about two o'clock in the afternoon a very determined attack was made on the C.M.S. Mission station and church by a mob of some 500 people. Thank God, no very serious damage was done, although several hundred stones were thrown, but this is attributable partly to there being shutters to most of the windows, and also to the fact that the buildings are some distance from the road; but principally, I am sure, to God's wonderful protecting care, for the riot took place on November 8th, the very day on which all our dear brethren and sisters in the Lord were praying for us all over the world. It was so ordered that the attack took place at the very time that the Turkish general was paying a visit to Mr. Fallscheer, and when he heard the shouting he came out, and as soon as he saw the crowd he drew his sword; another officer also did the same, and some soldiers who belonged to the general drove back the mob with the butt-end of their guns. Thus we were mercifully delivered, and only one of the church windows was broken, and one of our people, the Bible-man, had his head cut open.

Rafidieh is less than half an hour's ride from Nablous, and almost entirely consists of Christians. Miss Reeve visits it weekly, and goes monthly to Nisf-el-Jebel and Burka, which are two hours distant. Tobaz is four, and Zebabdeh five hours off. The Fellaheen inhabitants of these out-stations are very friendly, but their ignorance of everything except their cows and their corn renders it most difficult to instruct them. The schools are closed in these villages during the summer, as the boys are engaged in the harvest, collecting olives, &c.

NAZARETH, HAIFA, ACCA, AND KEFR YASIF.

Nazareth. The Rev. Chalil Jamal compares the congregation at NAZARETH as regards its spiritual state to a man recovering from a serious illness, referring apparently to the effects of the divisions among them a few years since. The meetings during the week of united prayer were largely attended. The schools in the district are seven in number, with 280 boys. The little congregation at Reneh is a source of trial by reason of the discord which prevails among its members; but at Shefamer the work gives much encouragement. At the latter place forty families belonging to the Greek Catholics desire to join the congregation. Mr. Jamal refused to admit them, and proffered his good offices to reconcile them with their priests. They persisted in wishing to be received, and eventually a promise was held out to them that if their conduct was satisfactory through a period of several months' probation they should be duly registered according to their wish.

Haifa. Miss M. A. Daniels is at HAIFA, and reports a considerable increase in the school attendance.

Acca. Dr. and Mrs. J. Cropper arrived at ACCA in November, but were obliged to come home on account of the latter's health in January, 1896. The Misses E. C. and A. Wardlaw Ramsay laboured together with many encouragements among the women and girls. The former says that she could write of conversions during the past two years if it were wise to do so, and she observes signs of a deepening of the spiritual life in some of the members of the congregation. She attributes the latter in some measure to a notice which appeared in an Arabic newspaper, which stated that many people thought that the Second Coming of our Lord was drawing near, and that He might come at any time. For some time the Lord's Coming was a constant subject of conversation, and questions were repeatedly asked the Misses Wardlaw Ramsay when they visited the people. The congregation has increased in number. The book-shop proves a most valuable auxiliary. The Rev. J. G. B. Hollins, who visited Acca while staying on Mount Carmel for his health, wrote:—

Sanctifying effect of expectation of Christ's Second Coming.

Number of men reading God's Word.

> It was quite an inspiration to be present on several occasions and see the numbers of men, Mohammedans and Greeks, reading God's Holy Word and conversing with our agents concerning the way of salvation.

The book-shop keeper conducted a boys' Sunday school, which was opened early in 1895. Miss E. C. Wardlaw Ramsay had Bible readings twice a week in two encampments of straw-mat makers about an hour-and-a-half's ride from Acca. These people are Mohammedans, and live in straw huts, and, as they know little of their own religion, seemed more open on that account to the Gospel.

Kefr Yasif.

A firman has at length been granted for building a church at KEFR YASIF, and the foundation was laid in November. Some of the officials of the Greek Church who opposed the application have become somewhat more friendly. Mrs. Low comments on the carelessness of many members of the congregation regarding the Lord's Day. It is the day most frequently chosen for the visits of hawkers and costermongers, because the men are then at home, and for the same reason the revenue collector from Acca is very liable to call then. Compromises with harmful practices of another kind sometimes occur, such as accompanying the Moslems and the Druses to their sacred places to offer prayer for rain, or joining processions when children have been vowed to the Virgin Mary or to one of the saints. Miss L. W. Lewis' chief work was language study, but she gave important help by teaching singing to the congregation and the school children. Mrs. Low visits the boys' and girls' week-day schools and conducts the Sunday school; she also holds meetings for women, who, although unable to read, have committed to memory a number of "the most important texts." At Birwe the attitude of the Moslems was at one time very menacing, and the Christian women and children were sent away to other villages for safety. Mrs. Low believes the Holy Spirit is working in the hearts of several of the professing Christians in the village.

Careless ness regarding the Sabbath.

The Rev. H. Sykes took over charge of the above district in February, 1896.

SALT AND THE HAURAN.

Salt.

An interesting account of SALT was given in the Gleaner for November, 1895, by the Rev. H. Sykes, from which the following extracts are taken:—

Salt, or in its more dignified literary dress, Es-Salt, is situated some fifty miles north-east of Jerusalem, well up in the highlands of Gilead, 2,700 feet above the sea-level of the Mediterranean, and 4,000 feet above that of the Dead Sea.

The name is generally taken to be derived from the Latin word saltus, meaning forest or wood, in allusion to the woods, mostly of small oaks, which are still considerable in the neighbourhood, and which at one time must have been very extensive indeed (cf. 2 Sam. xviii. 6, where "the wood of Ephraim" was most likely in Gilead).

How the work began.

And how did work ever come to be taken up in this little "corner of the earth"? The origin seems to have been on this wise. About thirty years ago the Rev. Chalil Jamal's father, who is still alive, used to go over to Salt from Jerusalem to buy corn. He carried with him a copy of the Scriptures, and used to stay with a Mr. Kubasy, the father of some of the present members of our congregation. Old Mr. Kubasy was much interested in this book, and got Mr. Jamal to give him a copy. With a few more he used to "search the Scriptures." The light dawned, and at last he and his friends sent a petition to Bishop Gobat of Jerusalem to send them a catechist. This Bishop Gobat did, engaging a man, of whom he had heard, from Baghdad, Mr. Behnam Hassuny by name, who is still alive and working at Acca. In 1873 the work was taken over by the C.M.S.

The Rev. D. M. Wilson resided at Salt for two months in the summer of 1895, and in March, 1896, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson took up their abode there. The day schools, he says, are in a flourishing condition. The children by their good behaviour and their remarkable power of memory excited his special interest, the drawback being their entire abstention from the use of soap! Mr. Wilson visited the out-stations Ajlun and El Husn with the Rev. H. Sykes in November, and went forward to Damascus, passing en route through an encampment of soldiers whom the Turkish Government had sent against the Druses. At Jedeidah, the northernmost out-station, three hours south-west of Damascus, they were pleased with the answers of the school children.

Kerak. Dr. F. Johnson, one of the year's recruits, arrived at KERAK, in the land of Moab, to which station he was appointed by the Committee, in January, 1896. He experienced at once some opposition from the local Governor, who made various objections to his practising in the place but refused to give a written statement of his demands. After an interview with Dr. Johnson and the Rev. H. Sykes, who arrived at Kerak about the same time as Dr. Johnson, the Governor gave expression to threats of expulsion, and even of "punishment," if medicines were given away. Soldiers were placed at the gate of the Mission premises, one of whom followed anyone leaving those premises, and two men were imprisoned, one for receiving medicine and the other because his wife had been attended by Dr. Johnson.

PERSIA AND BAGHDAD MISSION.

Persia, though one of the youngest of the Society's Missions, was one of the first countries thought of by the Committee, and was mentioned in each of the first two Annual Reports. Henry Martyn stayed ten months in the country in 1811. Since 1834 an American Mission has laboured with much blessing among the Nestorian Christians. In 1869 the Rev. R. Bruce, of the C.M.S., visited Persia on his way back to India, and finding the Moslems of Ispahan and its neighbourhood not unwilling to discuss religious subjects, he took up his abode there, and gathered round him some few of these, and a considerable number of Armenian Christians who were dissatisfied with their corrupt form of worship. He also opened schools, &c. In 1875 the Society formally adopted his work as one of its Missions. Ladies were added to the staff in 1891.

In 1882 the Mission was extended by the occupation of Baghdad, which, though in the Turkish Empire, has opportunities for Persian work (work, however, which the C.M.S. has only been able very intermittently to carry on), being in the immediate neighbourhood of the sacred places of the Shiah Mohammedans, and therefore the resort of thousands of pilgrims from all parts of Persia.

Reinforcement.

THE Rev. and Mrs. A. R. Blackett, who were mentioned in last year's Report as having been sent out by the Victoria C.M. Association to join the Persia Mission, and as having visited England en route, proceeded on their way in September, accompanied by the Rev. and Mrs. C. H. Stileman, returning to the Mission. Miss Philippa Braine-Hartnell, a daughter of the late Rev. G. T. Braine-Hartnell, Vicar of Liskeard, who had for some time resided in Julfa, and had already passed, "with great credit," the final language examination, joined the Mission in local connexion in April, 1896. The Rev. H. Carless came home in October.

A valuable contribution to the study of Islam from the pen of the Rev. W. St. Clair Tisdall was published during the year by the S.P.C.K., named The Religion of the Crescent, a reprint of four lectures which Mr. Tisdall delivered while at home in connexion with the James Long Lectureship Fund. Mr. Stileman has succeeded Mr. Tisdall as Secretary of the Mission.

JULFA.

Disturbances at Julfa.

The dangers incurred by Christians living in Mohammedan lands at a time of religious excitement are well illustrated by disturbances which took place at JULFA at the beginning of 1896. On January 18th two Mohammedan night watchmen in an opium factory owned by a European firm were found lying dead in a small room in which they had locked themselves and in which a charcoal fire had been burning. It was quite evident that they had been suffocated in their sleep by the charcoal fumes, and the doctors certified to that effect. A cry, however, was raised by a number of Mohammedans that the men had been murdered either by Europeans or Armenians, and an excited crowd assembled, which the Governor of Julfa with some difficulty dispersed and then barred the gates. The following morning, which was a Sunday, one of the gates was broken down by a mob, but again the Governor succeeded in restoring order. On Monday the dead bodies were obtained by the rioters and taken to Ispahan, where they were displayed as the bodies of "true believers" who had been done to death by the European and Armenian "infidels." The mob was encouraged by one of the leading mujtahids, and an attack on Julfa seemed imminent. The Prince Governor, however, announced his intention of protecting Julfa, stating that he knew the men had not been murdered, but had been suffocated through their own carelessness. Not until the following Thursday did the Prince Governor succeed in getting the bodies buried, and then only by threats to fire on the people if they further withstood his order.

Living in close proximity to a large fanatical population, ready to be excited, as the above proves, by the most idle rumour, it is matter for thankfulness that the missionaries are able to report that they had been permitted through 1895 to carry on their work with but little interruption, and not without encouragement.

Armenian Congregation.

The Armenian Congregation is under the Armenian deacon, the Rev. Minas George, whom Bishop French ordained in 1883. Bishop Stuart confirmed fifty adult candidates at their own expressed desire in January, 1895. The number of communicants at Easter and on Christmas Day was 104 and 111. It is from this congregation that the catechists and school teachers employed in the Mission work have been obtained, as also the colporteurs employed by the British and Foreign Bible Society in Persia. These agents owe their intellectual training to the Armenian Boys' School, with 117 pupils, of whom forty are Protestants, five Roman Catholics, seventy-one Gregorians, and one non-Christian. The head master, Mr. C. M. Johannes, was formerly in the Nasik School of the Western India Mission. A boys' Sunday school has ninety-five pupils.

Persian School.

The Persian School, under its head master, Mr. J. Aidinyantz, and superintended by the Rev. W. A. Rice, has thirty-five scholars. These boys live in Ispahan, and have to walk nearly three miles to and from school. Many of the Persians attach great value to a sound moral training together with a good education for their sons, and some have even asked on this account that their sons might be admitted into the Armenian School.

Visitors.

Bishop Stuart had numerous Visitors, some of them gentlemen of good social position and education, but their calls were prompted merely by civility or curiosity, and only in a few instances could a candid hearing for the Divine message be obtained. Miss Stuart also received lady visitors in her room, furnished in Persian fashion, and generally found an opportunity of reading to them the Scriptures, and telling the story of Christ's love. The Bishop visited several of the principal mullahs in Ispahan. Pfander's writings he finds are not unknown among them, and the Bible has in some cases been read either in Arabic or Persian. His visits were always received with courtesy, but unprofitable controversy was started immediately in almost every instance. This visiting, besides schools and dispensaries and preaching at the Persian service, is the only means of reaching Persians, as street or bazaar preaching is impossible. The Persian Services were taken by Mr. Tisdall, and were very well attended by Armenian Christians and Persian visitors; the latter, who occupy the gallery of the church, generally listened with marked attention to the preaching. Some Armenians as well as Persians attend Mr. Tisdall's Persian Bible-class. Mr. Tisdall is engaged in translating Sweet First-Fruits from the original Arabic into Persian; he has written several Persian dialogues to meet certain religious difficulties which often prevent Moslems from studying the Bible; and he has prepared an Arabic grammar in Persian. His Kurdish translation of St. John, referred to last year, is now being circulated by the British and Foreign Bible Society. The Printing Press, called the "Henry Martyn Memorial Press," issued 1,000 copies of a Beluchi version of St. Matthew in the Persian character, translated by the Rev. A. Lewis, formerly of the Punjab and Sindh Mission. The Hospital at Julfa had 234 in-patients, namely, 211 Persians, twenty Armenians, and three Jews. Dr. D. W. Carr meets his Armenian helpers for a quarter of an hour's prayer-meeting daily before the hospital is opened, and the patients are interceded for individually. A catechist spends most of his time among the patients, and, as Dr. Carr says, "seed is being sown, the ground is being prepared, bigotry is being broken down, and prejudices are disarmed." Miss H. L. Conner's help as matron of the hospital is much appreciated. Dr. Carr had towards the close of 1895 more applications than previously from influential men in Ispahan, for help, including some near relatives of the Prince Governor. On two occasions also he was requested as the nearest doctor to see European patients at Yezd, a distance of 245 miles from Julfa, and involving each time from five to seven days in the journey on horseback to and fro, riding day and night except during the necessary intervals for rest and food —"rather exhausting work," as he is entitled to say. The dispensary was open for out-patients on three days a week, and a second dispensary in Jubbareh, the Jewish quarter of Ispahan, is open on two days, Monday being reserved specially for operations, of which Dr. Carr had 174. Miss Bird opened a Women's Dispensary in her own house on two days weekly, and registered 10,587 attendances in ten months, notwithstanding an order issued by the mullahs forbidding the women to go, and spies posted on the road to drive them away. "Many of the patients came from a distance on mules or donkeys, from the villages as well as the city. The long line of these, which on dispensary days half block the street, is a proof in evidence of the eager desire for her medical work," are the words of the general report of the Mission, which proceeds: "On Christmas Day no fewer than two hundred of some former patients came by invitation in successive relays to offer their salutations, and to hear from her the story once more of the birth of Him Who is the Saviour of the body as well as of the soul." Miss Bird mentions, writing in November, the following cases to which she was called in Ispahan :—

Miss Bird called in to see a dervish's daughter,

Only last week a dervish's daughter asked me to come and see her sister. When I arrived, I found twenty-two sufferers collected. The girl said to them, "Sit quiet, while the hakîm prays. She is not an infidel ; she always prays first, and then sees her patients." In another house a poor mother was weeping bitterly. Two little ones had died of diphtheria within three days, and the only surviving child had sickened. I tried to tell of the home for little children, and our hope of reunion through the saving merits of Christ. She called her husband, saying, "Sayyid, Sayyid, come ! The hakîm says things to make one's heart glad. Our children are not lost ; we may see them again ! Why did no one tell me this before ?"

and a relation of the Governor.

"Strange, strange !"

The Ruknu'l Mulk's (governor of the town) sister-in-law being ill, a farash was sent for me. About half-way to town he suddenly turned round, asking : "Do you know me ? I used to be sent to keep women away from your dispensary in Der Dasht ; now I am to bring you for our lady. Strange, strange !" Returning we had, at his own request, a long talk about religion. After a time he said : "I always thought you had no proofs for your religion, but you have. But show me what your faith does. You say you do not believe in works of supererogation, nor pilgrimages. Your faith does nothing." I told of the expulsive power of the new affection, and works of the Spirit. He replied : "Love, mercy, truth, purity. We talk of these, but have not got them. That is a strong proof."

The baptism of a Sayyid named Yuhanna in February, 1895 was mentioned last year. In the following month, on March 24th, an old Persian villager, Yusuf, and two converts, a man and his son aged eighteen, from Najifabad were baptized. All were called to undergo persecution, and poor old Yusuf in particular was brutally flogged again and again for his faith in Christ. In August a body of over twenty-five armed men tried to find him in order to kill him outright, but through God's providence were prevented from doing so. He has been very helpful in instructing other inquirers, reading and praying with them in their homes, though his eyesight is very weak. Again, on Good Friday, April 12th, a woman, aged eighteen, whose name is variously spelt "Sheckinah" and "Sakinah," and her infant boy, were baptized. She had long been under instruction, and had given proof of her sincerity by enduring persecution and opposition from her own family. Her husband had divorced her on the ground of her being subject to fits. She had been under treatment at the dispensary for some time, and there she became an inquirer and applied for baptism. After baptism the mullahs of her village—Hasseinabad, near Julfa—induced her relatives to prevent her visits to Julfa for further instruction, and to effect this her uncle beat her on one occasion with a muleteer's chain, wounding her badly in the face and endangering her eyesight. Her patient endurance so mollified this man that he expressed sorrow for his action and threw the blame on the mullahs. In July fears were entertained for her safety, and she was taken by her brother-in-law, her sister's husband (himself a candidate for baptism), to Miss Bird, and when the headman of her village applied for her the Bishop and missionaries declined to give her up against her will. Mr. Tisdall relates the sequel :—

A convert's surrender demanded.

They went to Agha Najifi and lodged a complaint against us for detaining her. The latter ordered them to summon all the inhabitants of the village. This was done, and with trumpet-sounding and banner-waving, all the people, about 300 in number, marched into Ispahan and stirred up an immense tumultuous mob, who assembled at the chief mosque, ready to march to Julfa, break into our houses, and take her by force. They also sent to tell the Prince Governor that we must be compelled to surrender her.

The latter sent the Governor of Julfa (his near relative, a Moslem) with an official of his own household, to the Bishop to insist on her surrender. The Bishop asked me to be present at the interview. These men said they had orders to take her dead or alive, and told us that 10,000 men (some allowance must be made for Oriental exaggeration) were going to force their way into our houses and carry her off, besides doing rather unpleasant things to us. We, of course, replied that we could not hand her over to be murdered, but that if the Prince had any commands for us, he must communicate them to us through the British Acting-Consul, Mr. Aganoor. After trying in vain to change our decision, the officials in question got Mr. Aganoor to go with them to see the Prince, who had also himself summoned him by letter. The matters detailed in this paragraph took from 2 to 4 P.M.

At about 6 P.M. Mr. Aganoor, accompanied by the Agha Bashi, or head eunuch of the Prince's harem, returned to the Bishop's house. He produced a most peremptory order from the Prince to himself in writing, directing him to hand over Sakineh to his Agha Bashi. The Acting-Consul told us that the city was in a tumult, that the Prince could do nothing, and that the mob was on its way to break into our houses. He said the lives of all the Europeans here, and perhaps those of the Americans also, were in imminent danger, and ordered us to give the girl up, saying that through being a Christian converts he was doomed by the Mohammedan law (unless she concealed her faith), yet her one life must not be weighed against those of so many hundreds of Christians. We differed from him, and positively refused to give her up to the Persians; but we said that, as the Prince ordered him to give her up, we would, by his orders as H.B. Majesty's representative, surrender her to him (the Acting-Consul). He was unwilling to accede to this, but at last did. He promised to write officially to demand her from the Bishop, and meanwhile got a document from the Agha Bashi, promising in the Prince's name that the girl should not be hurt. Meanwhile Julfa was filling with the people from town, and the shouts of the multitude were audible in the distance. There was no doubt whatever that within an hour this house would be forcibly entered by the mob and the woman killed. Under these circumstances the only chance for her life was to yield to the Acting-Consul. The Bishop accordingly, as head of the Mission, brought the Acting-Consul and the Agha Bashi over here, and under protest formally surrendered the girl and her child to the British Representative, by putting her hand in his. Mr. Aganoor at once surrendered her to the Agha Bashi.

Given up under protest to British Representative.

Happily the Prince Governor withstood the demand of the influential mullah, Agha Najifi, to deliver the girl to him. She was placed in the Palace anderîm as a servant to one of the Prince's family. In an interview with the Prince she avowed herself a Christian. "With uplifted eyes towards heaven, she seemed to be praying," the Prince remarked. Sakinah was seen a few months later by Mrs. Carr and Miss Stuart when calling on the ladies of the palace. She was well in health, but evidently sad and lonely, and greatly missing Christian companionship. The outburst of fanaticism in connexion with Sakinah alarmed some of the inquirers from persevering, but not all. A girl of sixteen, asked if it was true that she had learnt a prayer beginning "Our Father," replied "Yes," and offered to repeat it, but was not permitted to do so. She was then beaten —only slightly, however—and bound by a fine of £2 not to go for teaching again; but she said, "I cannot stay away, I get so unhappy."

An inquirer beaten and fined.

The Bishop visited Najifabad on five occasions, remaining a week on one of his visits, in April, 1895, when the Sunday services were crowded. He went in July to Soh, accompanied by his daughter and Miss E. C. Davies-Colley and Miss A. Stirling, who spent a busy fortnight there among the women. The Bishop writes of his experience at Soh:—

> I was much encouraged by the friendly reception I met with from all classes, including even the Seyyids at the two Imamzâdah shrines (the reputed tombs of Moslem saints), the blue domes of which are a striking feature in the landscape of the well-watered and fertile valley, surrounded by bare and rocky hills. . . . But I was not prepared to find many who could read intelligently. There was quite a keen demand for Gospels and New Testaments, and for such tracts as we had to give, the product of the "Henry Martyn" Lithographic Press at Julfa.

A keen demand for Gospels at Soh.

And again, in September the Bishop itinerated with Miss Stuart and Miss H. L. Conner in the district of Feridan, travelling in tents, and visiting Persian, Armenian, and Georgian villages. "Nothing but kindness" was received during the eighteen days of this tour, and everywhere the message had a ready hearing. Special interest was taken in the Georgians, descendants of captives carried away from their native land two or three centuries ago, and forcibly converted to the religion of their Mohammedan rulers. Miss Conner says of these people:—

> Now they seem to be almost without religion. Except for a few traditions they are entirely ignorant of Christianity, and they seem to have no real belief in Mohammed. We were told that still some of the Georgian mothers, with a pathetic, ignorant clinging to a former faith, bring their newly-born babes by night to the neighbouring Armenian villages, there to receive baptism.
> I paid one visit, with Bishop Stuart, to a village close to Hizarjarub, where, as usual, the presence of English people attracted a crowd. Bishop Stuart was taken by the chief man of the village to an upper room, as an honoured guest. I asked if, instead, I might be allowed to go into the kitchen, where I saw a number of women. It was a large room, but in a few minutes it was filled by women and children, with a fringe of men round the doorways, and, after the first few minutes, which were spent in answering the usual questions as to my age, parentage, &c.—which become almost a formula in village-visiting—they settled down to listen with surprising attention and politeness to my halting Persian. I began by asking if all present were Georgians, and being assured of that I plunged into my subject by saying that I had heard that they were not Mohammedans at heart, and by asking if they wished to be taught the doctrines of their former faith.

Intercourse with Georgians.

Almost without exception they owned to having no faith in Islam, and begged for teaching, which I longed to have the power and opportunity to give. I talked to them for about an hour, taught them a text and a simple prayer, and left them with great regret, and a promise, if God so willed, to return another year.

Visits to Yezd and Kirman.

The Rev. H. Carless, who has since come home, made a tour extending over five months, in which he made prolonged visits to Yezd and Kirman, travelling to the latter by a route he had not before traversed, and through country where probably for the first time the Gospel was preached. He was never before so much encouraged or had so many inquiries, both in towns and villages, as on this tour.

BAGHDAD.

Baghdad Medical Mission.

The Medical Work of Dr. H. M. Sutton at BAGHDAD was the object of much opposition during the year, which caused him no small measure of pain and anxiety. It gave occasion, however, for a remarkable manifestation of friendliness in a quarter where he scarcely looked for it. A petition in favour of the hospital work was signed by about 320 people of position and influence, Mohammedans and Jews as well as Christians, and sent to the Wali, with the result that the opposition ceased entirely and immediately. The Rev. J. T. Parfit, and the Misses A. Phillips and A. Wilkes, of the New South Wales C.M. Association, who reached Baghdad in April, 1895, were engaged in language study throughout the year, and Mr. Parfit naturally called to mind that the confusion of tongues took place, it is supposed, within fifty miles of Baghdad. The little Congregation consists, with a few exceptions, of those employed at the hospital and dispensary and by the B. & F.B.S.; there is also among them a convert from Judaism, and another from Islam. The attendance averages about fifty. Yakoub Yohanna, the Moslem convert baptized in November, 1891, has had a sad trial, his wife, after suffering the strain for two years of living in almost constant expectation of death from the hands of her relatives, having urged him either to renounce Christianity or to divorce her. Miss Wilkes (now Mrs. Zwemer) said of her, "I believe she really loves the Lord, but is full of fear, poor thing!" After long delay permission has been received from the Porte to open a school at Baghdad in connexion with the Mission. Dr. Sutton made a tour to Kermanshah in May, 1895.

INDIA.

An article in the Times of December 28th on "Travel and Geography in 1895" had the statement that "operations had been in progress during the year for determining the difference of longitude between Greenwich and India by way of Teheran." It appears that the present longitude of Madras, to which all Indian stations are referred, is known to be over two miles wrong, and the object of the above-named operations is to get rid of this inconvenience, and so make the Indian maps accord, so far as longitude is concerned, with maps of other parts of the world. In other words, the Mohammedan lands of Western Asia, which for centuries presented an impenetrable barrier between European countries and the East, are now at length being utilized in some small degree for advancing the more accurate knowledge of the former regarding the latter. The scientist's compass, in order to describe a circle touching the limits of Europe on the one side, and those of India on the other, needed, and has at length found, a standing place in Persia.

Opening doors to Central Asia.

It may be in God's mysterious Providence that the Christianity which Islam so long kept from India shall at length through India effectually reach Islam itself. Very slowly it is true, but moving steadily and uninterruptedly, events appear to be forcing open the long-barred doors through the frontier of the north-west to the exclusive and fanatical peoples of Central Asia. The effects of the expedition of April, 1895, to relieve Mr. Robertson (now Sir George Robertson) the British Agent at Gilgit, surrounded in Chitral Fort by the forces of Umra Khan, a chief of Bajaur, are an instance of this. Previously the direct road to Chitral from Peshawar and Nowshera—a distance of some 200 miles—had been so absolutely closed that only one European, and he without leave of the Indian Government, had seen the countries of Swat and Dir during the fifty years since the occupation of the Punjab. The hostility of these tribes has availed to close the road and to necessitate the adoption of a route three times as long, and presenting greater natural obstacles. As a sequence of the expedition the Government has decided to keep open the road through Dir. May it become a highway for the messengers of the Lord of Hosts!

Regarding this and other openings, the Committee passed the following Resolution in May, 1895, on a letter from Dr. Arthur Neve, of Kashmir, who has long watched for opportunities of entrance into the "regions beyond":—

That while the claims of the vast regions of Central Asia, so long closed to the entrance of the Gospel, cannot be disregarded, the Committee had also in view the immense tracts of country within the borders of the Indian Empire, for which, with every desire to do more, they had as yet been unable to make adequate provision; but that, nevertheless, they desired to be kept informed as to what may be Providential openings for extended missionary preaching and healing, starting from one or other of the existing stations near the frontier.

And the Committee granted three months' leave to Dr. Neve for the purpose of inquiring into possible openings for itinerating missionary work from Peshawar or Kashmir as a base.

Kafiristan.

But the resultant effects of political forces, if sometimes favourable, are not seldom adverse, apparently, at all events, and for a time, to the Christian's hopes. The very treaty made between the Indian Government and the Ameer of Afghanistan, through Sir Mortimer Durand, in 1893, which opened Chitral to British influence, handed over the neighbouring country of Kafiristan to the Afghans. A few months after the Chitral expedition had been terminated the Ameer sent his soldiers against the Kaffirs, and the Ameer's policy appears to be to deport them from their country and induce them to embrace Mohammedanism. Dr. Arthur Neve's comment upon these events is, "Henceforth the country is absolutely shut to any Christian missionary."

Tibet.

Another district of Central Asia, if possible even more exclusive than the countries under Mohammedan rule, namely, Buddhist Tibet, has been brought perceptibly nearer to the ken and influence of Western nations, and particularly to England through India, within the past few years. A commercial treaty was made at Darjeeling in 1893 with a representative of China, who was attended by an escort of Tibetans, and Yatung, beyond the Jelap Pass, was assigned as a meeting-place for Tibetan and Indian traders. This place is some distance from Tibet proper, but as a recognized point of contact it has an important potential value, and a lady missionary, Miss Annie R. Taylor, whose previous efforts from various quarters to take the Gospel to Tibet have attracted the interest of the Christian Church, has been permitted to settle there in the capacity of a trader, inasmuch as she has opened a shop for the sale of drugs. One of the best-informed of the few living authorities on Tibet, Mr. Sarat Chanda Das, C.I.E., was a student at the C.M.S. Cathedral Mission College (now the Divinity School), Calcutta, under the Rev. Dr. Dyson, now Vice-Principal of Islington College. By invitation of the Spiritual Prime Minister of the Tashi Lama at Tashi Lhunpo, the second capital of Tibet, and the seat of a large Buddhist monastery, he went to that city in 1879, and again in 1882. The Government of India, for political reasons, forbad the publication of his work, but it was allowed to appear in 1894. The Rev. Herbert Brown (formerly C.M.S. Missionary in Bengal), who was well acquainted with Mr. Das, writes (see C. M. Intelligencer for April, 1895):—

"When Mr. Das was in Tashi Lhunpo, teaching the Minister of the Grand Lama, there was the strange sight witnessed of a Bengali gentleman, educated in a Christian missionary college, expounding his views of Christianity to a Tibetan seeker after truth. After lessons on astronomy, mathematics, and science, the Minister would ask of the religion of the great race beyond the mountains. It was but an imperfect preaching of Christ, but let us hope that some truths of eternal life were gathered up to cheer the last days of the minister in that far-off city." Missionaries of Si-Chuan, in Western China, and of Kashmir meet with the people of this mysterious land, and the remarkable journey in 1895 of Mr. and Mrs. St. George Littledale through Tibet from North-Western China to Kashmir, connecting the points of missionary contact, and reaching within two days' march of Lhasa—nearer probably than any European has succeeded in getting since the days of Abbé Huc—is a hopeful harbinger of the day when the witnesses for Christ shall press their unimpeded course from the Arabian Sea to the Sea of Japan.

Material benefits conferred on India by British Rule.

The material benefits conferred on India by its British Rulers are increasingly manifest year by year. A wise forethought and economical administration have, during the past fifteen years, set aside 17 crores 64 lakhs of revenue for purposes of famine relief and insurance, and have further realized a surplus of over seven crores. Happily, during this period the country has been more free from famines than previous experience had led the Government to expect, and only 31 lakhs were spent on famine relief during the whole period. Irrigation works and railway construction have an intimate bearing upon the subject, the former tending to prevent, and the latter to minimize the effects of famines, and upon these a large expenditure was wisely made.

Periyar Project.

The Periyar Project, opened in October, 1895, by means of which some of the superabundant rainfall on the west of the Gardaman Hills is utilized to irrigate the arid plains on the western side, is a conspicuous example of such beneficent works. The Periyar River, which flows westward to the Malabar Coast, and the Vaigai River, which runs south-eastward to the Coromandel Coast, rise within a few miles from each other in the same mountains; but while the former deluges the western coast-strip with destructive floods, the latter is almost completely exhausted on its course through the dry regions east of the watershed. By damming up the Periyar River, and boring a tunnel of about one and a half miles in length through the solid rock provision has been made, at a cost of under half a million sterling, for watering in case of need an area of 220 square miles. Is there not a need, as the author of the Story of the Year asks in this connexion, of some Project which will divert in like manner from the West to the East some of the superabundant spiritual forces which are apt at home to stagnate, but in the arid plains of Heathenism would have a reclaiming and fertilizing potency beyond calculation?

That the Gospel of Christ has this potency all true Christians acknowledge, but they need arousing to a realization of the vast opportunities for transforming with this mighty instrument the nations of the world. The weighty words of Mr. W. Mackworth Young, M.A., C.S.I. (at that time a Government Officer in the Punjab, and a member of the Punjab and Sindh Corresponding Committee, but since appointed Resident in Mysore), at the Simla C.M.S. Anniversary in August, 1895, need to be pondered not only by laymen in the India Government service, to whom they were specially addressed, but by the clergy and laity at home as well. He said:— Mr. Mackworth Young on the transforming power of the Gospel.

> Not to care about Missions is extremely short-sighted. Are we students of the problems which concern the future of the people of this land? If so, are we not extremely unwise, indeed absolutely foolish, to ignore the greatest force which is at work among them? Is there any one in this room who does not believe that religion is a force to which no other can compare, in regard to the elevation and ennobling of the character, the transformation of degrading habits, the promotion of prosperity and peace? Will agnosticism bring about these results? Have any of the creeds and systems which preceded the preaching of Christianity in India been effectual to bring them about? Will any of the modifications of these creeds and systems of which we now hear do it? Can you conceive the possibility of anything short of the Gospel of Christ doing it? Do you not believe that Christianity will do it? Have you not the word of prophecy that "the Stone" will fill the earth? Have you not the witness of history that in Europe the power of the Gospel overcame the greatest political organizations, the most deeply-rooted superstitions, the most violent opposition, that the world has ever seen? And can you doubt that it will do the same in Asia and Africa? Do you not recognize that the process has begun; that the attempt to revive what is most worth having in the creeds of the East is due to the conviction that a greater than Mohammed and Buddha and the Hindu Triad and Guru Nanak is here?

It is a cause for much thankfulness that the higher official circles in India contain men who are not afraid or ashamed to speak so emphatically and so distinctly of the obligations resting on Christians. Sir Charles Elliott,* late Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, when presiding at a meeting of the Christian Tract and Book Society at Calcutta in the winter of 1894–5, administered a reproach which too many Europeans in India deserve for their treatment of native converts. He is reported to have said:—

> It appeared to him that among his own class there was too much of a tendency to look upon the Native Christian with coolness. The difficulty which stands in the way of anybody who gives up his religion, especially when it is a religion which is connected with every walk of life, every action, every ceremony, every social custom—when to give up his religion means the giving up of his family and friends and society in which he has grown up, Treatment of Native Christians by Europeans.

* For Sir Charles Elliott's remarkable speech on the value of Missionary work in India, at the Society's Anniversary on May 5th, 1896, see C.M. Intelligencer, June 1896.

and practically everything—must necessarily be very great, and it was exceedingly cruel to add another difficulty when he has gone through this wrench by turning one's back on him and looking coldly on him. Instead of doing so, and looking upon him with suspicion and criticizing his actions, they should accept him and try to see how much they could do to relieve him of his already heavy burden, and to look upon him as a servant of the Lord for whom they were bound to do all they could.

There is a somewhat widespread belief that the "heavy burden" of the Indian Christian to which Sir Charles Elliott's speech alluded is rendered heavier than it need be by the state of the law, more especially in the Native States of India. This subject, in accordance with suggestions made at the Conference of Missions of the Anglican Communion in 1894, has been taken up by the United Boards of Missions of the Provinces of Canterbury and York, and a sub-committee, appointed by the Boards, drew up during 1895 an ad interim report on the whole question of the legal disabilities of Indian Christians. This report was sent, under the authority of the United Boards, to all Protestant and Roman Catholic missionaries throughout India, and their comments invited.

Legal disabilities of Indian Christians.

Among the recent movements—not in direct connexion with the Society—for influencing Christward the people of India, the Committee look with much sympathy and hopefulness to the efforts inaugurated by the Student Volunteer Missionary Union to reach the students of the Indian colleges and Universities, and to the Missionary Settlement for University Women in Bombay. The needs, moral and spiritual, of the student classes in India are great indeed. In Calcutta alone there are upwards of twenty colleges, and about double that number of high schools, with an aggregate of some 5,000 students. Of this number, the Indian Evangelical Review states, inquiry has revealed that about 3,000 are strangers in the town, not living with parents or friends, but in lodgings or "messes." An indignant article in the Epiphany, a paper published by the Oxford Mission at Calcutta, dwells upon the consequences of the absence of moral discipline among this large body of young men. After referring to the temptations to sin which abound in Cornwallis and College Streets, it proceeds :—

Efforts among student classes in India.

Absence of moral discipline over students in Government Colleges.

That vice of every shade, nameless and shameless, should abound, is of course only what is to be expected under the circumstances, and the results are constantly being brought home to us, sometimes in lamentable instances of wrecked lives, shattered physique, and damaged mind; though most of all, perhaps, in the strange and utter opaqueness in all spiritual concerns which so conspicuously characterizes the student population, and speaks all too clearly of the premature darkening that comes by an early surrender to evil.

Those who know what evils are sometimes apt to develop in public schools even in England, under more or less of Christian supervision, may guess approximately what would be the result if the youths now boarded at Eton, Harrow, and Rugby, as well as at the Universities, were sent for their education to London, to live promiscuously in lodgings as they pleased, with no obligations imposed upon them beyond a certain percentage of attendance at lectures; the education, besides, being regarded merely in the light of a step towards employment, so that even its ethics, such as they are, have to be learnt by heart rather than digested. Picture the said students, moreover, as armed, morally, with little beyond a vague consciousness of a certain impropriety or inexpediency in vice; with no definite principles on the subject; and brought up, if with any religion beyond a belief in the caste system, in one which canonizes impurity in its gods and their votaries, and has no disgrace or penalties for any but ceremonial transgressions. Imagine them further with hardly any sort of healthy amusement, physical or mental, to ease the strain; with no tastes, literary, artistic, or scientific, to give zest to life; residing in overcrowded and unhealthy lodgings; with little or no incitement or incentive to virtuous living, such as the Church supplies in even the very worst districts of London—one or two filthy and tumbledown temples the only outward evidence of religion. Set them, lastly, in an environment such as we have alluded to, with temptations brought to their very doors, and then perhaps we may have some sort of imaginable parallel to the condition of things which we have been, through half a century of hopelessly misdirected educational activity, so assiduously creating for ourselves; though for an actual one, we should probably have to go back to the ancient world, and the Universities of Rome and Carthage, as portrayed by Augustine in the fifth century of our era.

Sunday School movement.

The Sunday-school movement in India cannot be called a recent one, as it was introduced for non-Christian children nearly a quarter of a century ago, but it gives promise of proving a valuable means for influencing the children of the poorer classes of the community. According to the return of the India Sunday School Union there were in 1894 as many as 191,742 children and 9,558 teachers in 4,957 Sunday-schools throughout India. More than one-third of the total of schools and scholars are found in the North-West Provinces and Oudh, where the Methodist Episcopal missionaries, by whom the first serious attempt to establish such schools was made in 1872, have largely developed the effort. The movement has suffered a real loss through the death of the Rev. Dr. J. L. Phillips, the indefatigable Secretary of the India Sunday School Union.

Moral and social benefits resulting from Missionary work.

An evidence of the appreciation which some of the educated non-Christian Natives entertain for the moral and social benefits which directly or indirectly India owes to missionaries is afforded by the following extract from a letter which appeared in the Times of India. The writer dates his letter from the Imperial Institute, S.W., and, after giving his name, describes himself as "Zemindar, Dera Ismail Khan, Punjab." He says:—

Whatever differences in some theological doctrines and dogmas might exist between Christianity and the Arya Samaj, the enlightened Hinduism, it would be the meanest ingratitude if I, in common with my countrymen, did not feel grateful, in the fullest possible way, to the Christian Missionary Societies for the good they have done to India. These Christian missionaries have been the pioneers in India of every reform, whether it be religious, social, or moral. Without the aid of the Christian Missionary Societies, the Indian Government would never have been able to do even a tenth part of what has been done for India. It was pious Christian missionaries like Drs. Duff, Wilson, and Foreman, whom the Indians up to this time revere most respectfully, who first established colleges for the education of the Indians. It was the pious Christian missionaries who first opened female schools, medical hospitals, shelter for the Hindu widows, who are so much maltreated by Hindu society. Though myself a staunch Arya Samajist by religion, yet I say, with double force, that no agency has benefited India so much as the Christian Missionary Societies. They have been successful where the Indian Government has failed.

Spiritual ministrations by lay Christians.

In the Society's last Annual Report (page 124) a long Minute of the Committee was quoted on the subject of spiritual ministrations by lay Christians. Paragraph (c) of that Minute contains a condition which, upon its being pointed out by the Bishops of Lahore and Lucknow, the Committee felt to be anomalous, and to have an effect which they had not foreseen nor intended. They have, therefore, amended the paragraph as follows:—

That official communications from the Bishop to any laymen defined under (b) 1, viz., those authorized for "the habitual conduct of public worship in settled congregations where there is no resident ordained pastor and preaching to such congregations," shall be made through the superintending clergyman who is responsible for his work; to any layman defined under (b) 2, viz., those Europeans and others authorized to "minister from time to time in congregations having ordained ministers in charge at the invitation of such ministers," directly or indirectly as the Bishop may prefer.

The following epitome of Miss Gollock's report of her Indian tour in the winter of 1894–5, which she gave to a gathering of C.M.S. friends who met at the Lower Exeter Hall on May 27th, 1895, to hear an account of the Rev. B. Baring-Gould's and her visits to some of the Society's Missions, may be serviceable to the readers of the Indian portions of this Report as indicating suggestive topics on which they may expect to find information:—

India a "Land of Promise."

Miss Gollock compared India to a Land of Promise, to be reported on as Canaan was by the spies sent thither by Moses. Like them, she "brought up a report" of (1) the land, (2) the people, (3) the strongholds, (4) the fruit, (5) the possibilities of possession. Passing over (1) the "land," and also a reference to the Eurasians, it is worth recording that (2) the "people" were, by a somewhat novel arrangement, reported on in three divisions, viz., (a) the intelligent classes, comprising (i.) the educated and unattached Hindus, (ii.) the Brahmos, (iii.) the Parsis; (b) the bigoted classes, such as the Hindus of Benares, the Sikhs of Amritsar, and the Moslems of Peshawar; (c) the ignorant classes, comprising (i.) the masses of the village population, (ii.) the hill tribes, (iii.) "all the women." (3) The "strongholds" in which the people of India seem to defy our assaults were described as "the triple fortress of custom, caste, and creed"; and illustrations were given of Buddhism, Brahmanism, and Mohammedanism. (4) Then the "fruit": "There are grapes of Eshcol; I wish I had them here to show." Here came in an earnest appeal for more prayerful recollection of the Native Christian communities; a warm tribute to the missionaries' wives, whose work (often forgotten between that of the men and that of the single ladies) was referred to as among the best in India; a plea for the due recognition of the many varieties of method, all of them spiritual, and all blessed with fruit; and a reminder that if our missionaries do need an outpouring of the Holy Ghost, "their need is not greater than ours, and their opportunities are less." Finally, (5) as regards "possibilities of possession," Miss Gollock ranged herself with Caleb and Joshua; "We are well able to overcome: let us go up at once."

"We are well able to overcome."

BENGAL MISSION.

Lutheran missionaries under the S.P.C.K. laboured in India in the last century, and many thousands of converts were baptized; but the Missions, after the deaths of Schwartz and other leaders, languished, and at length only a few Christians remained in the south. For some years prior to the renewal of the East India Company's charter in 1813, no missionaries were allowed to reside within the British Dominions, and Carey, the famous Baptist Missionary, and his companions, had to take refuge in the Danish settlements. Among the Government chaplains, however, there were men like Brown, Buchanan, Henry Martyn, Corrie, and Thomason, who did what they could to prepare the way for future work. The C.M.S. had an important share in the establishment of the Bishopric of Calcutta in 1814, by its publication of Claudius Buchanan's work on the subject; and it granted the first Bishop, Dr. Middleton, £5,000 towards the cost of Bishop's College. Before India was open to missionaries, a Corresponding Committee of the C.M.S. was formed at Calcutta, of which the above-named chaplains and several influential laymen were members. Two English missionaries were sent to Calcutta in 1816; Burdwan was occupied in 1817; Krishnagar (Nadiya) in 1831; and Bhagalpur in 1850. Great interest was aroused by a remarkable movement in the Nadiya district, Bengal, in 1838, when some 3,000 persons forsook Heathenism, and on one occasion 900 were baptized in the presence of Bishop Daniel Wilson. Work was begun among the Santals, an aboriginal tribe in Bengal, in 1860.

THE Committee had the pleasure of an interview in July with the Metropolitan of India, the Bishop of Calcutta.

Reinforcements.

The following reinforcements joined the Mission :—The Rev. Stanley Ramey Morse, M.A., Cavendish College and Ridley Hall, Cambridge, Curate of St. Peter's, Derby, whose offer of service was accepted in October, 1894; the Rev. Arthur Walcott Crockett, M.A., Corpus Christi College and Ridley Hall, Cambridge, Curate of Appledore, Kent, and Mrs. Crockett; the Rev. Charles Grant, B.A., also of Corpus Christi College and Ridley Hall, Cambridge, Curate of St. Philip's and St. James', Ilfracombe, and son of the Rev. C. Grant, Vicar of Glastonbury, a warm friend of the Society; the Rev. Herbert Kitley, of Islington College, who was admitted to deacon's orders on Trinity Sunday, June 9th, 1895, at St. Paul's Cathedral, by the Bishop of London; Mr. Samuel James Jessop, who laboured in Santalia in connexion with the Church Army, but in co-operation with the Society's missionaries, from 1889 to 1894, and after his acceptance by the Committee in May, 1894, received a short course of training at Islington College, and Mrs. Jessop (née Rosina Holland); Miss Kate Farler; and Miss Isabel Florence Young. These all sailed in October. Mr. S. W. Donne has been obliged through family circumstances to resign his connexion with the Society.

The Bishop of Calcutta admitted Mr. Dwarka Nath Sircar to deacon's orders on March 1st, 1896, for work in the Nadiya district.

I. CALCUTTA AND BURDWAN.

MR. F. W. BOURDILLON was admitted to deacon's orders while at home by the Bishop of London on December 22nd, 1895, and a few days later he was united in marriage to Miss Kathleen Edwards, a lady missionary of the C.E.Z.M.S. Mr. and Mrs. Bourdillon sailed to return to the Mission in January, 1896. The Rev. and Mrs. H. Gouldsmith and Miss E. M. Hall came home on furlough in April, 1895, and the Rev. and Mrs. A. J. Santer (on sick leave) and Miss A. M. Sampson in May, 1896.

CALCUTTA.

Calcutta. Old Church.

An interesting table, showing the ministers of the Old Church, CALCUTTA, from the year of its foundation, 1770, was published in the C.M. Intelligencer for April, 1896. From 1770 till 1808 the Church was served by missionaries of the S.P.C.K., the Revs. Zechariah Kiernander and David Brown; from 1808 till 1869 by Government Chaplains, the Revs. T. T. Thomason, G. W. Crawford, M. Goode, T. Dealtry, M. Hutton, G. Lovely, and M. D. C. Walters; since 1869 by missionaries of the C.M.S., the Revs. E. C. Stuart (now Bishop Stuart of the Persia Mission), J. Welland, A. Clifford (now Bishop of Lucknow), C. S. Harington, A. H. Bowman, and H. Gouldsmith. The various activities connected with the church and district are similar to those of a well-worked parish at home, such as Sunday-schools, Day-schools, a Girls' Parochial Home, Library, Sailors' Home, Hebrew Mission, Children's Scripture Union, Temperance Society, Band of Hope, Old Church bank, Family Benefit Fund, Bible-woman's Fund. The offertories of the year included a special self-denial effort on Good Friday, and amounted to Rs. 9,046. The Rev. C. G. Mylrea has been appointed to the charge of the work during Mr. Gouldsmith's furlough, and the Rev. A. W. Crockett and Miss I. F. Young have been assigned to the same work; indeed, Mr. Crockett offered specially for the post of assistant minister of the Old Church. The Committee have sanctioned an appeal being put forth inviting contributions towards the erection of new buildings for the Divinity School, under the Rev. W. H. Ball.

Divinity School.

The Rev. F. E. Wigram, at the time of his resigning his position as Honorary Clerical Secretary of the Society, contributed £1,000 towards this object as a "thank-offering for mercies during the period of his Secretaryship." Seventeen men were reading in the school during the year, seven in the English class and ten in the vernacular. In some subjects, especially Bible study, the Principal takes all the students together in the vernacular, as he is anxious that all should be familiar with the Bengali Bible. The Rev. W. P. Parker rendered assistance in the English classes, and the Rev. P. T. Biswas is a tutor in the school. The latter has prepared a book on Hinduism, which has been published. The prevalence of small-pox in the city prevented the students engaging in outdoor preaching, but they went out in tents for several weeks. The Book Depôt is under Mr. Ball. The sale of vernacular copies of the Scriptures increases: 218 Bibles, 232

New Testaments, and 5,601 portions were sold. Mr. Ball's little paper, Friendly Greetings, has attained a monthly circulation of 2,000 copies.

Boys' Boarding School.

The Rev. C. B. Clarke's appointment to the Christian Boys' Boarding School has been made permanent. He writes, "My one year's experience has made me value more than I can describe the privileges and opportunities such an educational sphere affords." Four boys, out of five who were presented, passed the Matriculation Examination. These excellent results, following upon those of previous years, have greatly raised the school's reputation, and the more influential and well-to-do of the Christian community, who at one time held aloof from the school, now gladly send their boys. The Rev. F. B. Gwinn, who had charge before Mr. Clarke, states that of the old boys who left the school during the past four years some of the best and most promising have chosen Mission work in preference to more lucrative employment. Two joined the English section of the Divinity School, another has become a junior master in the school, and is reading for the B.A., a third is acting as house-master while reading for the F.A., a fourth is English master at the Krishnagar Normal School, and a fifth, after obtaining a medical diploma, has offered for Mission work.

Girls' Boarding School.

The new buildings of the Girls' Boarding School, in Cornwallis Square, were entered on July 10th, and the formal opening took place on August 23rd. In the absence of the Metropolitan, the Bishop of Lucknow presided. The school can now accommodate upwards of 100 boarders, and there were 78, besides 35 day scholars, at the end of 1895. The successful accomplishment of a scheme which Miss H. J. Neele has advocated for many years past is naturally a source of joy and thankfulness to her and to her European co-labourers, Miss A. M. Sampson and Miss E. J. Neele. Six of the girls obtained prizes in the Senate House examination, and two out of three sent up passed the Matriculation. In the latter examination one of the girls passed in the first division, whereas the school had never on previous occasions attained a higher position than the first place in the second division. Miss Neele has appropriated rooms as a hostel for old pupils wishing to continue their studies up to the First Arts, which they can do by attending lectures at the Bethune College, the superintendent of which is a Christian Bengali lady and an M.A. of Calcutta University. Some of the Christian girls at this College are allowed to attend Sunday classes at the Boarding School. Miss Sampson writes:—

> It is a responsible thing to work among over 100 girls, to try to enter into their various characters and dispositions, and to be on the watch for their souls, to win them for the Saviour; and we do earnestly ask the prayers of any who read about our work, that we may use the opportunities He gives us, and that the Holy Spirit may be poured out upon us in the fulness of His power.

Miss Lena Chapman, of the C.E.Z.M.S., has been kindly lent to take Miss Sampson's place at the school during her furlough. The former building of the Girls' Boarding School had previously been the parsonage of Christ Church, and the arrangements for the new buildings involved the pulling down and re-erection of the church. The new church was dedicated by Bishop Clifford on August 24th. It is built in Gothic style, and will seat 300. The Rev. E. T. Sandys, Chairman of the Calcutta District Council, is responsible for the services, as the Rev. A. Stark is for those of Trinity Church. The Rev. Katwaru Lal, who had the misfortune of losing his wife in the spring of 1895, visits the Leper Asylum and conducts a service in the chapel on Sunday mornings. The work among the Kols and the schools for the Chamars are steadily carried on. A few miles south of Calcutta there are several Christian villages, the congregations of which are connected with the Calcutta District Council. For the spiritual benefit of these a Special Mission was held in the summer of 1895 at Thakurpukur. A number of Bengali Christians from the Nadiya district rendered valuable help, and the proceedings were thoroughly Native, and to the European reader are likely to appear unduly emotional. The Rev. J. F. Hewitt wrote:—

Congregations.

Special Mission to Thakurpukur.

> We usually had three meetings daily. The morning one was at 6 A.M., and lasted a couple of hours or so. The addresses at this were intended for the most part to help the workers and other converted Christians. At 3 P.M. there was a prayer-meeting with a short address, and this also usually lasted about two hours. Then the big Gospel-meeting began at 7 P.M. in the evening, and closed when the feeling of the meeting seemed to demand it. This might be 10 P.M. or 11, or even later. In addition to these meetings, house-to-house visitation was carried on, sometimes by individuals and sometimes by means of the Shongkirton Band. This latter is thoroughly Bengali, and so attracts. A large group of men walk slowly along the road singing to the music of the tom-tom. Arrived at a Christian homestead they stream into it in single file, still singing. Then follow two or three fervent prayers for that home and its occupants, and a pressing invitation to come to the Mission service, after which they again resume their solemn and impressive religious march. Sometimes when their hearts are warmed by the passionate devotion to Christ expressed in many of the hymns, the march gives way to a perfectly natural picturesque and stately dance. We were over and over again thus reminded of David, and many another Bible saint, who expressed their devotion in precisely the same way.
>
> A strange feeling of waiting and expectancy seemed to be in the heart of every worker in the Mission. Day by day the whole talk was: "God is giving blessing, but when is the great blessing coming? When will the people really break down and surrender themselves to Christ?" We were almost in despair, and began to think that God meant to work in a different way on this occasion. Then, when we were absolutely weak and helpless, the blessing came. On Tuesday night, two days before the close of the Mission, we met for the evening meeting in the church. There was at once from the very beginning a strange feeling of solemnity over the whole meeting. We sang two hymns and two or three of the brethren prayed. During the last prayer the whole place began to be shaken. One by one the people began to take up and reiterate the words of the prayer. Then they prayed for themselves, individually and altogether, so that the whole church resounded with prayer. In many hearts a real outpouring of the Holy Spirit most certainly took place, for many were indeed convicted of sin, of righteousness, and of judgment. In some cases the conviction of sin was very deep, and it was only after the greatest struggle that peace was gained. But after much prayer and long waiting on God many were definitely blessed, and having found that peace which passeth all understanding, the meeting closed with a great burst of praise for what God had done, and the new light that shone in many faces showed that the blessing was indeed from above.

A "thoroughly Bengali" method of house-to-house visitation.

Mohammedan Mission.

The Mohammedan Mission, it has always been realized, is altogether too feeble, especially considering that Calcutta contains more than a quarter of a million of adherents of Islam (257,898 according to the last census). The Rev. R. J. Kennedy conducts an Urdu service on Sunday mornings in the Mission-room attached to the Old Church, which is chiefly attended by the Urdu-speaking catechists and Bible-women of the C.M.S. and C.E.Z.M.S., and by a mixed congregation, chiefly women, from the Old Church district. He holds another Urdu service in his own house. For evangelistic work among Mohammedans there is only one catechist, Hassan Ali, who devotes a large portion of his time to teaching in one of the schools. The school known as Garden Reach School is a high school in Sonai Bazar. Its connexion with the Mohammedan Mission is, as Mr. Kennedy points out, somewhat misleading, inasmuch as three-fourths of its 250 boys are Bengali-speaking Hindus. All receive daily Bible-teaching, and the school is in a flourishing condition from the point of view of its success in secular studies. Four boys passed the Calcutta Entrance Examination, three in the first division. On the other hand, the Matyáburj School is distinctly Mohammedan. It has 125 boys; its standard is that of a middle school, but as there is no Urdu middle examination in Bengal it has not been possible to test the boys by a Government standard. Mr. Kennedy visits the mosques, and converses with the Maulavis; he also visits Mohammedan gentlemen at their houses, and he frequently holds discussions in the Gol Táláb, a public garden near a crowded Mohammedan quarter.

Evangelistic work.

The district of Calcutta which is assigned for evangelistic efforts to the C.M.S. is bounded on the south by the Bow Bazar, on the west by the River Hooghly, and on the north and east by the canal. This is the sphere of the Associated Evangelists, viz., the Rev. J. F. Hewitt, Mr. H. C. Tugwell, and Mr. A. C. Kestin—the two former for the Bengalis and the last for the Hindi-speaking Natives, whose quarter is the Burra Bazar. During the past year their efforts were mainly concentrated on the district between Cornwallis Street and the Lower Circular Road, having Trinity Church as its centre. Each of the eight catechists had assigned to him a "parish" of his own. Every morning at 6.30 the whole band and the catechists met for prayer, after which the latter visited in their several districts, taking tracts and Scripture portions for sale. Evangelistic meetings were held at eight preaching stations, at one of which, held in a hall, a good attendance of educated Bengalis was obtained. The two largest hospitals in Calcutta (the Medical and Campbell Hospitals) were visited by the catechists. There were numerous inquirers, both educated and illiterate. At the close of 1894 a Kanoj Brahman was baptized as a result of the preaching in the Burra Bazar preaching hall. He afterwards returned to Kanoj to his wife, and after a while his letters ceased. Again on Whit Sunday, 1895, another Brahman named Bepin Behari Chatterji was baptized, who had had an engagement as a Sanscrit teacher, and was well acquainted with the Hindu Shastras; he is now engaged as teacher of Sanscrit in the Girls' Boarding School. In December also Mr. Hewitt had the joy of baptizing a member of a much-respected Bengali Mohammedan family, who had applied for baptism three years before to the Rev. I. W. Charlton, and had meanwhile kept up a desultory correspondence with the catechist, Pundit Mohun Lall, and studied the Bible with prayer; his name is Shamsuddin Kaji. The Evangelists endeavoured to obtain a personal influence over the college students, some of whom attended a Sunday Bible-class which they held. The Rev. M. D. Biswas is stationed at Baranagore, three miles north of Calcutta. The Girls' Orphanage at Agarpara, a little further northward, and on the Hooghly, had a trying year. Through the use of polluted skins for carrying the drinking water, cholera broke out among the girls, and five died. It was necessary to remove the girls for four months to Barrackpore. Miss K. Farler assumed charge of the Orphanage on Miss Hall leaving for furlough.

Baptisms.

Cholera at Agarpara Orphanage.

The C.E.Z.M.S. Normal School in Calcutta is under Miss Hunt and Miss Kent, who also superintend the Bengali work in the city, which is carried on by assistant missionaries and Bible-women. Miss Hunt most truly says: "In the waking up of India's daughters to the joy of service, we may see the dawn of a glorious day for this dark land." In February, 1895, the prizes to the Training Class and Hindu Schools were distributed by Lady Elgin. A silver medal, promised as an annual reward by the widower of a former pupil in memory of his late wife, was presented for the first time, and was won by a Christian girl who had passed first in the Government examination. Miss Kent mentions a touching incident connected with the school work:—

Women's Work.

"The waking of India's daughters."

> A request came from one of our city schools that I would visit the mother of one of the children. She lived in a large house that we had never entered before, so, taking one of the school servants to show me the way, I went, being guided cautiously to the Bow's room at an hour when most of the family were taking their siesta. I found a sweet, gentle-looking woman, who greeted me eagerly, and as if she felt me already her friend. Very soon her story was told. Her mother had been a secret believer, and as a child she had been taught to love the Lord Jesus; but the mother had died, and she had married into a strict Hindu family and had several children, so that although the name of Jesus was not forgotten, I fear it was not so often remembered. But by-and-bye her little girl began to go to school, and to bring home from day to day the lessons she had learnt. She told the child to ask for a book of the Life of Christ for her. Reading this, the love of the Lord Jesus revived in her heart, and she told of it in such simple, earnest tones, it just made one overflow with joy to hear her. "Now they will not let me go to my father's house; they are so afraid I may become a Christian, they have taken away my gold ornaments," she said, holding up her beautiful arms, that certainly needed no adorning that nature had not given them. "But," she added reverently, "God is my ornament." "Pray for my husband," were almost her last words when I rose to come away. The school was the connecting-link that brought her again into contact with God's people, and, through them, with Him.

"God is my ornament."

The Zenana work has many encouragements. Some of the pupils can read English, and enjoy the Life of Bishop Hannington, the Schönberg Cotta Family, &c. One Bow has such a passion for reading that the ladies' stock of Bengali books have been all lent to her to read, and they have a fear lest she should borrow from her neighbours novels "compared with which French novels are purity itself." Fees are more readily paid for secular teaching than was formerly the case. In 1892 few families visited paid more than one rupee per mensem, now several pay ten, and the one-rupee houses are the exception. Miss Kent says:—

A passion for reading.

> The great change I have seen come over households so visited, and the different tone of mind visible in pupils systematically taught, is most encouraging. The Bible, at first only just tolerated because no other teaching would be given without permission to read it, gradually becomes the one lesson most eagerly asked for and valued.

There were several baptisms. The first was that of Tulsa, a young woman from Scindia, whose husband teaches in a school for Chamar boys, under Mr. Stark. In June, Shukhoda Shottopriya was baptized. The following month a lad from a village in Behar, some twelve miles from Chupra (not to be confounded with Chupra in Nadiya), inhabited by Kayasths, and who is possessed of some education, was led to read the Hindi New Testament by the young durwan, Ramdutta, of the Normal School, while the latter was on a visit to his native village. He was helped by the Rev. Dr. C. Baumann, of Benares, and was baptized in Calcutta. He stated that eleven people in his village believed in the Lord Jesus through Ramdutta's Bible-reading and preaching; and yet Ramdutta has not yet been himself baptized. On August 1st, Kumodini Dutt and her daughter, members of a well-known Christian family in Calcutta, were baptized. A large gathering witnessed the baptism, and Kumodini's aunt gave Rs. 100 to afford a day's treat to the inmates of four missionary schools, &c., two of the C.M.S. and two of the C.E.Z.M.S., saying, "Yesterday a little child was baptized, other children ought to rejoice." The C.E.Z.M.S. Mohammedan Work, under the Misses S. Mulvany, Hensley, and Bardsley, re-opened work among women at Tally Gunge, six miles out of Calcutta. For four years (from 1852-6) the Calcutta Normal School was at this place, but since the latter year no ladies have been stationed there, and the children fled in fright on their appearance among them. The Bible-woman placed there was a pupil of Miss Hoffman in the C.M.S. Secundra Orphanage.

The C.E.Z.M.S. has stations also at Baranagore, Howrah, and Barrackpore. The first-named place has sustained a heavy loss by the departure of Miss E. Highton on her marriage to the Rev. C. H. Bradburn.

BURDWAN.

Burdwan.

The Rev. A. J. Santer (now at home) said that there was a more marked spirit of inquiry at BURDWAN and the district around than he had observed before. Among the numerous inquirers was one who stated in a letter that he had always been an "insinuator of Christianity," and that he had been expelled from a school because as a teacher he had put Christian truths before the boys. Mr. and Mrs. Santer (both using bicycles) visited the houses of the well-to-do far and wide, she reading with the wives and ladies of the native households while he was engaged with the men. Of these visits to one of his Babu friends Mr. Santer wrote:—

> One day when calling on one of our reading friends, as we entered his room he said, "The last time you were here I was astonished to see you and Mrs. Santer kneel down with me to pray on this dirty floor, and I praised the Lord Who enabled you to do it!" On another occasion, speaking to the same man and his friend, I told them it was time for them to decide for Christ—they are getting on in years—and I spoke also about the near return of our Lord. A. said, "Oh, we will welcome Him with joy; He will receive us!" I asked him what authority he had for such confidence, and I found that it rested only on the idea of Christ's goodness. "He would surely not reject us," he said. I pointed out how different was their confidence from that of St. Paul, who said, "I know Whom I have believed," and who was willing to count all things but loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus his Lord. Then said the Babu, "Oh, but we are Christians!" I do not doubt the sincerity of these dear men, nor their desire to be Christ's, but the terrible wrench which baptism would cause is too much for them to contemplate—at present.

"The terrible wrench" caused by baptism.

The native evangelists are active in offering books for sale, and Mr. Santer relates the following incident:—

> On one occasion one of our preachers was at the Burdwan railway-station, off for a day's preaching in a distant village. He offered a Gospel to a Babu in the train, who refused peremptorily, saying he could not think of buying a Christian book, as he was a Hindu. Another Hindu sitting by said, "Don't you know what it is? It is the Life of Jesus Christ! It is a very good book. It is to me as my daily food. I read it every day, and when for a day I am not able to do so, I count the day as lost. I have read the Bible through three times. I am a Brahman, and I counsel you to read it." The other man bought the Gospel and promised to read it. Here, too, an opportunity offered to speak some faithful words to the friendly Brahman on the inconsistency of professing to love God's Word and yet failing to follow its teaching as regards confessing Christ. The Bible read through three times by a Brahman.

The Brahmos of Burdwan profess to know the Bible better than Christian teachers know it, although, Mr. Santer says, they mutilate every text they quote. He regards them as "self-satisfied men," who afford him no ground of hope at present of their being brought to Christ. Mr. Santer itinerated in the winter of 1894–5, selling 900 Scripture portions.

The C.E.Z.M.S. Staff at Burdwan consists of the Misses Gore, Harding, Marks, and Lloyd. A young woman named Chintamoni, whom Mr. Santer baptized in May, 1895, had been under their care; she subsequently went to the Nadiya district to study medicine. Her antecedent history was a sad and sinful one, but she stated the facts frankly and truthfully, and was judged to be sincere in her professions of repentance and faith in Christ, and her life during the few months following her baptism was in all respects consistent with her Christian profession. A C.E.Z.M.S. village mission has been opened at Mankar, a large village twenty-one miles north of Burdwan. With some difficulty a native house was secured, of which, after many alterations, Miss Harding sends a description, referring to the ladies' "boudoir of eight feet square," and to the text cut over the staircase, "Now have I chosen and sanctified this house, that My Name may be there for ever." Women's Work.

II. NADIYA (NUDDEA) DISTRICT.

The Rev. A. Le Feuvre sailed in October, 1895, and the Rev. C. H. Bradburn in January, 1896, to return to the Mission after furlough. Mr. Le Feuvre was admitted to deacon's orders while at home by the Bishop of London, on Trinity Sunday, 1895. While at home also, in October, Mr. Bradburn was married to Miss Edith Highton, lady missionary of the C.E.Z.M.S., and sister-in-law of the Society's Honorary Clerical Secretary. The Rev. I. W. and Mrs. Charlton were sent to Australia in May, 1895, on account of Mrs. Charlton's state of health; they returned in November. Mr. E. G. Clowes came home on sick leave in April, 1896.

Beginning the review of the year's work with the Institutions, the first which claims attention is the Normal School at Krishnagar. The Rev. F. B. Gwinn was pained by an act of insubordination on the part of the students. Influenced by twelve of their number, the whole body of students left the school with their books and baggage during an absence of Mr. Gwinn, by Krishnagar. Insubordination at the Normal School.

way of protest against the reduction of an allowance made for incidental expenses, which Mr. Gwinn thought unnecessarily high. All except twelve reconsidered their decision, and were allowed to return. The departure of the twelve reduced the number by one-half, but it left a spirit of peace and harmony and respect for authority which compensated for the previous sorrow and pain. An English School, teaching up to the middle standard, provides a practising school for the students of the Normal School, and, as most of the boys are Hindus or Mohammedans, it is also a valuable evangelistic agency. Mr. Gwinn baptized two adult converts. One of them, though of high caste, after his baptism opened and conducted a school for "Muchi" (low caste) children in a village near Krishnagar. Of the other convert Mr. Gwinn gives the following account:—

Baptism of a Brahman convert

The other convert, a member of a wealthy and influential Brahman family, was baptized at the beginning of the year. The procession to the river, which consisted of the whole Christian community, headed by a large singing-band, passed through the whole town, and attracted a large crowd of Hindus to the river-bank. The baptism in the name of the Trinity, the removal for ever of the sacred Brahman thread, the bright look of joy on the part of the young convert, made an impression upon the people which led many to inquire afterwards about Christianity, and we availed ourselves of this splendid opportunity of preaching to the crowds who had assembled to witness the baptism.

Shortly after the young man's return to Calcutta to resume his studies, it was noticed that he was being watched and followed on his way to the college, and it was decided to send him every day under escort. One afternoon, as he was returning from college, he and the headmaster of the boarding-school, who was with him, were violently set upon by a mob evidently organized for purposes of rescue. The headmaster was knocked down and beaten, and the convert was carried away and sent back to his home in a distant part of the country. Here, I regret to say, threats and severe treatment caused him for a time to falter, and he denied the faith, hoping, he afterwards said, to thereby obtain such freedom as would allow him to escape. A few days later, at midnight, seizing an unguarded moment, he fled, and, getting protection from the local magistrate, came back to me under police escort. He publicly and privately confessed his sin in denying the Lord Who had bought him, and I believe has done what he can to show that his repentance is sincere. He is now looking for employment in Calcutta, as the hostility of his old college students has made it an impossibility to resume his studies at his own college, and the college authorities have put such obstacles in his way as prevent his transfer to another. The college is a private Hindu one, and, though I have appealed to the head of the Educational Department, so far no remedy has been found.

Boarding Schools.

The Girls' Boarding School at Krishnagar is superintended for the Society by ladies of the C.E.Z.M.S., and Miss Bristow was in charge during the year under review. The girls increased in number from 22 to 40. Miss Bristow refers to very definite results among the girls of a Special Mission conducted by Native Christians at Krishnagar in March, 1895. The Rev.

G. H. Parsons had temporary charge for a few months of the Boys' Boarding School, which is at Chupra, to the north of Krishnagar, and the number of boarders went up from 56 to 67. Special Mission services were also held at Chupra at the beginning of the year, and Mr. Parsons found the impressions then made to be continuing when he went to the school three months afterwards, and after twelve months he still had "every reason to believe" that not a few of the lads were truly converted, and were daily endeavouring to serve Christ. A teacher in the school, named Rajendra Babu, was bitten in May, 1895, by a mad jackal, and died of hydrophobia a few weeks later. The North India Gleaner stated that his mind was clear at the last, and he died a happy and peaceful death, trusting in Christ.

Death of a native teacher from hydrophobia.

The Pastorates are under the superintendence of the Rev. I. W. Charlton, the Chairman of the Nadiya District Church Council. During Mr. Charlton's absence in Australia, in consequence of Mrs. Charlton's ill-health, the Rev. Koilash Chunder Dey acted as chairman of the District Council and superintendent of the pastorates, and in that capacity he visited the several parishes, and sought to arouse the agents to zeal and diligence.

Pastorates.

Reference has been made above to the good and lasting effects of Special Missions held at the beginning of 1895. The first of these was held at Meliapotah, a little village of some 350 Christians and some Mohammedans, in February, when much blessing was poured out in answer to prayer. The Rev. J. F. Hewitt, of Calcutta, and others joined Mr. and Mrs. Charlton in conducting the services. A spirit of earnest prayer for the Holy Spirit, and a deep conviction of sin, such as Mr. Charlton had never seen before, rested upon the congregation. Writing at the end of the year, ten months after these Mission services were held, Mr. Charlton said:—

Special Mission at Meliapotah.

> One particular day during that mission will always stand unforgotten in the annals of the Nadiya Mission, and also in the life history of several of the Lord's servants who were present. It is now nearly a year ago, so it is not only safe to speak, but it is meet that we should acknowledge the goodness of the Lord. Several Bengali brethren (and, I believe, not only Bengalis) saw or heard or perceived something of God that day which has remained with them ever since, and which, lifting them out of the level in which they had been used to live, has made them stronger, happier, and more earnest in the things of God.
>
> Here is a simple fact which those who know the Christian community in the Nadiya district will be best able to appreciate. At their own suggestion and at their own expense our Bengali brothers are themselves arranging for special meetings for the deepening of spiritual life, to be held as near as possible on the anniversary of the day on which they received the special blessing from God. Hitherto it has been the missionary who suggested, arranged, and paid the expenses of such meetings. I believe I am to be asked to give one of the addresses; other than that I have nothing to do with the arrangement. Surely the old order is giving place to new!

"Flood" of blessing subsided, but "pools" left.

And what about the people in general? The wave of conviction of sin which seemed to pass from village to village during March and April, has receded (for the present at any rate), but there are "ditches" still "full of water." The flood has subsided, but here and there are pools of water where no water was. Now, six or eight months afterwards, there are in some villages a little band of men whose hearts God has touched; and here and there are those regularly seen at church, or at the Lord's Table, who seldom, if ever, came before—few, much too few, but there they are, and we praise the Lord.

The "sleep" of the people "broken."

On the whole it may be safely said that to a great extent (to use a Bengali idiom) the sleep of the people has been "broken." There is more interest in things eternal, more desire for a higher state of spiritual life, and a general spirit of expectation abroad in the Christian community.

This is, of course, a mere drop in the ocean, a mere waking out of sleep, a mere shaking of the bones; but it is a proof of what the Lord can do, an earnest to us of better days to come. God must use this Christian Church for the Christianizing of the Heathen around. This is our conviction, and this is the one aim of all our work. We press on in prayer and faith towards this goal, and our expectation is from God.

A Christian mela.

In January, 1896, for the third successive year, a Christian mela was held at Chupra. Special features of the arrangements were an exhibition of native products, and a singing competition. Two officers of the Government kindly judged the exhibits, and the Government also sent an overseer with butter-making and cream-separating machines for the information and instruction of the people. The number of exhibits was 700, as compared with 300 in 1895. Meetings for the deepening of the spiritual life were held during the mela, and addressed by Mr. V. D. David, a well-known and remarkable Tamil evangelist (regarding whom see infra, pages 251 and 271), who also held special services after the mela at Kapasdanga, Ratnapur, Bollobhpur, Joginda, and Nutongram. Mr. Charlton wrote:—

> Looking at the work as a whole, the results have distinctly been threefold:—(1) The awakening of sinners; (2) the clearing away of prejudices; (3) the building up of believers. There is no doubt that many have been awakened, and that at times conviction of sin has been real and deep, and that hereafter we shall be able to recognize, by their changed lives, those who have entered into newness of life; but it would almost seem that the chief reason why God arranged for our dear Tamil brother to come to Nadiya was to clear up misunderstandings and prejudices and to build up the weak and uncertain.
> Since the revival that visited some of the Christian villages last year there has been a good deal of difference of opinion and some serious misunderstanding. The kind of conviction of sin and certain manifestations of joy which took place at that time have been a great stumbling-block to many who (for the most part) had not been eye-witnesses of much of what transpired. But, thank God, as our brother described from time to time, with his Bible in hand, what are often the characteristics of the Holy Spirit's working, and what may be the joy of a fuller surrender of the heart and life to the Spirit of Christ, weak knees began to strengthen, misgivings to disappear, and strong prejudice to give way, while some tasted for themselves that which before they disbelieved in. The Bollobhpur testimony meeting revealed the fact that there must have been many in whose minds honest doubt had barred the way to blessing. One after another rose to testify to difficulties solved, misunderstandings cleared up, and prejudices removed. Nor was it words only, for at one meeting when the time for helping the anxious had come, workers formerly divided were seen with one heart and one accord by prayer, exhortation, and personal appeal, labouring for souls and afterwards rejoicing together. The Lord hath done great things for us, and we cannot possibly be too thankful to him for so wonderfully ordering our way and bringing Mr. David into our midst.

At Krishnagar, Mr. Gwinn reports, the pastoral work is bright and encouraging, the Sunday services are well attended, the Sunday schools, for men, women, and children, are carefully worked, and the meetings are "times of real profit and blessing." Mr. Gwinn refers to the effects of Special Mission Services among the members of the Krishnagar congregation. One good fruit was the establishment of nightly meetings for Bible study and prayer at every house in rotation, the meetings being conducted almost always by the Native Christians. They were well maintained throughout the year. Among those who received special blessing at the time of the Mission were two young men who have since shown remarkable zeal and aptitude in conducting special services for children, and in bringing them to a definite decision for Christ. Mr. Gwinn says of them :—

Cottage meetings for Bible study and prayer.

> I have never seen such rapt attention on the part of Bengali children at any service conducted by Bengalis as that with which the children listen to the addresses of these two young fellows.

Children's Special Services conducted by native young men.

The harvest thanksgiving, which closely followed the Mission, was the occasion of joyful liberality, and an unique mode of collecting the offerings of the people was adopted. Mr. Gwinn writes :—

Harvest thank-offerings—an unique mode of collecting.

> It was suggested that a hearse, intended for use at the burial of Europeans, which has been lying practically idle for years, should be turned to good account. The hearse was prettily decorated with flowers, garlands, and foliage, and two bullocks, lent and driven for the occasion by one of the Church Committee, were yoked to the shafts. A singing-band, accompanied by native instruments, preceded the car as it slowly passed through the village. Without a single exception every house gave, and gave gladly, some token of thanksgiving for the recent harvest, until the hearse seemed transformed, so laden was it with grain, fruit, and vegetables. Those unable to give the produce of their land gave live-stock, and the hearse returned to the church, where the thanksgiving service was to be held, with a long line of goats and calves attached by strings to the rear, while cages full of pigeons and fowls were tied to its sides. The experiment was repeated a second time six months later with like results, so that our harvest offerings have more than doubled in value those of previous years.

C.E.Z.M.S. work.

The C.E.Z.M.S. Ladies are partly engaged in the important work of instructing Christian women and girls, and partly in evangelizing the Heathen. At Krishnagar are the Misses Collisson, Valpy, Marley, and Bristow; at Ratnapur the members of the Nadiya Village Mission are now stationed, viz., the Misses Dawe, Trench, Brown, Owles, and F. and M. Leslie; and at Kapasdanga, over the Widow's Training Class, Miss Adams.

The Society's Evangelistic Work in South Nadiya is under the charge of the Rev. W. Wallace, whose home is at Krishnagar, where he and his native helpers visited from house to house among the leading inhabitants. In lieu of village itineration Mr. Wallace chose three other large towns, besides Krishnagar, as centres, which were Navadwip, Santipur, and Doulatgunge. He writes :—

A commentary on St. Matthew, made and published by Hindus.

On all sides we see a change in the temper of the people from what it was in years gone by. The antagonism to Christ has given way to a most persistent attempt to incorporate Him into Hinduism. It is attempted to be shown in public lectures that He took His teaching from India, having travelled in it from His twelfth to His thirtieth year. His teaching is extolled as that of a true "Yogi." One of the Gospels has been versified and published in the vernacular. More than this, a translation of the whole Bible into the vernacular has been commenced by the Hindus themselves at their own expense, and the Gospel of St. Matthew has already been printed and published with a Hindu commentary. These are amongst the chief, but are not the only signs of the influence of Christianity on India, and witness to the immense indirect effect of missionary and other Christian effort in this country. Seeing such signs we may well go forward, knowing that though our Lord's way may not be ours, yet our labour shall not be in vain in Him.

Associated Evangelists.

In North Nadiya the Associated Evangelists, the Revs. A. G. Lockett and R. B. Marriott, and Messrs. E. G. Clowes (now at home) and E. T. Noakes, make Santirajpur their centre. The district assigned to them is bounded on the west by the Jelinghi river, and on the north by the Ganges; its length measures fifty-five miles, and its breadth varies from five to twenty; the whole area includes some 500 square miles, with over 500 villages; and the population is 350,000, of whom 60 per cent. are Mohammedans and the rest Hindus. It is barely possible for the full staff to compass the district in two years, and, excepting the villages near to the permanent stations, this biennial visit is all the opportunity the people have of learning of Christ. Mr. Lockett, the leader of the band, remarks :—

An attempt to bring home to English Christians a sad but common fact.

It is difficult to bring home to folks in England the utter unsatisfactoriness of the arrangements they make for the evangelization of the Heathen and Mohammedan world. Suppose—if such an event can be conceived of as possible—an outlying hamlet to be discovered in a remote corner of some English parish which for causes unexplained has been left uncared for. Would a couple of days' services once in two years be considered a suitable provision for the needs of these belated parishioners? The case of our neighbours is far worse; for there is not only ignorance to combat, there is definite and long-established error. We preach the Gospel to Mussulmans, many of them of the most obstinate and unreasonable type; to Hindus, who regard Christianity as a religion of yesterday, and listen to us often with a sort of amused disdain.

A sad defection of one of the native evangelists was a source of discouragement. He was a recent convert from Mohammedanism; and he left secretly by night to return to his former co-religionists. The work of the year was of a quiet, steady character, and not marked by features of special interest. The Dispensary at Santirajpur registered 4,960 patients, who made 11,104 attendances. The four little evangelistic schools have 150 pupils. Mr. Marriott spent the hot and rainy seasons at Kushtia, whither a number of Native Christians from the pastorates in Southern Nadiya, influenced by the new accession of love and zeal obtained during the Special Mission Services, came and stayed some time, holding out-door services, and singing sacred songs with band accompaniment. Mr. Marriott is encouraged by many evidences of the widening circle of Bible-readers. He says:—

Widening circle of Bible readers.

We have sometimes wondered how far the large number of Bible portions, &c., sold by us are read by those who buy them. This year several instances of their being carefully read have been brought before me; e.g., one young man, previously unknown to me, came to see me one day saying that he had bought a Gospel portion the previous year at a Hindu festival, and reading it had become convinced of the truth of Christianity and desired to become a Christian. On another occasion some men from a village near to one of our last year's camps came to buy books, saying that a friend of theirs had bought some from us and reported on them as good books; and more interesting still is the following story told me by a Brahman priest near Kushtia:—Some twelve miles south of Kushtia there is a village called Horinarayanpur, having an Entrance School; there are also several well-to-do families in the neighbourhood. This village, being south of our boundary, has never been visited by us; but being in the Kushtia sub-division, the village people have frequently to go to Kushtia for their law-cases and other business. There several of the schoolboys got hold of some of our tracts and portions, and began to discuss Christianity amongst themselves; so great was the interest aroused that the Brahmans thought it necessary to hold meetings in the school to oppose Christianity and uphold Hinduism. In addition to these instances of the use of books, I know of several others who are reading the Bible and other Christian books.

Miss Dawe, of the C.E.Z.M.S., has for the past three or four years visited the district during the cold weather, thus giving the women also some opportunities of hearing the Gospel.

Regarding the general progress of the work, Mr. Lockett writes:—

A work of preparation.

We feel, and our Bengali brothers share our opinion, that a work of preparation is going on, and that the day is coming when there will be a great and general acceptance of the claims of Christ. We look for immediate results, and thank God for them; but we are not discouraged that at present results (at any rate, such as can be tabulated) are few.

Holy Week in 1895 was spent together by the workers in Bible-reading and prayer. One of them says:—

Chilling influence of a heathen environment.

Face to face with the awful reality of Heathenism, confronted daily by evidence of Satan's power, we feel intensely the need of knowing in our own daily, hourly experience the power of Christ to save to the uttermost. We are exposed, in a way that it is hard for Christians at home to understand, to the chilling, deadening influence of an empty formalism that is practically indifferent to sin, and we need more, if possible, than do you at home the abiding fulness of the Holy Spirit. May He shield us from loss of love, of earnestness or zeal; may He teach us daily, hourly to abide in Christ; may He keep us ever watchful, prayerful, hopeful, until Jesus come.

III. SANTALIA.

The Santal Pastorates.

THE Rev. F. T. Cole reports on the Pastorates connected with the District Church Council, of which he is the chairman. The Santals find a difficulty in appreciating the benefits of organization or of a stated ministry. In their heathen state the head of the family offers the sacrifices on occasions of sickness, or at their festivals, which are drunken carousals. The aggregate of Christians in the several pastorates is 2,904. All, however, are not Santals, a number are Paharis, and some speak Hindi and others Bengali. To unite these into one brotherhood is no easy task. The congregations are very much scattered, and the superintendent is constantly on the move amongst the 44 places where services are held on every Lord's Day. Mr. Cole mentions that the Paharis do a great deal of illicit distilling in their out-of-the-way villages, and the Christian Paharis are sometimes tempted to join in their drunken feasts. A sad example of this kind, with its train of evil consequences, is related by Mr. Cole:—

Difficulties besetting Church organization.

Sad end of a Pahari Christian.

> Sadrak Hadia, a Pahari Christian of Chattro, took to drink and dancing; immorality followed. Not content with this, he endeavoured to draw away other Christians, and the results were sad indeed. A curse seemed to rest on the village. One Christian went mad and died. Afterwards several others died, and the small congregation was greatly reduced. Then Sadrak took to evil courses, and his end was a sad one. Going out into his field one day he came across a wounded leopard; the animal seized him by the leg, inflicting severe wounds. His wife, hearing his cries, came out with her son and stoned the creature, who then attacked her. In the meantime the wounded man managed to crawl away, and thus was rescued; but after five days of agony he died from blood-poisoning and in mental terror.

But Mr. Coles' report has also many features of encouragement. He mentions with much thankfulness a Special Mission conducted for the agents by the Rev. W. H. Ball, of Calcutta, at Taljhari. The subject of Mr. Ball's addresses was "The Holy Spirit and His Work," and many testified to its being a most profitable time. Mr. Cole says of the agents:—

Steadiness and reliability of native agents.

> I cannot sufficiently express my admiration at the steady, systematic way in which the agents go on with their daily tasks all the year round. They lack the energy and dash of the European, but I doubt if any European could keep on so long and so steadily as our native brethren do as a rule.

Liberality of congregations.

As instances of their liberality, Mr. Cole mentions (1) that over two-fifths of the cost of the pastorate work was raised by the Native Christians; (2) that the rice given at the harvest festivals amounted to over four tons; (3) that six evangelists are supported by the Native Missionary Association; and (4) that a collection for the British and Foreign Bible Society was acknowledged by the Calcutta Secretary of that Society as the largest sum that he had received from any Native Church at one time. The Colony of about 650 Santals, on the borders of Assam, under the pastoral care of the Rev. Baijonath Murmu is exposed to many temptations. It is named Santalpur, and is nearly 300 miles distant from Taljhari, and difficult of access. Tea gardens have been opened, and some of the Christians have sought employment there, at a distance from the means of grace.

The Boys' Boarding School has heathen and Christian pupils in about equal proportions, seventy of the former and seventy-five of the latter. Five boys were baptized. The Rev. J. Blaich gives a touching account of the death of a youth who, having finished his studies, was appointed a monitor in the school:—

Death of a Christian schoolboy.

During his illness he would not speak much, as he was naturally very shy and reserved, but his brother and sister-in-law told me that every night—say about midnight—when he supposed everybody was asleep, he would pray for himself, his relations, &c., and finish off with a hymn like "The Great Physician." They, sleeping in the adjoining room, overheard him. It was to me very touching to hear from them and from a young schoolmaster of Mrs. Brown's school, who frequently visited him, that again and again he asked them to join in a chorus which he had learned only a week before he left us, but which they unfortunately had not heard before—"Glory, glory, Hallelujah! Glory, glory to the Lamb! Oh, the cleansing blood has reached me! Glory, glory to the Lamb!" Every day he would sing it till he passed away to be for ever with the Lord Who had cleansed him.

Bahawa is to the south of Taljhari, on the same (eastern) side of the Rajmahal Hills. The Rev. J. Brown had eight men, including two deacons, reading in the Divinity Class. All took part at the same time in active work. The Rev. Sham Besra had charge under the Native Council of the Bahawa pastorate; the Rev. W. Sido looked after the Hindi-speaking members of the congregation; and the laymen visited various isolated congregations. The Girls' Boarding School, under Mrs. Brown, was congratulated by the Government Santal Education Committee for "the brilliant results" of the girls in the Lower and Upper Primary Examinations. All the girls sent up were successful; of the three in the Upper Primary one gained a scholarship; and of the nine in the Lower Primary all were in the first division, and two gained scholarships. On Easter Day, 1895, two girls who entered the school as Heathen were baptized at their own earnest request. Miss Brown is a great help to her mother in the school, and will be still more so, God willing, now that she has passed her Santali examination.

Divinity Class.

Brilliant educational results of Girls' Boarding School.

The Rev. D. M. Brown spent as much time as possible itinerating in the district assigned to Hiranpur, an area of 500 square miles with 200,000 Santals. His camp was fixed in succession at five places six to eight miles apart, and the villages within a radius of three or four miles from each were visited. Altogether 200 villages received visits and 1,600 adult heathen Santals were conversed with. Mr. Brown explains that "conversation" rather than "preaching" describes the itinerant missionary's work:—

Itinerating in Hiranpur district.

The missionary and his helpers do not stand at the cross-roads or at a street corner and preach while an eager crowd collects of itself to hear him, but, seating himself on a native couch under the shadow of some tree in the village street, where he has been able to beckon together a few men from the houses round about, he engages them in conversation on any topic congenial to themselves, and then leads up their interest to the topic of all topics, the Gospel message.

Notwithstanding the prevalent love of strong drink and the tenacity with which their superstitions are held, Mr. Brown is encouraged to be hopeful, for he observes that where agents have settled, or good work has been done in past years, the hearing given to the Gospel message is more respectful, and a readiness is evident for further instruction. Mr. and Mrs. Jessop are located at Hiranpur.

BHAGAYA, where the Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Jackson are located, is on the western side of the Rajmahal Hills, and towards the northern end. A large market is held twice a week, and audiences from 100 to 150 are then obtained. The congregation of 79 Christians in the town consists mainly of agents of the Mission and their families. At Telgawa, fourteen miles south-west, there are 72 Christians under a faithful senior catechist; and at Haripur, five miles further south-east, a catechist resides, and four families are under instruction for baptism. These places, and five others at which there are village schools, afford centres for evangelistic work. The Dispensary, opened in June, 1895, has proved a helpful auxiliary. There were 550 patients treated in six months. Mr. Jackson mentions the following case as an example of the influence exercised by this agency:—

Dispensary work at Bhagaya.

A diligent Bible student.

> One man, a Brahman, brought his daughter for treatment. She got better, and then the man asked me to sell him a Hindi Bible. He got a New Testament one Thursday, and on the following Monday came to me to explain something in Romans xv. I said to him, "You shouldn't begin with the Epistle to the Romans, you should read the Gospels first." He said, "I have read straight through from the beginning, and have read up to this chapter." And this in four days. He often comes now and has talks with me about the Book. He has indeed become a diligent Bible-student and is much interested. He is a large cultivator in our immediate neighbourhood, and sometimes I visit him.

Godda.

The Revs. F. Etheridge and C. Hughesdon report on GODDA and its district. They itinerated in the Santal villages during the cold months of 1894-5, and the former then visited and inspected the Pahari schools in the neighbourhood of Ratanpur. Two lads of the Pahari boarding school were baptized. The pastoral care of the Christian congregations in the district was attended with much anxiety. At Mohonpur two cases of relapse occurred; and at Godda a whole family went through the ceremony of readmission to Mohammedanism. In this last instance a succession of trials brought the wanderers back to Christ's fold, as Mr. Etheridge relates:—

Back-sliders restored through suffering.

> About two months after, I was awakened in the dead of night by the old man, who had come to beg me to go and see his son and daughter, who were both very ill. They had had fever for ten days. I found the young man nearly in a state of collapse—almost pulseless and icy cold all over. The girl was not so far gone. Instead of asking for medicine as I expected, they only begged me to pray with them. They were all very frightened; the young man was in great anguish of soul. "This," said they, "is God's hand upon us: we forsook Him, and went away from the Lord Jesus, and now He has brought this punishment upon us. Pray with us; pray for us. Will He forgive us? will He take us back again?" Both the sick ones recovered, and truly this was God's way of turning their hearts towards Himself again. They were all four in real earnest about coming back to the fold. Our Church discipline demanded that they should sit apart on the excommunicants' bench at all services for three months, and at the expiration of that time they were received back into communion.

BHAGALPUR.

Strength of caste.

The Rev. J. A. Cullen has been encouraged by the arrival at Bhagalpur of the Rev. S. R. Morse as a fellow-labourer. He is more and more impressed with the strength of caste in holding the people from embracing the Gospel. Many who are intellectually convinced of the claims of Christ reply to appeals to confess Him in baptism: "But how, then, shall we get our daughters married? Our caste will be broken, and we shall be ruined." Two lepers were baptized in the little church at the Leper Asylum which was opened during the year. The C.E.Z.M.S. Ladies at Bhagalpur are the Misses Haitz, Daeuble, and Lawrence; while the Misses Hall and E. Chambers are at Jamalpur.

NORTH-WEST PROVINCES MISSION.

The Society's first agent in India was stationed in the North-West Provinces. He was a Native, Abdul Masih, Henry Martyn's solitary convert from Mohammedanism, and he was stationed, under Corrie's auspices, at Agra in 1813. Abdul Masih was ordained in 1826 by Bishop Heber, being thus the first Indian clergyman of the Church of England. Mirat was occupied in 1815; Benares, 1817; Gorakhpur, 1823; Azimgarh and Jaunpur, 1831; Jabalpur, 1854; Lucknow, 1858; Allahabad, 1859; Faizabad, 1862; Aligarh, 1863; Mandla (Gond Mission), 1879; and Kherwara (Bheel Mission), 1880. A remarkable work was done by W. Smith and C. B. Leupolt at Benares, which began in 1832. In 1853, St. John's College at Agra was opened by T. V. French (late Bishop of Lahore) and E. C. Stuart (late Bishop of Waiapu, now in Persia). The Sepoy Mutiny of 1857 destroyed much of the Society's property, but the deep interest aroused by it caused a great extension of the work afterwards. Lucknow was occupied immediately on its re-conquest, on the invitation of the Chief Commissioner, Sir R. Montgomery. Allahabad was also occupied, and Christian villages established there and at Gorakhpur. In 1892 a new diocese (Lucknow) was formed out of the Diocese of Calcutta, the Bishop (the Right Rev. A. Clifford) having episcopal supervision over the whole of the North-West Provinces.

THE North-West and Central Provinces contain some of the most renowned cities of India. Among them are strong centres of Hinduism, such as Benares, Ajudhia, and Muttra; strongholds of Mohammedanism, such as Allahabad, Lucknow, Agra, and Aligarh; besides such important places as Mirat, Faizabad, Gorakhpur, and Jabalpur. It contains also in some parts a teeming rural population; and in others wild aboriginal tribes like the Gonds and the Bheels. The Rev. Dr. W. Hooper, comparing these provinces politically and ecclesiastically in 1861, when he first went to India, with what they are now, writes:—

Changes during the past thirty years.

In external respects, this long period has seen considerable changes. In 1861 the echoes of the Great Mutiny had not died out; rebel leaders were still at large in certain districts; the administration of Oudh was quite distinct from that of the N.-W.P. strictly so-called; travelling in the Central Provinces, and in parts of the N.-W.P., was dangerous, owing to robbers and wild beasts; and no train ran, though some miles of rails were laid, in any part of the area in question. Ecclesiastically, we had to depend on very rare visits from the Bishop of Calcutta, who had also Burma and the Punjab, as well as the present diocese, still too large, to superintend; and as the jurisdiction of the Calcutta C.M.S. Secretary and Corresponding Committee extended to Peshawar and Jabalpur, the supervision by the C.M.S. authorities was far from complete. Now the whole country is covered with a network of railways, which are still extending, and on which trains run with accelerating speed; the authority of Government is only in rare instances disputed, and travelling is safe everywhere; and Oudh is, for all practical purposes, amalgamated with N.-W.P. The capital of the united Province has long been Allahabad, not Agra; and this Province has lately been constituted into a new diocese, with a C.M.S. Missionary for its first Bishop, who has also undertaken to superintend Mission work in the Central Provinces. Lastly, a Corresponding Committee has been formed at Allahabad.

Reinforcements.

The reinforcements sent out during the year consisted of the following:—the Rev. Robert Hack, of Islington College, who was admitted to deacon's orders by the Bishop of London on Trinity Sunday, June 9th, 1895, at St. Paul's Cathedral; Mr. Hamilton Blackwood; and Miss Violet H. Latham, of the New Zealand C.M. Association. The Rev. E. T. and Mrs. Pegg were transferred to this Mission from the South India Mission on grounds of health. The two first sailed in October; Mr. and Mrs. Pegg, who came home from South India in December, 1892, sailed in November; Miss Latham arrived at Agra in January, 1896.

Deaths of Miss C. Lancaster, and Rev. C. F. Cobb.

Miss Constance Lancaster, who joined the Mission in 1893, died on February 9th, 1896, from an attack of enteric fever. She was nursed during the few days of her illness with unremitting attention by Mrs. Haythornthwaite, to whose house she was removed, and had the most skilful medical treatment, but all proved in vain. Her fellow-labourers testify to her whole-hearted missionary spirit. The Rev. Clement Francis Cobb, Rector of Teston, in Kent, who laboured at Benares as Principal of Jay Narayan's School from 1852 to 1859, died in February.

Native Church Council

The Bishop of Lucknow presided at the meeting of the Central Church Council on October 17th, 1895, when papers were read on "Sunday Observance" by the Rev. C. H. Gill and Mr. P. N. Ghose, and on "Temperance" by the Rev. J. W. Hall. A Hindustani service was held in the Cathedral, at which the sermon was preached by the Rev. A. W. Baumann. The District Councils of the North-West and Central Provinces met on the two previous days, under the presidency of the Rev. A. H. Wright. The first day was observed as a "quiet day," and devotional addresses were given by the Rev. S. S. Allnutt, of the Cambridge Delhi Mission. The Rev. J. P. Ellwood has been compelled by ill-health to resign the chairmanship of the District Councils, and has been succeeded by the Rev. A. W. Baumann.

and Conference Meetings.

The Conference of Missionaries met at Jabalpur from October 29th to November 1st. The Rev. Dr. W. Hooper conducted a "quiet day," and spoke on "The Kingdom of God." The Conference sermon was preached by the Rev. J. J. Johnson; the Rev. S. Nihal Singh preached at the Hindustani service; and the Revs. H. M. M. Hackett and E. A. Hensley gave devotional addresses to the Conference in the course of their gatherings.

Corresponding Committee.

The following are the Corresponding Committee:—The Bishop of Lucknow, the Rev. K. E. Barrow, the Rev. A. W. Baumann, the Rev. J. P. Ellwood, the Rev. A. H. Wright, J. B. Braddon, Esq., F. E. Elliot, Esq., Captain Gibbon, the Hon. Mr. Justice Knox, and the Secretary, the Rev. G. B. Durrant. A valued member of this Committee, Lieut.-Colonel Barker, commanding the Royal Irish Fusiliers, Allahabad, died from enteric fever in December. The Secretary of the Mission, the Rev. G. B. Durrant, and Mrs. Durrant came home in April.

I. NORTH-WEST PROVINCES.

Population of North-West Provinces.

THE total population of the North-West Provinces and Oudh exceeds that of Great Britain and Ireland by ten millions. Bengal is more populous, but, as the Census Commissioner's Report (1891) stated, "outside the British Empire, of the great empires and nations of the world, only China, Russia, and the United States of America exceed the North-West Provinces and Oudh in population."

Appeal for unevangelized rural population.

The Bishop of Lucknow has appealed to the Committee to do more for the dense rural population of these Provinces. He urges with incontrovertible force:—

> There are vast rural districts in this diocese which are completely unevangelized at present; and for which, if any one, the Church of England, and the C.M.S. in particular, is responsible. For example, take Gorakhpur, a district containing 4,576 square miles, and with a population of 2,994,057. The only Mission working in this district is the C.M.S., and that almost exclusively in the city of Gorakhpur, and Christian villages near it. Or take Azamgarh, a district containing 2,148 square miles, and with a population of 1,728,625. Here also no Mission but the C.M.S. is working, and that only in the city of Azamgarh, and with only the feeblest staff—no European at all.

The Corresponding Committee and the Missionary Conference urge the same request. The Committee recognize the need, and will rejoice if they are enabled to do what the Bishop and the Corresponding Committee and the missionaries press upon them.

The following came home during the year:—The Rev. and Mrs. T. Carmichael, in June, 1895, returning to India the following December; Miss W. B. J. Wilkinson, in December; Mrs. Hall, wife of the Rev. J. W. Hall, Mrs. Collins, wife of the Rev. W. B. Collins, and Miss Nanney, in March, 1896; the Rev. and Mrs. H. M. M. Hackett and Mrs. W. G. Proctor, in April; and the Rev. and Mrs. J. N. Carpenter, Mrs. J. M. Challis, and Miss K. Batten, in May. Except Mr. and Mrs. Carmichael, whose furlough was due, sickness was the cause of coming home in all these cases. On the other hand, the Rev. A. I. Birkett, the Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Paterson, the Rev. and Mrs. T. Russell, and Miss A. H. R. Bull, returned to the Mission in the autumn. Miss E. E. Thompson has been obliged both for health and family reasons to resign her connexion with the Society.

The Bishop of Lucknow admitted the Rev. Isaac Vincent to priest's orders at Allahabad on December 15th, 1895. Mr. Vincent was specially commended by the examiners for his knowledge of Scripture.

ALLAHABAD.

Allahabad Divinity School.

At ALLAHABAD the Divinity School had the advantage of the Rev. H. M. M. Hackett's presence as Principal throughout 1895. Mrs. Hackett's health, however, obliged him to return home—not to go back, he fears, to India—in the spring of 1896, as stated above. The Rev. J. N. Carpenter, the Vice-Principal, was also obliged, after enteric fever, to come home a few weeks after Mr. Hackett. The Rev. J. A. F. Warren has been temporarily transferred from Jabalpur to carry on the work so far as possible until other arrangements can be made. There were eighteen students, for whom it was necessary to hold no less than five different classes. Two deacons preparing for priest's orders were among them. One of these, the Rev. I. Vincent, lost his daughter while at Allahabad, and her hopeful and trustful spirit, in spite of great pain, as also her father's cheerful resignation, were proofs to all of the Gospel's power. For the first time a student, John Qalandar, was presented for the Oxford and Cambridge Preliminary Examination for Orders in October, 1895, and the tutors were much encouraged by his obtaining a good place in the second class; he has since become catechist at Lucknow. Two of the students died—the first deaths among their number since the College was opened in 1882. One of the students, after completing his second year, caused much sorrow. He had originally been a Mohammedan, then a Roman Catholic in Indore, then at Allahabad he professed himself a Protestant and was received by the Bishop of Lucknow into the Communion of the Church of England. In the spring of 1895, after a visit to a Bishop of the Roman Catholic Church, he said he had doubts about the validity of Church of England orders, but afterwards professed himself convinced by Mr. Hackett's arguments on that and other points of the Romish controversy. In the autumn, after getting an advance of pay and borrowing money at Delhi and elsewhere, he went to Lahore, where he denied that he had ever been a Christian, and finally at Bombay he was received back into Mohammedanism. Covetousness, Mr. Hackett says, was evidently the motive for his frequent changes. Mr. Carpenter's intercourse with the students who enter the school after having been employed for a season as catechists, convinces him of the importance of all the native agents of the Society enjoying the advantage of a period of training.

A candidate for Universities' Preliminary Examination for Orders.

The Rev. and Mrs. T. Russell, who went out together in the autumn (Mr. Russell having spent the winter of 1894–5 at Allahabad), are actively carrying on the work of Holy Trinity Church and parish. The small Native Congregation in Allahabad had for its pastor the Rev. B. Tobit, who was admitted to priest's orders in March, 1895. Mr. Tobit has been transferred to Jabalpur. The Bishop and Mrs. Clifford held an "At Home" for Indian Christians on Easter Monday, 1895, inviting also some European friends and sympathizers to meet them.

Congregations.

Evangelistic work in the city and district was engaged in by the Revs. W. Newby Fraser (of the New South Wales Association) and S. Nihal Singh; the tutors and students of the Divinity School also took part in bazar preaching and itinerating; and Mr. Tobit visited frequently (three or four times weekly) Katra, the older part of the city, where over 20,000 Natives live. In the muhallas, or open courts around which the native houses are built, more attention is paid to the preaching, and questions can be asked and answered more advantageously than in the bazar. Mr. Hackett mentions eight adult baptisms: a Mohammedan woman; a man and his wife—the former had been a fakir and had professed to be a Brahman, a falsehood which he confessed; a blind boy, who proved to have been baptized before, and whose antecedents were wholly unsatisfactory; two Persian Jews, who were baptized by immersion at Muirabad; Rani Lois, "a peculiarly bright and earnest girl," sent by the C.E.Z.M.S. ladies of Jabalpur; and the widow of a Hindu cultivator in Partabgarh. In addition to these, eight converts given to the labours of the Z.B.M.M. ladies, all from Mohammedanism, were baptized by Mr. Fraser; and a lady—also a convert from Mohammedanism—named Sirdar Begum, who had been first visited and instructed at Matyāburj, Calcutta, by Miss S. L. Mulvany in 1884, was baptized at Allahabad in March, 1896. Several hopeful inquirers are also mentioned. One, a Brahman said to be over a hundred years old, asked Mr. Newby Fraser for a copy of the Christian's Shastras, and was so pleased with the New Testament that he gathered the people of his village together and read it to them, sometimes not stopping till midnight. He then asked for a book that would teach him how to pray, and received a Prayer Book. In the winter of 1894–5 Mr. Hackett and Mr. Carpenter took each a band of students and itinerated in the Allahabad and Partabgarh districts, preaching the Gospel in nearly 1,300 places to some 40,000 people. English Lectures were given on "The Nature and Attributes of God," "The Soul," "Brahm," and on "Truth and its Counterfeits." In the way of Translation Work, Mr. Hackett rendered into Hindi a catechism on the Roman Catholic controversy, prepared by five Irish clergymen, and Mr. Nihal Singh revised a Commentary on St. John's Gospel in Roman-Urdu, written by the late Rev. C. G. Daeuble.

Baptisms.

A Brahman asks for a copy of the Christian's Shastras.

BENARES.

Benares.

The Jay Narayan's School at BENARES takes up the greater part of the Rev. B. Davis' time, but he also superintends the catechists and bazar preaching. Two of the boys obtained prizes at the Scripture Scholarship Examination, and others were honourably mentioned. Four passed the Allahabad University Entrance, three in the second class; and one passed the first Sanscrit Examination of the Punjab University. Miss A. H. R. Bull was welcomed back to the charge of the Girls' Orphanage in November, and Mrs. Barr, of the Z.B.M.M., to the Normal School. The Rev. D. Solomon, notwithstanding weak eyes, has the pastoral charge of the Christian Village at Sigra, which is the head-quarters of the Mission; the Bishop of Lucknow confirmed thirty candidates of the congregation in April, 1895. Miss Davis, Mr. Davis' daughter, takes an active share in the work, though her name is not yet on the list of missionaries. She superintends two schools, attending them daily, visits zenanas, attends melas and reads to large audiences of women there, and by distributing medicine and nursing the sick has saved the lives of several. Work among the Pundits, of whom there are large numbers in this "sacred" city—some of them being great scholars in their own Shastras, and using Sanscrit with proficiency as the medium of conveying their teachings—is carried on by the Rev. J. J. Johnson. He was welcomed back in November, 1894, after his furlough, in the kindest manner by many of them. The famous Swami Bhaskaranand in particular received him when he called with demonstrations of affection and returned his visit. Mr. Johnson says of him:—

Work among Pundits.

> It would indeed be a great joy to win this fine old man over to a true acceptance of Christianity. There is so much to admire in him naturally; such simplicity of nature and goodness of disposition, that one earnestly longs to see him turn from his Vedantism to the truth of Christ. He is, of course, regarded as a very holy man, and visited by Hindus of all ranks, from far and near, in order to obtain some boon or blessing from him; and he is also interviewed by all the Europeans and Americans that visit Benares.

Mr. Johnson visited about two-thirds of the Mathas, or monasteries, in Benares—altogether over 200 in number—more or less often, and almost everywhere met with a friendly reception, and much readiness to hear about Christianity. Among members of the Ramanuja sect in particular Mr. Johnson finds many who gladly hear the claims of Christianity set forth. Of this sect he says:—

Visiting Hindu monasteries.

> Their doctrines about the reality of the world, the distinction between the human soul and God, and the nature of worship, and emancipation, or salvation, in many respects bear a strong resemblance to those of Christianity, and I cannot help thinking that many of them have been derived from the early spread of Christianity in South India.

One of this sect, with whom Mr. Johnson is on intimate terms, is preparing a work against Pantheism or Vedantism, proving that the world, and soul, and God are realities; while a pundit showed Mr. Johnson a work he was writing in defence of the views thus attacked. Such stirrings of thought have helped, Mr. Johnson thinks, to the spread of the truth. Sanscrit and Hindi Bibles and certain Christian books are readily accepted. Mr. Johnson mentions several inquirers, Sadhus, or Ascetics, but the difficulties regarding their future support deter them from baptism. The Hindi Services in the city church are mainly evangelistic, and are attended from time to time by Sadhus. The Raja of Kama, in Rajputana, attended these services several times, and showed himself very friendly and appreciative of Christian truth.

Out-stations.

The Rev. Dr. C. Baumann has charge of the Out-stations, Azamgarh, Jaunpore, Chunar, Ahraura, and Gharwah. The schools at these places are reported by him as in a flourishing condition. In connexion with the High Schools at Azamgarh and Jaunpore, two native gentlemen have founded silver medals, one, founded by Babu B. C. Bose, the deputy-collector, in memory of a much-respected collector of the district, Mr. J. R. Reid, the other founded by Dr. S. V. Roy, Rai Bahadur, "an earnest admirer of Mission-schools." The latter school also obtained the "Jubilee Medal" by passing a boy in the first division of the Allahabad University Examination; the boy in question is a Christian. The English School at Azamgarh passed all its candidates in the Scripture Scholarship Examination. Each of the out-stations has a Sunday school; those at Chunar and Ahraura have some fifty scholars. Dr. Baumann attaches great importance to vernacular village day schools, of which he has eight under his supervision, each having from thirty to one hundred pupils. Some of these are not at the out-stations but in remote villages. Dr. Baumann says of them and of the opportunity they afford for indirectly instructing the adult population:—

A Hindu admirer of Mission Schools.

Vernacular village schools.

> In the majority of cases they stand isolated from all Christian help, as little sparks of light in dense darkness. Crowds sometimes thronged the school, while for two or three hours we catechized the scholars on our simple Christian books, and the great fundamental facts of our religion, making it as practical as we could. Our thoughts were as much for those standing around as for the bright faces so eager to answer. It is pleasing, under the circumstances, to find that there is no surer way to the affections of the people than taking a practical interest in the welfare of their children. But our greatest encouragement has been to see the leaven of the glorious Gospel spreading in some of the youthful minds under instruction, and to meet on our journeys former pupils to whom Jesus Christ was more than a name, and who knew the right answer to the question, "What must I do to be saved?"

Over 5,000 books were sold during the year at the Book Depôt at Ramkatora, in Benares, and of these 1,200 were bought by Hindus and 150 by Mohammedans. Dr. Baumann mentions an adult convert, Andrew Prabhu Das, educated at Queen's College, Benares, who was led to study the claims of Christianity by a tract. He was introduced to Dr. Baumann by Miss M'Phun, of the Z.B.M.M., and was baptized on November 17th.

Women's Work of Z.B.M.M.

The Z.B.M.M. Staff consists of the following ladies:—Miss M'Phun, Miss Johnson Smyth, and Miss Cummings engage in Zenana visiting; Miss Barr, Miss Sturges, Miss Leetch, and Mrs. Balfour are on the staff of the Normal School; and Miss Pailthorpe, M.B., Miss M'Dowell, M.D., Miss Penny, and Miss Bowesman are connected with the Medical Mission. The Victoria Hospital had during the year 380 patients, of whom 196 were Hindus, 114 Mohammedans, and 70 Christians. The dispensary had 3,970 new cases; while a second dispensary in the city had 1,258, all Hindus of good caste. A village dispensary also, re-opened during the year, had in the course of two and a half months 325 patients.

Dr. Baumann pleads for special remembrance of this station and its missionaries in prayer. "Standing as we do," he says, "in the thickest gloom of Heathenism, able to do but little to stem the great tide of sin and evil, we feel the more our need of the Spirit of God, that our labour may not be of self, but of Christ our King." "The thick gloom of Heathenism."

GORAKHPUR.

The Rev. J. P. Ellwood expresses surprise that GORAKHPUR, a district of so much historic interest, on the borders of which Sakya Muni was born, and near to which (at Kama) he died, should possess so little interest to the Christian Church as he infers is the case from the feeble and inadequate efforts put forth to evangelize its dense population. He pleads earnestly for a Band of Associated Evangelists. The Rev. T. F. Robathan has charge of the Schools, of which there are six in the city: a High School, with 250 boys; an Anglo-Vernacular School; a Vernacular Middle School, known as the "Swinton Memorial School"; and three Primary Vernacular Schools. Altogether there are 560 boys, of whom some 80 are Mohammedans, 30 Christians, and the rest Hindus. Gorakhpur.

For Zenana and School Work, the Z.B.M.M. has at Gorakhpur Miss Hibberd, Miss Ellwood, and Miss M. Smith; and for Village Work, Miss Catt. A Band of Associated Evangelistic Workers, consisting of the Misses Kerry, Kenward, and Hayward, has also been added.

LUCKNOW AND FAIZABAD.

As mentioned in one of the introductory paragraphs at the head of this Mission, the Rev. A. W. Baumann has been appointed Chairman of the District Councils of the North-Western and Central Provinces. Of the Hindustani Congregation at LUCKNOW he sends a more favourable report than has been received for some years past, and he attributes the improvement, under God, largely to the pastor, the Rev. T. Noah, whose "preaching and teaching, walk and conversation have gained him a good standing and great boldness in the faith which is in Christ Jesus." The Rev. A. I. Birkett, on his return to the Lucknow.

station after furlough, took charge of the Normal School and the High School, which, during his absence, were superintended by Mr. R. Baker. The baptisms numbered five adults, with one exception from the lower classes of society. The case excepted was that of a Mohammedan lady, Uskari Begum, whom Mr. Baumann baptized on August 11th, 1895. She had been under instruction by Miss A. Blake, of the Z.B.M.M., who wrote of her a few days before her baptism :—

"I never knew the Christian religion was so beautiful."

The other day I was telling her about another pupil, Amir Begum, who is very anxious to confess Christ publicly ; but she is not of age, and the difficulties would be very great. Uskari Begum said, "Take me to her, Miss Sahib. I will bring her ! It is true I wanted to become a Christian, but I never knew the Christian religion was so beautiful as I am daily finding it out to be." Her greatest ambition is to learn, so that she may be able to teach others, and, as she is by no means stupid, and is very industrious at her books, I think she will get on well.

The other Ladies of the Z.B.M.M. are: the Misses L. Marston, Marshall, Hill, Boys, Goodall, and Hall, for Zenana visiting and school work ; and the Misses Hasken, Jenkins, Cornall, Sheldon, Borlase, and E. Keith, for the Medical Mission. Miss Cornall says of the dispensary patients :—

They come in numbers varying from thirty to sixty each day, some often, some only two or three times, and they each hear the glad message of salvation. It makes one's heart rejoice as one looks round at their earnest faces and one sees how they strain to catch the words spoken ; but, on the other hand, it is sad how few of them, on account of caste and family ties, will boldly acknowledge Christ as the Son of God. But in time the work must tell, and the seed must be sown before the full-grown corn appears.

Associated Evangelists.

The Associated Evangelists' Band consisted of the Rev. E. A. Hensley, Mr. R. Baker, and Mr. J. C. Harrison, to whose number Mr. H. Blackwood, one of the year's recruits, was added in November. During the hot months the members of the band engaged in bazar preaching in the city of Lucknow, where they have eight preaching stations. The winter months were spent in itinerating. The mornings while on these tours were occupied in visiting the villages within four miles of their camping ground, and the afternoons in calling on the people at their houses, showing lantern slides, and preaching in the larger villages on bazar days. Rest-houses have been put up at Gosainganj and at Nigohan, fourteen and twenty-seven miles distant respectively from Lucknow. At the latter place the bazar preaching was interrupted persistently by a man, whose methods are described with painful vividness by Mr. Baker :—

Interruptions to the bazar preaching.

Amongst others visiting the bazar is a man whom we at first understood to be a pundit of some repute, but lately we have learned differently about him. He always comes to the front of the crowd, elbowing in his way in a most offensive manner, and, at the earliest opportunity, interrupts the speaker with some stock question that has been asked and answered times without number. His policy is always to interrupt the one giving the answer, and, gaining a hearing, to go on as though we were simply there to gather a crowd for him to harangue. We have borne patiently with him for some time, but lately he has become more offensive and obstructive than ever. He has obtained a small book, published by the Arya Samaj sect of Hindus, which sells at a farthing a copy. It presumes to give "a true account of the Christian's Saviour as related in their own books." The idea that One who was crucified could ever be God, or in any way a propitiation for sin, is ridiculed. On the first page is an execrable drawing representing Christ on the cross! and the man, trembling with excitement, holds up this before the crowd, to their infinite amusement and his own glory—"That's the Saviour they preach; that is the One to believe on." And then he goes on to explain that Christ was crucified with thieves. Surely He was Himself the king of thieves, for is it not written in their own Gospel (giving chapter and verse) that he stole a washerman's donkey?—a donkey, notice—an animal that only the low and almost outcast people own—a sign, at once, of their base origin—He, their Saviour, stole a donkey. And not only so, but He even descended so low that He rode on it. "Listen, people," he frantically cries, "He rode on a washerman's donkey, and that one that He had stolen. Truly, He was the king of thieves, and justly punished by being crucified with them."

"A blasphemer, and injurious."

We listen patiently, hoping for an opportunity to give an answer; our hearts torn the while as he takes up these and other points in the Saviour's passion—thoughts and words most precious to the Christian—which reveal the Saviour's love, His tenderness, and truth, and turns them all into ridicule and blasphemy. He quotes the story of the barren fig tree, which "proves Christ's limited knowledge in seeking fruit when there was none," and then accuses us of being like Him we follow; applying every objectionable epithet he can think of, and finishing up with an exhortation to hold fast that which they have, and not to follow such a despicable creature as the Christians preach. Then the air is rent with prolonged shouts and cheering, in which the names of their gods are the only distinguishable sounds. The noise having subsided, the pundit's ammunition spent, he clears off, carrying the crowd with him, priding himself on his marvellous success in sweeping aside all the nonsense and trash that goes by the name of Christianity, Christ, and the Gospel.

One thought was uppermost in my mind as I walked home—my companions much grieved at the contumely heaped upon them before the crowd—and that was, "this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting." We need the united prayers of the Church at large that such obstructors may be converted, and by God's grace made to preach the faith they now try to destroy.

Faizabad.

Two severe outbreaks of cholera occurred at FAIZABAD, and the Rev. W. G. Proctor writes:—

Cholera epidemic—a heart-touching sight.

It was a sad and heart-touching sight to see the people, as the epidemic grew worse, doing puja (worship) in every imaginable form, Hindus and Mohammedans alike, to try and avert the evil. The Hindus marched in large processions, by day and night, beating tom-toms and crying out to their gods; while the Mohammedans sacrificed animals at every shrine that held the least reputation of holiness.

Many hundreds of the people died, but of the Native Christians only two persons had the disease, and both recovered. Bazar preaching was carried on, and the schools in the city and at Ajudhia maintained their numbers notwithstanding the sickness prevailing. There were seven adults baptized, six of them Hindus and one a Mohammedan.

The Z.B.M.M. Ladies at Faizabad are the Misses Harris and Gault; and at Ajoudhya Miss Pattison.

AGRA AND SECUNDRA.

Agra. The Bishop of Lucknow confirmed twelve candidates connected with St. Paul's English Church, AGRA, of which the Principal of St. John's College is the honorary chaplain, as explained in last year's Report. During Lent, 1895, a course of sermons on Evangelical Church principles, vindicating their soundness by appeals to Scripture, the Prayer-book, and Church history, was delivered; and during the Lent of 1896 the subject was "Christ" as a "Man of Prayer," a "Student of Scripture," a "Worker," a "Friend," a "Preacher," a "Philanthropist," a "Controversialist," a "Winner of Souls," &c. The congregations and offertories alike show, the Rev. J. P. Haythornthwaite says, that the services are appreciated.

St. John's College. St. John's College had a highly successful year in respect to the results of University examinations. For the first time it sent up candidates for the M.A., and the two sent up both passed, one obtaining a second class in English literature, and the other a third in Persian. Out of eighteen candidates for the B.A., fifteen were successful, one being placed in the first class and eleven in the second. The student who obtained a first class, Hori Lal, distinguished himself besides by being the only candidate who passed with double-first honours, being placed first in the Persian honours list and third in English literature. Another student of the College was second in the Persian list. The First Arts results were less satisfactory, eleven passing out of thirty-one candidates. In the above three examinations there were six Christians among the twenty-eight successful students—one in the M.A., one in the B.A., and four in the F.A. examinations. The School Department passed sixteen in the Entrance Examination out of 29; three out of four for the School Final; and 18 out of 41 for the Anglo-Middle. The School Final is a new examination, and is accepted by the University as an alternative matriculation, the course being scientific, while that of the ordinary Entrance is literary. Of the three who passed in this, one was sixth in order of merit in the first class, and obtained a Government scholarship. The Rev. H. W. V. Birney says of the opportunities of influencing the boys which occur day by day:—

Most attentive to the Scripture lessons. Not only in the hour devoted to direct teaching of Scripture, but in nearly every hour one gets opportunities of holding up before the students and elder boys the great truths of Christianity. My first hour daily in the College has been devoted to teaching Scripture to over seventy students, and the teaching has been as straight as ever it could be; no opposition has been made; in fact, all listen most attentively, and often ask questions. I myself believe with all my heart that several of these students are not far from the Kingdom, and in God's own good time, when the way is made clear, will openly confess Christ.

And the Principal furnishes an example of this influence:—

As an illustration of the quiet and lasting influences upon character which an institution like this is ever exercising upon non-Christians, and thus preparing the way for a more ready and general acceptance of Christianity at no very distant date, I may quote from a letter received in October last from an old Hindu student, who has risen to high position in Government service, and is honoured and respected by all who know him.

A former student's testimony to the good influences of the College.

Purshotum Das was a student in the College department shortly after the Mutiny. He is an old pupil of the Rev. A. H. Wright, of Secundra, who was then head-master. He has gradually risen step by step in the Government service. At present he is Judge of the Small Cause Court in Jabalpur, and receives a salary of Rs. 800 per month. In 1888 he received the title of Rai Bahadur, a distinction highly prized by the people of this country. During the C.M.S. Conference at Jabalpur, he called upon Mr. Wright and myself in our tents, and by placing his carriages at our disposal, and personally conducting us over an ancient palace, he did his best to make our visit a pleasant one, and at the same time revealed to us his regard for missionaries and his affection for his old college. In the letter referred to, which I received prior to our visit to Jabalpur, he writes:—"I must say that my success in Government service is due to my strict observance of the lessons of truth, honesty, and morality which I was taught while I was receiving education in the College, and I trust that all the College students will follow the same example."

The Christian Hostel had 85 inmates, all students at the College, some of them being recent converts from Hinduism and Mohammedanism. Nine of these boys were confirmed by the Bishop in November. The Rev. J. M. Challis says of the candidates: "I have seldom had a more genuine set of fellows to prepare, and the classes were always a great pleasure to take, as I trust they were profitable to the candidates." Mrs. Challis passed her first Urdu examination in the spring of 1895. In the winter she had a most severe and protracted attack of typhoid, which lasted thirteen weeks. She was most tenderly and lovingly nursed by the ladies of the Mission party, and especially by one connected with the Baptist Zenana Mission. She has since come to England for the recovery of her health. The Rev. J. M. Paterson was appointed, on his return to the Mission, Vice-Principal of the College and Superintendent of the Hostel, to which a new wing has been added. A number of public Lectures were delivered during the cold season, one course being by the Haileybury Lecturer, Mr. Thomas, on Christian Evidences. Mr. Haythornthwaite has been appointed a Fellow of Allahabad University.

Girls' High School.

The Girls' High School has suffered greatly in the initial stage of its history through changes in its European staff. The two ladies who were sent out to open it in 1892—Miss E. E. Thompson and Miss C. Lancaster—were removed during the year, the latter by death in February, 1896, as already mentioned, and the former through retirement on grounds of health and for family reasons. Miss W. B. J. Wilkinson went to Miss Lancaster's assistance in April, 1895, and upon her being obliged to come home in November, the Z.B.M.M. kindly lent the services of Miss S. E. Smith, of Benares.

Miss V. Latham, sent out by the New Zealand Association, joined the School staff in January, and Miss K. E. Honiss went, at the time of Miss Lancaster's death, to give assistance in the classes, interrupting her Hindi studies for the purpose. The School had thirty-five pupils in November, when the late Miss Lancaster wrote her Annual Letter. She already noticed a distinct improvement in the conduct and bearing of the girls, of which she gave the following simple but convincing illustration :—

Improvement in conduct of pupils.

We have cause for great thankfulness in the improvement in our girls, especially those who have been with us from the first. The sulky look, the glibly spoken lie, the lazy, inert manner, once the rule, are now happily the exception. One can trust the elder girls, and if one puts any of them on their honour they feel bound to be good. I may mention one instance. There had been a quarrel, and by way of stamping it out I had forbidden the girls to refer to the matter again. Next day when the storm had cleared, some girls from the Medical School called to see their younger sisters, and, finding our girls grouped round the harmonium singing hymns very happily, began to praise the girls and the school warmly. Remembering the quarrel of the previous evening, our girls felt very confused, and at last one said, "We are not always good ; we do quarrel sometimes." This caused a great outcry. "Oh! Julie, don't you remember that Miss Lancaster said we were not to say a word about it?" And the matter was referred to me when I came in. Of course, I was glad to find that they did not feel it honest to appropriate unmerited praise.

"A splendid example of what an Indian girl should be."

Miss Lancaster referred in warm terms to a young native teacher in the School, who was educated in the Alexandra School, Amritsar, and who was about to leave the School to be married: "She is a splendid example of what an Indian Christian girl ought to be. She has done splendid work here, and her influence on the elder girls has been powerful for good." The Bishop confirmed five of the girls in November who had been prepared by the Rev. W. McLean and Miss Wilkinson.

The Rev. W. Seetal returns the native congregation as consisting of 500 members, but the average attendance on Sunday mornings is 300; on Sunday evenings, 125; on Wednesday evenings, 80. Eighty attend the monthly communions, and about 160 are present at the great Christian festivals. Thirty candidates were confirmed. The Evangelistic Work in and around Agra is under the Rev. W. McLean. In the Hindu quarter of the city the Gospel is generally listened to with attention when preached in the bazar, but in the Mohammedan quarter a certain amount of opposition is experienced. In the autumn a blind Christian Moulvi, Ahmad Masih, a convert of the Cambridge Delhi Mission, visited Agra, and the Mohammedans, upon hearing of his arrival, sent a challenge to a public discussion. This was accepted, and the discussion took place in St. John's College on September 8th. Mr. McLean writes :—

A blind Christian Moulvi more than a match for the ablest Mohammedan controversialists

The hall was literally packed with the leading Mohammedans of the city and district, many not being able to gain admission. The discussion opened at 11 A.M. and lasted till 3 P.M., the subjects being (1) The Divinity of Christ; (2) Miracles; (3) Prophecy; (4) Life and character of Mohammed. On every point the Christian was more than a match for his opponents, and when the last hour came for the discussion of Mohammed's life and character, they refused, and left the meeting in a very troubled state of mind, for next day their leader wrote to our Moulvi, asking him, if they got another man from Jhansi, would he discuss again on some other subject, and acknowledging failure. We held out for a time, saying that until the last discussion was completed we could not begin a new one. However, after a time we consented, and arranged for another on the Attributes of God, as given in the Bible and Koran. This time they produced their cleverest man, an excellent Arabic scholar and a B.A., but he was no match for our Christian Moulvi, and before the meeting acknowledged it. This discussion, though it lasted over three hours, did not get beyond the attribute of "Holiness," and the Mohammedan community were so perturbed with its result that the inspector of police came to me and requested the discussions to be stopped, as there was great commotion in the city at the result. These discussions must do good: the amount of Scripture which is quoted, often at great length, comparing the Bible with the Koran, the sayings of Christ with those of Mohammed, cannot but leave a very favourable impression on the mind of the impartial hearer, and clearly establish the truths of Christianity, at the same time exposing the errors and weaknesses of Mohammed and the Koran.

The Moulvi also took part in bazar preaching in the city and at Taj Gunj, and many Mohammedans consulted him privately on religious subjects. One young man, a Hafiz, a student in the mosque at Agra, placed himself under instruction for baptism. Ten catechists and two colporteurs work under Mr. McLean's supervision; the latter are allowed by pundits to visit their schools and to sell Gospels, bhajans, &c., without hindrance. Evangelistic services are held at Hinki Mandi, where there is a school and Mission-hall, as there are also at Belangunj. At Tundla the Rev. Yakub Ali is placed for evangelistic work. Mrs. McLean, who has qualified in Hindi and is now studying Urdu, accompanied her husband in his cold weather itinerations. Several adults were baptized: on December 30th, 1894, three men and a woman of the servant class; on May 5th, 1895, a man and his wife; on July 7th, a merchant, Masih Dyal, and his wife; on September 8th, a young Brahman, aged nineteen, Samuel Jaganhath; on September 15th, a young man, the son of Christian parents; on October 6th, a pensioner, a brother of the before-mentioned Masih Dyal, and through the latter's instrumentality; and on January 19th, 1896, a high-caste Hindu and a Mohammedan, the latter a good Persian scholar and fairly well acquainted with Arabic, the son of a Vakil. Baptisms.

The staff at SECUNDRA remained unchanged, consisting of the Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Wright, the Rev. J. S. Gray, and Mr. H. Bennett. Seven young men went out from the Orphanage, two as teachers, one as an evangelist, one to the Divinity School at Allahabad, one as a compositor, and two as apprentices to the S.P.G. industrial school at Cawnpore. Mr. Bennett writes:— Secundra

Morning by morning I took a class of boys in Scripture, and was delighted to see the way in which they committed chapter after chapter to memory. I often wish some of our good friends at home could come and see Secundra, with its large orphanages for boys and girls, its large Christian village, its industrial work, such as carpentry, book-binding and printing, and the evangelistic work as carried on in the surrounding villages, where thousands upon thousands are living in the darkness of Heathenism and superstition.

The poor deaf and dumb lad, known as the wolf-boy, who was found some years ago, and named Sanichar (Saturday), from the day on which he was discovered, died in October. Mr. Wright says of him :—

Death of the "wolf-boy."

It may interest some of our friends who know Secundra, to hear that the famous wolf-boy, Sanichar (Saturday), an object of so much curiosity to many a visitor, and of sceptical doubt to others, passed away in the month of October. For more than a year he had been gradually fading away, and a little time before his death he made a sign to the boys that his grave would be dug, that the Padri Sahib would read from the book, and then (pointing first to himself and then upward) that he would go there too. One of the young men, named Nathaniel, had died in June ; he had been very kind to poor Sanichar, and the other boys had explained to him, by pointing upwards, that he had gone home. He had intelligence enough to apply it to himself. He is now where the ears of the deaf are unstopped, and the tongues of the dumb sing.

The village evangelistic work, as indeed much work also among the girls in the Orphanage, is done by ladies of the Berlin Ladies' Society, namely, Miss Schultz, Miss Tillich, Miss Lorbeer, Miss Goetze, and Miss Steiner. Miss Magnus, of the same Society, returned invalided to Germany in December and died in January at Halle. "She was," Mr. Wright says, "a most earnest worker, ready to help at anything lying outside her own particular sphere."

MUTTRA.

Muttra.

The Rev. P. M. Zenker and his sister Miss Zenker have had much joy in welcoming to their aid at MUTTRA several English ladies since 1891. These now number three, viz., Mrs. Durrant and her daughter, Miss E. B. Durrant, and Miss M. Stratton ; Miss K. Batten having come home on medical certificate. Mrs. Durrant's health, happily, has been excellent since she reached the Mission at the end of 1894. Writing after twelve months in India, she could say that neither she nor her daughter had had a touch of fever, and they had been able, almost uninterruptedly, to work daily five hours at language study. Mrs. Durrant says, "I trust this may encourage some who might fear the change of climate in coming, later in life, to the Mission-field." Mrs. Durrant undertakes the housekeeping, and the younger ladies engage in zenana work and superintending several schools. Miss Stratton refers to the purdah lady who was mentioned in last year's Report, and to another instance—a pathetic one—of the Gospel's influence :—

The Gospel sung in high-caste houses not open to Missionaries.

The purdah lady I mentioned in my last letter is still being visited ; she comes sometimes to our house, and has been to church, where she sits in purdah behind a curtain. She is beginning to read the Bible now for herself, and knows several of our Christian bhajans. She tells me that she takes her bhajan book to the houses of her friends and sings with them; so the Gospel is sung in high-caste houses, to which at present we have no entrance, through her instrumentality. She came to church on Good Friday and said: "I thought I ought to come to-day, for—who knows?—perhaps in one year, or in two, He may have come again!"

In another house, a little girl (who has since died) became much interested in these bhajans. Once, at a feast among her relations, she said, "Now you have sung your songs, let me sing mine," and, being given permission, she sang her favourite bhajan, beginning, "Mana bhajo Masih ko chita se." A few weeks later they were the last words on her lips as she died. This had a great effect on her relatives and friends, who said, "See, she has died, taking the name of Christ."

Three Bible-women work in Muttra, one outside, in the Sadar Bazar, and one at Brindaban. Through the medical knowledge of one of them, several houses were unexpectedly opened, and access was even obtained to the inside of a temple. Mr. Zenker has eight catechists engaged under him in evangelistic work.

ALIGARH.

Aligarh.

The year was one of quiet work and of some progress at ALIGARH and its out-stations, the Rev. A. E. Bowlby reports. It was mentioned in the last Annual Report that Mr. Bowlby had found several Christian families in isolated places among the Heathen in the district, who had become lost to the Mission, that is, no knowledge of their whereabouts was possessed, through the station having been for over two years without a European missionary. Mr. Bowlby found a few more of these, hearing of them casually and then seeking for them until he discovered them. He found that a youth in one case had married a Mohammedan wife, and had practically become himself a Mohammedan. The temptation to mixed marriages is one of the greatest difficulties met with in the pastoral charge of the Christians, especially those in remote out-stations. Mr. Bowlby refers to two or three cases known to him of Christian men after their baptism marrying heathen women, and of a baptized girl being given in marriage to a heathen husband, the wedding being performed with heathen rites, and he found it necessary to report a case that occurred during the year to the Bishop of Lucknow, who ordered the youth to be excommunicated. This young man then joined the American Methodists, who—it must be hoped in ignorance of his antecedents—engaged him as an agent. Many of the Christians, however, were a cause of much joy to Mr. Bowlby, showing steadfastness under persecution, and liberality. The Rev. N. Solomon is the native pastor. Visiting the Heathen, Mr. Bowlby met in the house of a Vakil a man who, though a graduate of Madras University and a barrister-at-law, was living the life of a Sadhu, or religious mendicant.

Temptation to mixed marriages.

A University graduate living as a religious mendicant.

He was reading an English Bible, and was conversant with some Christian works, but was not disposed to accept Christian truth. The Bible-classes for non-Christians referred to last year are kept up, and Mr. Bowlby is encouraged by many of the members buying New Testaments. There were seven adult baptisms. Two of them were at Bulandshahr, the converts being an aged Brahman and his daughter, aged twenty-four. The former is described as "not learned, but very sincere," and he himself taught his married daughter. The man was baptized in June, 1895, and the daughter in November. They were to have been baptized together, but Mr. Bowlby thought it right to first inform the woman's husband, and what followed Mr. Bowlby related at the time:—

> As soon as I left the whole place was in an uproar; they tried to seize the pair by force, but the police protected them, and then the Aryas taking up the case got the munsif to arrest them, and after a mock trial, at which no pleader, through fear, would protect them, and though intimidated by the native judge, they both confessed Christ; but the woman was handed over to her husband, and the man let go.

A few months later Mr. Bowlby continued the story:—

A convert's family outcasted, and she herself starved and beaten.

> Mangel Sen was baptized as anticipated; but for long we could get no communication with his daughter. She, however, kept affirming she was a Christian and had broken caste, and so persistently that her husband and brother and the family were all outcasted too, and then they took to ill-treating her, starving and beating her to make her recant, that they all might seek readmission to caste. She, however, stood firm, and in September, after a very severe thrashing, she managed to escape, and, rushing to the collector's court, sought protection. He issued a warrant for the husband's arrest, who bolted, but afterwards was caught and sent to prison, since when the woman has been in my compound, and my wife reports very well of her. She does not know much, but knows her Saviour, and proclaims Him to every one. The High Court came down on the munsif who had to do with her case, and he has been transferred.

Writing in January, Mr. Bowlby said, "Both the man and his daughter continue to give us joy." In addition to the above, on Christmas Day a Brahman widow woman, brought to Christ by Miss Davies, of the Z.B.M.M., was baptized at Aligarh. Mr. Bowlby mentions as a sign of the progress the Gospel is making that of five zenana hospitals opened in the district under his charge, and connected probably, though Mr. Bowlby does not say so, with the Lady Dufferin Fund, two are under the charge of country-born ladies and three of Hindustani Christians.

The Z.B.M.M. Lady Workers in the district are the Misses Davies and Powell at Aligarh, and Mrs. Pollsen at Bulandshahr.

MIRAT.

Mirat.

The Rev. J. W. Hall still writes of the spiritual life of the Congregation at MIRAT as "very low," but he is hopeful that a more bright and useful future is dawning for the Christian community. The Mission Dispensary was only open part of the year. During thirteen and a half months that it was open—from July, 1894, to August, 1895—22,651 patients were treated. A portion of the buildings were used after the latter date as a Book Depôt, and Rs. 640 were received for books sold, three-fourths of which were Christian books, the rest school-books. The colporteur also sold Rs. 43 worth. The people in a village near Mirat, Mr. Hall says, possess a Bible and read it and call themselves Christians, though not baptized. Connected with the High School are small hostels for Hindus and Christians. The school has 235 boys, and in the Report on Public Instruction it stands well as regards results. Mr. Hall says he cannot speak too highly of the unselfish labours and untiring energy of the headmaster, Mr. Har Saran. There is also a Sunday-school with 116 Hindu boys, of which Mr. Hall says:—

Villagers reading the Bible and calling themselves Christians though unbaptized.

> No one could help feeling a few days back, when prizes were distributed by Mrs. Dobbs, that such work cannot be in vain. Both Hindu teachers and boys repeated long passages of Scripture in Urdu and English.

At Ghaziabad there are three schools, the Anglo-Vernacular having 120 boys. Miss Nanney (now at home) has done good work at this out-station among the women and girls. The Rev. I. Vincent has been placed at this out-station. There are churches at Kankerkhera and at Muliyana, and a catechist is located at each place, as also at Pilknah and Paritchatgarh. Mr. Hall is the Secretary of the C.E.T.S. in the North-West Provinces. He says there is no doubt that drinking is on the increase amongst both Hindus and Mohammedans, and the danger which besets them is beginning to be realized by many.

Drinking on the increase.

The C.E.Z.M.S. Staff suffered a heavy loss through the death of Miss Mary Davies-Colley in June, 1895, after only nine months in India. She was an honorary missionary. Mr. Hall wrote:—

Death of Miss M. Davies-Colley.

> Her Christ-like life, her constant thought for others and forgetfulness of self, her singular sweetness of character, had endeared her to all with whom she came in contact.

Her sister, Miss Gertrude Davies-Colley, was invalided home a few months later, leaving Miss Strœlin alone (of C.E.Z.M.S. ladies) in the work.

DEHRA DUN AND MUSSOURIE.

During the Rev. T. Carmichael's absence on furlough the Rev. W. B. Collins resided at DEHRA DUN. Mrs. Collins' ill-health, which eventually obliged her to return home, interrupted her husband's work, as he was called frequently to her at Mussourie. He was agreeably impressed with the native congregation. The Rev. Dr. W. Hooper, engaged mainly in Dehra Dun.

Mussourie.

translation work, resides at MUSSOURIE. The great work of revising the Hindi Bible makes progress, but Dr. Hooper does not reckon on its being completed until the autumn of 1899. Dr. Hooper writes as follows—words which might well be written up over every Bible translator's desk as an inspiring counsel:—

A Bible translator's daily prayer.

> In all this translation work I am well aware of the danger, and therefore of the constant need of watchfulness, lest it be done merely, or even predominantly, as an intellectual labour; and therefore it is my daily prayer, for myself and my fellow-translators, that it may be all, in every detail, done in the Holy Spirit; that, as in every sermon the promise of Matt. x. 20 is pleaded, so in every line of translation it may not be we who translate, but the Spirit of our Father writing by us; that so it may all be used by Him eventually, in the extension of the Saviour's Kingdom, the edification of His Church, the enlightenment of this dark land, and the glory of the Father's Name.

Dr. Hooper baptized eleven adults, all belonging to the domestic servant class; but five of the number proved unsatisfactory, one becoming a drunkard, and four did not maintain their profession of Christianity after leaving Mussourie.

II. CENTRAL PROVINCES AND RAJPUTANA.

THE Rev. H. J. Peck came home invalided in January, 1896; the Rev. C. S. Thompson on furlough, after over fifteen years' unbroken service, and Mr. J. S. Goodwin, on sick leave, in May. The Rev. H. J. Molony was married to Miss E. H. Collisson, of this Mission, at Calcutta in September.

Ordination.

The Bishop of Calcutta admitted the Rev. H. Mould to priest's orders at Calcutta, on March 1st, 1896.

JABALPUR.

Jabalpur.

The Rev. C. H. Gill, in the absence of the Rev. I. Vincent, the native pastor, while studying for priest's orders at Allahabad Divinity School, had the pastoral charge of the Native Congregation at JABALPUR. It consists of about 25 to 30 families, the majority of whom are connected with Mission service. A case occurred calling for the exercise of discipline, and Mr. Gill expresses thankfulness that the leading members of the congregation did not shrink from the responsibility of reporting the case to the Bishop, who issued a sentence of excommunication. The Rev. J. A. F. Warren, who had a serious illness during the rainy season, but was mercifully raised up, continues in charge of the High School, which has been enlarged. The Christian head master of the school, Mr. K. N. Basu, M.A., is doing very effective work. Six out of seven pupils sent up passed the Allahabad Entrance Examination, five in Division II. and one in Division III.; while thirteen who entered for the Middle School Examination all passed, one obtaining a scholarship and four gaining prizes. These results placed the School at the top of the Central Provinces pass list, the branch school at Sadar Bazar being third. Mr. Warren remarks:—

A Mission School at the top of the pass list.

It is well to remember that these results were achieved by a school which devotes forty-seven minutes out of each day to the teaching of God's Word. I am glad to be able to state that the senior boys—a new generation of whom came under my charge last June—continue to pay most earnest attention to the teaching of Holy Scripture. To those who know anything of the average Hindu schoolboy's eagerness to pass examinations, and utter neglect of every subject which does not "pay" or get him marks, this fact must appeal with much force. For the first period every day I take the senior class in the books prescribed for the English course. In the second hour I take the "Entrance" and "Preparatory" classes together in Scripture. We are reading St. Mark at present; during the earlier portion of the year we took the typical characters of the Old Testament.

Most earnest attention of boys to Scripture lessons.

When I began to teach Scripture, I confess I was prepared to notice a certain unwillingness amongst the boys when the Bible was opened, but I can truly say I have never seen anything of the kind. On the other hand, the wistful expression on many faces is most touching, especially when any reference is made to Christ's ability to keep us day by day from the power of sin, or when we speak of the Christian's hope of being with Christ and our dear ones throughout eternity. These boys cannot fail to see how terribly unsatisfying Hinduism is on these two subjects.

A Sunday-school with 400 boys.

A Sunday-school has on its roll the names of over 400 boys, with a high average attendance; and a young men's Bible-class held at the same time has an average attendance of thirty. Mr. Warren says about these efforts:—

Sunday after Sunday the Gospel is plainly set before them; they are told in no uncertain language that Christ is the only Saviour; that Hinduism cannot supply the deeper longings of their soul; that Christ claims them, body, soul, and spirit, and will be satisfied with nothing less than entire surrender. Can we do aught but thank God with all our hearts for inclining these boys to come so regularly, and to listen so attentively, and would we not be worse than faithless if we did not look for blessing upon such teaching?

A Brahman Pundit baptized.

One adult baptism occurred as a fruit of bazar preaching, that of a Brahman Pundit possessing a Government teacher's certificate. Mr. Gill first met him in 1893, but at that time he was not a sincere inquirer, and he occasionally argued against Christianity with the preachers in the bazar. For six months he became a religious ascetic. He was baptized in April, 1895. Mr. Gill says of him:—

"A small matter to die for such a Saviour."

His reply to his old father, who came with tears to dissuade him from being a Christian and to warn him of danger if he showed himself in the city, is worthy of record: "It was a serious matter that the Innocent should have died for my sins, but it is a small matter for me to die for such a Saviour's sake. Besides, He now lives to defend me; and no one can touch me without His permission. Even if that man should lift his club to fell me, Christ can arrest the blow and save me. But if He should not, I can but die and go to Him."

Another baptism which Mr. Gill mentions was the fruit of a primary village school three miles from Jabalpur. Mr. Gill says:—

In one of these schools, in a village three miles from the city, a little Bairagi Brahman boy learned his alphabet, and also the Ten Commandments and the way of salvation. He afterwards attended two more of our schools, and learned more of the Truth. Then he went to the Government Normal School to be trained as a schoolmaster; but at the conclusion of his course, on the third day of his final examination, he fell ill, and failed to get his certificate. But the illness proved the crisis of his life. In the intervals of his fever the teaching he had received came vividly before him, and the fear of death without Christ laid hold on him. He had kept up connexion with Pundit Jagannath, his old teacher; and directly he could walk again he sought him. He had lately been married, and just then the final marriage ceremony was being completed. The Pundit instructed him for a month, and day by day he passed on the instruction to his wife. Meanwhile his conduct at home began to excite the suspicion of his father. His attitudes of prayer and meditation, and his saying grace at meals, were in strange harmony with the usages of his idolatrous home, and were not understood. His father became very angry, and his position became intolerable. To confess his faith would mean forced separation from his wife, who also believed, and untold hardships for both of them. So there was nothing for it but flight. In broad daylight, after the mid-day meal, he managed to get his wife out of the house, and, hiding among hills and jungle, he brought her to the Mission compound, where I gave them a house. The next few days, after their refuge had been discovered, we had the usual heartrending scenes, the parents of both of them coming daily to take them away, first persuading, then threatening. But they stood triumphantly firm, and when the ordeal was over they were baptized together. Soon after they were sent off to Lucknow with a view to his continuing his training as a schoolmaster under Mr. Birkett.

A primary school at Murwara was also blessed with fruit; a Kol lad named Param Sukh, instructed there, was noticed attending the services at Jabalpur, whither he had gone seeking employment. He was sent back to confess Christ at Murwara and then baptized. The Rev. and Mrs. W. Latham, of Allahabad, spent nearly three months itinerating in the neighbourhood of Murwara, in the winter of 1894–5. Mr. Latham makes the following observations on the conditions of such work in the Central, as compared with the N.-W. Provinces:—

ndi- ns of ange- ic work Central ovinces d in .W.P. n- sted.

Itineration in the Central Provinces is attended with more difficulties than in the North-West. Camping, for instance, over a very uneven surface intersected by numerous streams, with no roads, or next to none, and in a climate where you may expect rain almost every week, is somewhat trying; add to this dialects differing much from any of those in the North-West Provinces, and you have before you a series of obstacles which could hinder you from showing such a detailed record of work as you might show in an equal time elsewhere.

The Central Provinces, however, have some special advantages which, though of a negative character, will not by any means be despised by a beginner. There is, for example, a marked absence of the highly cultured Brahman and the learned, loquacious Mohammedan; it is not that these are not to be met with occasionally, but they are sufficiently rare to give breathing time for simpler and more effective work, the work of proclaiming simply the love of God in Christ Jesus to sin-stricken souls. Brahmans there are in some districts in large numbers—in fact, there are villages in which the inhabitants are composed of but two classes, Brahmans and Kols, but they are simple cultivators to whom the Shastras are almost as unknown as the Bible, and we have gone whole days without encountering a Mohammedan; hence our work, if difficult physically, was simple enough spiritually. We rarely met with opposition, and in some places, if not warmly welcomed, we were at least listened to quietly, while here and there kind inquiries were made after former preachers of the Gospel, e.g., in Bijeraghoghar, the one seat of learned pundits in those parts, hopes were expressed that they might see Dr. Hooper again some day, and in many villages we heard regrets at not seeing Timothy Noah again. And what we considered very remarkable was that we did not come to a single village in which some one did not at least know the name of Isa Masih (Jesus Christ), and in many places some of the facts of His life, and history of His death, were fairly well remembered.

Not a village in which Christ's Name unknown.

MANDLA AND MARPHA (GOND MISSION).

The Rev. E. P. Herbert bears witness to the wide area over which the Gospel is to some extent known and remembered in the MANDLA district. In his itinerations he frequently met individuals who had heard missionaries at places more or less remote. For example, he came across a Brahman schoolmaster who spoke with pleasure of a visit of the Rev. F. T. Cole so long ago as 1888; and another learned Brahman pundit had heard of Christ in Allahabad and Nagpur; but more especially and more frequently he found that the Gonds recollected the visits of members of the Band of Associated Evangelists. The progress of evangelization among these and its measure of success are sources of astonishment to the Hindu officials in the district. Mr. Herbert says:—

Gospel widely known in Mandla District.

It is delightful to see the surprise of educated native officials and others when they see that even the Gonds are becoming Christians and learning to read. One feels as if we were occupying the country in their rear, and they confess that Christ is conquering India.

Christ is conquering India

Mr. Herbert visited upwards of 400 villages at the beginning of 1895, and had planned a protracted tour in the hot weather (a good time for itinerating in this district), but was troubled with ophthalmia, caught probably in some dirty village, and had to dismiss his hired buffaloes earlier than he had intended.

The Associated Evangelists' Band, whose centre is at MARPHA, consisted of the Revs. H. J. Molony and E. D. Price, and Messrs. J. W. Goodwin and J. Fryer. The two last both suffered in health; Mr. Goodwin being obliged to take a voyage to Ceylon in the autumn, and later to come home. Mr. Molony mentions with pleasure the fact that the social exclusiveness of some of the Gonds to which he referred in his Annual Letter of 1893 (see Annual Report of 1893–4, page 112, and 1894–5, page 159) is diminishing. The Bhoi Baba and two others of the leading Gond Christians joined with the European brethren at the Christmas feast in 1894. Mr. Molony says as to this:—

Social exclusiveness diminishing

They had been holding back from this final act of "coming out" for Christ for some time, but now they have been bold and set the example, and we hope that the difficulty which Mr. Jackson and I wrote of in our letters two years ago will be generally overcome by our native brethren. It is a very great cause of thankfulness, and seems to me fully to justify our anticipation that social obstacles would be thrown aside eventually by the growing power of Christ in the Native Church. When I next met the Bhoi Baba after this, he seemed to have more joy and liberty in Christ than I had ever seen in him before.

The visit of the Rev. G. B. Durrant to Marpha at the beginning of 1895 was mentioned in last year's Report. As the native catechists were collected at Marpha at the time, a number of devotional meetings were held, and Mr. Durrant gave a series of very helpful addresses, which were much appreciated.

Church built and furnished by Gond Christians.

Mr. Molony refers with excusable pride to the new church, to its whitewashed walls, its home-made furniture, its chalice and paten and alms-bowl of bell-metal turned and polished at Mandla—a local industry—and "looking beautiful"; but more especially to the fact that the whole cost of building and furnishing has been provided through the offertories at the native services, with no outside gift except the communion linen, which Mrs. Williamson bestowed. Mr. Molony opened a Divinity Class at Patpara, with four students, Mr. Goodwin assisting in the teaching, and giving lessons on the violin. The Itinerations were frequent. In a tour to the north of Marpha Mr. Price found the people in every village "most interested" in the preaching and "even anxious to hear the Gospel." On this tour, which was early in 1895, the nights were so cold that Mr. Price found ice on water in his tent. In another tour to visit two inquirers at Pandripani, in a hilly district near Marpha, Mr. Molony and Mr. Price came across a strange instance of heathen superstition. Mr. Price says:—

A pig sacrifice to the sun.

In the evening I went into the village to preach to the people. I heard a curious mixture of laughing, shouting, singing, and pig-squealing, and wondered what it meant. I found a pig-sacrifice to the sun was going on. The poor pig was placed in front of a door, his head just lying on the threshold of the house. The hind-legs were tied together, and a rope passed from them into the house and held by two men; another fastened to the fore-legs and his snout crossed this one, and was held by three or four men standing outside and a little distance from the pig. A huge beam was placed across its breast, so as to make a kind of seesaw. Men and boys were standing on each end of this beam and swaying themselves up and down, to the intense agony of the wretched pig; at the same time the two sets of men pulled at their ropes and rolled the pig backwards and forwards, the object being to make it squeal as much as possible, and to this end, too, those on the seesaw swayed up and down, for their idea is, the more the pig squeals the more the sun is pleased. While the seesaw was going up and down, those on it tried to knock the bamboo wall of the house in with their feet, every now and then thumping against it. All this time the priest inside the house was muttering prayers to the sun and circling a light round the pig's head. When all was at its height, women came slyly behind the men and threw dirty water over them. After half an hour's torture every particle of breath was squeezed out of the poor animal. It was then, I believe—for I did not stay to see—cut up and taken into the house and decorated. While the priest sat down before it and recited prayers to Narayan, or the sun, the men came and brought their offerings to him and received his blessing, and after the men the women. Then the meat was all divided out. This cruel sacrifice is only performed once in ten or twelve years or so, I believe. What special advantages are supposed to be obtained by it I have not yet found out.

Travelling dangers—crossing a bog.

On the return journey, Mr. Price's horse, in crossing a bog, sank almost to its neck, and ingenuity and patience were sorely tried in extricating it. They were afraid to leave the animal in order to seek help, as tiger footprints were visible on the edge of the marsh. After two hours' hard toil, cutting down branches and making therewith a terra firma under the horse's legs as they dug them up one by one with their hands, they were able to proceed.

Baptisms.

Mr. Herbert baptized a leper girl who had been five years under instruction at Diuari in January, 1895; in February he baptized a weaver and his family in a village between Marpha and Mandla, and Mr. Molony baptized a man at Kopa; Mr. Molony also during the summer baptized a Gond and a Hindu convert in a river which separated their respective villages, the sponsors being an Oraon catechist and a former Gond fakir; and in August he baptized a man who had travelled as coolie with one of the catechists, and received the name of Mark, "after St. Paul's minister." The band was joined by the Rev. R. Hack in November.

KHERWARA (BHEEL MISSION).

Kherwara.

As already mentioned, the Revs. C. S. Thompson and H. J. Peck have come home, the former on furlough, after fifteen years' unbroken service in the field, the latter on sick-leave just after passing his first Gujarati examination. The Rev. E. P. Herbert has been temporarily transferred from his work among the Gonds to the charge of the work at KHERWARA and the district around. The Rev. H. Mould went to Kotra, some fifty-five miles from Kherwara, in November, immediately after the conference meetings at Jabalpur. Mr. Thompson's report of the work states that the Bheels number 2,087,415, namely, 792,260 in the Bombay Presidency, 513,539 in Central India, 743,700 in Rajputana, and 37,916 in the Central Provinces. Mr. Thompson has prepared a grammar and vocabulary of the dialect spoken by the Bheels in Rajputana and the Mahikantha, with an historical sketch of these Hillmen, and also a small catechism on the Nature of God, the Life of Christ, and the Way of Salvation. These have been published and are now in circulation. A man and his wife and two children were baptized on Christmas Day, 1894, making twenty-four baptisms since the Mission was commenced in 1880. The first baptisms took place in 1889. Regarding the converts, Mr. Thompson wrote:—

Converts of the Mission.

Twenty-four baptisms after fourteen years' labour is not a very large number. Our numbers might have been very much larger had we been willing not to look very closely into the motives of the inquirers. The great cry among the Bheels is not for religion, but for bread. In this work one does need to understand the art of dealing with men. We have been most cautious in receiving applicants for baptism. To some extent the lethargy and indifference of the people account for such small results. We find, too, the plurality of wives a hindrance to the progress of the Gospel. A Bheel, who may have as many wivès as he can afford to buy (and the more he has, the less he has to do), thinks it hard that he should have but one wife, and have to work the harder on that account. One very great difficulty is to find wives for our young men among their own people. We have had one marriage and one death in the Mission. One of the converts is not at present in communion with us. This man is separated from us simply because we have insisted on his keeping himself and living out of the Mission compound. Now that we have got a start in the way of agents, we do not allow converts to live beside us, but require of them to remain at their own homes. We do want true and manly independence, and we must inculcate into the minds of our people that slavish dependence on missionaries is entirely antagonistic to the spirit of Christianity. It is really a serious problem how to get new converts to stay with their friends and earn their own living. If we continue to insist on each individual being quite independent of the Mission, our numbers probably will remain small, but, at the same time, will be of more sterling worth; whilst, on the other hand, if we are prepared and willing to give converts plenty to eat and to wear and nothing much to do, we may increase our numbers to any extent, but it would be at the expense of the Christian name. Up till recently our plan was to have the Christians with us to give them daily instruction, to help them to get a truer conception of the Gospel, and to fit them for work for Christ. One felt that in a new Mission, and for any lasting movement, the thorough instruction and discipline of a few were of greater moment than the baptism of many who might be scattered and uncared for. This was the method of the Founder of the Kingdom.

PUNJAB AND SINDH MISSION.

The Punjab Mission was begun in 1851, soon after the annexation of the province to British India. The first station occupied was Amritsar, the sacred city of the Sikhs; Kangra was occupied in 1854; Peshâwar, 1855; Mûltan, 1856; Narowal, 1859; Dera Ismail Khan, 1861; Kashmir, 1863; Bannu, 1864; Lahore, 1867; Clarkabad, 1869; Pind Dádan Khan, 1876; Batála, 1878; Dera Ghazi Khan, 1879; Tarn Taran, 1885; Quetta, 1886. At Lahore, the capital of the province, the Divinity School was founded in 1870 by the late Rev. T. V. French. Mr. Gordon (who was killed at Kandahar, August 16th, 1880) established, mainly at his own expense, stations at Pind Dádan Khan and Dera Ghazi Khan, the latter as a base for work among the Beluch tribes. Several other stations fringe the British frontier, the most important of which is Peshâwar, where a Mission to the Afghans was established in 1855 under the auspices of Sir Herbert Edwardes, then Commissioner of the Division. In the valley of Kashmir a Medical Mission was started by the late Dr. Elmslie in 1865, which has been a great blessing to the people, especially during the famine in 1880, and the earthquake in 1884. The work in the Punjab is deeply indebted to men like Lord Lawrence, Sir H. Edwardes, Sir R. Montgomery, Sir D. McLeod, Generals Lake, Taylor, and Maclagan, Colonel Martin, and others, who nobly exerted themselves to bring the Gospel to the people under their administration.

The Sindh Mission is older in date, having been begun in 1850, but is far behind in progress, owing mainly to its having always been quite undermanned. Yet important fruit has been granted to the patient labours of the Rev. J. Sheldon and others at Karachi (commenced 1850) and Hydrabad (1856), and more recently (1887) at Sukkur, on the Indus.

The Diocese of Lahore was founded in 1877, the Rev. T. V. French, the veteran C.M.S. Missionary, being the first Bishop. On his retirement in 1887, the present Bishop, Dr. Matthew, succeeded.

Reinforcements.

THE following reinforcements were sent out:—The Rev. A. C. Clarke, M.A., Emmanuel College, Cambridge, brother of the Rev. C. B. Clarke, of the Bengal Mission, and cousin of the Rev. C. W. A. Clarke, Principal of the Noble High School, Masulipatam; the Rev. Harry Fenn Rowlands, B.A., Trinity College and Wycliffe Hall, Oxford, Curate of St. Thomas', Birmingham, son of the Rev. W. E. Rowlands, formerly of the Ceylon Mission; the Rev. Robert Sinker, B.A., of Cambridge University and Ridley Hall, son of the Rev. Dr. R. Sinker, librarian of Trinity College, Cambridge; the Rev. Richard Herbert Welchman, B.A., Queens' College, Cambridge, Curate of St. Thomas', Birmingham; and Mr. Herbert Bailey Claxton and Mrs. Claxton, the latter daughter of the Rev. W. Haslam, St. Leonards-on-Sea. The Punjab and Sindh Corresponding Committee have accepted an offer of service, as a temporary worker at her own charges and in local connexion, of Mrs. Paul, daughter of the late Rev. W. Rebsch, whose father's death, to be referred to below, released her from domestic duties which had prevented her engaging in missionary work. Mr. Sinker's offer of service was accepted in December, 1892, on the understanding that he should be allowed to take a curacy at home for two years before going out. He was admitted to deacon's orders in 1893 by the Bishop of Chichester, and to priest's orders by Bishop Tufnell for the Bishop of Chichester in 1894; and he held the curacy of St. Margaret's, Brighton. Mr. Clarke was admitted to deacon's orders by the Bishop of London on Trinity Sunday, 1895, after spending a few months in study at Islington College. The four recruits from home (five including Mrs. Claxton) sailed in October.

Retirement of Rev. H. E. Perkins.

The Rev. H. E. Perkins, who came home in May, 1894, in consequence of Mrs. Perkins' state of health, was reluctantly compelled to resign his connexion with the Society. For forty years (first as a civil servant of the Government of India, latterly as a Commissioner in the Punjab, and then upon his resigning that service as an honorary missionary of the Society) Mr. Perkins gave his whole-hearted support to the missionary cause in India. For several months during 1895 Mr. Perkins rendered valued help at the Church Missionary House in the capacity of an Honorary Assistant Secretary.

Deaths of Rev. W. Rebsch,

The Rev. W. Rebsch, who retired from active service in 1882, died at Simla on May 17th, 1895, at the age of seventy-nine. He went to India in 1838 as a missionary of Gossner's Mission, and from that time until his death in 1895 only visited Europe once, in 1852–3. He joined the Church Missionary Society in 1853, and laboured at Jabalpur. In 1862 he was appointed to Kotgur, and was ordained deacon and priest by the Bishop of Calcutta in 1863. After labouring for twenty years at Kotgur, he retired, as stated above, in 1882, after which time he resided at Simla. Mrs. Rebsch died in 1889, aged seventy-two. The Rev. Robert Clark wrote :—

> Both Mr. and Mrs. Rebsch were beloved by all, for they loved all. Missionary work prospered in their hands, for they laboured from faith in God as well as from love to man. Their house was always an abode of peace, and both young and old flocked to their house in Kotgur, and to the church in which he ministered. They were terribly missed, and greatly wished for back again when they went away. . . . He sent a special message through me to the Parent Committee to thank them for all their kind consideration during very many years, and said that he looked back with great pleasure to his connexion with our Society. He thanked God that he was called to be a missionary, and that, as a missionary, he had been connected with the C.M.S.

and of Miss L. Ellwanger

Miss Louise Ellwanger, who left the Mission in March, 1894, for her sister's home in Germany, died at Nürtingen in January, 1896. Miss Ellwanger was a Native of Wurtemberg, and was trained for Christ's service under Pastor Handt, of Kornthal. She went out to India in the year of the Mutiny, 1857, and laboured in the North-West Provinces, first at Benares with the Rev. J. and Mrs. Fuchs, to whom she was related, then at Agra until 1884, when she came home for a lengthened furlough. In 1888 she returned to India, but this time it was to Clarkabad, in the Punjab. The seeds of a painful disease had already obtained a fatal hold, and on the very day of her return she took to her bed, which she never left for nearly two years, till released by death.

The arduous labour of completing the translation and revising the Old Testament in Pushtu has been brought to a conclusion by the Rev. T. J. L. Mayer. Dr. A. Jukes has prepared a valuable Punjabi dictionary, which it is hoped the Government of India will enable him to publish, as such books, though they cannot have a wide circulation, are of great value linguistically and ethnologically. Revision of Pushtu Old Testament.

The Corresponding Committee of the Punjab and Sindh Mission consists of the following :—The Bishop of Lahore, Col. Broadbent, R.E., Col. J. B. Hutchinson, Col. W. W. Marriott-Smith, R.A., Col. G. Marshall, R.E., Col. J. A. L. Montgomery, C. F. Elliott, Esq., W. B. Harington, Esq., the Rev. F. Baring, the Rev. W. Thwaites, the Rev. Dr. Weitbrecht, and the Rev. R. Clark (Secretary). Corresponding Committee.

I. PUNJAB.

The Revs. Dr. H. U. Weitbrecht, E. F. E. Wigram, and E. Guilford came home in July, 1895, and returned to the Mission in October; Dr. Weitbrecht came home by special leave, Mr. Wigram on sick leave, and Mr. Guilford in consequence of Mrs. Guilford's death the previous May, as mentioned in last year's Report; all at their own charges. The Rev. C. M. Gough came home in September, 1895, and returned in March, 1896. In addition to the above, Mr. W. Stobie was invalided home in August, 1895, the Rev. E. F. Robins in December, Mrs. T. Bomford in January, 1896, the Rev. T. E. Coverdale in March, Miss E. S. Wigram in April, the Rev. T. Bomford, and the Rev. and Mrs. F. Papprill in May; the Rev. and Mrs. H. F. T. Beutel and Mrs. Grime came home on furlough in March, 1896, and the Rev. T. R. Wade in May. On the other hand, Mrs. H. U. Weitbrecht returned to the Mission in October, 1895, the Rev. and Mrs. W. Thwaites in November, and Dr. A. C. Lankester in January, 1896.

The Bishop of Lahore admitted the Revs. H. F. T. Beutel and Ihsan Ullah to priest's orders at St. Thomas's Church, Simla, on Trinity Sunday, June 9th, and Munshi Ali Baksh, tutor at the Lahore Divinity School, to deacon's orders, at Lahore Cathedral, on December 22nd, 1895. Ordinations.

AMRITSAR.

The Evangelistic Work in Amritsar and the district immediately around is increasingly encouraging year by year. The Rev. T. R. Wade (now at home) wrote :— Amritsar.

> I have never known so many ready to be taught as at present. I have long spoken of a work of disintegration going on, but now Natives themselves speak of the great changes taking place. Indian Christians are taking their place in the country, and can no longer be utterly ignored or despised. Prejudice is decreasing, ignorance is melting away in the light, and even superstition is being lived down. I have been asked for baptism whilst driving along the road, followed from church by a medical student who said he was willing to sit up all night if I would consent to teach him so long, and return to Lahore the next morning. I have received letters from various distant places from seekers after truth, so distant from each other as Dera Ismail Khan and Bombay. One young man, pleading for baptism, said his love for the Saviour was such that if his whole body were cut up into small pieces the name of Jesus would be found written plainly on each one. I have received a written petition signed by fifteen persons on behalf of forty, asking to be taught about Christianity. There are especially some half-dozen most respectable young men, one of them an assistant surgeon, who profess to be true inquirers. They certainly have their temptations and trials, and should have our prayers.

"Never known so many ready to be taught."

Thirteen adults were baptized in the city. Of one of the converts Mr. Wade said:—

A Sikh convert.

Hira Singh, a well-to-do Sikh farmer, living on his own land, came in from his village of Gosal with his whole family of four fine boys, the eldest about nineteen years old, and after a week's special preparation they were all baptized together. The father is a fine old Sikh, about fifty years of age, six feet high, with grey beard. He has been diligently searching the Scriptures and seeking after the truth for some three years. A lady missionary was itinerating through the district, and a Christian teacher who was with her gave him a Gospel. Having read that he obtained a New Testament, which he earnestly studied. From time to time he came into Amritsar, heard the Christians preaching at the fairs and in the bazars, visited some of them, and read and discussed with them, and at last made up his mind to be baptized. The Aryas went to him to dissuade him from taking this step, but he only said he knew well what they had to say and to offer, but he meant to be a Christian, and they might leave him. As he afterwards said to me: "What a comparison! An unknown number of transmigrations—births, lives, and deaths—in unknown creatures, for an unknown time, with present salvation through a loving Saviour." He has had some difficulty about drawing water from the village well since his baptism, but as he had a right in the well, and both Hindus and Mohammedans used it before he was baptized, he claimed that as a Christian he too could draw water with Mohammedans and Hindus. The Hindus at last withdrew, and so the Christians and Mohammedans are left in possession. I trust the house of Hira Singh will, with God's blessing, be the centre of much cheerfulness.

"What a comparison!"

High Schools—for boys.

The Rev. D. J. Mackenzie assures the Committee that the High School and its branch schools are very distinctly evangelistic agencies, and although immediate fruits in the shape of baptisms cannot be expected during the minority of the scholars (the children of heathen parents), the news is received from time to time of former pupils publicly embracing the Gospel. Mr. Mackenzie heard of two who did so during 1895. The examination results of the schools were good, and the Government grant was unusually high. The branch school at Majitha is gradually recovering from the effects of the rival school being started by Aryas, which reduced its number of pupils to twenty. It had nearly eighty in February, 1896. The personal influence of the gentleman—Sardar Dyal Singh—who endowed the school influenced not a few to return. The opposition is due, Mr. Mackenzie says, to the baptism of a family at a place four miles distant from Majitha. In the Alexandra High School, the Misses L. E. Cooper and Saw, of the C.E.Z.M.S., and the Misses A. F. and K. C. Wright, of the C.M.S., labour together to instruct and train girls, all of Christian families. Miss A. F. Wright says: "Our girls are dearer to me than ever, and we have had many happy hours together this past year." Mrs. Grime tentatively adopted in 1893 the practice of making the native teachers in the Middle Class Girls' School responsible in turn for the general order and discipline of the school, and after two years' trial it has answered exceedingly well. These teachers, who hold senior vernacular certificates, mix freely with the girls out of school hours, and their authority is exercised with discretion, and is respected by the pupils. Miss M. H. Millett pleads earnestly for prayer for the girls. She says:—"Only those who know this dark country can really appreciate the strength of the temptations or the coils of evil with which Satan seeks to ensnare these little feet." Two girls passed the Middle School Examination, one of them gaining the highest marks in the Province. The housekeeping for the large family of 85 boarders devolved to a great extent on Miss B. H. Nevill.

Snares for the young in a heathen land.

Miss E. S. Wigram, whom illness drove home in April, 1896, as already mentioned, took part in Zenana Work with Miss M. Jackson and Miss Tuting, of the C.E.Z.M.S., but her chief work was in supervising the girls' schools for Hindus and Mohammedans in the city. She mentions the baptism of a young woman who was trained at one of the village schools, and afterwards became head-teacher in another.

The number of patients treated at the Hospital was 78,274, and the in-patients numbered 406. Of major operations there were 283, and of minor 2,525. Dr. Henry Martyn Clark writes:—"Our constant aim is to let no one who comes to us for bodily healing go away without hearing of Christ." In St. Catherine's Hospital and Dispensaries, C.E.Z.M.S., 39,939 out-patients were treated; there were also 1,055 maternity cases, and 2,641 sick people were visited in their own homes. There were 234 in-patients. Miss Hewlett, Miss A. Sharp, Miss Bartlett, and Miss Capes are the ladies in charge.

Medical Mission.

The Rev. Dr. Imad-ud-din added during the year to his many Literary Works a book containing a list of the principal subjects treated of in the Koran in alphabetical order, called Tanqid-ul-Qoran. He is now engaged in writing a Life of Christ.

Literary Work.

At Majitha and Jandiala respectively two native deacons are located, the Revs. Q. K. Nehemiah and D. S. Dyal. The former says that the Sikhs are attentive listeners to the Gospel. There were three adult baptisms at Jandiala. Bahrwal-Atari is under the pastoral care of the Rev. Wadhawa Mull, supervised by the Rev. H. G. Grey. Miss Cooper, of the C.E.Z.M.S., also labours there. Ajnala is worked by the Rev. Mian Sadiq Masih, and four ladies of the C.E.Z.M.S. are stationed there, namely, the Misses Dewar, Dickson, Iliff, and G. Hetherington. Of Kot Khairan Mr. Wade says:—

Out-stations.

Friendliness of villagers.

In Kot Khairan, where the late Rev. H. F. Wright was so grossly insulted, I have found the people most friendly. They very willingly offered to sell me as much land as I wished at the proper market rate. Indeed, they said that they ought to behave well now to make amends for their former bad conduct. A house has been built, with a large room for meetings, and there is quite a little congregation there.

And of another village:—

At the beginning of last year I wanted to put a reader in the small town of Vairka, about five miles from Amritsar, where our ladies had a fairly well attended girls' school, but no one at first would receive a Christian into his house, or have him live near them. At length, by offering more than treble the proper rent, and taking the house for a year and paying in advance, a Brahman was willing to rent me his house. As it was in a favourable position I took it. An agreement was properly signed and registered, but when it became known in the town the Brahman had to flee, and he came to me for protection. I went back with him, accompanied by the Rev. D. S. Dyal, and we had a long "palaver" with some of the principal people in the open bazar. I explained our object, and we parted good friends. After our Christian reader had resided there about six months the principal Sirdar of the place came to me and offered to give me a piece of land in a suitable position, valued by the Patwari at Rs. 200, if I would build a house for the Christian teacher, because then they might hope to keep him. The offer was accepted, the deed of gift registered, and a house for the reader, a room as a rest-house for any missionary, and a reading-room for the town have been built. And, what is even more encouraging, I may add that there are several inquirers in the place.

BATALA.

Batala.

The Baring High School at BATALA has sixty-two boarders, some from places several hundred miles distant. In the Open Scripture Examination the pupils of this school, who are all Christians, carried off the first and third senior and the first junior prizes. Four out of six passed the Matriculation, and one out of six the Middle School examination. One-fourth of the boys who have passed out of the school are now engaged in evangelistic work. Out of four papers read by Native Christians at the Diocesan Synod in November, 1895, three were written by "old boys" of the school. Two scholarships to the memory of the late Miss Tucker (A.L.O.E.) have been endowed at a cost of Rs. 2,500. Thirty-two candidates connected with the Congregations of the district were confirmed by the Bishop of Lahore in March, 1895. The Rev. Fath Masih suffered a heavy affliction through the long illness and death of his wife, but his diligence in the ministry was not abated. The new C.E.Z.M.S. Dispensary, of which Mrs. F. E. Wigram laid the corner-stone in January, 1893, was opened on November 16th, 1895. Half of the site of this building was presented by a native proprietor, and the money to purchase the other half was contributed mainly by Natives at a public meeting presided over by the Deputy-Commissioner of Gurdaspur; moreover, the Municipal Committee and the District Board each generously voted the sum of Rs. 2,000. Miss Rosa Singha has for eight years been an honorary worker in the dispensary work under Miss Dixie, and she obtained while in England with Miss Dixie in 1894 the diploma of the London Obstetrical Society. Native gifts for a new dispensary.

The Rev. C. M. Gough has been appointed to the charge of the district in succession to the Rev. Dr. H. U. Weitbrecht, who has taken up important translation work and resides at Simla.

NAROWAL.

The ordination in June, 1895, of the Rev. Ihsan Ullah, the native pastor of NAROWAL, has been mentioned. The Rev. Rowland Bateman says of the occasion :— Narowal.

> Through God's grace he had used "the office of a deacon well," and it was a joy indeed to be called to take part in the laying-on of the hands of the presbytery on this young man, who, though brought up in the Narowal School, had left it a thorough Moslem, and started life as a vigorous opponent of the Gospel. There was a good congregation at the Ordination Service, but surely half Simla would have been there had it been known that the other candidate for priest's orders that day (the Rev. H. F. Beutel) was the very man who, as a lay evangelist many years ago, had so borne, and so answered Ihsan Ullah's opposition to his preaching in the Narowal Bazar as to have been in a great measure the means of winning his young antagonist to Christ. It was a lovely thing to see these two ordained together. An interesting Ordination Service.

The Christians in the district number, as nearly as Mr. Bateman could ascertain, 850 adults and 651 children, which shows an increase of about fifty in the year. There is a constant migration in progress to the military and frontier stations, in quest of work, and to settle at the Bar, i.e., the new district which is referred to below under Pind Dadan Khan. The villages containing Christian congregations were increased by three added during the year, viz., Bárewálí, Totewáli, and Musalmani. At the first-named place persecution was suffered. The Mohammedans pulled down the church which the Christians had built, just as it neared completion; they then refused to give the Christians their share of produce at harvest, and forbade them to send their cattle to the common pasture lands. This boycotting went on, and was patiently borne for weeks and months, but was becoming less intense when Mr. Bateman wrote. Mr. Bateman refers to a subject which has excited much attention in the Punjab, namely, the intrusion of the Salvation Army into districts where other Missions have been long at work, and his remarks, because alike of his long experience and of his well-known tolerance and catholicity of spirit, deserve special consideration. He says:—

Intrusion of the Salvation Army.

It is not easy to give a satisfactory answer to the obvious question: "Why does the Salvation Army, which, with some justice, claims to represent a heroic side of aggressive Christianity, settle itself in that very part of the Punjab where the Christian population already bears the largest proportion to the Heathen around them?" For my own part I should be ready to let the leaders of the S. A. answer it to their own Master; and were it not that the native agents it employs are such as it is impossible to respect, I should still welcome its assistance. Whenever I see decent men preaching the Gospel in Punjabi among our villagers, I shall rejoice. At present these conditions do not obtain here. Much disturbance has taken place, and much cupidity has been aroused among the Christians. It is hard to give an unbiassed opinion as to whether they have been benefited spiritually by being taken away from their former teachers. I have no evidence that it has been so; nor that one Heathen or Mohammedan has been brought by S. A. effort to the point of professing in his home his adhesion even to unbaptized Christianity. At the same time it will be a matter of great thankfulness if the S. A. or anybody else can give us an object-lesson showing how to enlist and employ effective agents who shall be part and parcel of the community from which they are drawn.

Success of boys in Scripture Examination.

The Anglo-Vernacular School is one of the oldest of the Narowal institutions, owing its original existence to the energy of the first convert, who was baptized in 1854, and whose grandson is a master in the school. In the Lake Memorial Scripture Prize Examination, which is open to candidates throughout the Punjab, out of the first nine names in the junior non-Christian section, eight were pupils of this school. The examiner wrote, "The Narowal School has done best. It was a pleasure to go through the papers. They do credit to themselves and to their teacher." There are twenty-one elementary village schools scattered over the district. About half the cost of these is provided by the Punjab Education Department, the present wise policy of which is to encourage elementary education. In one respect Mr. Bateman shows that the object of the Government is more fully secured in Mission-schools than in any others:—

Advantage of Mission village schools over those of Government.

I do not know any Government school to which the poor peasant class can send its children to be taught. In theory, Government schools are open to all, but the Heathen take good care to prevent their serfs from sending their children to them. So the most needy are quite neglected. Whereas we put down our teachers just where our poor Christians live, because they are there, and the non-Christians send their children to share in the education we supply, knowing that they owe it to the presence of a Christian community.

Of the value of these schools as missionary agencies, and how one of them suffered from a village feud, Mr. Bateman says:—

We are brought into close relationship with all classes in one class-room, and hundreds of boys all over the district learn the outlines of the Christian faith and commit to memory passages of the Word of God. We have an annual religious examination and prize-giving, whereat the best school carries off a champion flag and keeps it for a year. All this involves a good deal of work. These schools are increasingly valuable in proportion as we are able to put them more and more under Christian teachers. One of our school-rooms was burnt down lately. This outrage was not the result of enmity to the institution. It was due to a feud between A. and B., two of the heathen magnates of the village. A. now says: "I will re-build your school if you will promise to prosecute B. for burning it down"; and B. is ready to make good the damage if we will only get A. locked up for causing it. Meanwhile the police are "investigating the case," which means that both parties are being made sorry for themselves. Meanwhile their boys learn their lessons under a tree in diminished numbers.

Value of primary vernacular schools as missionary agencies.

And he adds a striking testimony to the conduct of the boys in the Christian Hostel:—

Good conduct of Christian boys.

It is a great pleasure to record once more that I have never heard a word spoken either in jest or in earnest that was unbecoming to the lips of a Christian school-boy—and this in a country where filthy abuse is the ordinary expletive of excited children.

The standard of admission to the catechumenate is raised year by year. The number, exclusive of children, on the list during 1895 was 210, three of whom were Hindus, six Mohammedans, two Dhums, and the rest Chuhras. Fifty-two adults were baptized. The Rev. E. A. Causton was at Narowal during the year, but it has been decided that, after spending some time at Lahore studying Urdu, his station will (D.V.) be Tarn Taran. The Rev. H. F. Rowlands, one of the year's recruits, has been located at Narowal. Mr. Causton wrote:—

One of the things that have struck me most is the affection and trust all the people, Christians and non-Christians alike, show to Mr. Bateman. His name is a household word all over the district. Having lived amongst them for over twenty-five years, they know and respect him and understand he has come to be their friend and do them good. Any one coming out from England and seeing how the Punjabis come into his little room (there is hardly an hour of the day without some one coming in and having a chat) cannot fail to be struck with the influence which one man may have over them.

"The influence one man may have."

I must also mention the splendid work the ladies are doing; they are always at it, going from village to village, doing the Master's work, reading and teaching the girls and women, and are almost always warmly received. It is a thing that strikes you wherever you go. One must admire their zeal, their devotion, their self-sacrifice, their pluck. Would that their numbers were doubled!

The C.E.Z.M.S. Ladies at Narowal are Miss Catchpool, Miss M. Reuther, Miss Rainsford, and Miss L. Middleton. 7,333 out-patients were treated at the dispensary, and there were 101 in-patients; and the ladies visited 206 villages during the camping season.

TARN TARAN.

During the Rev. E. Guilford's absence in England for a few months in 1895, opposition was stirred up at TARN TARAN against the Mission by a few members of the Arya Samaj, and upon his return his reception was a contrast to that which he had experienced in 1894, few except the Christians showing any signs of joy or satisfaction. During Lent, 1895, the Congregation were encouraged to practise self-denial and to devote to the Lord for His work what money they could save thereby. Mr. Guilford says of the result :—

Tarn Taran.

Self-denial in Lent.

> On Good Friday morning, before the commencement of the service, I stood at the chancel rails and received the people's gifts. The result was most satisfactory, for the amount offered was found to be between forty and fifty rupees. This showed that the people had really denied themselves, not indeed of luxuries, for they can never afford any, but of ghi (clarified butter), sugar, &c. Two of the poor people had evidently been unable to save anything out of their monthly wages of five shillings and sixpence, but they gave what they could. One put into the almsdish a silver ring, and the other a small silver bracelet. These gifts probably represented the savings made in more prosperous times, and were doubtless intended to keep the wolf from the door if ever they should happen on times worse for them even than the present.

Leper Asylum.

The Leper Asylum had 37 inmates at the close of 1895, fewer by five than the year before, one having died, a few others having removed to another asylum, and two having been appointed teachers in a leper asylum at Rurki. Three of the lepers were baptized. Small allotments have been apportioned to the lepers, on which they cultivate their own vegetables, and prizes are given for the best stocked gardens. The Christian village of Zunnardar shows satisfactory progress both in matters of outward prosperity and in the character of the people. The head-man has built a large room, and set it apart for religious purposes. Mr. Guilford says :—

Changes observed in a village now professing Christianity.

> At the beginning of December I spent three days at this village, and I could not but mark the great change for the better which has taken place there since the people embraced the Christian faith. This change is seen not only in the moral character of the people themselves, but also in the altered appearance of the village generally. The wretched tumble-down appearance which characterized the place six years ago has altogether changed, and renovated dwelling-houses and new buildings meet the eye in all directions, and give proofs of prosperity. Even the water of their well, which was brackish, and caused ruin to the land which was irrigated from it, has become sweet and pure. How the latter change has come about I know not, but there it is as an incontrovertible fact. One could not but see in all these marks of progress and prosperity an illustration of the truth of 1 Tim. iv. 8 : "Godliness is profitable unto all things, having promise of the life that now is, and of that which is to come."

A new congregation was formed during the year at a village five miles from Tarn Taran, where Mr. Guilford baptized nine persons. The Rev. E. A. Causton has been assigned to Tarn Taran. Miss Hanbury and Miss Grimwood are the C.E.Z.M.S. Ladies at this station.

CLARKABAD.

Clarkabad.

The Rev. T. R. Wade superintended the work at CLARKABAD, visiting it from Amritsar. Nine adults were baptized. The Misses M. E. and M. J. Farthing work among the Christian women of the settlement, of whom there are now eighty, and visit in the neighbouring villages. The Girls' Orphanage was supervised successively by Miss Granger and Miss Edgley, whose services have been kindly lent by the C.E.Z.M.S. during Miss West's furlough. The Rev. T. Howell is the native pastor of the congregation.

LAHORE.

Lahore.

The aim at the Divinity School, LAHORE, is quality rather than quantity, and the Rev. H. G. Grey expresses a doubt whether the Indian Church in the Punjab can be expected for the present or some time to come to produce more than five or six men suitable for, and able to receive, the training which the Divinity School bestows. The number of students in the year under review was five. A Hostel was built capable of accommodating twenty-one bachelor students. The Bishop French Memorial Professor, Munshi Ali Baksh, was ordained deacon in December. Mr. Grey has been appointed to the charge of the work at Amritsar, and the Rev. E. F. E. Wigram has succeeded to his duties as Principal.

KANGRA, KOTGUR, AND SIMLA.

"One man among a million of perishing souls, scattered over 10,605 square miles of mountainous country," is the Rev. J. Tunbridge's description of his sphere of work, which centres in KANGRA. By the Natives Kangra is regarded as the "Benares of the Punjab." Mr. Tunbridge discloses some of the symptoms of its eminence :—

Kangra the "Benares of the Punjab."

> Kangra's golden temple is a curse and a blight to the whole country. Only just recently a Brahman pilgrim from near Aligarh cut off half an inch of his tongue to propitiate the goddess. It healed, and his recovery was attributed to her miraculous powers. The man returned home to be regarded as one favoured of the gods. Still more recently, a slight shower of rain which fell after a dust-storm was reported as a "sprinkling of saffron-water by the great goddess, the mother of Kangra." The bazars are full of priests, idols, and immorality, and "reek with idolatry," as a Christian lady remarked to me soon after our arrival. But there is a bright side. For some years the pilgrims have been decreasing in numbers. The priests, too, are dwindling away in number, compared with former times; and the local Hindus pay little regard to the lying wonders of this great Diana of Kangra.

The schools in the city met with much opposition from certain Hindus, headed by the Aryas and temple priests, who delivered public lectures against them, and started a subscription list for an opposition school. Mr. Tunbridge met the opposition by calling the Christians to unite for a week in special prayer, and the opponents soon after became divided, and the rival school which had been proposed resulted only in a small Sanscrit class of half-a-dozen lads, held within the temple precincts. Unhappily, the majority of the teachers in the schools are still Heathen, but Christian instruction is given in each of them by Christian masters. The sales of Scriptures increase, especially among the Goorkha sepoys. At Sidhpur a church is in course of erection. The Bishop of Lahore confirmed eight candidates at Dharmsala in September, and the same month two baptisms took place at the Leper Asylum in the same town, one of the converts being a servant in the institution. The native evangelists visited Mandi, and Itinerations were made in the Kangra valley, where also the melas were visited. The villagers for the most part listened readily, but in the towns, and especially in the neighbourhood of sacred shrines, opposition was not seldom encountered. Mrs. Däuble and Miss Michaelis, the latter of the Berlin Ladies' Society, who reside at Dharmsala, made itinerating tours, and the latter visited the gaddirs, or shepherds, in their scattered homes. The Rev. A. Lewis, formerly of the Punjab and Sindh Mission, has accepted the chaplaincy of Dharmsala and Kangra, offered to him by the Bishop of Lahore. His presence will be a help and encouragement to the Mission.

Kotgur. The Rev. H. F. T. Beutel, after his ordination at Lahore in December, 1894, had a trying return journey from Simla to KOTGUR, having to wade through snow knee-deep for several miles, but he arrived in safety and with a thankful heart. Still more thankful was he when two of the native workers, who during his absence had had a serious quarrel, were enabled, in answer to prayer, to ask each other's forgiveness, embracing and weeping aloud. Three women were baptized. Mr. Beutel made a short tour into Kulu to a mela at Dalash. In the autumn of 1895 Mr. Beutel had a bad attack of fever, and a visit to Europe was ordered. He and Mrs. Beutel left Kotgur early in 1896, after twenty-five years' continuous service in India. During their absence Mrs. Paul, an honorary worker taken temporarily into local connexion, is stationed at Kotgur.

Simla. The Rev. Dr. H. U. Weitbrecht removed from Batala to SIMLA in the spring of 1896, in order to take up the work of completing the Urdu New Testament revision, with the help of a small committee of revisers, for which purpose the British and Foreign Bible Society has agreed to make an annual grant for two years towards his support and expenses. The Rev. N. C. Dass has been transferred to Batala.

PIND DADAN KHAN.

Pind Dadan Khan. No European missionary was stationed at PIND DADAN KHAN during the year. An extensive district of some thirty-two million acres of waste land near the junction of the Jhelam and Chenab Rivers has been brought under irrigation by the recently constructed Chenab Canal, and a large population has migrated thither, including many Christians from the Society's Central Punjab stations. The district is known as the Jhang Bar, with its chief town Lyallpur. The Corresponding Committee have applied to Government for a site for Mission premises in this district.

MULTAN.

Multan. Four civil districts, those of Multan, Montgomery, Jhang, and Mozuffargarh, are open to evangelization from MULTAN, and are, humanly speaking, dependent for a knowledge of the Gospel upon the little staff of labourers of the C.M.S. and the Female Education Society who are stationed there. These are the Revs. T. Bomford, C. E. Barton, and W. F. Cobb, of the C.M.S.; and Miss Eger, a qualified medical missionary, and Miss Wadsworth, of the F.E.S. Mr. Bomford, accompanied by Munshi Talib Masih, the head catechist, went on a tour in the Mozuffargarh District in January, 1895. He was, even more than on former tours in this district, encouraged by the attention paid to the preaching at many places. Lantern slides were exhibited and attracted large audiences, but on several occasions the people's interest was manifestly in the message delivered and not in the pictures. At one place they scarcely looked at the screen; indeed, many took up a position from which they could not see it, and when this was pointed out to them, remarked that they did not care about seeing—they only wanted to hear. The head man at Jatoi has offered land to the Mission in order that an agent may be placed there. He was led to do so through Talib Masih having successfully administered medicine to one of his wives, restoring her to health. Mr. Barton mentions the baptism of a young Hindu lad who was brought to him by a Native Christian named Matthew, who is himself a fruit of the Mozuffargarh itinerating work. The youth in question is able to speak English fluently, and had been made president of the Multan branch of the Arya Samaj. This position he resigned through the influence of Matthew, who taught him and lent him Christian books. Mr. Barton was much pleased with his intelligence and humility. The baptism took place at Lahore, after trying interviews with his relatives and threats from the local branch of the Arya Samaj, throughout which he stood firm. Both Mr. Barton and Mr. Cobb write of the enjoyment and encouragement they find in giving Scripture lessons in the Schools. The latter dwells in his Annual Letter on the trials and the joys of missionary work as they appeared to him at the close of his first year. Among the former instanced by him are the spiritual darkness of India, thousands not knowing Christ and not wanting to know Him; the small number of Christians (some forty in a city of 80,000, after forty years that Multan has been occupied), and their shortcomings; the sense of isolation, which, however, soon passes away; the weariness of language study (Mr. Cobb passed his Urdu Preliminary "with credit"); and the lack of spiritual helps. But, notwithstanding all these, Mr. Cobb's first year was one of "untold mercies and of great happiness in fuller realization of all that Jesus is and does." Among the joys, he mentions the welcome accorded by missionary brethren; the first sight of Native Christians, and especially the kneeling with them for the first time at the Lord's Table; the incitement to work which the multitudes of Mohammedans and Hindus around supply; the opportunities for some work from the very first among the English-speaking Natives; and the sense of being engaged in work which is specially dear to the Saviour of sinners, and the daily experience of His faithfulness in keeping all His promises. On this last point Mr. Cobb says:—

"He shall receive an hundred-fold now, in this time." I, and I suppose every missionary besides, have found this abundantly true. God gives us many a Christian brother and sister and parent here amongst our fellow-missionaries and our Native Christians. But, above all, He Who has especially coupled "the promise of His Presence with the command of departure," is the one to whom in times of doubt, solitude, or depression we are driven, and we learn more than ever to "live on Him." He never sends a servant forth but He goes with him.

A Mohammedan inquirer banished from home.

Besides the convert above mentioned, another was baptized in November. He was a Mohammedan, but had studied the Bible and become dissatisfied with the religion in which he had been brought up. His parents then banished him from home, and sent him to Bahawalpur, where he found a friend and guide in Mr. Battye, the head-master of the C.M.S. School there, and after three months' instruction was baptized, at Multan, by Mr. Barton.

DERA GHAZI KHAN.

Dera Ghazi Khan.

Anxiety was felt during August, 1895, lest DERA GHAZI KHAN should be flooded and possibly even carried away by the River Indus, but just as the embankment was broken through the river began to fall, and no damage was done. A stone embankment is to be made by the Government to protect the city against such a danger in the future. Dr. J. O. Summerhayes repeats the following stories which were told him regarding the panic-stricken Hindus and Mohammedans:—

Superstitions of panic-stricken Heathen.

When the river was at its worst, sweeping into the current whole gardens and groves of trees, a Mohammedan fakir came and said he would stop the river for 3,000 rupees. The people said: "All right; you first stop the river, and then we will give the rupees." This man spent the greater part of three days and nights calling on the name of God, "Allah! Allah! Allah!" in various tones, but as the river seemed to do more damage just where he was standing, he was heard of no more after the third day.

Some of the rich Hindu people thought they would like to do their share to stop the damage. They bought bags of sugar, and taking them down to the river bank, and seeing a number of the milkmen, who daily bring milk from the other side of the river, come floating down on their inflated goat-skins, with vessels full of milk on their heads, bought a number of these, poured in the sugar, and then poured the mixture into the river, I suppose to appease it.

Hospitals.

The advantages of the new Hospital buildings were realized in an increased number of patients and more success in treating them, and also a greater willingness on their part to listen patiently to the Gospel preaching. There were 5,319 new out-patients, and 192 in-patients. The services held numbered 474. The Women's Hospital had 25 in-patients, received 9,757 visits of out-patients, and there were 186 services. The Rev. A. E. Day was transferred to Dera Ghazi Khan from Bannu in May, 1895. He testifies to the consistent lives and zeal of the native assistants in the hospital, who gladly helped him in the bazar preaching, where the audiences were not large but very attentive. Mr. Day says:—

> It is most interesting and encouraging to mark with what attention the addresses are listened to, and how readily leaflets are accepted. One cannot but hope that some hearts are being taught by the Holy Spirit, and that they may have courage to come out on the Lord's side; but at present none have declared themselves.

The Rev. M. H. Izhaq, the native deacon, ministers under Mr. Day's supervision to the Congregation. At Fort Munro there were 40 in-patients and 752 out-patients. Dr. Summerhayes made an Itineration to a place largely resorted to by pilgrims, Sakki Sarwar's tomb, where he remained ten days. He writes:—

The Gospel preached in the precincts of a Moslem Saint's tomb.

> We took a magic-lantern, and the custodian of St. Sakki Sarwar's tomb insisted on our showing the pictures in the place itself; and as time after time a band of pilgrims came with a deafening noise of tomtoms into the place, they were told to stop, and come and see the pictures, and listen to the explanations; and so many poor people, coming to Sakki Sarwar's tomb to be healed, heard of the great and true Healer of men, as our pictures were Pilgrim's Progress and the Life of our Lord. One man at the end of ten days came forward and said he believed, and wanted to be taught, but he never came to us at Ghazi as he promised, but we will look him up this winter.

The Rev. E. F. Robins had a long and most serious attack of typhoid. For eight weeks he lay at Fort Munro unconscious, and he owes his life, under God, Dr. Summerhayes says, to the good nursing which he received.

The C.E.Z.M.S. Ladies at Dera Ghazi Khan are Miss Coverdale and Miss Hetty Brooke.

DERA ISMAIL KHAN, BANNU, AND TANK.

Dera Ismail Khan.

The barren hills and waste lands of this frontier district is a standing picture, the Rev. F. Papprill says, of the spiritual condition of the people; in the large towns their attitude is one of indifference, in the villages ignorance and superstition prevail. During the hot months evangelistic work in DERA ISMAIL KHAN is scarcely possible. The heat is too great for bazar preaching, too great, at all events, for the listeners, as it is found impossible to get a soul to attend. The time was therefore occupied in language study and in instructing the catechists. The High School, however, was carried on, under the Rev. H. J. Hoare, all the year through, and Mr. Papprill took some of the classes in the Scriptures. He failed, he says, to see any marks of interest among them in Revealed Truth for its own sake; such attention as they gave was for the purpose of acquiring an English idiom and pronunciation, and he adds that the interest diminished rather than increased as the boys advanced to the higher classes. Four members of the Congregation were confirmed in November; one of them presented as a thankoffering Rs. 10—nearly half of his first month's salary. Mr. and Mrs. Papprill (now at home) itinerated during the cold months, and found the medicines which she dispensed, and the lantern slides which he exhibited, great attractions. Mr. Papprill wrote:—

> I often think, when Mrs. Papprill is with me in camp, of Abraham and Sarah raising their altars in the different villages, and of their intercession on behalf of the Canaanites. Our prayers and intercessions, our presence among and intercourse with the villagers, together with the medical relief given by Mrs. Papprill to the women, must result in blessing.

Bannu.

From November, 1894, until May, 1895, the Rev. A. E. Day had charge of the pastoral and educational work at BANNU. The church services, he says, were hearty, and the school work encouraging, as several of the boys evinced much interest in their Bible lessons. The Bishop of Lahore visited Bannu in December and confirmed six candidates. The Hospital, under Dr. T. L. Pennell and Dr. W. F. Adams, has been extended by the addition of an out-patient department, consisting of a consulting room, operating room, a dispensary, and a women's ward. The average daily attendance of out-patients was over one hundred, and the twenty-two beds of the hospital were nearly always full. Dr. Adams mentions a mullah, on whose eyes he operated for cataract, who was greatly impressed by the fact that the act of skill and kindness was done only for the love of God. Preaching is listened to by the patients with great quietness and attention, and in the bazar also the audiences were generally good, and on the whole attentive, though sometimes the preacher was interrupted, and that with some violence. In December, while Dr. Pennell was preaching in Pushtu from the newly-printed Major Prophets, of which he had just received copies from the Rev. T. J. Lee Mayer, he and his fellow-workers were attacked at the instigation of the mullahs, two of them being severely beaten and knocked about. Esa Kheyl has been made an out-station by placing a catechist there. It was mentioned in the Report for 1889–90 (page 130) as having one Christian family resident in it who had endured much persecution. Dr. Pennell reports that the head of this family has since died, but that his sons are Christians. The catechist, Gonhar Masih, met with much opposition from the Mohammedans soon after settling there. In the Bannu district Dr. Pennell in his itinerations finds the people hard to impress. The mullahs instigate them to hold aloof, and to decline even a pill or a draught of medicine from a Christian doctor. In some places threats of stoning were uttered unless the evangelists left the village. But patient perseverance in well-doing has already overcome this opposition in one such village, greatly assisted likewise by the influence of some returned hospital patients. Wearing native dress Dr. Pennell finds a great disarmer of prejudice, as well as comfortable for travelling. The Bishop baptized two converts during his visit in December. Four others had previously been baptized, viz. :— the wife of a Mohammedan who was baptized in 1893 at Bahrwal, (see Annual Report, 1893–94, page 124) ; a Mohammedan youth who relapsed soon after his baptism ; another Mohammedan youth, formerly a pupil in the Mission-school, who has stood firm notwithstanding many devices of his parents and others to make him fall ; and a Bannuchi youth, the son of an Imam of a village near Bannu. Dr. Pennell itinerated in the summer of 1895 up the Kurram Valley, the alternative route with the Khyber Pass to Kabul. His companion was Jan Khan, an Afghan convert. They found the people exceedingly open to conversation on religious subjects, especially as compared with the inhabitants of Bannu. In the latter place a well-inclined mullah would not dare to read a Bible except secretly, while in Kurram Dr. Pennell frequently saw mullahs publicly reading and commenting on God's Word to large groups of Khans and others. Many mullahs called upon him and had long talks about the Gospel, and he distributed many gospels and tracts among them and the principal Khans of the district. Some of these copies were carried by their owners into Afghanistan. The doctor frequently met old patients of the Bannu hospital. The Rev. John Williams, the native clergyman and doctor, has charge of the work, including a hospital, &c., at TANK, where he labours on quietly and cheerfully, but too seldom writes to the Committee to acquaint them of the progress or of the trials experienced.

PESHAWAR.

The Rev. and Mrs. C. H. A. Field were alone at PESHAWAR for the greater part of the year, but were rejoined by the Rev. and Mrs. W. Thwaites in November. Mr. Field was chiefly engaged in evangelistic work in the city and neighbouring villages. Much opposition and occasional rudeness are met with in the city. Mr. Field says :—

Peshawar.

> I have seen mullahs spit and throw dust on the catechists, who have much more to bear than we have, being regarded as renegades from their former belief. The ignorance of the common people is very great. They seem to find it difficult to distinguish between Jews and Christians, and we are often told that it was we who killed, or wished to kill, Christ. They firmly believe that in England and America vast numbers have become Mohammedans. There was this year a German named Ward going about here who had become one, and they are naturally much encouraged by such instances.

Hostility and ignorance of the people

On one occasion a Mohammedan Rissaldar (cavalry officer) showed his interest by accompanying Mr. Field through the city from the preaching place to the native service in All Saints' Church. The most encouraging feature in the work, however, is the evident interest that is often manifested in the Word of God. An inquirer from the Hazara district, after six months' probation and instruction, appeared to Mr. Field to be a genuine believer in Christ, Whom he confessed before other Mohammedans. A Pathan mullah sat five hours with Mr. Field, and on being offered a Pushtu New Testament he asked for pen and ink and copied John xii. 32–36 on a piece of paper, which he took away with him, being evidently afraid of accepting a book. When Mr. Field was in the dâk bungalow at Haripur, a mullah brought to him a piece of paper on which he had written the names of the four Evangelists and asked if Mr. Field possessed a copy of their books. Another man followed Mr. Field a mile to his house to obtain a gospel. The Edwardes High School was carried on during Mr. Thwaites' absence by Mr. Brooke, the Eurasian head-master, assisted by Mr. Sturgeon, another Eurasian master.

Mullahs interested in the Gospel.

The Duchess of Connaught Hospital of the C.E.Z.M.S. has been enlarged by the addition of a consulting room, dispensary, &c., and of a new block, the Barwise Memorial block. The staff consists of Dr. Ella Mitcheson, Miss Werthmüller, and Miss Middleton; and Misses Phillips and Houghton engage in zenana work. The schools encounter great opposition.

II.—KASHMIR.

Miss I. E. V. Petrie sailed in September to return to the Mission after short leave, and in full connexion with the Society, and Mr. R. V. Greene sailed in October.

SRINAGAR.

Srinagar.

The Rev. J. H. Knowles explains in a few words how the Mission work is distributed among the workers in the city of Srinagar. He says:—

Srinagar is really a very big city; it covers an area of nearly 4,000 acres, and including the suburbs contains a population of some 140,000 souls. A reference to the statistical atlas shows us that it stands twenty-second in magnitude among the cities of India. The work of this Mission in Srinagar lies amongst Mohammedans, Hindus, and Sikhs. All of us have a share in that work. Mr. Biscoe, by means of his schools, in which he spends the greater part of his time, reaches quite 600 young men and lads, mostly of the Pundit class, who will soon be occupying positions of clerks, merchants, contractors, and officials, &c., in the city. The Doctors Neve's hospital ministers to a few thousands, chiefly Mohammedans belonging to the working classes. The zenana ladies are busy from morning to night visiting the women, a large proportion of whom are Sikhs, in their homes. While my city work principally consists in calling on the upper ten of all three classes, wherever I can; in preaching now and again in the bazar, whenever there seems a good opportunity; and in helping a little by giving Kashmiri addresses, taking Bible lessons or ward services for the patients in the hospital or the boys in the schools. My wife, too, helps a little in the school. This is a pretty fair account, I think, of what is being done for the city folk.

High School

The High School, under the Rev. C. E. Tyndale Biscoe, has 500 names on its roll. They thoroughly appreciate the Bible lessons; and a manifestation of a self-denying concern for the sufferings of others gave much encouragement to Mr. Tyndale Biscoe, who says:—

Compassionate school-boys.

Last winter was a very severe one here, as it was in England, and we discovered that there were a number of homeless waifs in the streets who were walking about barefooted in the snow, covered with only a few scanty rags, so some of the boys expressed a wish that we should support some of them. We accordingly took six boys under our wing, and started money-boxes in the three schools and in my Sunday Bible-class. By degrees they have all been reclaimed but one, the relatives no doubt fearing that they might become Christians. This idea of giving money to strangers is quite new to these boys, and I fear it will be a long time before they learn to give with a free hand, but it is a beginning for which we must be thankful.

Mr. Tyndale Biscoe attaches much importance to opportunities of influencing the boys out of school hours. On two idolatrous festivals, as a counter-attraction, he invited the elder boys to accompany him for a week's camping-out on one occasion, and on another for a three days' trip up a mountain 13,000 feet above sea-level. The latter trip was at the festival held in honour of the goddess Rajin. In previous years Mr. Biscoe had not succeeded in persuading any boys to accompany him, as the priests and parents attached so much importance to this pilgrimage. In 1895, however, twelve boys went with him and Dr. Neve. Several of the boys have applied for baptism. Mr. Biscoe's Sunday class for the boys continues to thrive; and he exercises a marked influence, Mr. Knowles says, over a number of Eurasian clerks, by visiting them and often inviting them to spend an evening at his house. He has induced several of these clerks to sign the pledge, as drink is the besetting sin of many of that class in Srinagar. Mr. Knowles delivers addresses from time to time at his own house to Bengali clerks engaged in the Government offices, from ten to seventy being present. Mr. Knowles has completed the translation of the Old Testament into Kashmiri, and revised the whole, a work which has taken several years. He mentions, among the encouragements of the year, that a village headman walked several miles to his bungalow to obtain a New Testament, because he desired to have the whole book and not a portion only. The two brothers, Drs. Arthur and E. F. Neve, work the Medical Mission. Among the Mohammedans within the city and in the three thousand villages which surround it within a day's ride from its walls, a widespread proclamation of the Gospel is effected through the dispensary work, and much systematic teaching is given in the wards. There were 984 in-patients and 12,900 out-patients, while 2,589 operations were performed and 27,260 visits paid.

Medical Mission.

Work among the Women in the hospitals is done by two trained lady nurses, the Misses Newman and Newnham, of the C.E.Z.M.S., and that among the women of the congregation and among non-Christians by Miss I. E. V. Petrie, in co-operation with Miss Hull, of the C.E.Z.M.S. Miss Petrie has a weekly Bible-class of Christian women, among whom, at the beginning of 1895, were two Tibetan girls, sisters, one of them the wife of a Madrasi Christian servant. Over sixty zenana pupils scattered over a wide area are visited. During the severe winter of 1894–5 these pupils were generally found in bed. Miss Hull gives a graphic account of these visits:—

Work among Women.

Pupils in bed.

> A sharp walk through the snow of over a mile brings Miss Petrie and myself to the beginning of the city, where our boat awaits us, takes us on to our various destinations, and in the evening we return in the same fashion. From the boat we have strange scrambles through the snow, saved from disaster by the ever-ready hand of a boatman, one of whom accompanies each of us, and thus we reach our pupils' houses. As we enter, a head slowly emerges from the bed-clothes, and a smile greets us, for we are probably the only visitors through the dreary, monotonous week. A stranger might suppose that all our friends were stricken with some epidemic, but with a temperature but a little above zero, no fireplace, perhaps no light but what enters by the open door, there seems no refuge but bed, with the friendly little fire-basket beneath the warm coverlet. Nevertheless, lessons have not been neglected; the book is drawn from under the pillow, the old lesson read, and a new one taken to occupy some of the spare hours in the coming week. Then a hymn, and then the Bible lesson, which gains for itself an ever-deepening interest, and we pass into the snow, with numbed hands and feet, to rouse more dormant figures into a temporary activity and interest.

Brahman ladies studying the Bible.

Bengalis, Hindis, Punjabis, Sikhs, and Hill Tribes, as well as Kashmiris, are among the various races visited. Miss Petrie says:—"Some of the pupils are high-caste Brahmans; one, the wife of the Chief Justice, a highly-educated lady, who is studying the Bible according to Clews to Holy Writ," the admirable book by Miss Petrie's sister, now Mrs. Carus-Wilson, of Montreal.

Tour in Baltistan.

Dr. Arthur Neve, accompanied by Mr. George Biscoe, a brother of Mr. Tyndale Biscoe, made a two months' tour in Baltistan in August and September. They walked altogether some 750 miles, crossing several snow-passes of over 15,000 feet in height, and visited most of the villages in the country. The fame of the Kashmir Medical Mission had preceded them, and the sick were brought in large numbers for treatment at some places, while the hospitality lavished upon them was almost embarrassing, and the ceremonial visits took up more time than they were disposed to spare. Of their visit to Shigar Dr. Neve wrote: —

> On the spacious polo-ground it was a pleasure to grip the hand of our Swedish friend Gustafson, of the Scandinavian Alliance Mission. And now we had good times, for he preached or sang to the people in Balti, and crowds of patients began to come to our quarters. Among these were some who had been treated by us in Kashmir. Indeed, we found old patients in many places, from the Governor, and the Rajah of Shigar, downwards. We had an eye "clinique" before breakfast, doing a few operations. Then, after a short rest, came the great assembly of the lame, halt, asthmatic, dyspeptic, and blind. They gathered on the polo-ground in front of the door of the rest-house. Close by was an elevated verandah, where sit the Rajah and his retinue during polo-matches. This suited our purposes admirably as operating-room and dispensary, being airy and having but one entry, while a swift stream flowed behind it. Till dark we would work away without being able to treat all the applicants. On one day thirty-two operations were performed. And so a few days slipped happily by.

Old patients found at Shigar.

And at Khapallu, in the Shayok Valley, further opportunities occurred, and the Rajah accepted a Persian New Testament.

III. BELUCHISTAN.

QUETTA.

The coming home from Quetta on short leave of the Rev. C. M. Gough in September, 1895, and his transfer to Batala on his return to the Mission, have been mentioned. The Hospital, under Dr. S. W. Sutton and Dr. M. Eustace, increases greatly in popularity and usefulness. The number of visits of out-patients increased during 1895 as compared with 1894 from 9,435 to 14,699; the in-patients from 165 to 320; and the operations from 320 to 501. Evangelistic addresses were given daily in Urdu and Pushtu, and even those who are known as noisy opponents in the bazar are invariably quiet during the preaching in the hospital. Abdul Karim, the first convert of the Mission, about whose trials for the Gospel's sake an account was given in last year's Report, was permitted to live and labour in peace during 1895, reading and expounding the Scriptures in the hospital wards. He himself had a fear that his constant teaching in the hospital would deter patients from attending, but the figures above quoted show that this apprehension was not justified. Old patients from Kandahar, and from Ghazni, some 350 miles distant, frequently send their friends and relations for treatment. An old mullah of Ghazni, who had arrived perfectly blind from cataract, returned with excellent sight, and, though a very bigoted man, subsequently sent several patients with letters of introduction. Dr. Sutton visited Mastung, a Brahman centre thirty-five miles south of Quetta, in August. His former interesting visit in 1888 was referred to in the Annual Report of 1888–89 (page 126). He had cherished a hope of opening a branch dispensary there, but his recent visit showed him that the place is not suitable as an evangelistic centre, as the people migrate during the winter months and are absorbed in their field pursuits during the summer. The Bishop of Lahore confirmed five Native Christians in November.

The C.E.Z.M.S. sent three ladies to Quetta during the year, namely, Dr. Charlotte Wheeler and Miss White for hospital work, and Miss Shaw for zenana work.

IV. SINDH.

Ordination.

THE Bishop of Lahore admitted the Rev. A. E. Redman to priest's orders at Lahore Cathedral on December 22nd, 1895.

The Secretary of the Mission, the Rev. Robert Clark, visited Karachi, Hydrabad, and Sukkur at the beginning of 1896, and wrote home :—

Visit to Sindh of Rev. R. Clark.

> I have been more encouraged during this visit to Sindh than I have ever been during any previous visit. The spirit of life and the spirit of prayer and earnestness seems to be working in many hearts, especially amongst the young men. The Word of God is read and taught, and is received in many hearts like seed sown in good ground. The teachers and preachers, though very few in number, seem hard-working, earnest, prayerful men. There are a good many excellent assistants in the C.E.Z.M.S. in all the stations, who are helpful and efficient. The Natives who were taught and trained in our Sindh Missions by the C.M.S., and who should be now our trusted assistants amongst the men, have many of them become Roman Catholics. The catechist Joel in Karachi has also become a Roman Catholic, together with his family. The cause of Christianity finds itself face to face in Sindh not only with Heathenism and Mohammedism, but also with Romanism.

KARACHI.

Karachi.

The Rev. R. Sinker, one of the year's reinforcements, joined the staff at KARACHI in anticipation of the Rev. W. J. Abigail's furlough.

High School.

The High School has made steady advance during the past several years, both in the number on its roll and in the fees which the pupils pay for education. In 1889 the average attendance was 92, and the fees received Rs. 1,102; in 1895 the attendance was 160, and the fees amounted to Rs. 3,076. The fees have been three times raised during this period, and Mr. Abigail believes they are now as high as in any of the Society's Mission-schools. Mr. Abigail has entirely withdrawn from secular instruction and devotes his time to religious teaching, and he rejoices in the abundant opportunities afforded for setting Christ before the boys. In addition to the High School, two vernacular schools, one Gujerati and the other Sindhi, are also under his charge, making altogether 700 boys, taught by a staff of 26 teachers. The Rev. A. E. Ball quotes a testimony which he calls unexceptionable, and probably it was equally unexpected, to the fact that Christianity is making some impression in

A heathen testimony to the progress of Christianity.

Sindh. In the course of 1895 an invitation was addressed by certain people to Mrs. Besant to visit the country, and an appeal was issued for funds to defray the cost of her visit. This appeal stated that the object in view in inviting Mrs. Besant was "to check the tendencies towards Christianity which have for a long time been observed in Sindh." The catechist Joel Michael, referred to above in the quotation from Mr. Clark's letter as having joined the Church of Rome, resigned his post as catechist in 1893, and entered on a secular calling, in which he had little success. Mr. Ball believes that financial difficulties alone influenced his change, his children being taken as free scholars into the Roman Catholic schools. English Lectures in the Max Denso Hall drew large audiences. The Bishop of Lahore delivered one of them on "The Problem of Pain," dealing with the problems of the Book of Job. Another was by Dr. Osborne, of Mussourie, on "Heart-longings of Universal Humanity." The vernacular sales from the Book Depôt and book-cart were 11 Bibles, 27 New Testaments, 1,589 portions, and 10,199 other books and tracts. The native deacon, the Rev. B. N. Ghose, ministers to the Congregation, of which the numbers are precisely the same as in 1894. A volunteer band of evangelists preaches in the bazars, organizes lantern lectures, and holds night-meetings for servants. Two Sunday-schools have 190 children. Four adults were baptized, two Hindus and two Mohammedans. One of the latter belonged to a Shiah sect, which previously, Mr. Ball believes, had never given a convert to the Church of Christ. He had been an inquirer for several years. In the Annual Report for 1890–1 (page 129) reference was made to him as T. H. His difficulties in confessing Christ were great; his six sons, his father and mother, his three brothers, his wife's relations—her brother being one of the wealthiest merchants in Karachi—all opposed. He was helped to a decision during some Special Mission Services conducted by the Rev. Dr. Osborne, of Mussourie, in the American Methodist Episcopal Church. A few days after these services he begged Mr. Ball to baptize him, saying he could no longer refrain from confessing Christ and throwing in his lot publicly with the Christians. His wife thereupon left him, taking the younger children with her, and he was requested by his father and brothers to leave the house, which he did, his faith all the while remaining clear and strong.

communities, immigrants mostly from Marwar and Kalh, who are met with in itinerating. One sweeper was baptized. The number of boys in the High School is somewhat fewer than it was owing to the opening of a Hindu school.

The C.E.Z.M.S. Ladies at Hydrabad are Miss Redman, Miss E. Dawe, and Miss Young. The Mission has had to mourn the death of Miss Compton on Easter Eve, from a carriage accident, while on a visit to Quetta, after several years of faithful and much-valued labour. There are now two graves of Sindh missionaries at Quetta, that of the Rev. G. Shirt, who died in 1886, and that of Miss Compton, who died in 1896. The grave of the Rev. George Maxwell Gordon, who died at Kandahar in August, 1880, lies still beyond them.

SUKKUR.

The Rev. A. E. Redman is in charge of the work at SUKKUR. Vernacular Scripture portions to the number of 385, and 3,200 other vernacular books of the Punjab Religious Book Society and the Christian Literature Society, were sold. The Misses White, Brook, Gordon, and Driscoll, of the C.E.Z.M.S., labour among the women.

WESTERN INDIA MISSION.

For fifty years after Bombay became a British possession the English had neither church nor chaplain in the city, and it was not till a century later that any effort was made for the evangelization of its inhabitants. The first missionary of the C.M.S. to work in Bombay was the Rev. Richard Kenney, who landed in 1820; Nasik was occupied in 1832; Junir, 1846; Malegâm, 1848; and Aurangabad, 1860.

Revised Marathi Prayer-book.

THE last Annual Report mentioned (page 190) the Committee's action in approaching the Archbishop of Canterbury with a statement regarding the recently revised Marathi version of the Book of Common Prayer. The Archbishop has intimated his decision to withhold his sanction to the adoption of the new version pending the consideration of the objections by the Committee of Revisers in Bombay. The Committee heartily concur in the Archbishop's expressed desire for a harmonious result, so that the new version, modified where necessary, may be adopted at an early date in Western India.

Reinforcements.

The Rev. Hugh Travers Jacob, B.A., London University and Islington College, who was admitted to deacon's orders by the Bishop of London on Trinity Sunday, 1895, was added to the staff. Mr. Jacob sailed in October, the Rev. F. G. and Mrs. Macartney sailed to return to the Mission in November, and the Rev. W. A. Roberts in December. The Rev. and Mrs. J. G. Deimler and Miss M. L. J. Deimler came home in May, 1895.

Ordinations.

The Bishop of Bombay admitted Mr. Andrew Cornelius to deacon's orders, and the Revs. David Lucas Joshi and Dayaram Kishar Shindé to priest's orders, at St. Thomas's Cathedral, Bombay, on March 1st, 1896.

BOMBAY.

Bombay.

The English Congregation worshipping at Girgaum Church, BOMBAY, under the ministry of the Rev. A. H. Bowman, supports a Pastoral Aid Fund which (together with allowances made by Government for ministering to prisoners in the jail) suffices to refund to the Society the charges incurred. Many of the members of the congregation are liberal subscribers to the various local funds to promote the Society's work.

Schools.

The number of boys at the Robert Money School fell during the year from 263 to 210; this was largely due to opposition excited by the fact that one of the youths, aged eighteen years, a Hindu of good family, expressed a desire to become a Christian; this youth was sent for a time to Nasik to be under instruction there, but subsequently decided to return to his friends. The Hostel has seven Christian and two Parsi boys in it. The Christian Girls' Boarding School has thirty girls. Miss Hughes, of the Z.B.M.M., has been placed in charge, being supported while labouring in that sphere by the C.M.S. The Girls' Anglo-Vernacular School has an attendance of twenty, and the Girls' Vernacular School has 150. The Z.B.M.M. High School for Girls passed the one candidate it sent up—a Native Christian girl—for the Matriculation Examination. Lady Sandhurst, wife of the Governor of Bombay, distributed the prizes in December, and the Lord Chief Justice of Bombay presided. There are 163 girls on the roll. The other Z.B.M.M. ladies on the Bombay staff are:—Mrs. Clark, and the Misses Trott, Kimmins, Edge, Schwarz, Morris, King, Campbell, Forbes, Tudball, Layton, and Cruikshank.

Marathi Christians sending help to Christians in South India.

The Marathi Congregation has 172 adult members, and contributed Rs. 293, of which Rs. 206 was forwarded to the Council Fund. A special collection for the relief of distress among the Christians of the Ellore district, in the Telugu country, caused by a flood, realized Rs. 35, a sum which, considering the poverty of his people, gave much joy and thankfulness to the pastor, the Rev. D. K. Shindé. He believes that he sees signs of a spiritual awakening, and he can speak with confidence of the faith and life of not a few among the congregation. The communicants' meetings, missionary meetings, and Sunday-schools are well attended. Twenty-two candidates were confirmed.

Seven adults were baptized by Mr. Shindé, two of them Gujerathi Hindus named "Hiroo" and "Khimji." The wife of the latter was educated at Mrs. Sorabji's school for ragged children at Poona, and, though not yet baptized, she joined with her husband in daily family prayers. A "Church Mission Hall" was opened in March, 1895, in the Girgaum Road, one of the most crowded thoroughfares of Bombay, for Evangelistic Work among both Marathi and English-speaking Natives. On two evenings weekly Mr. Shindé and the catechists preached in Marathi; on the other nights addresses were given in English by the Rev. W. H. Dixon, Lieut.-Colonel T. A. Freeman, and Mr. Rustomji Mistry, a converted Parsi who was baptized in 1891, and occasionally by other speakers. An organized opposition to these meetings was set on foot by a "Society for the Protection of the Aryan Religion"; meetings were held on the opposite side of the street simultaneously with those in the Mission Hall, and men were stationed to dissuade passers-by from attending the latter. These tactics had the effect of reducing the audiences, but not of quenching the spirit of inquiry. Lectures were also delivered in the Cowasjee Framjee Hall, the Bishop of Bombay taking one of them, in March, 1895, which attracted many of the student class. There were seventeen—mostly Hindus—hopeful inquirers; but the actual baptisms which resulted from these and other efforts were from among the Parsis. One of these proved in some respects disappointing. While a student at St. Xavier's College, and reading for the F.A. Examination, he daily visited Mr. Rustomji, and on his 18th birthday he left his uncle's house in Bombay and entered the Converts' Home. He was persuaded on the following day to go to his father, who was reported to be in an alarming state of health consequent on his conduct. The Rev. W. H. Dixon accompanied him, but was excluded from the room which Mr. Dadiba Mehta, the catechumen, entered. The latter was subsequently produced in court, and declared that he preferred to remain with his parents, but soon after he left his home and sought refuge in the house of the Bishop of Bombay, whom he told that he wished to be a Christian. His parents being informed, however, his mother so worked on his feelings that he consented to return home.

Evangelistic work.

Opposition.

Parsi converts.

There were three baptisms from the Parsis. On July 22nd two Parsis named Dorabji and Meherbai Patell, a brother and sister, were baptized. The sister, when a girl of ten, was to some extent influenced by her Roman Catholic ayah, and attended for some time a Roman Catholic chapel at Mahim. Ten years later she obtained from a Parsi friend an illustrated Bible which she began to read, and even read it to her father. An earnest Christian teacher whom the latter engaged for her assisted her further on the way to finding Christ as her Saviour, and she decided to confess Him in baptism, but her father persuaded her to defer this step till after his death, which took place the following year. Then the members of her family intervened and begged her not thus to stain her father's memory. In November, 1894, she appeared at the C.M.S. Mission House, and applied for baptism, but her people's opposition, and especially that of her brother, Dorabji, who threatened to put an end to his life if she carried out her purpose, deterred her. Much prayer was offered among the Mission circle for the girl and for her brother, and God answered these prayers. Her brother was led to attend the lectures in the Cowasjee Framjee Hall in March, 1895, mentioned above, and there he was touched, as he told Mr. Rustomji, by the power of the Gospel. Some addresses by the Rev. John McNeill (the well-known evangelist from this country, who was passing through Bombay) a little later had a great influence in leading him to a decision. On October 10th another Parsi, named Dorabjhi Hormasjie Pouch Khanawalla, but commonly known as P. D. Hormasjie, a member of a very old and very orthodox Parsi family, an L.R.C.S. of Edinburgh, was baptized at Poona. Lieut.-Col. Freeman says of him :—

An L.R.C.S. of Edinburgh.

> He was well educated, and made many voyages as medical subordinate in the coolie traffic ; in the course of these he was brought into contact with Christian congregations, especially in the West Indies, and became much impressed with the reality and fervour of our worship. Soon after, as he was studying the ancient Parsi books, he saw in them promises of a coming Deliverer, which he felt were fulfilled in no other than Christ. He was brought to the hall in Girgaum Road by a friend who was a Christian, and after a time he, too, cast in his lot with the followers of our Lord.

He himself mentions a sermon on Isaiah lxiv. 6, which he heard in Leopold Rooms, Ludgate Circus, London, the centre of the Church of England Young Men's Society, in April, 1895, as having brought him under conviction of sin, and to realize that "the idea prevailing among the non-Christian people to work their way to righteousness by their own efforts and endeavours was entirely erroneous, and that there was no righteousness comparable to that of our Lord Jesus Christ." The Parsi converts in Bombay formed a "Parsi Christian Association," which aims at including all Parsi Christians among its members. Mr. Rustomji is the hon. secretary.

A "Parsi Christian Association."

The last-named convert of the year under review, Mr. Homasjie, in a public statement regarding his own religious history which he made, mentions that when he was a boy his Parsi mother took him to visit the Roman Catholic Church known as Mount Mary's, but called by the Mohammedans "Mat Mowli," when his mother made a vow on her child's recovery from illness. Mr. Shindé went with several catechists to the annual Roman Catholic fair at this place in 1895, in order to preach there to the many Hindus who attend the fair. He gives the following melancholy account of what he heard and witnessed :—

Itineration to Mount Mary's.

> This fair is mostly attended by the Hindus (women forming a large majority), who go to worship the image of Mary, believing her to be one of their goddesses. A Brahman in the crowd, as we were preaching, told us that an image of their goddess was found by a koli (a fisherman) in the sea ; that it came into the hands of these "Christians," who set her up in this place ; and that was why the Hindus came to worship her. A Roman Catholic man whom we questioned told us, of course, a different story. He said that about 300 years ago an officer was falling down headlong from this hill, when he prayed to Mary for help. She appeared to him in the heavens and saved his life. In remembrance of this miracle a church was erected, and the fair is held annually in her honour.

Hindus worshipping an image of the Virgin Mary.

> The worshippers—Roman Catholics, Hindus, with a sprinkling of Mohammedans and Parsis—go into the church with offerings of money, flowers, candles, and wax dolls, which they place before the image. They then worship, some prostrating themselves on the ground before the image. These ignorant people believe that by these offerings they gain the favour of Mary, who removes their sicknesses and protects them from dangers.
>
> As we went into the church we met a Native (Roman) padre, who, believing us to be Hindus, inquired whether we had any offerings or vows to make to the Holy Mother. As we stood in this so-called "Christian" church and sadly watched the stream of worshippers who came in to worship the image, we felt we were standing in a large heathen temple. There was nothing to distinguish it as a "Christian" church.

Certain ornaments in Christian churches an obstacle to the spread of the Gospel in India.

> I cannot help remarking here that images, pictures, crosses, marble altars, candles, and burning incense in Christian churches may appear to Europeans harmless and innocent ; but to the Heathen, whose religious system is full of similar ritual, they are full of meaning—and, in my humble opinion, these things are great obstacles to the spread of the Gospel in this our country, which is "wholly given to idolatry."

Besides the above-mentioned Church Mission Hall, another, bearing the name "Church Missionary Hall," was rented during the year in the quarter of the city where the Work among the Mohammedans is carried on. The Rev. T. Davis did not observe the slightest spirit of inquiry among the 155,000 Moslems in the city of Bombay. Those who present themselves as inquirers, he says, almost always prove to be actuated by the hope of pecuniary support. Indeed, fourteen such persons were refused baptism within a period of two months. A man named Munshi Ibraham Hafiz Suliman, who was baptized at Poona a few years ago, but who afterwards under strong pressure renounced Christianity and drifted into Atheism, and then again became a Mohammedan, was received back into the Christian Church in September. "When he was an infidel," Mr. Davis says, "his Mohammedan friends retained their friendly relations with him, but on his again confessing Christ they left him and gave him the epithet 'kafir' (infidel)." The man had previously married, after his first wife's death, a Christian girl, Rebekah, who had been trained at the Normal School at Sigra, Benares, and had then become a teacher at the Middle Class Girls' School at Amritsar. Miss B. H. Nevill, of that school, on hearing, when at Mussourie for her holidays in the summer, of the denial of Christ by her former friend, Rebekah, immediately took the long journey to Bombay to see the latter. She wrote :—

Mohammedan Mission.

A lapsed Christian received back.

A long journey to recover one who had denied Christ.

On arriving there I found Rebekah just recovering from a dangerous illness, her life, under God's blessing, having been saved by the kindness shown to her by the missionary ladies and the careful nursing she received in hospital. We all felt her life had been spared that she and her husband might be brought to realize how grievously they had erred, and that they might return to the Saviour Who loved them. They had, it seems, indeed, both apostatized a fortnight after their marriage. Rebekah had kept her faith inwardly, though outwardly denying Christ to please her husband. Her husband had been tempted by the hope of recovering a large sum of money due to him under his father's will, but which he could only get possession of by becoming a Mohammedan. He said he was really a Christian in heart, and merely a Mohammedan socially. This, of course, was an impossible position to hold, and he saw that now the time had come when he must make a final and definite decision whether he would choose Christ or his father's money—whether he would gain the world and lose his soul, or lose the money and accept a Saviour. The Sunday I spent in Bombay Rebekah and her husband and dear little step-daughter, Nurjahán, came to church with me. This was one more step back towards the narrow way. My visit was necessarily a short one. Some two or three weeks after we had the joy of hearing that a special service had been held, at which Rebekah and her husband were received back into Church membership and Nurjahán was baptized.

NASIK.

Nasik.

The Society's Mission premises at NASIK are situated slightly to the west of the town at the Christian village of Sharanpur, where the smells and noises of a city of 24,429 people do not penetrate, and a "delightful climate," the Rev. A. Manwaring says, is enjoyed. This village covers some forty acres, and about 150 acres of adjoining land are attached to the settlement. There are a church, day-schools, orphanages, and boarding schools, a poor-asylum, a reading-room, and workshops for the residents, who are all Christians. The Marathi congregation numbers generally 150 or 160, from a total of 240 Christians in Nasik and Sharanpur, and there are 115 communicants. The orphanages for boys and girls, which have also on their roll a few children paying fees, and the poor-asylum for eighteen widows, are supported by the European residents at Nasik. Special services were conducted by the Rev. W. G. Peel, the Secretary of the Mission, at Christmas, 1895, the subject being "The Preparation of the Christian Worker." The Rev. D. L. Joshi is the pastor, but he also takes an active part in Evangelistic Work in the city. He gives a full account of the three Brahman youths whose baptism in February, 1895, was mentioned last year. Shanker, the oldest of the three, had been a pupil of a Nasik Brahman, from whom he imbibed theistic notions. By a strange coincidence this man, Mr. N. V. Telak, was baptized at Bombay on the same day that Shanker confessed Christ at Nasik. For two years, while engaged as a kulkarni, or village accountant, at Puri, some forty miles north-east of Nasik, Shanker preached theistic doctrines, having renounced all marks of idolatry. The village priest, Appaji, came under his influence, and the two visited Nasik together and saw Mr. Joshi. On returning the young priest began to preach the doctrines of Christianity, and his offices were naturally rejected by the people. He was persecuted, and fled almost naked to Nasik, and Shanker, with much difficulty, also made his escape. Mr. Joshi believes that Appaji is the first officiating priest who in Western India has become a Christian. Appaji's brother, aged fourteen, was baptized with him, and his mother and another younger brother are under instruction. Mr. Joshi says :—

Brahman converts.

> Excitement among Hindus.
> The conversion of these Brahmans caused a great deal of excitement among the Hindus at Nasik. Hindu preachers from Bombay stirred up the people to such an extent that on one or two occasions during our out-door preaching we were rather roughly handled. So long as there seemed to be no results from our work the Nasik Brahmans treated us with contempt, but when God in His mercy brought these souls into His Kingdom, they began to devise one means after another to crush the good work, and latterly some of them have taken upon themselves the task of attempting to disperse our audiences at the riverside. But, in spite of all their opposition, people, especially of the upper and middle classes, are inclined to listen to us more than ever.

In the Preaching Hall Mr. Joshi says much encouragement was met with, though there were no baptisms. It was clear to him at times, judging by the faces of the people, that the message went home. He says regarding the preachers :—

Christ crucified the chief topic of native preachers.

It seems to me that of late years the style and language of our preachers have undergone a great change. Instead of dwelling so much on the superstition and idolatry of the people, they have rather sought to dwell on Christ and Him crucified, keeping this glorious subject ever well to the front. Of course, when we have discussions, the differences of the two religions are naturally brought out. But everything is done with love and in a spirit of sympathy. Controversy with the Mohammedans has formed a special characteristic of our work this year. And one of the practical results of this has been that two Mohammedan lads have been led to search the Scriptures carefully. They have regularly attended at the hall, and even sometimes come to our church services. In consequence of this they have been subjected to persecution, and one of them had to leave the town, but the other still remains with us.

Claims in behalf of Mohammed.

On one night in the week discussions are held, and on these occasions the Mohammedans are to the front. They claim, Mr. Thorne says, that Mohammed was "the Comforter" promised by our Lord; but at other times they have insisted that "the Prince of this World" referred to their prophet! Mr. Thorne points out, however, that a change of front is noticeable in both cases. Mohammedanism is represented not so much as a rival of Christianity, but as an outcome of it—"a tacit admission of the greatness of Christ's religion." Colonel Freeman gave a course of lectures in the hall in March, 1895, and, notwithstanding that the Brahman masters at the High School had warned the boys against attending, some of the boys did attend, and at the last lecture the Brahman head-master himself put in an appearance. Many of the native gentlemen in Nasik cordially welcome Mr. Thorne's visits. Of one of these he writes:—

An old Hindu's opinion of Christian missionaries.

One old Hindu gentleman said to me: "Though I am not a Christian myself, and do not suppose that I ever shall be, as I am now too old to change my religion, yet I sympathize most heartily with the missionaries; no one knows the amount of good they have done in the country. I am assured that a great future is before them, and I wish them well in it." I need not say how encouraged we were by these kind words, and all the more as they expressed the speaker's honest conviction.

Miss Harvey and Miss F. Harris are the Z.B.M.M. Ladies at Nasik.

The work at the Out-stations, namely, Kasara, Igatpuri, Sinnar, Sangamner, Yeola, Mukhmalabad, and Deolali was superintended by the Rev. C. W. Thorne. A man named Shidrana and his relations were baptized at a village near Sangamner in 1894. At Deolali Camp the Marathi Boys' School is the only school for native children, and the Parsis have petitioned for a Gujerathi section to be added to the school. The schools generally in the district are flourishing, the buildings in many places being too small. The Hundred Texts are taught, and Mr. Thorne finds that the children understand their meaning. The Sunday-schools are also an interesting branch of the work. Mr. Thorne says:—

Sunday-schools in out-stations.

To go there on a Sunday morning and see the children all gathered together, listening to some of our Lord's beautiful parables, and learning texts of Scripture by heart, or being taught some of their quaint Marathi hymns, is a sight to do one good; and when we remember that these children, on going back to their homes, will sing snatches of the songs they learned in school, or repeat fragments of the Holy Scripture they there committed to memory, one cannot but feel that these little ones may become missionaries in the Lord's Hands, to carry the seed of eternal life where we ourselves would not be permitted to approach.

Mr. Thorne engaged in Itineration among the 550,000 people in his district. He is convinced that a great change is in process in the minds of many of the people. At the same time evidences abound of superstitious devotion to their idols. Mr. Thorne mentions that at Trimbuk, "a remarkably holy place," sixteen miles from Nasik, while a crowd of devotees were dragging Ram's huge chariot along, one of them got beneath the wheels of the car and was instantly crushed to death.

A devotee crushed to death under an idol car.

POONA AND JUNIR.

The Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Whiteside came home on furlough in February, 1895, which left the Rev. R. S. Heywood, who only arrived in India the previous November, the only European to supervise the work in Poona and in the extensive Junir itinerancy. This heavy charge might well have excused some unpreparedness for language examination, but Mr. Heywood passed at the usual time and with "great credit." The arrival in November, 1895, of the Rev. H. T. Jacob, and especially of the Rev. W. A. Roberts the following January, was very thankfully welcomed. The two students of the Divinity School, POONA, who failed to pass in 1894 the examination for catechists and readers set by the Conference, passed early in 1895, and the classes were then suspended. The foundation-stone of the new buildings was laid by Lady Sandhurst, wife of his Excellency the Governor of Bombay, on October 22nd. The Bishop of Bombay was also present, and in the course of his address is reported to have spoken as follows:—

Poona.

Foundation laid for new Divinity Schools.

> I think, if for no other reason, we can take it as a good omen to-day, here and now in peaceful Western India, that this work has been undertaken by a Society which has offered martyrs to God in many lands, and quite recently in China. God grant that its work here may always be as peaceful as it is to-day. At all events it is a Society to which we are proud to belong. For a long time in this part of India we laboured under the reproach of not being able to train any clergy for ourselves. That reproach has been already rolled away as far as Poona is concerned, for we have already two deacons trained for work in this school, and the examination which they passed would have been no disgrace to any theological college in England. Long may this Society continue to turn out, for the work of Christ, men trained in this school, the foundation stone of which has been laid to-day.

Congregations.

Very generous contributions towards the cost of these buildings have been given by the Misses Cosway and by Miss Ashlin. The Marathi and Tamil Congregations, under the Rev. L. M. Joshi and Mr. Yesudian, number respectively eighty-seven and ninety-six adult members. Twelve candidates, three Marathi and nine Tamil, were confirmed. The contributions of the two congregagations amounted to Rs. 532. Besides this, a Tamil woman presented Rs. 50, saved up in small sums, to be spent on a new alms-dish, and Mrs. Sorabji, by the desire of her late husband, the Rev. Sorabji Kharsedji, presented a double set of Communion plate. There is a branch of the Gleaners' Union, with English and Marathi members. In July Mr. R. P. Wilder, of the Student Volunteer Movement, visited Poona with a colleague, Mr. W. Moorhead, and held meetings for English-speaking students, Mr. Wilder continuing these for several months. Mr. Heywood wrote:—

S.V.M.U. Work among Students.

God is showing wonderful tokens of blessing. After about three weeks' work an average of about sixty come with wonderful regularity to a daily Bible class, and many have personal talks with Mr. Wilder in another room. Some eight or nine are known to be on the border line, and one young fellow has already been turned out of house and home.

"Wonderful tokens of blessing."

A lady missionary of the Z.B.M.M. wrote in January, 1896:—

Large gatherings of native youths come together, as never before, and many of them are raised to inquiry after the Way of Life.

Pandita Ramabai addressed them one night. I was there, and I think I never saw a more interesting sight. The brave little woman was not in good odour in the city just then, for she had just shortly before had baptisms of some widows in her Home. But there she stood—a Hindu widow—before that large assemblage of Poona Brahmans, and made her confession of Christ unflinchingly. She told them that she was not afraid of them, for she was free with the freedom which Christ gives His people. She took her Bible, and having read some portions concerning God's wrath upon those who forsake Him and seek out other gods, she brought it home to them, and showed how they were bondmen and slaves to their own caste prejudices. It was wonderful. They just seemed as if compelled to listen, though there were now and again mutterings. I am sure I need not ask you to pray that the movement may be productive of much fruit.

The baptisms referred to in the last extract were those of twelve young Hindu lady inmates of Pandita Ramabai's Home, the Sarada Sadan, at Poona. The attitude of this Home was originally declared to be neutral regarding questions of religion, but, according to the Indian Mirror, Pandita Ramabai recently declared publicly that she felt bound to instruct her pupils in the Bible, with the effect above referred to.

Baptisms at Pandita Ramabai's Home.

At JUNIR, a Mohammedan sweeper with his wife and four children were baptized on Whit-Sunday, 1895. The man, though low in social position, is of very fair education, and his baptism made the Mohammedans more active in disputing the claims of Christianity at the bazar preaching. They tried by bribes and intimidation to induce him to return to Mohammedanism, but he stood firm and went regularly with the agents and took part in the discussions. The Anglo-Vernacular School, which was opened in 1893, had to be closed in consequence of the successful rivalry of the Municipal School.

At Khed, twenty-six miles from Poona, and thirty from Junir, there is a school for Mahars and an Anglo-Vernacular school, the latter with seventy-five pupils.

MALEGÂM.

Malegâm. The Rev. E. J. Jones was stationed at MALEGÂM throughout 1895, returning to Nasik upon the Rev. and Mrs. F. G. Macartney's arrival in December after their furlough at home. Mr. Jones gives an encouraging report of the Congregation, which numbers two hundred. Their contributions were larger than in any previous year, and a more aggressive spirit was manifested. The pastoral catechist who ministered to them set an example of missionary zeal by offering his services for itineration among the Bhils of Northern Khandesh. Lectures to English-speaking Natives were fairly well attended, considering that the community is a small one at Malegâm. The Itinerations also in the district were attended with the encouragement of attentive audiences. At Sindkhed a Brahman was met with who had received his education at the Robert Money School, and who declared that he believed on Christ, read the Bible daily, and used the Church Prayer Book, but he had not the courage to confess Christ in baptism. Two large fairs were visited at Shihpur and Mudavad. Sale of Gospel portions. At the latter place a site next to the temple was chosen by some of the Hindus present for the Mission tent. Three thousand Gospels were sold, eight hundred in one night, by making a charge of a quarter of an anna for seeing the lantern slides, which were exhibited fifty times over in one evening. Mr. Jones says :—

> We charged each person a quarter of an anna, and gave a Gospel (price a quarter of an anna) to each as they left. It was amusing, hidden away behind the screen, to hear the comments. One man said : "You give us a good address, have a good tent, splendid pictures, and give us a book worth an anna, and only charge a quarter of an anna. Where does the comfort come in?"

A successful vendor of religious books. The catechist at Manmad is very successful in disposing of books and tracts. Mr. Jones writes :—

> A short time ago a Brahman was advising a would-be purchaser not to buy. "They are bad books, and will defile you," was his comment. Upon which the following conversation took place :—Catechist : "Why do you say they are bad books?" Brahman : "They are Christian books." C. : "What of that? does that make them bad?" B. : "They are all about Christ." C. : "Suppose they are ; was Christ evil, that the book about Him should not be fit to read? Have you read them?" B. : "I! I should think not!" C. : "But how can you speak against them if you know nothing about them? Here is a Gospel—a nice book, good print, and only quarter-anna ; buy it and read for yourself, and then you will be able to judge whether Christ's teaching is bad or not." The immediate result of this tact was that the Brahman purchased the Gospel. God grant a further result may follow, and that he may see Jesus as His Saviour.

The Z.B.M.M. has stationed a band of Associated Lady Evangelists at Malegâm, consisting of the Misses A. Thompson, A. Sims, and B. Willison.

AURANGABAD.

Aurangabad.

The Rev. Ruttonji Nowroji sees evidences that the knowledge of the Truth is steadily spreading in AURANGABAD and the district, and Christian books are widely read. Four adults were baptized. Inquirers are numerous, but he is slow to admit them to the catechumenate until he is assured of their stability and sincerity. He mentions the following conversations:—

With apparent friendliness, a Mohammedan said to me, "Oh, Padri Sahib, you will be burnt with hell-fire, and I shall look on with great delight." "Will you?" said I; "then, friend, let me tell you that I would be sorry if there was the slightest injury that you were to suffer from. See the vast difference between Christianity and Mohammedanism! You are ready to rejoice at calamity, whereas a Christian will mourn over it. Which of the two religions is capable of softening the heart, and proceeds from God, Who is full of tender mercy and compassion?"

A follower of Krishna remarked, "I greatly approve of all that you say, but one thing I cannot approve. Why do you eat animal food? It is an unpardonable sin to take animal life." I told him that had God thought it was a sin, He would not have created such animals—tigers, for instance—who live entirely on animal food. He could have made them to eat grass, like oxen. "Tigers have no sense," said he. "Have the oxen more sense?" asked I. He could not reply. All he said was that our religion was supremely excellent, and the only defect it had was the killing and eating of animals which it permitted. A Brahman schoolmaster came to me aside after the audience had left, and remarked, "I have heard all you said with rapt attention. I like your religion. I dislike the institution of caste; but alas! my benighted countrymen entertain foolish and meaningless prejudices against Christianity."

SOUTH INDIA MISSION.

The Tamil country south of Madras was the scene of the S.P.C.K.'s Missions in the last century. But the first two clergymen of the Church of England who went to India as missionaries were sent to Madras by the Church Missionary Society in 1814. Work was commenced at Ootacamund, on the Nilgiri Hills, in 1870.

The Telugu Mission was begun in 1841 by two of the most devoted men on the roll of missionaries, Robert Noble and Henry Watson Fox. Noble started the famous English school at Masulipatam, now known by his name, worked it for twenty-four years, and died at his post in 1865. Several Brahmans trained in it have embraced the Gospel, and it has sent forth several native clergymen to labour among their countrymen. Fox was a preaching missionary, and set the example of those itinerating and rural missionary efforts which have resulted in the foundation of an increasing Telugu Native Church, chiefly drawn from the Malas and other low-caste or out-caste people. Ellore was occupied in 1854; Bezwada, 1858; Râghavapuram, 1872; and Khammamett, 1888. A Mission among the Kois, a non-Aryan tribe on the Upper Godávari, was founded by General Haig in 1860.

In 1820 the Rev. J. Hough, Chaplain at Palamcotta, drew the attention of the Society to the claims of Tinnevelly, where there was already a community of 3,000 professed Native Christians, an offshoot from the S.P.C.K.'s Lutheran Mission in Tanjore. Two missionaries were at once set apart for this work, and from that time to this, through the labours of Rhenius, Pettitt, Thomas, J. T. Tucker, Hobbs, Sargent, and others, the Gospel has not ceased to spread among the Tamil population, chiefly among the Shanars, or cultivators of the palmyra tree. In North Tinnevelly a vigorous Itinerant Mission was established by Ragland, D. Fenn, and Meadows. Dr. Sargent and Dr. Caldwell were consecrated in 1877 as Assistant Bishops to the Bishop of Madras for the Native Churches. The former died in 1889 and the latter in 1891.

Progress of education in South India.

ALL statistics regarding the progress of education in India deserve attention from those who long to see the heavy clouds of mental as well as spiritual darkness which hang over its people dispelled. The following table from the Report of Public Instruction in the Madras Presidency for 1892–3 and 1893–4, shows the number of scholars under instruction from the several communities—European and Eurasian, Native Christians, Mohammedans, Hindus, Aborigines, and others—and the proportion these numbers bear to the respective communities in each of the two years:—

Classes of the Community.	1892-93.			1893-94.			Population.	Proportion of Scholars to Population.
	Boys.	Girls.	Total.	Boys.	Girls.	Total.		1892–93.	1893–94.
Europeans and Eurasians .	3,870	3,282	7,152	3,842	3,362	7,204	40,060	1 in 6	1 in 6
Native Christians . .	34,591	17,957	52,548	36,366	18,633	54,999	825,468	1 „ 16	1 „ 15
Mohammedans . . .	72,880	14,977	87,857	72,117	14,794	86,911	2,250,386	1 „ 25	1 „ 26

Aborigines	2,296	93	2,389	2,197	93	2,290	472,808	1 „ 198	1 „ 206
Others	171	62	233	160	50	210	43,473	1 „ 187	1 „ 207
Total . . .	629,416	104,988	734,404	643,202	106,775	749,977	36,630,440	1 in 49	1 in 48

This table makes it clear, not only that the proportion of Native Christian children attending school was, in the former of the two years in question, considerably higher than that of any other class of Natives, but that the increase in the second year as compared with the first was proportionately much greater among the Native Christians than among any others. If the Brahman class be separated from the rest of the Hindus, however, the figures are then (as regards boys, but not as regards girls) considerably in their favour. It was found that 99 per cent. of Brahman boys of school-going age were at school, as compared with 59·7 per cent. of Native Christian boys; while of Brahman girls the proportion was 18·7 per cent., as compared with 29·6 of Native Christian girls. The Report showed a total of 3,328 scholars in Arts and Professional Colleges, of whom 46 were Europeans and Eurasians, 242 Native Christians, 49 Mohammedans, 2,272 Brahmans, 709 non-Brahman caste Hindus, and 10 others.

Scripture Examinations.

The results of the "Peter Cator Examination" on the Holy Scriptures, open to candidates from any part of the Madras Presidency, awarded to C.M.S. Institutions six passes in the first class of the higher grade, out of a total of twelve passes, and five in the second class out of 21. In the lower grade the C.M.S. obtained three out of nine passes in the first class, and C.M.S. and C.E.Z.M.S. obtained 84 out of 170 in the second class. The Madras Christian College secured the first prize in the first class, upper grade, but the C.M.S. Tinnevelly College obtained the second and third prizes.

Reinforcements.

Two recruits joined the Mission during the year, the Rev. Walter Stewart Hooton, B.A., St. John's College and Ridley Hall, Cambridge, who was accepted in 1893, and was admitted to deacon's and priest's Orders by the Bishop of Gloucester and Bristol in 1893 and 1894, and held the curacy of Holy Trinity, Clifton, for two years; and the Rev. William Mackenzie Hulbert Wathen, of the London College of Divinity, Curate of Great Yarmouth. Both these sailed in October, the former to reinforce the Tinnevelly Mission, the latter the Telugu Mission.

Death of Rev. A. H. Sheldon,

A young missionary of much promise was lost to the Mission by the death of the Rev. A. H. Sheldon at the end of 1895. His health suffered more or less from the time of his arrival in the Mission (Tinnevelly), and in August he was ordered to take a sea voyage to Australia. He died on December 30th in the Alfred Hospital, Sydney, from syncope after a severe operation. He had been present on December 6th and had spoken at the large meeting held at Sydney to bid farewell to Miss Amy Oxley, proceeding to the Fuh-kien Mission. Mr. Sheldon was a son of the Rev. James Sheldon, Rector of Atlow, Kent, formerly a missionary of the Society in Sindh, and a nephew of the Rev. John Sheldon, who for a few months in 1847 was engaged in connexion with the C.M.S. in British Guiana.

and of Mrs. E. Carr.

The death also of Mrs. Carr, the wife of the Rev. E. S. Carr, is a very real loss to the Mission work in Tinnevelly. Mr.

and Mrs. Carr came home on furlough in May, 1895, and Mrs. Carr died in October, a fortnight after giving birth to a daughter. In 1888 Mrs. Carr went out to India under the C.E.Z.M.S. as Miss Lillingston, daughter of the Rev. F. A. C. Lillingston, Vicar of St. James', Clapham. The Mission has also lost by the transfer, on grounds of health, of the Rev. and Mrs. E. T. Pegg, from the Telugu country to the North-West Provinces.

Ordinations. The Bishop of Madras on March 10th, 1895, admitted the Rev. K. David, of Khammamett, to priest's orders. On December 1st, at St. George's Cathedral, Madras, he admitted Messrs. Gnanakan Manikam and Arulanandam Devapiriam to deacon's orders; and the Revs. J. C. McLeod Hawkins, A. Vedanayakam Thomas, and D. S. David to priest's orders; and on January 26th, 1896, at Masulipatam, he admitted Messrs. Marumudi Devanandam, Marumudi Jeevaratnam, and Kalangi Ephraim to deacon's orders, and the Revs. Mandapati Jonah and Govadi Anandayya to priest's orders.

Accident to Rev. A. H. Arden. The Rev. A. H. Arden, who went out at the end of 1894 as Acting Secretary of the Mission, had a fall from his horse at the end of September, which shook him severely. He was obliged in April, 1896, on account of his own and his daughter's state of health, to come to Europe. The Rev. H. D. Goldsmith was appointed Acting Secretary until the return of the Rev. E. Sell.

I. MADRAS AND THE NILGIRIS.

The Rev. T. H. Fitzpatrick arrived at home invalided in December.

MADRAS.

Madras Divinity School. The Rev. H. D. Goldsmith was suddenly called upon at the end of September to take up, in addition to the charge of the Divinity School, Madras, the heavy responsibilities of the acting principalship of the Harris School and of the acting secretaryship of the Mission, in consequence of the Rev. T. H. Fitzpatrick's failure of health and of the Rev. A. H. Arden's accident. He received help in the emergency from the Rev. W. S. Hooton on his arrival from home at the beginning of November, who gave assistance in the Divinity School. Four of the six students mentioned in the last Report left the class in the course of the year. Dhan Singh, the Rajput convert, the first Hindustani student trained in the Divinity School, was married to a medical lady assisting Miss E. S. Oxley, of the C.E.Z.M.S. Mohammedan work in Madras, and has been assigned to work among Mohammedans in the city; Jesudasen Albert and Vedhanayagam Abraham, both fluent Tamil preachers, returned to Tinnevelly; and John Gnanapragasam, B.A., was assigned to the Tinnevelly Itinerancy. All these four entered for the Oxford and Cambridge Preliminary Examination for Orders in November, 1895, and all passed: Mr. Albert obtained a first class, with special commendation for Hebrew; Mr. Gnanapragasam obtained a second class; and Messrs. Vedhanayagam Abraham and Dhan Singh third classes. The two remaining at the school were M. Asirvatham and Noah Adolphus, B.A., the latter of whom obtained in 1895 the first prize of the two offered yearly by Bishop Gell to the students of the S.P.G. and C.M.S. Madras Divinity Classes, after an examination in the Greek Testament. Altogether, since 1888 thirteen students have passed the Universities' Preliminary, five in the first class, six in the second, and two in the third. Eight of Bishop Gell's Greek Testament prizes have been won: in 1886 the second, and in 1887 the first prizes, when they were open for competition to the whole of the Madras Presidency; in 1888, 1891, 1892, 1894, and 1895, when it was open only to the two theological classes of the S.P.G. and C.M.S. at Madras, the first prize was gained by the students of the C.M.S. Class, and in 1894 both the first and second prizes were secured by the C.M.S. students. Through the liberality of the Rev. M. G. Goldsmith, quarters for the students were erected during the year in the compound of the Divinity School.

Successes in the Universities' Preliminary Examination for Orders, and in the Bishop's Greek Testament Prize Examination.

All the three clergymen in charge of the Pastorates in connexion with the Madras District Church Council were students of the Divinity School. The Rev. D. A. Peter was ordained in 1885, and was the first F.A. who up to that time had presented himself as a candidate for ordination; the Rev. J. Satthianadhan was ordained in 1890, having taken a second class in the Universities' Preliminary; and the Rev. W. D. Clarke, a graduate of Madras University, who was ordained in 1893, also took a second in the Preliminary. The last-named is the pastor of the Southern Pastorate. Mr. Clarke presented 43 candidates for confirmation on December 8th, 1894—the first confirmation which had occurred since he took charge of the congregation, and the largest number ever presented from Zion Church. The Pastorate sent Rs. 1,653 to the Council Fund in 1895—an increase of about Rs. 300 on the former year. The "Ingathering Service" on Easter Day, and the sale connected with it on the following day, appear now to be fixed annual events, and are increasingly appreciated as opportunities for cheerfully giving for the Lord's work. In the first year of the celebration the sale realized Rs. 120, in the second Rs. 220; in 1895 no less than Rs. 400 was obtained. It is remarkable that several Hindu ladies contributed articles to the sale, sending them as "thankofferings." The Wednesday evening services, Mr. Clarke says, are a source of great blessing to many; and the weekday devotional meetings are calculated to stir up the members to zeal and earnestness in the Lord's service, such subjects as "A Consecrated Life," "Home Religion," "Life in the Church," and "Selfishness in Christians,' being dwelt upon. An aggressive evangelistic spirit is fostered by Mr. Clarke, and schools, zenanas, hospitals, and railway stations are visited by paid and voluntary agents. The Preachers' Association visited Poonamallee and Manimangalam. Twenty adults, converts from Heathenism, were baptized by Mr. Clarke: on Easter Day, 1895, a woman (with five children) who was the fruit of the late Mrs. Krupabai Satthianadhan's (see Annual Report for 1894–95, pp. 197–8) influence, a man named John, a servant for five years at the C.M.S. Mission-house, and a youth named David, the fruit of one of the schools; on May 5th a man of the Vellala caste, who received the name of Joshua, belonging to Conjeeveram, thirty-five miles south-west of Madras, and a stronghold of Hindu orthodoxy; on May 19th, a coachman of Miss Oxley, C.E.Z.M.S., and his wife; and on September 22nd, four convicts in the Penitentiary, where a short service is held every week. One of these was a Telugu man, who had been a notorious character and an object of terror in his district, regarding whom Mr. Clarke says :—

Baptisms.

A convict—a notorious character—converted.

> When he was first brought to the Penitentiary, he was so wild and uncontrollable that the superintendent of the jail naturally concluded that he was mad, and sent him at once to the lunatic asylum. He was some time afterwards brought back to the Penitentiary, and was induced by a fellow Christian convict to attend these Saturday prayer-meetings. A sudden change came over the man, and the Spirit of God appeared to have worked in him in a most wonderful way. Under the influence of the Gospel of Christ he began to turn over a new leaf. The story of the Philippian jailor was one day the subject of the prayer-meeting, and after listening to the exposition and prayer, he exclaimed, "Why should not I also give up my old practices and accept the same Christ as my Lord and Saviour?" and he afterwards begged me several times to give him baptism. But there was a difficulty in my way. The Christian Government in India is guided in everything by the principle of strict religious neutrality, and no change of religion is, therefore, allowed in the Penitentiary, except with the special sanction of the higher authorities. I spoke to Mr. D. J. MacCready, the superintendent of the Penitentiary, about it, and, at his suggestion, wrote to Mr. A. G. Cardew, the Inspector-General of Prisons of the Madras Presidency. His reply was, I am thankful to say, favourable, and I fixed the following Sunday for baptism. There were also three other convicts who had been brought from the western part of the Madura District, and who had been catechumens in connexion with the American Madura Mission, and who had to leave on the following Monday for the Andaman Islands, and who were, therefore, equally anxious to receive baptism before leaving Madras. The four men (including these three) were baptized, and I am thankful to say that Paul Kasavalu, the Telugu convict, is now a new man, and he is an object of wonder to the officers of the jail and to his fellow-prisoners.

On the same date as the last-named, but in Zion Church, a young widow named Lydia, of the Vellala caste, from the town of Kumbakonam, South India, another stronghold of Hinduism, was baptized. She was visited, while in a hospital at Madras, by one of the Bible-women, and recovered her health in answer to prayer. The Rev. J. Satthianadhan, of the Mount Pastorate, baptized ten adults, including a widow of the age of forty, living at Pallaveram. There are six primary schools, with 182 boys and 121 girls, in this pastorate. Mr. Satthianadhan was transferred in September to the Northern Pastorate. The Rev. D. A. Peter was appointed to superintend the evangelistic work of the Madras Church Council, having also temporarily the charge of the Mount Pastorate, vacated by Mr. Satthianadhan, and of that of Poonamallee, from which the Rev. J. Gabb has been transferred by the Bishop of Madras to the pastoral charge of the congregation of Calicut.

Work among Educated Hindus.

The Rev. S. John says of his Work among Educated Hindus, that the part in which he takes most pleasure is that of holding religous conversations with native gentlemen in their own homes; he states that he has free access to nearly two hundred of these.

Harris High School.

The Harris High School had an average attendance of 197. It received commendation from the Inspector of Schools, especially for the "tone" of the school. A new class-room has been added to the building. The native head-master, Mr. A. D. Zacchæus, B.A., left during the year for the purpose of entering the legal profession, and received a gold medal and farewell address from the pupils, with whom he was deservedly popular after nine years' tenure of his important position. He was succeeded by the Rev. J. S. Peter, B.A. Mr. P. J. Devasaghayam, from the C.M.S. Bezwada High School, has been appointed an assistant master. Mr. Fitzpatrick held a little prayer-meeting with his masters every day at noon, of which he writes:—

Masters' prayer-meeting.

> I set great store by this little prayer-meeting: (1) Because our work is valueless if not conducted in the right spirit; (2) It is a daily reminder to us all, in the midst of work largely secular, that Christ must be first, always first, both in our life and in our teaching; (3) In those few quiet moments of retirement we both realize the Lord's Presence, and are drawn closer one to another. In other words, this prayer-meeting has a cementing force; discords are hushed, hearts are moved, and brotherly love is fostered.

Some of the masters take an active part in the flourishing branch of the Y.M.C.A. in Madras, and one of them is its honorary secretary. At the anniversary of the school in Febrary, 1895, several Moslem gentlemen were present and gave substantial prizes. The Hindustani Bazar Preaching was mostly done by the catechist, Maulavi Abdulla Masihi, but either Mr. Fitzpatrick or Mr. Henry Goldsmith usually accompanied him. Mr. Fitzpatrick wrote regarding this work and the chief worker:—

Preaching to Mohammedans.

> A Hindustani Christian lyric would generally collect a small audience, and then the Maulavi gave an address. His preaching showed a comprehensive grasp of Christian truth (especially for one only in the third year from his baptism), a power of presenting it in a form thoroughly intelligible to the native mind—which is so hard for a European to acquire—and good humour in answering interrupters. Results, so far as we can see, are discouraging; one inquirer came for a time only. Apathy is our worst foe. Occasionally there was violent opposition; this we thought rather encouraging. Maulavi Abdulla Masihi has more than once endured hardness bravely and patiently. No doubt his very presence, as a convert from Islam, is galling to the Moslems. While the Rev. H. D. Goldsmith and I were away, he was one day attacked by roughs in the public street and severely beaten; there appears to have been no excuse at all for the assault. He and his wife and family need our constant prayers; their life is a trying one.

"Apathy our worst foe."

On Thursday evenings, the Divinity School students join forces with the workers of the Mohammedan Mission, and singing and preaching, both in Tamil and Hindustani, are conducted in a crowded thoroughfare called Jam Bazar, in Triplicane. The audience on these occasions is always large and generally attentive. Sunday Services are held in the Harris School; the congregation numbers twenty-five, half of whom are children. There are eleven communicants.

Women's Work.

The C.E.Z.M.S. Ladies, the Misses S. and E. L. Oxley, engage in work, the former among Hindus and the latter among Mohammedans. Miss E. L. Oxley has pupils, whom she visits, belonging to the royal family of Arcot; and she mentions visiting a family of wealthy and influential persons, whose house was furnished in "quite an English way," with every luxury at their command, and whose ladies were dressed gorgeously and covered with jewels, but whose minds were like those of children, only, unlike children, unable to take in any new ideas. She says of her zenana work, "The Bible is received now as never before."

Work at Hyderabad.

The Rev. M. G. Goldsmith continues at Hyderabad in temporary connexion with the Mission of the Bishop of Madras. Those in authority under the Nizam's government show themselves somewhat friendly. One of the aides-de-camp of H.H. the Nizam purchased on one occasion Rs. 40 worth of Bibles and Christian books. An average of twenty-five attended the Sunday Hindustani services in Mr. Goldsmith's house. Open-air preaching was carried on at three stations, one in Secunderabad, three-and-a-half miles from the Mission-house. There were about fourteen inquirers, but some of them were "queer cases." Two had been previously baptized in the Cambridge Delhi Mission, and a third pretended to have been baptized at Vellore. A young Mohammedan, holding a post under the Nizam's government, who had been baptized in England, returned to Mohammedanism, but wished still to be considered as "a kind of Christian!" Three others who had been baptized relapsed for a few days, but then returned.

NILGIRI AND WYNAAD TAMIL MISSION.

Ootacamund.

The Rev. and Mrs. A. H. Lash reside at OOTACAMUND, from whence they supervise the work—much of which Mr. Lash has himself inaugurated—at Coonoor and in the Wynaad. The Rev. G. Swamiadian is the pastor at Ootacamund. The congregation has 424 baptized members and about 40 adherents; 200 are communicants. Twenty-one were confirmed in May, 1895. Their contributions increased by Rs. 50 on those of the previous year, and over Rs. 15 were sent to the Bible Society, and Rs. 12 to the Jews Society. In addition to these sums, Rs. 46 was contributed towards the expenses of a Special Mission which was held in October, to which Mr. Lash ascribes much of the improvement discernible in the congregation. The mission preacher was Mr. V. David, whom Mr. Lash had known 28 years before as a schoolboy in Bishop (then Mr.) Sargent's school at Palamcotta, in Tinnevelly, and "a very daring, mischievous, naughty, idle boy he was," Mr. Lash remarks. He had left Tinnevelly while quite young and while still a Hindu and bitterly hostile to Christianity, and opened a liquor shop in Ceylon. There he married a Christian wife, and through her influence gave up his trade and became a schoolmaster in a C.M.S. school. He experienced a great spiritual change in 1887, and from that time became an evangelist, and in 1889 he joined the party of the Rev. G. C. Grubb, travelling with him to India. He has also been to England. Mr. Lash wrote:—

Special Mission.

Mr. David the Tamil evangelist.

> Though a member of the Church of England, to which he is much attached, he belongs to no Society, gets no fixed salary, but goes where the Lord leads him and depends on God for his support. His faith has been abundantly rewarded, and I believe he is being greatly used by God for the strengthening of the faith of the Native Christian Church, as well as towards the conversion of non-Christians. He spent a week in Ootacamund, and several days in Coonoor, and has conducted at least three services each day; and though our Christian community is small, all the meetings have been well attended, while the evening meetings have been densely packed with intensely interested hearers. It is early days to speak of results; next year I shall, please God, be able to say more on this head. The immediate result has been the formation of two bands of unpaid workers, about twenty of each sex, who have undertaken systematic work in the direction of Sunday-school teaching, house-to-house visiting, and village preaching.

A trainer of temple dancing-girls baptized.

There were eight adult baptisms at Ootacamund during the year. One of those baptized was an old man of seventy-two, named Mutthusawmy Row, who had been employed as a musician in the Rajah of Tanjore's band, and subsequently in training dancing-girls attached to a Hindu temple. He had lived an evil life, and had become a confirmed drunkard. When advanced in years he came under the influence of Mr. Rutnam, a Christian poet, musician, and evangelist, who convinced him of the truth of Christianity, and persuaded him to join his preaching band as a musician. In this capacity he visited Ootacamund with Mr. Rutnam. While there he gave up drink and became a regular attendant at the church services, and Mr. Lash baptized him on August 11th. Coonoor has now a resident native pastor, the Rev. Samuel Vores, who was transferred from Coonoor.

Calicut, to which place he had removed from Ootacamund in 1892. Soon after his arrival at Coonoor Mr. Vores was called upon to lose two of his children and his mother, who resided with him, by death.

The Wynaad.

Mr. Lash made four visits to the Wynaad, each involving a journey of about 200 miles. He is much encouraged on account of the progress made. There are six schools with 300 children, a number of them belonging to an aboriginal hill tribe called Kurumburs, of whom there are some thousands in the Wynaad. One of these people was among the six adults baptized. He was an overseer on an estate, and applied for a month's leave in order to give the time to studying for baptism, and when the leave was declined he relinquished his post and salary of Rs. 10 a month in order to get the necessary time. A number of Roman Catholics were received into the Communion of the Church of England after strict examination by Mr. Lash, who says :—

Roman Catholics received into the Church of England.

None get any worldly advantage by the change. One of these is a man of some position and influence. I examined him and his family very particularly ; he said he had long been very dissatisfied with the Roman Catholic religion, but there was no Protestant Mission in the Wynaad, and he did not know what to do. He found our Vayita catechist, and invited him to his house, and had prayer and read the Bible with him. He said he objected to the errors of Rome, he considered the worship of the Virgin and saints was contrary to Scripture, and mentioned among other things his disapproval of the rapacity of the priests, their keeping the Word of God from the people, doing many things contrary to the Bible ; he also spoke of the gross immorality of many of the nominal Roman Catholics. He and his whole family passed an excellent examination in the fundamental doctrines of the Protestant religion, and were admitted into our Church in the presence of a large congregation (i.e. for the Wynaad, sixty-seven were present). We used the beautiful service prepared by our Bishop. This convert has given us, free of rent, a commodious building for a schoolroom and in which to hold services. On my journey back to Ootacamund I stopped, at his request, at his house, where I found twelve persons assembled, and we had a Bible-reading and prayer-meeting together.

Miss Ling, Miss Hopwood, Miss Daniels, and Miss G. Kember are the C.E.Z.M.S. Ladies working in the Nilgiri Mission. Miss Ling has translated St. Mark's Gospel into the Toda language. A Tamil catechist and a schoolmaster, supported by the Tinnevelly Church, labour among the Todas.

II. TELUGU MISSION.

The Rev. James Stone came home in June, 1895, and the Rev. J. E. Padfield—summoned on account of the critical state of Mrs. Padfield's health—in December. Mrs. Padfield has been in some measure raised up in answer to much prayer. Mrs. J. Harrison and Mrs. J. B. Panes came home on sick leave in May, 1896. The Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Tanner returned to the Mission in December, 1895.

Bishop Gell made a visitation of the Telugu Mission in the winter of 1895-6. His tour extended over two months, and involved a large amount of travelling by rail and road and river, and that in somewhat feverish districts, a serious undertaking for one in the thirty-fifth year of his episcopate. It was, however, safely accomplished, and the missionaries were greatly helped by his presence and counsel. Bishop Gell's Visitation.

MASULIPATAM.

The Rev. C. W. A. Clarke, the Principal of the Noble College, at MASULIPATAM, says that the year under review, though very prosperous in examination results and as to the number of students, was a singularly dark and uninspiring one. The sympathetic and hopeful pupils about whom he had written in 1894 nearly all left the College at the beginning of 1895, three of them having passed their B.A. examination, and their departure altered the atmosphere, so to speak, of the senior class from one of bright and loving sympathy to one of indifference and suppressed antagonism. One event, however, fully compensated for all the discouragements, and that was the baptism of Nagabhushanam, taking the name of Bhushanam, on April 30th, 1895. He had been laid up during 1894 with "berri berri," a disease which is very fatal to the Natives of India, and at one time no hope of his recovery was entertained, but he was raised up, and after Christmas of that year paid daily visits to Mr. Clarke for Bible reading. Mr. Clarke writes:— Noble College, Masulipatam.

For a month or two he said nothing about baptism, and I did not press the subject upon him, as I could see that he was thinking deeply about his responsibility to Christ, and the fact that he came daily and openly to read with me, in spite of the opposition of his friends, showed how truly in earnest he was. One day he told me that his people were anxious to get him married, and that he felt that this would be a crisis in his home, for he could not marry a Hindu girl, when his mind was quite made up to become a Christian sooner or later, and it would mean practically leaving his young wife a widow if she should refuse to come out with him. He said, moreover, that if he refused to obey in this matter his father would probably turn him out of his house. I told him he must stand out on this point whatever happened, if his mind was really made up to become a Christian. So he told his people he could not think of marrying until he had passed his F.A. in December, and for some reason or other they let the matter drop. After this we talked more definitely of baptism, and he said his idea was to wait until after the F.A. examination, when he would be able to earn his own living, and be independent of the support of others. I rather encouraged this idea, as self-help is a rare commodity in India, but told him he must not delay a day in being baptized if his conscience told him he ought to be. This point was soon settled for him, as his people became alarmed about his constant visits to me, and began to take steps to prevent his coming; then he came and told me that he must leave home and come and live with me pending his baptism. By the help of some of his non-Christian schoolfellows he secured his books, and then came off to me just in the clothes he was dressed in. Baptism of a Brahman student.

What took place thereafter, what protracted and repeated efforts were made by his family, and how by grace he stood firm, the Rev. W. C. Penn relates:—

He wrote a note to his parents and elder brother informing them of his intention, for it is impossible for a Hindu to live at home if his people know that he wants to be a Christian; in fact, it is positively dangerous for him to do so. About five o'clock the same evening Nagabhushanam's parents, grandmother, and other relatives came into the verandah and used all sorts of persuasion to made him come back to them, but God kept him firm. They then tried to take him by force when our backs were turned for a minute. It was a most painful scene, and made one realize more than anything else what it means for a Brahman to become a Christian. It is literally the test of St. Luke xiv. 26 which is applied. Then his grandmother and other female relatives began to weep and howl and curse us. The cry of anguish of his mother, "Mā nainá" ("My darling"), will always ring in my ears. About seven o'clock the crowd cleared away. Nagabhushanam stayed the night with us, but did not break his caste, for we got a friendly Brahman to send him some food.

A painful scene.

The next morning (Sunday) the father, mother, and friends again took up their position in the verandah and Nagabhushanam went out and spoke to them. All through this business we tried to make his friends understand that Nagabhushanam was free to go if he liked, and that we were not using force to keep him, but were bound to protect him if force were used. Then five or six of the leading pleaders and native gentry came and talked with Nagabhushanam privately for more than an hour, but he remained firm. When they had gone we had prayer together and praised God. I then drove round to the police superintendent to ask him to send constables if necessary, for we did not know what their next move might be. In the evening Clarke and I walked with Nagabhushanam to church. I must tell you that Clarke had promised the pleaders not to baptize him for a week in order to see if he would stand firm; and I think Clarke was wise, for it was better for him to have the severe testing before baptism rather than be baptized and relapse. The next day, the father and elder brother appeared and had a long talk with Nagabhushanam, and the brother tried to take him by force, but Clarke prevented that. They then suggested that they should take him away in a bandy to see his mother, but Nagabhushanam refused.

Missionaries summoned before the Court.

The next day (Tuesday) Clarke, myself, and Ramasashala Garu, a Christian teacher and uncle of Nagabhushanam, were served with a summons for detaining a "minor" unlawfully. They said the boy was only sixteen, but we had documentary evidence that he was well over eighteen (the age of majority in India). At the same time we received an injunction from the Munsiff's Court to prevent us baptizing him until the suit had been decided. The next two days Nagabhushanam went to College as usual. His father sent him some food, which he wisely refused. We, of course, petitioned against the injunction, and on Friday we went with our pleader, Mr. J. D. Samuel, who is a Christian. It was fortunate that we had a Christian pleader in the place, and we cannot thank Mr. Samuel enough for the ability, time, and pains which he bestowed on this case. It is all the more creditable to him that he gave us his professional knowledge gratis. The Munsiff, after hearing our petition, set aside the injunction on the ground that according to Hindu law a Hindu can change his religion at sixteen. The other side then petitioned for "custody," on the ground that the boy was "property" which was the subject of the suit! The next day, while we were playing cricket with the boys, we were served with another injunction from the district judge, staying the baptism again. This had been obtained in the court when our pleader was absent. We were all rather cast down at this, but we knew the truth must prevail in the end.

Assisted gratuitously by a native Christian pleader.

On the following Monday we had our annual prize distribution, and the district judge gave away the prizes. Of course, the leading native officials and pleaders boycotted the whole proceedings. The next day, the judge called the whole case up into his court, and we spent six hours in the hot court with a temperature of 103°. The petition for custody was at once thrown out as frivolous, and then we petitioned against the injunction, which petition we gained on two grounds—that according to Hindu law, a person might change his religion at sixteen, and also because the judge was satisfied with our evidence that the boy was over eighteen. The other side then withdrew the suit, and we won the case.

"We won the case."

That same evening Nagabhushanam was baptized, taking the name of Bhushanam (simply dropping the prefix Naga). He preferred this because one of Mr. Noble's converts was thus named. Many of the school friends of Bhushanam were present. God be praised!

Mr. Bhushanam remained in the Christian hostel attached to the College, and passed his F.A. examination in December, and proceeded to work for his B.A. He and a few other Christian youths were much refreshed and helped by attending as delegates from the College some meetings held at Madras in the spring of 1896 in connexion with the Student Volunteer Missionary Union. Since the Noble School became a College, in its Jubilee year, 1893, it has turned out ten full graduates, two of whom have become masters, both men in close sympathy with the objects of the College. Indeed, the harmony and sympathy of aim of the whole staff is a source of great encouragement. A Sunday-school for the boys has about one hundred scholars. Several ladies of the C.E.Z.M.S. staff (which consists of Miss Braddon, Miss Bassoë, Miss Morris, Miss A. Moore, and Miss Rheim) render valued help in teaching. The Rev. H. J. Tanner, the Rugby-Fox master, rejoined the staff in January. It may be mentioned here that the Rugby-Fox Memorial Fund, which supports a master at the College, has received since it was founded in 1850 an aggregate income of £13,004 16*s.* 3*d.*; a result which is in large measure due to its Secretaries, the late Rev. P. Bowden Smith, its Rugby Secretary, who died in June, 1895, after holding the office for twenty-one years, and the Rev. J. Sharp, of the British and Foreign Bible Society, and a former Rugby-Fox master.

Rugby-Fox Memorial Fund.

The Rev. J. E. Padfield, who has come home as already mentioned, reports on the Preparandi Institution. The Divinity School had seven students—two deacons reading for priest's orders, two reading for deacon's orders, and three in preparation for appointments as catechists. On March 1st, 1895, the Bishop of Madras admitted the two deacons to priest's orders, and the two laymen to deacon's orders, together with a third, Mr. M. Devanandam, a tutor in the Institution who had previously passed the Universities' Preliminary Examination when a student in the Divinity School at Madras. The Bishop expressed himself, the Rev. A. E. Goodman says, as greatly satisfied with the spiritual tone of the men, and added that he had never before had Telugu candidates so well versed in their subjects. All the eight men, including the three qualifying for catechists, were former students in the Normal School. This School had 28 students, sixteen in the preparatory and twelve in the training class. Thirteen passed out fully trained, and took employment in Mission schools. A few students have been received for training from the Baptist Mission and the American Lutheran Mission of Guntu. The Practising School had 59 pupils. Since the Normal School was commenced by the late Rev. J. E. Sharkey in 1864 it has passed out 275, of whom the large majority obtained Government schoolmasters' certificates. At the present time 180 of these are at work as pastors, catechists, evangelists, and schoolmasters—about 65·5 per cent. of the whole number. Except ten these are at work in connexion with the C.M.S. Two hundred of the 275 were trained under Mr. Padfield, who has had charge since 1874. Mr. Padfield's Translational Work (in which he gratefully acknowledges the assistance of Mr. B. Sinayya) has been considerable, amounting altogether to no less than 4,500 pages. The first edition of the first volume of his Telugu translation of the S.P.C.K. New Testament Commentary has been sold out, and a second edition is about to be prepared by the S.P.C.K., to which Society the Telugu Church is greatly indebted for the liberal terms on which it has supplied these helpful books. The Sharkey Memorial School was under Mrs. Goodman's charge; it has ninety pupils. A training class was opened in 1891, which has since then turned out fourteen trained mistresses. Two girls passed the "Method" Examination, primary grade, seven the Lower Secondary, and eleven the Upper Primary. Nearly all the domestic work of the school, with its fifty-six boarders, is done by the girls, such as cooking, rice-pounding, drawing water, sweeping, &c.

District.

One of the new deacons, the Rev. M. Devanandam, joined the staff of the Masulipatam District Church Council, making four native pastors on that staff, and was stationed at Ellurapad, in the Godávari district. It was mentioned last year that the congregation at Tummalapalli, in the Gudivada taluq, had prepared to build a church to be known as the "Bhushanam Memorial Church." This church was opened on July 28th, 1895, and was dedicated by the Bishop of Madras in January, 1896. The 175 Christians contributed in cash Rs.600, and in labour Rs. 400 towards the cost, and a sum of Rs.1,079 in the hands of the Madras Corresponding Committee, collected for the purpose of building a church to the memory of the late Rev. A. Bhushanam (one of Noble's converts, who laboured in this district), was handed over. On the day of opening, the church, designed to seat 300, was packed with 750 people, and the collection amounted to Rs. 66. Seventy-two received the Lord's Supper. The Rev. M. David has been appointed pastor of this congregation. The whole district contains 2,610 baptized Christians and 425 catechumens, and 52 adults were baptized. Opening of Tummalapalli Church.

A Brahman girl with a remarkable history was baptized at Masulipatam on Advent Sunday. Miss Brandon, C.E.Z.M.S., relates how she was taken to Bezwada and was passed on by Miss Jennings to the Converts' Home at Masulipatam :—

A Brahman girl baptized after remarkable wanderings.

In March, 1895, a woman of the Shepherd caste handed over to Miss Jennings a Brahman girl of about ten years of age. As far as we can find out, this is Sethamma's history. She was born in Benares; her father died when she was very young, her husband also died a few years ago; then her mother, sister-in-law, and Sethamma (three widows) started on a pilgrimage from Benares to Juggernaut, a distance of over 600 miles as the crow flies. The sister-in-law died, the mother became ill. When the latter knew there was no hope of her recovery, she called the old heathen mill-woman who attended her, and begged her to send Sethamma back to Benares by the first person she met returning. The mill-woman did not know the name of the child's house, and as she was afraid to trust her to any one, she kept her and brought her to Bezwada and asked a Christian to adopt her. This man replied, "I have three little daughters of my own"; but he spoke to Miss Jennings about her, and she at once took the child. Sethamma spoke a language we never hear in the south, but she very quickly learnt Telugu. She is bright, and always smiling. Her knowledge of the way of salvation is wonderful, considering the short time she was taught.

The Bishop confirmed 250 candidates during his visit in January, 1896.

BEZWADA AND ELLORE.

Cyclone at Ellore.

A severe cyclone, followed by torrents of rain, visited the Godávari and Krishna Valleys in September, 1895, and much damage was done. In Ellore most of the houses of the Christians were swept away, and the loss of property, and even of life, was considerable in the district. The banks of the canal for some thirty miles eastward from Ellore were destroyed; whole villages were wrecked; two Christian villages were utterly ruined, one being swept off by the current, the other being submerged by the overflow of the Colair Lake. Mr. M. Browne, of the High School, relates the painful experience which he and Mrs. Browne passed through :—

A painful experience.

At dead of night, as we were all asleep, father, mother, and child, all three being only just convalescent from fever and bronchitis, we got warning that the flood was rapidly rising around our house, and before we could get away my wife and I were standing for a couple of hours up to our waists in water. At last we had to abandon everything and escape in a high dog-cart, which our faithful gardener had managed, with great difficulty, to bring to the door. In this we waded through the flood, with a man on each side to guide the horse, the water being up to the animal's neck. We took refuge at the Fort; but almost at once my wife was again laid up with severe congestion of the throat, and our little son, too, was again ill for several days. For the nursing and the night-watching of the two invalids I was most mercifully strengthened, though quite unfitted for my duties at school. As soon as God had graciously restored us all to health, there was the dismal business of overhauling our things, which had been lying under water for four days; some of our clothes needed only to be well washed, the rest and the worthless books we burnt.

High School.

The High School is held in the Fort, and after considerable correspondence the Government has given a lease of the building for a further period of twelve years. A high wall separates the Mission portion—over five acres in extent—from that occupied by the new Government buildings. Out of twenty boys sent up for the Lower Secondary Examination, eighteen passed. The Government Inspector praised the tone and discipline of the school and the excellent pronunciation of English. Ten of the boys, seven being Brahmans and one a Mohammedan, passed the Peter Cator Scripture Examination. The two Christian boys who passed were of Pariah origin. Visiting a village near Ellore Mr. Browne met an old pupil of the school:—

Brahman boys pass Scripture Examination.

A former pupil and his Bible.

> In one village the most influential man of the place found me out before I had been ten minutes in the place. Accepting an invitation to his house, I went there at mid-day, after morning service, and found him to be himself an old pupil of the High School, and his son one of my own pupils at present. Without a moment's hesitation he went to his book-case and brought out his English Bible, and seemed quite delighted for me to read from it and expound its truths to him and others who were present. He evidently cherishes an affection for his old school, and the Bible which he read in it; but whether, after so many years of indecision, he will at length embrace the Gospel, cannot at present be known.

The district.

Two hundred candidates were confirmed in connexion with the Pastorates, and fifty-nine adults were baptized during the year. Some of the latter had been catechumens for several years; others were children whose parents lapsed fourteen years ago at Narasinghapalam, and who were received back during 1895, their children born during the many years of apostasy being baptized; some were converts from village schools; and sixteen belonged to Polsanipalli, the fruits of the zeal and energy of the Rev. M. Jonah. The Rev. F. W. N. Alexander, the honoured veteran of nearly forty years in the field, suffered two domestic trials during the year. Mrs. Alexander was thrown from her trap and sustained serious injuries, her arm being fractured in two places; and Mr. Alexander's niece, Miss Rock, who went out to help him in the work among women in the district, died in November after two months of great suffering. The C.E.Z.M.S. Ladies in Ellore are Miss Digby and Miss Symonds, both sent out and supported by the C.E.Z.M.S. Australian Auxiliary at Melbourne; and Miss Jennings labours at Bezwada.

Bezwada.

Nearly three hundred were confirmed at the latter station, Bezwada, by the Bishop, and a Parsi of good position was baptized at the same time. The High School, under the Rev. D. Anantam, passed five out of six in the Peter Cator; seven out of ten in the Lower Secondary; and three out of eight in the Matriculation Examination. The Band of Itinerants, whose home is at Bezwada, was under the leadership of the Rev. R. W. Peachey after Mr. Stone left. On the average they were in camp eighteen days of every month. When at Bezwada they preached in the bazaar and the surrounding villages. Mr. Peachey says of this work :— Band of Itinerants.

Every day is much the same so far as the work goes, only it is in different villages, which are so numerous that we are only able to see them at long intervals. The principal variety is in the reception we meet with in the different villages. At one time we will have a crowd of one hundred people or more, who will listen eagerly and make it a real pleasure to visit and speak with them ; at another we can only gather some ten or twelve people, who seem totally indifferent to what we say. Sometimes they are eager in defending their own religion, and ask sensible questions ; at other times they seem to have no thought beyond their fields and cattle. Some will eagerly take the tracts and even purchase the books we bring ; others will refuse to touch the papers we offer, or only through some other person. In one village they will treat us with respect, and spread a mat for us to sit on ; at another village they will keep as far off as they can.

RAGHAVAPURAM AND KHAMMAMETT.

The Rev. J. B. Panes had charge of RAGHAVAPURAM for the greater part of 1895, as well as of Khammamett, his own proper district. He spent the hot season visiting the congregations, and made monthly visits subsequently. The confirmations numbered eighty-six. The Rev. T. Ephraim writes of the Raghavapuram pastorate :— Raghavapuram.

At Raghavapuram we have a large church with a good congregation. The old rule which existed—i.e. that the men should attend the service in the morning and the women in the evening—has been almost forgotten. Most of the men and women regularly attend both services. Only those who have not yet bought a door to their house do not attend the two services. Husband and wife take their turns either morning or evening. An "old rule" as to Church attendance.

Two watch-night services were held during the year, one on New Year's Eve and the other on Good Friday night. Our Christians were quite pleased to bring lights in small earthen vessels filled with lamp-oil. Our place of worship gave a brilliant light to the whole building. It attracted a good many strangers, who came and listened to the services. Watch-night services.

The Rev. J. C. J. Pavey has accepted an appointment offered to him by the Bishop of Madras of a chaplaincy in Cochin.

Mr. Panes says, regarding the progress during seven years in his district of KHAMMAMETT, since it was separated from Raghavapuram :— Progress in Khammamett District.

In 1888 we had a little band of ten evangelists and teachers in the few villages which had been previously occupied from Raghavapuram, and a company of 335 baptized Christians, and rather over 100 catechumens under instruction. Now this band is doubled, there being twenty agents, including a fully ordained native pastor, two catechists, three evangelists, and four teachers at work in over fifty villages containing Christians or catechumens; and our little flock has increased to a total of 826, including 570 baptized Christians and 256 catechumens under instruction. In the same period the communicants have increased from seventy-nine to 150, and the Native Church contributions are doubled, the total for the year ending September 30th, 1895, being Rs. 420. The prayer-houses and schoolrooms, though still altogether inadequate both as to size and number, have risen from four to seven. Thus there has been much visible progress, and though it is impossible to tabulate all the spiritual and moral results, if growing intelligence and interest in Native Church affairs, if diligence in learning the Scriptures and a desire for Christian books, if telling friends, relatives, and neighbours about God's unspeakable gift, if in many cases a readiness to endure hardness and suffer loss, if the joyful testimony of some who have been called home,—if, I say, such works as these mean anything, there has been also much spiritual and moral progress.

He mentions a village named Zūlūrapād in the middle of the jungle, where new work was commenced during the year, six men with their families being entered as inquirers. Tigers and bears abound, and when the evangelist visits them he invariably takes a companion, as it would be unsafe to go alone.

DUMMAGUDEM.

Special Mission at Dummagudem.

DUMMAGUDEM was visited in Christmas week, 1894, by the Rev. J. Stone, who conducted a Special Mission, of which the Rev. J. Cain writes:—

> There was a goodly gathering of people from far-off Rampa and Chitrakonda, and they were greatly moved by Mr. Stone's addresses. Mrs. Cain expressed her surprise at seeing one old woman from Chitrakonda, and said how glad she was to see her, and the good old woman tenderly said, "Yes, I am getting old now, and am not likely to come again, but I thought that I would like to see the big gathering here once more before I join the bigger one up above."

Mr. Cain's account of the Christians is a chequered one. A few are slaves to drink, the Kois being specially prone to excess in that direction, as they make their own inexpensive beverage from the mhowa flower. This vice and their pride of caste hinder them from embracing the Gospel. The Rev. Razu Garu's eye infirmity has been pronounced incurable, and he is not even able to read prayers, while his general ill health only admitted of his preaching on two occasions during the year. In the summer a renowned Guru from Cuddapore visited Dummagudem, of whom Mr. Cain says:—

A renowned Guru.

> He spent more than four months in Dummagudem, and received rich gifts from the komalies (shopkeepers) and others, in return for which he performed puja three times a day, and allowed them to prostrate themselves before his feet. One komali, anxious to obtain enough merit to ensure his happiness in the next birth, offered Rs. 30 to be allowed the privilege of washing the Guru's feet and drinking the water afterwards. But the Guru decided that it was impossible for him to permit such a violation of the sanctity of his person, and thereby rose in the estimation of most of his adherents.

The old Christian man of the Rampa congregation who gave up opium-eating, after indulging in the habit for twenty-five years, as mentioned in last year's Report, stands fast in his newly-found liberty, and another man of the same congregation has been induced to follow his good example. The Rev. M. Gnanasigamoni was away from Malkanagiri for six months on account of his wife's illness. Bishop Gell confirmed 104 candidates at Dummagudem and 34 at Nallapalli in December. His previous visit to this remote station was in 1877.

III. TINNEVELLY.

Tinnevelly bishopric.

The difficulties which have delayed the consummation of the plan for establishing a bishopric in Tinnevelly, to which reference was made in the last Annual Report (page 209), have, it is believed, been satisfactorily solved. Those difficulties arose from the nature of the case. Tinnevelly is in the Diocese of Madras, which cannot be legally divided without an Act of Parliament; while on the other hand a condition on which munificent offers for the endowment of the bishopric were made, was that the occupant of the see should be in a position of practical independence, not merely a suffragan, though that might be his legal status. It was proposed, therefore, to proceed on the principle of consensual jurisdiction, which already had been adopted for the Diocese of Chota Nagpur, formed in 1890, and in attaching the North-West Provinces to the see of Lucknow, created in 1893. Questions regarding the legal effect of the oath of obedience which the clergy of a diocese take to their bishop arose, and it was explained that no new oath will be administered to the clergy already in the Mission, and that licences to officiate will bear the seal of the Bishop of Madras. The missionaries of the S.P.G. and of the C.M.S. in Tinnevelly were, however, naturally wishful to have assurances that the proposed arrangement was not in any sense in contravention of the law, and the Committee are grateful to the Archbishop of Canterbury for his courteous pains to explain to their representatives, for the satisfaction of the Society's missionaries, the nature and effect of the new relations involved. Meanwhile, Archdeacon Elwes, who, as stated last year, had been offered and had accepted the appointment to the new bishopric, was obliged, on account of Mrs. Elwes' state of health, to withdraw his acceptance. The Rev. S. Morley, chaplain of the Bishop of Madras, has been nominated, and it is hoped that his consecration will take place without much delay.

Native Church organization.

After the visit of the Rev. John Barton to Tinnevelly in 1890, and upon his report, the Native Church Council system in Tinnevelly was reorganized, the ten separate and independent District Councils being merged into one. The new arrangements came into operation, but avowedly as a tentative step, in January, 1892. After three years' working of the system then introduced, a report was asked for from the missionaries, and in response a valuable review of the history and working of the scheme, with various suggestions of amendments, was received. The difficulties which render progress slow are frankly stated, but one feature of the review is undoubtedly encouraging, namely, that the contributions of the Native Christians to the funds of the Church Council increased over forty per cent. in the three years. In 1891 the amount contributed was Rs. 16,000, while in 1894 it was Rs. 22,540. The missionaries most truly observe in their report that "what is really needed is not system or organization, but power from on high." "We are longing," they say, "to see a revival of true religion in the Tinnevelly Church. Not until men's hearts are filled with the Spirit will true self-support be obtained, or the need of European authority be removed, or the Native Church become a missionary Church."

Increasing liberality.

Deaths of native pastors.

The year was an unhealthy one, and the mortality among the native pastors was great. No less than five were removed by death. The Rev. A. A. Carr, pastor of Kongarâyakuritchi, ordained in 1885, died on May 29th, 1895; the Rev. J. K. Arumanayagam, pastor of Arumuganêri, who was ordained in 1888, died on June 4th; the Rev. P. David, pastor of Dôhnâvûr, ordained in 1876, died on June 24th; the Rev. D. Arulanandham, pastor of Pragâsapuram, ordained in 1876, died on January 9th, 1896; and the Rev. A. Gnanamuttu, pastor of Uttumalai, ordained 1869, died at the close of 1895 or the beginning of 1896. A sixth, the Rev. J. Nallatambi, has retired. The Executive Committee of the Church Council, at its meeting in July, recorded that the three first-mentioned clergymen were among the most faithful ministers and earnest workers in the district.

Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Ardell and Miss E. C. Vines came home in July, 1895, and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wise in December. The Rev. Ll. G. Scott Price sustained a severe injury through a fall from his bicycle in the summer, which obliged him to come home in May, 1896. The Rev. and Mrs. T. Kember returned to the Mission in November.

Palamcotta.

Preparandi Institution.

PALAMCOTTA is the central station of the Society's work, where several of the institutions for the benefit of the Native Church are located, and where most of the European missionaries reside. The Preparandi Institution underwent a few important changes. It was arranged that the class of junior theological students should be drawn from those village schoolmasters in the Mission who from necessity have, in addition to their school work, to take the pastoral charge of small congregations, under a native clergyman at a more or less distant place. These agents, it was considered, needed and would greatly benefit by a year's grounding in Scripture knowledge and in the Prayer Book. The native tutor of the senior class, Mr. G. Manikam, was admitted to deacon's orders in December. Six of the students in this class obtained prizes in the Bishop's examination, open to the whole Presidency, and competed for by hundreds of candidates. The Rev. A. N. C. Storrs, who was Acting Principal during the Rev. T. Kember's absence, wrote regarding these students:—

> At the daily morning service each of the senior students takes it in turn to give the address, and I am glad to say that most of them take great pains in the preparation. I have a short talk and prayer with the preacher afterwards, and I find they really try to profit by the hints given them. Their great danger is to indulge in doctrinal platitudes, rather than to show the practical bearing of the truths of Christianity upon everyday life, and to speak in a general indefinite manner rather than to aim at touching the heart and arousing the conscience of their hearers.

One of the most earnest of the senior students died from cholera after a day's illness, witnessing a good confession on his death-bed. Houses have been provided for eight out of the fifteen senior students, so that their wives and families can live with them, a consideration of the greatest importance in view of the fact that this renders it possible to give Bible instruction to the wives, which is done by a Bible-woman (paid by Mrs. T. Walker) daily. A singing class was also held for them at the bungalow of the Rev. A. N. C. Storrs, the Acting Principal of the Institution. The Normal School caused Mr. Storrs much anxiety, and he found it necessary to expel six students for grave offences. In many of the others he laments that he can discern little sign of spirituality or earnestness. Much prayerful pains were taken in selecting those newly admitted, rejecting those who did not show signs of true conversion and a real desire to be workers for Christ. The results of the Government examination were disappointing. The Practising School sent in some of its pupils to the Primary Examination for the first time. The Girls' Boarding School sent pupils in for the first time for the Lower Secondary Examination in English, and passed five out of seven; as well as seven—all that were presented—in the Primary. Mrs. Storrs had charge of this school, and she was much pleased with the conduct of the girls, many of whom appeared to her to be truly God's children. Quite spontaneously some of them meet daily for a short prayer-meeting.

Normal School.

Girls' Boarding School.

Mr. E. Keyworth, upon his return to the Mission in the autumn of 1894, resumed charge of the Boys' High School, which has one hundred boarders. The examination results were remarkable. Sixteen out of twenty sent in passed the Lower Secondary, which is in lieu of the old Middle School test. In the Matriculation, eight out of ten passed—the best results the school has ever obtained. In the Presidency generally the proportion who failed was 80 per cent., which was exactly the proportion which passed from this school of Christian boys. The consequence of these successes was that the applications for admission were exceptionally numerous, many non-Christian boys being among the applicants. A few of them were admitted, in the hope that they might be drawn to Christ while in the school, and a Sanscrit class formed for their benefit. The school also passed all its candidates in the Lower Grade Peter Cator Scripture Examination, winning two out of the nine prizes. Mr. Keyworth attributes the success of the school in part to the greater mental energy of the Christian boys, which is due, he thinks, very much to the fact that infant marriages do not take place in the Christian community; and in part to the zeal of the Native Christian teachers. He says as to these teachers:—

Zeal of Native Christian teachers.

After thirty years' experience of teaching, I have found no instructors more faithful or more loving than the Tamil Christian teacher. Mr. Breed, now in our Tinnevelly College, joins with me in ascribing the success of this school, humanly speaking, mainly to the devoted energy of our staff, who during last year and for fifteen years have all been Christians.

Mr. Martin Luther, the head-master, superintends a Sunday-school attended by 143 of the schoolboys. A Sunday-school was also opened at the request of the heathen lads of one of the branch schools, which 33 boys attend.

The Sarah Tucker Institution was superintended by Miss Walford and Miss Cowell, B.A., of the C.E.Z.M.S., during 1895, the Lady-Principal, Miss Askwith, and Miss Swainson being on furlough. The two last-named ladies returned in the autumn. There are 289 girls in the Institution—as many as the buildings can accommodate. It has been raised to the status of a Second Grade College, teaching up to the F.A. standard, and is affiliated to the Madras University. No other female institution in the Presidency has hitherto attained this status. The first F.A. class, with four students, was opened in February, 1896, under Miss C. E. Cowell, who accompanied Miss Askwith from England. None of the four students who entered for the Matriculation Examination were successful, but out of 27 for the Lower Secondary twenty passed, and thirteen out of eighteen passed the Primary. Nineteen also succeeded out of 23 sent up in the written examination for Teachers' Certificates; all the seventeen students who appeared for the Practical Test were passed, some gaining first class certificates. Most of these found immediate employment. Ten out of eleven passed the Lower Grade Peter Cator, and one of the girls, who left the school in 1894 after matriculating, obtained a prize of Rs. 40 in the Higher Grade by private study. The Blind School passed four children in the Primary, making nine altogether of these blind children who have succeeded in this examination. The Industrial School, with 29 inmates, including four deaf and dumb girls, is self-supporting, the girls doing needle-work and bead-work, and making curry powder. tion. The number of Branch Schools is about fifty. The pupils in these are chiefly Hindus, to whom the Bible is carefully taught. One of the schools is for Mohammedan girls, the teaching being given in Hindustani by Tamil mistresses trained in the Sarah Tucker Institution.

C.E.Z.M.S. workers.

The other C.E.Z.M.S. Ladies residing at Palamcotta, but some of them engaging in work among the women in distant villages, are Miss C. Blyth, Miss Max, Miss Ridsdale, and Miss Grove. A Bible-women's Training Class was opened at the beginning of 1895 with eight members. One of these was sent to Ootacamund.

The Rev. and Mrs. H. J. Schaffter's welcome to the heathen town of TINNEVELLY in January, 1895, was exceedingly cordial and enthusiastic. The Rev. Ll. G. Scott Price says:—

Reception of a missionary in a heathen town, after his furlough.

Seven large pandals, the Indian style of triumphal arches, made of poles and mats, gaily decorated with foliage and flowers, had been erected along the route from the station to the College and bungalow. The heathen town of Tinnevelly seemed stirred to its depths as the procession from the railway-station, headed by the Tinnevelly elephant and musicians, made its way through the crowds of people eager to welcome back their old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Schaffter. On reaching the College four addresses were presented and read, to which Mr. Schaffter replied in his usual bright and happy way.

Tinnevelly College.

Two of the Christian boys of the College, under Mr. Schaffter's charge, obtained the second and third prizes of the Senior Grade Peter Cator Examination, and the wife of one of the Christian masters of the College obtained the fourth, leaving only one (the first) for the rest of the Presidency, which was won by the Madras Christian College. The number of students has increased, and Mr. Schaffter has had to rent another house, in part of which he has opened a Hostel for Brahman students. Two of the classes for these students are taught by Christian masters who were themselves Brahmans. Upon Mr. R. F. Ardell's leaving for home in June, the Rev. F. W. Breed was appointed to assist at the College.

Itinerating.

Mr. Breed had previously been a member of the Itinerating Band, in company with the Rev. J. McLeod Hawkins. Mr. A. Devapiriam, after completing his course at the Madras Divinity School, and before being ordained, as he was in December, was a member of the Band throughout the year, and "proved a tower of strength," Mr. Hawkins writes. Another member for the greater part of the year was a young man whom Mr. Hawkins baptized in April, 1895, by the name of Gnanathesikan ("teacher of wisdom"). While visiting North Tinnevelly with the Band this youth's relatives tried to get him into their power, and Mr. Hawkins sent him to Palamcotta with one of the Band as an escort. He says:—

I had not the least doubt of his faith and sincerity, but knowing to what lengths Hindus will go to get back an apostate, I thought I might only be playing into their hands if I allowed him to stop with us. As it happened, he and his escort, on their way to Palamcotta, met the party who were coming to try and carry him off by force. The poor lad's terror was extreme; but he covered his face, and being in a bandy, mercifully passed unrecognized.

In a village near Dohnavur seven families became catechumens. At Attoor a man aged fifty applied for baptism, of whom Mr. Hawkins writes:—

A convert tested.

His story was that he had been attending Sunday services in his native village in North Tinnevelly, and that his family and relatives had practically turned him out of his own home. As he was willing to make himself useful in many little ways I told him he might stop with us a few days while I made inquiries. The pastor of the district in North Tinnevelly in which his native village is situated fully confirmed his story, and at his own request I kept him with the band for about three months, during which time he was instructed and prepared for baptism. At the beginning of June we asked him to go back and witness for a month in his old home, and then he should be baptized. It was a great effort, but he went; and his altered conduct and manner of life so influenced his wife and children and relatives that their hostility completely subsided. He was baptized in Palamcottah in July, and returned to his native place. I visited this village a few weeks ago. All speak of his consistent life. The true missionary spirit manifests itself strongly, and I fully hope that ten or twelve souls, who have been greatly helped by his example to embrace the truth, will be baptized this year (1896).

The Committee were disappointed of their hope to supply help to Mrs. and Miss Thomas at the Elliot Tuxford School, Mengnanapuram. Miss Rose Bachlor, whose offer of service the New South Wales C.M. Association had accepted, was designated to the School, but the Committee learned with much regret that her departure from Sydney had been delayed on grounds of health. The number of pupils in the School increased from 60 in 1889 to 177 in 1895.

Pastorates.

Four Annual Letters have been received from native pastors, and their accounts of their work may be taken as samples of the work of the rest, fifty-three in all. The Rev. D. M. Pakkianadhan, pastor of Shermadevi, in the Seval Circle, states that his pastorate is sixty miles in area (fifteen miles long by four broad), and that it contains twenty congregations, some of which are very small, but all have Sunday-schools connected with them. He administered the Holy Communion 38 times in eight different churches, and he baptized 17 adults and 25 infants. In eight schools 340 children are under instruction, besides three branch schools of the Sarah Tucker Institution which are located in the pastorate. Fifteen catechists and teachers are under Mr. Pakkianadhan, and with their help the Gospel was preached in 850 villages to 70,000 people. He says:—

The message of salvation has been faithfully proclaimed everywhere, in season and out of season. Often we have had crowds of people to listen to our preaching, though we have not neglected individual dealing. All sorts and conditions of men have come under the Gospel sound. Though there have been objectors and gainsayers in different places, who seek salvation through their own works of merit, yet the Gospel has been preached to them in all its simplicity, ever lifting up the crucified Saviour, Who opened to men the way of salvation through His sufferings and death. His dying love for sinners has ever been the means of drawing men unto Him. People in general, I am thankful to admit, have heard us with apparent delight.

The Rev. D. Perinbam, honorary pastor of Anandhapuram, in the Sathankulam Circle, saw a new and substantial church erected during the year. A Band of Hope with 35 members meets daily at sunrise to read their Scripture portion. The Rev. and Mrs. T. Walker visited this pastorate and held devotional meetings for the men and women respectively, Mr. Walker also preaching in many of the villages.

The Rev. S. Paul is pastor at Sachiâpuram, and chairman of the Sachiâpuram and Vâgaikulâm Circle Committees in North Tinnevelly. He states that in the whole district of North Tinnevelly, the scene of the itinerations of Ragland, Fenn, and Meadows, there are now 6,351 baptized Christians, gathered in 250 congregations, under eleven ordained pastors, and about 100 lay-agents. Only two of these congregations have as many as 200 baptized members, only ten have over 100, while 120 of them have less than ten. The evangelistic work in the district was blessed with abundant fruit, 238 adults being baptized during the year. Forty-five of these were admitted to the Church at a special service during the Harvest Thanksgiving Celebration in June. The celebration occupied three days. On June 4th a "preparatory service" was held, with addresses by two native clergymen, the Revs. J. Griffiths and S. David, and the 51st Psalm was sung kneeling. The next morning 235 partook of the Holy Communion, and the Rev. V. Sargunam preached on Christian Unity. Then the anniversary meeting, with prize-giving to certain Mission agents who had acquitted themselves well in the Bishop's Prize Examination, &c., and services for women and children, were held. On June 6th came the harvest service, at which the Rev. T. Walker preached from Eccles. xi. 1, 2. The free-will offerings amounted to Rs. 461. Miss Mary Turner, of the C.E.Z.M.S., who laboured with her sister, Miss B. Turner, at Sachiâpuram, died during the year. An interesting account of her work had appeared in the October number of India's Women, in which she mentioned that a high-caste widow from the house of the zemindar of Sivagiri had come to the ladies' bungalow at Sachiâpuram desiring to be instructed for baptism.

Harvest Thanks-giving.

The Rev. S. A. Daniel is pastor of Sankaranainârkôil, in the Vâgaikulâm Circle. The area of Mr. Daniel's pastorate embraces 168 square miles, and includes 150 villages, in thirty-five of which there are Christian congregations, with an aggregate of 675 baptized Christians. Mr. Daniel is assisted by one evangelist, three catechists, three schoolmasters, three schoolmistresses, and one monitor. Of Sankaranainârkôil he says:—

Full of idols.

The head-station, which may be called a modern Ephesus in point of heathen worship, is full of abominable idols. The description of that which is mentioned in Isaiah xliv. 12–19 may be said to have appropriately prefigured the heathen performances of these people. Both the great and small, the learned and the unlearned, bow down before these dumb idols, "and none calleth to mind, neither is there knowledge nor understanding to say, shall I fall down to the stock of a tree?" Oh! what a sad fact is this to think of, and to see innumerable people being led astray by this vanity from the One true, living Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. But the good seed of the Word of God is incessantly sown from street to street, and in every nook and corner, with full dependence on the Lord's promise that "His Word will not be void," and that in due season it will bring forth good fruit, and that "unto Me every knee shall bow."

TRAVANCORE AND COCHIN MISSION.

The Mission in the semi-independent Native States of Travancore and Cochin, which occupy a narrow strip of country on the south-western coast of India, between the Ghaut mountains and the sea, was established in 1816 at the invitation of Colonel Munro, the British Resident. For twenty years it was worked by Benjamin Bailey, Joseph Fenn, Henry Baker, sen., and others, mainly with a view to the reform of the ancient Malabar Syrian Church, which claims to have been founded by the Apostle St. Thomas. Since 1837 the missionaries have worked independently, the result of which has been not only the adhesion of many Syrians to the purer worship of the Church of England, but an active reforming movement within their own Church, which was much fostered by the late Metran, Mar Athanasius. The labours of Peet, Hawksworth, H. Baker, jun., and others, among the Heathen, particularly the lowest castes and the Hill Arrians, have been also greatly blessed. Allepie was occupied in 1816; Cottayam, 1817; Cochin, 1817; Mavelikára, 1839; Trichur, 1842; Pallam, 1845; Tiruwella, 1849; Kunnankulam, 1854; the Arrian Mission, 1855; and the Alwaye Itinerancy, 1881.

On July 25th, 1879, the Rev. J. M. Speechly, a C.M.S. Missionary and for some time Principal of the Cambridge Nicholson Institution, was consecrated first Bishop of Travancore and Cochin. On his resignation in 1889 the Rev. E. N. Hodges was nominated to the See, and was consecrated on April 25th, 1890.

Ordinations.

Bishop Hodges admitted Messrs. K. P. Oomen, A. J. Pathen, and P. A. Samuel to deacon's orders on St. Thomas' Day, December 21st, 1895.

The Rev. and Mrs. F. Bower and the Rev. and Mrs. J. Thompson reached home in June, 1895, the two former on furlough, Mr. Thompson invalided; and the Rev. and Mrs. A. F. Painter came home on sick leave in March, 1896.

Native Church.

No report has been received of the work of the Pastorates connected with the two District Councils, the Northern or Cottayam Council and the Tiruwella Council.

Efforts on behalf of Malabar Jews.

The Native congregations devoted their Good Friday offertories of 1895 (following the example of those in Tinnevelly in 1894) to work among the Jews, and the conference at its first meeting in June invited the Revs. J. H. Bishop and C. E. R. Romilly to commence a tentative effort on behalf of the Malabar Jews. Those in and around Cochin number, including children, only some 1,150 souls. They are popularly classed as "Black" and "White" Jews, but more correctly there are at least three classes: the original settlers, the White Jews (a much later and probably a European colony), and those of mixed descent, who were formerly slaves of the White Jews. They have altogether eight synagogues, which were all visited by Mr. Bishop (Mr. Romilly was unable to accompany him). Three are in the town of Native Cochin, two at Ernakulam, and one each at Parna, Chenamangalam, and Mala. At one place visited the Feast of Trumpets was being celebrated, and at another booths were being erected in preparation for the Feast of Tabernacles. The Jews were everywhere ready for the most part to receive Hebrew tracts, "The Promised Messiah" (which, through the efforts of Major Giberne and others, has been translated into Malayalim), and the Hebrew New Testament.

Statistics of crime in relation to the Christian communities.

Archdeacon Caley noticed in the Travancore Administration Report for the year 1893–4 a classification of persons, according to their creed, who had been accused before the magistrates during the year, in which the following rates were given:—Hindus, 1 to 66; Christians, 1 to 47; Mohammedans, 1 to 29. The great bulk of the Christians in Travancore are Roman Catholics and Syrian, and the Archdeacon was anxious to ascertain whether the very unsatisfactory figure which the report attaches to Christians was even approximately correct of those connected with the C.M.S. He therefore, with the Bishop's consent, obtained a return relating to all the C.M.S. Christians in Travancore (1) of all the persons accused, (2) of those convicted, and (3) the sentences passed upon the latter. The following is his presentation of the results, as supplied by the Archdeacon to the Madras Mail:—

Total number of Christians and catechumens connected with the C.M.S. in Travancore in 1893-4, 27,641. Number of persons charged in 1893-4 before a magistrate, 51, or 1 in 542. Number of persons convicted, 16, or 1 in 1,727. Sentences:—1, One month's simple imprisonment for theft; 2, two months' rigorous imprisonment for misappropriation of Devaswami timber; 3, fine of Rs. 125 for assault (this person is a policeman); 4, fine of Rs. 5 for theft; 5, whipping (6 lashes) for theft; 6, fine of Rs. 7 for assault; 7 and 8, fine and imprisonment for two months for assault; 9, one month's simple imprisonment for assault; 10, 11, and 12, fine of Rs. 5 for personal insult; 13, 14, 15, and 16, one month's simple imprisonment each for theft. There is an enormous difference between 1 in 47 and 1 in 542. When, however, only 1 in 1,727 is a proved transgressor of the law, we may, I think, thank God and take courage.

Archdeacon Caley's remarks on the spiritual state of the Native Christians connected with the Society in his Annual Letter are of special importance. He says:—

Christianity not only to do people good, but to make them good.

The conditions for work are greatly changed from what they were formerly. The message the first missionaries brought to the people was capable of being considered as an abstract question. Of course there was a low type of Christianity in the country, but the first missionaries could say that what they themselves represented was so very different from what was daily seen that there was scarcely any kinship between the two. Now things are changed. Our message to-day is not judged by what is heard, but by what is seen. It is judged, and ought to be judged, by its fruit and not by its profession. But even in judging by fruit there is a danger lest the religion of Jesus Christ should suffer at the hands of both the Hindus and ourselves. The Hindus would be tolerably well satisfied with a religion that does people good, and we Christians are in danger of accepting the same standard. When we are dealing with the depressed classes, this aspect of the question comes into such prominence that we are in danger of forgetting what is really the sum and substance of the Gospel of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ. He came not merely to do people good, but to make them good. The former is only utilitarianism, the latter is Christianity. "I am come that ye might have life, and that ye might have it more abundantly." Utilitarianism will never win India for Christ. But the renewed man—the "life" from within—will.

Although the Native Church is far from being what she might be, and ought to be, still I am certain there is, in many places, a great improvement.

During the year I have seen a great deal of our people, and of many of the Syrians as well, and I am quite sure there is an extensive awakening and a great spiritual warfare going on. There were never so many prayer-meetings as now. Never so much reading of the Word of God as now. Never so many voluntary preachers as now. Never such a thirsting for spiritual instruction as now. Any man who can and will deal with sin and its remedy can always have congregations that will listen to him as long as he has strength or inclination to go on. Short sermons are not popular; long ones, with plenty in them, are what vast numbers like. And yet there are things that are painful. That dreadful sin of lying is not feared as it ought to be. Crookedness is continually met with even in those who show much earnestness in spiritual things. Large numbers are Jacob-like and tricky. They have not gained the reputation amongst the Hindus of being scrupulously just. Over and over again we have to rebuke by quoting, "He that doeth righteousness is righteous."

An extensive awakening.

Short sermons not popular.

Although I have never met Mr. David, the Tamil evangelist, I have during the last six months seen a great deal of those who came under his influence, and have no hesitation in saying that no man has ever roused the people as he has done. I have long thought that India will be finally won by India's sons; and when we see the wonderful power Mr. David has had in swaying thousands and thousands, it requires no effort to believe it. Depend upon it, men will rise in the Native Church, and perhaps at no very distant date, who will rouse the whole of India from end to end. When we get our Christian Sankara Acharyas, European missionaries will have to act as brakes to check the speed when crossing dangerous ground. It is those who follow after a revival that have the best means of gauging it. What I have found is that a great many have been brought to see themselves as condemned sinners, and then to realize their full and free forgiveness by accepting God's Word that Christ has died to set them free. Mr. David's teaching is more objective than is generally found amongst Evangelical men. He is so afraid of their looking inwardly instead of looking to Christ, that I think he almost exaggerates the objective side. The subjective side, indicated by "The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit that we are the children of God," is, as far as I can make out, looked upon as a probable snare. Further, Mr. David holds and teaches that Romans vii. does not describe the experience of a converted but of an unconverted man. From that teaching controversies have sprung, and a resisting of the Word of God. His attacks, too, on the sacramental system of the Syrian Church were not always wise, giving occasion as they did for the charge of irreverence. Still, there has been a wonderful stirring, and many have passed into a clearer light, and live in an assurance of God's forgiveness to which before they were strangers.

Mr. David's remarkable influence over the people.

The reader will have recognized in the Tamil evangelist, referred to in the above extract, the one whose work in Bengal and at Ootacamund has been already described (see supra, pages 176 and 251). The words spoken by him and his companion, Mr. Wadsworth, among the congregations of the Syrian Church, and also among those of the Society in the Tiruwella district, were manifestly accompanied with power from on High. The special object of their visit to Travancore was to conduct Missions wherever they might be invited in the principal Syrian churches, beginning at Trevandrum in the south and working northward. In February they were in Tiruwella, and the Rev. J. H. Bishop invited them to hold special services in the C.M.S. church, after those in the Syrian church in the place had concluded, which they did from February 17th to 22nd. Two services were held daily in the church, with congregations varying in number between 1,000 and 2,000, including a great number of Syrians and a few Hindus. On the Sunday morning it was necessary to hold an overflow meeting for women only in the boys' school. On the 21st, Perenturatti, an out-station, was visited. On the last day, the 22nd, a consecration meeting for the Mission workers was held. Mr. Bishop's own testimony to the teaching and methods of the preachers and to the blessing which accompanied their labours must be quoted at some length. He says:—

They are both men full of faith and of the Holy Spirit, thoroughly versed in the Word of God, have had considerable experience in evangelistic work, and speak with remarkable simplicity, without any attempt at human eloquence, but with great power, fearlessly exposing and denouncing sin, common native sins, in such a way that few Europeans, however experienced, could ever attain to, such as lying, quarrelling, vanity of dress or jewels, caste pride, love of money, unkindness to wife, self-righteousness, trust in ordinances, lip-worship, pilfering, fraud in trade, false witness, impurity, &c.

"People never seem to get tired."

Both the evangelists speak in English, but as Malayalam is somewhat like Tamil, they detect a mistake instantly, and have it corrected. Their addresses are very long, and the people never seem to get tired of hearing them, there is such a hungering and thirsting for the Word. They require two or three interpreters as a rule for each address, being full of energy and fire, and the Malayalim interpreter cannot keep it up.

Manner of conducting after-meetings.

Their preaching naturally leads up to the after-meeting or personal dealing with souls, with which they take great pains. Their method of conducting the after-meeting appeared to me so exceedingly effective, that in order to help other workers, missionaries and soul-winners who may read these lines, I shall refer to it in detail. . . . The following is an outline of the plan:—

(1) Those who, by holding up the hand, or rising from their seat, or in some other way have signified their desire to forsake sin and to come to Christ, are brought forward. They are questioned again and again as to whether they are really in earnest in wishing to forsake sin—all sin, not only some sins. They are generally asked if they have any grudge or ill-feeling against anybody. If, as is often the case, one or two admit that they have, then, will you make it up? will you forgive the party who has offended you now at once from your heart? Is the party in church? Yes. Is the party kneeling down here? Yes. Then tell him you have no ill-feeling against him: you love him from this day. This is done. Many reconciliations were thus effected, e.g., bungalow servants who were not on good terms; a man apologized to his wife, and stroked her face in token of reconciliation; two boys kissed each other. Where the offending or offended party was not in church, the seeker of salvation promised as soon as possible to go and ask his or her forgiveness. It is made very clear that as long as they are harbouring sin in their heart they cannot receive forgiveness of sin. The missioner takes a book or something in his right hand. Now, as long as I hold this book, can I grasp another book with the same hand? He tries to do so; he cannot; but as soon as he drops the book, his hand is free to pick up another book. So you must let go your sin in your heart, or you cannot receive and retain the gift of pardon.

Reconciliations effected.

A form of confession.

(2) The next point is that the inquirers are taken to Prov. xxviii. 13, 14, where they are clearly shown they must confess and forsake their sins, all of them, not covering up or making excuses for any little (?) sin. They are to confess, not to man, but to God. This is done. A short, simple form of confession is also slowly repeated after the missioner, something like the following:—"O Lord Jesus, I am a sinner; I have sinned very, very much. I am very sorry on account of my sins; I have no peace in my mind. Now I come to Thee for pardon and salvation. Amen."

(3) They are then asked if God has answered this prayer. They say "Yes." How do you know? Can you feel anything! Very often they say they can, which is shown to be deceptive. The true reason why they may know certainly that the Lord has heard and answered their prayer is 1 John v. 14: "And this is the confidence that we have in Him, that if we ask anything according to His will, he heareth us." You did not ask for money or jewels or land, which might only have made you proud, and is not according to God's Will, but to ask for forgiveness of sin is what God loves to hear, because He wants all men to be saved, and for this purpose He has sent His Son into the world.

Doctrine of the Atonement.

(4) Then the next and most important point is, How can a holy and just God forgive your sins? The doctrine of the Atonement is then put before them in a very simple way: how the Lord Jesus agreed to do the Father's will, and to take upon Himself man's sin and punishment, and so to die for man and rise again. That wonderful soul-saving verse is then repeated slowly again and again—Isaiah liii. 6. Where are your sins now? On Christ. Who put them there? Jehovah. How do you know they are on Christ and not on you? God says so. How? By His Word. Can He be untrue? He cannot. Can your sins be on Christ and also on yourself at the same time? The missioner puts a small skull-cap on his head. Where is the cap? It is on your head. Now, see! it is removed and placed on the head of another man. Where is it now? It is on that man's head. Can it be on my head and on his at the same time? It cannot. Is it on my head now? Let me see (feels with his hand). I can only feel my hair. The black cap is gone! So, my brother, your iniquity is laid upon Christ, and cannot be at the same time upon you. By question and repetition this point is made very clear, that as soon as a sinner is willing, God can forgive him, by transferring all his guilt to the Great Sin-bearer, the Lamb of God, that taketh away the sin of the world.

Assurance of pardon.

(5) Has God forgiven your sins? He can do so; but has He? The men are directed to Mark ii. 5: "Son, thy sins are forgiven thee." The women to Luke vii. 48. Now Christ is no respecter of persons—He receives all who come to Him—"Him that cometh to Me, I will in no wise cast out." Therefore, this word is for you, if you are sincere in coming to Christ and wanting to get rid of sin. Then comes the questioning. How do you know your sins are forgiven? Some say, I am not quite sure, I don't feel anything. How does the prisoner at the bar know he may go, the case against him is dismissed? If the Vakeel tell him, will He go? No. If the Peon tells him, will he believe it? No. How does he know for certain he is free? The Judge himself has pronounced sentence in his favour—the Judge has acquitted him. So he will say outside the Court, I am free, the Judge told me so. Does he feel anything to show he is free? No. He knows he is free, because of the word of the Judge; then afterwards he feels very happy. So are your sins forgiven? Yes. Do you feel they are forgiven inside? No. How do you know they are forgiven? The Lord says so. How does He say so? In His Word. Yes; is that enough for you? Yes. "Heaven and earth may pass away, but My word shall not pass away." Will you cry now? No; because the Lord has forgiven you your sins, and you know they are forgiven.

(6) What must you do now? Will you pray now for forgiveness? No. Then you must thank Him with all your heart. Now get upon your knees and just thank Him and praise: "O God, I thank thee with all my heart that Thou hast freely forgiven me all my sins for Jesus Christ's sake."

(7) A short hymn of praise follows, and the saved ones are asked whose children they are now? God's children, "because their sins are forgiven"

(1 John ii. 12). But they could not be really God's children as long as they were loving sin and living in sin. They are then urged to come to all the meetings, that they may learn how to be kept from sin, how to read the Bible, and many other important points affecting the Christian life.

Hundreds of testimonies to blessing received.

The last service in the Mission proper here took place on Thursday night. The church was crammed, all the seats having been removed that the people might sit close together. Hundreds of testimonies were given one after the other in quick succession to blessing received. Wealthy landholders, men holding Sircar posts, women, children, all testified. At last there was no time to hear more. It was now getting very late—past twelve o'clock at night. Still one more fervent appeal was made to the unsaved to come to Christ at once and get pardon and peace. No doubt the testimonies had wonderfully softened hard hearts and broken stubborn wills. Some fifty responded to this appeal, or more. A space was cleared for them. They were dealt with lovingly and faithfully in the way I have already pointed out. We did not leave the church till 2 A.M. A great many people slept in the church, as they had done before. Some of the best Syrian families were present, men and women, and several leading Cattanars (Syrian priests).

In church till 2 A.M.

Sale of Bibles enormous.

The sale of Bibles and Testaments has been enormous ; we cannot print and bind them fast enough. Every Christian is told he must have his own Bible, and if he has no money he must sell something and buy one.

"Heart full of gratitude and praise."

I write fully, because my heart is full of gratitude and praise. I have seen no spiritual work like this since the remarkable revivals at Trichur and Kunnankulam in 1885 and 1886, during the Rev. Isaac Row's and Mr. Lakshman Rau's Mission. To God be all the glory, to Whom alone it is due, and to Whom alone our Tamil evangelists ascribe all the success. I see in them no sign of self-consciousness. They have been sent here to reap, and are bringing in the sheaves. They are, however, skilful reapers. The field has been prepared by the labours of others, by the Mission Services of the Rev. T. Walker, the Winter Missioners of 1887, and other more recent similar efforts, and, above all, by the steady work of the C.M.S. in publishing the glad tidings, and by the work of the Madras Auxiliary Bible Society, by literary and educational means, by the reformation movement in the Syrian Church, undoubtedly due to the continuous gentle pressure and example of the Anglican Church. Praise and pray for our Tamil brethren, for the Syrian Church in Travancore, and for the C.M.S. Native Church.

The Missions among the Syrian congregations concluded with a special meeting for the Syrian clergy at Pattenkâwa, near Tiruwella, and a Convention at Mârâmanna. The Metran of the Syrian Church presided at the former. The Convention took place from March 8th to 18th inclusive. Mr. Bishop says of it :—

A Convention under the presidency of the Syrian Metran.

From 10,000 to 15,000 Syrian Christians and members of C.M.S. congregations were present every day. A huge pandal, or bamboo structure, was erected on the dry, sandy bed of the Rânni river, close to Mârâmanna, and opposite the great Hindu temple of Aramula. This was put up at the expense, I was told, of the Syrian Metran's brother, a wealthy man who had been greatly blessed through Mr. David's mission previously held at Mârâmanna. The Metran himself was frequently present, and opened with prayer and closed with the Benediction. He had a small platform to himself, next to a larger one to accommodate the speakers and interpreters. A gong was sounded to lull the vast multitude to silence. The people all sat on the ground. They were very quiet, patient, and attentive on the whole ; occasionally a man or woman would get excited. There were two meetings each day ; they lasted five or six hours each. The after-meetings always took a long time.

Over 20,000 at a meeting.

The Convention culminated in a vast assembly, estimated at 20,000 to 25,000, on Sunday, March 17th. That morning the evangelists and myself, who were comfortably lodged in the Metran's house, went to Mârâmanna church, and, to show our love for and sympathy with the Syrian Christians, partook of the Holy Communion. The church was crammed, hundreds of people remaining outside. When we arrived the Metran himself was preaching. He seemed much moved, and shed tears, and the people too. Mr. David, evangelist, as requested, said a few words on walking up to the light received. Forty years ago they would probably have driven the evangelists out of their churches. Now they had received light, and were eager to receive more and more spiritual life and light. I was informed that on this occasion 200 Pulayan Christians, who had been brought to Christ by the labours of the Syrian Christians, were admitted into the Church, and received the Holy Communion. Hitherto, on account of caste feeling, these poor Christians had not been admitted into any of the Syrian churches, but the strong and faithful denunciation of caste prejudice among Christians by the evangelists had begun to tell, and showed itself in this very practical way.

Reception of Pulayan Christians

COTTAYAM AND PALLAM.

Cambridge Nicholson Institution.

The Cambridge Nicholson Institution at COTTAYAM is under the Rev. J. J. Beauchamp Palmer, who is assisted by five Native Christian lay teachers. Eleven students were in the Divinity Class, five of them belonging to the Syrian Church. Two other members of the Syrian Church joined at the close of the year with a view to studying for the Oxford and Cambridge Preliminary Theological Examination. The divinity students went out twice on preaching trips, once to Alwaye and to the Shiva Ratri festival in February, 1895, and once to the festival at Ochira near Puthupalli in June, and they also preached in Cottayam near the temple or in the market-place once a week. Some of the senior boys conduct Bible-classes on Sundays for the juniors. The Normal Department of the Institution was under the management of Mr. P. J. Abraham, B.A., who passed his Licentiate in Teaching Examination during the year. The Travancore Government made a liberal grant of Rs. 72 per mensem to the Normal School in recognition of the good work it does in helping forward education. Eight of the students obtained their Madras certificates. The senior teacher in the Practising School is Mr. N. W. John, who was baptized in May, 1895, by Archdeacon Koshi in Cottayam Church. He is a member of an influential Nair family of Eringalakuda, near Trichur. Mr. Palmer says regarding the circumstances of his conversion:—

A Nair convert.

He is a well-read, thoughful man, who has been a good deal influenced by Western culture, and has acquired habits of study. Through books lent him by the Roman Catholics his mind was first arrested by Christianity, but he sought for some more perfect representation of it than their lives and teaching gave. Our bookshop in Trichur attracted him, and through its superintendent, and particularly one of the masters of the High School, he was greatly helped, and received instruction regularly by night at the Mission bungalow, from Mr. Bower, for about eighteen months. At last he was called to confess Christ at once, rather than to wait indefinitely and in vain for his wife to come with him. I brought him with me to Cottayam at the end of the hot season vacation. His greatest grief is that he fears his wife's relations will claim his children, according to the customs of the Nair families. But his faith is very strong and bright, and in his spiritual life he is happy. He was confirmed at the end of last term, with two others from the senior, and nine from the junior classes of the Institution. During the vacation following he paid a visit to his aged mother, who was reported to be raving mad from grief at his embracing the Christian faith (for he is the only son), and also to his wife and children; and was not a little comforted.

Mission Press.

The Mission Press is under Mr. Palmer's supervision, and he reports very satisfactorily of it under Mr. John Chandy, its native superintendent. It gives employment to seventy men, with whom the Rev. T. K. Benjamin holds a prayer-meeting once a fortnight.

Cottayam College.

The College, under the Rev. F. N. Askwith, passed 32 in the Lower Secondary out of 58 sent in; nine in the Matriculation out of 36; and seven in the F.A. out of 12. All the 17 candidates for the Peter Cator Lower Grade Examination were successful, two receiving prizes. There are 315 boys in the College; the boarding school is full to overflowing. Mr. Askwith has revived the old "College Association," the members of which conduct weekly prayer-meetings and open-air preaching, and take classes in Sunday-schools. It is, indeed, a condition of membership to attend the prayer-meetings and to be ready to do work when called upon in one or other of the afore-mentioned evangelistic efforts. Many of the boys benefited spiritually from a visit paid to the College by Mr. David, the Tamil evangelist.

Girls' School.

The Girls' School has 72 boarders and the same number of day-scholars. Two of the girls passed the Lower Secondary Examination. Miss M. F. Baker found it a great convenience that the examinations were, for the first time, held at Cottayam; and also that a primary examination has been sanctioned, through the Rev. E. Bellerby's influence, to be held at Cottayam, there having previously been no centre in Travancore for examination in this standard.

Buchanan Institution.

The Buchanan Institution at PALLAM is now recognized by the Madras Education Department as a Normal School for training and granting certificates to female teachers in the Lower Secondary and Primary grades. There are 97 boarders and 39 day-pupils on the rolls. Three of the girls passed the Lower Secondary out of four who tried; and nine passed the Primary out of ten who tried. One of the girls, the daughter of a deceased native clergyman, appeared for the Lower Grade Peter Cator Examination—the first female candidate, Mr. Bellerby believes, from Travancore. A vernacular class was opened during the year for the wives of agents, to give them instruction in the Bible, and also in needlework, elementary arithmetic, &c. One of the students who had been under training was engaged as an assistant mistress, and three others were placed in branch schools, of which there are ten, with 468 children. Ninety of the girls are members of the Young People's Scripture Union, and fifty are Gleaners.

ALLEPIE.

Allepie. The Rev. W. J. Richards, on his return from furlough in the summer of 1895, was assigned to ALLEPIE, his old station. The district under his charge contains a population of 220,000. The loose, sandy soil is particularly fatiguing to the pedestrian—at least to the Europeans, the Natives do not find it so. Two native evangelists are constantly itinerating among the people. The Bishop confirmed 64 candidates in September. Four lepers also were confirmed. A new congregation was begun at Kynakeri. Mr. Richards states that two congregations of Roman Catholics in the neighbourhood of Cannanore, three or four days' journey from Allepie, through reading the Bible, joined the Syrians for greater liberty.

TIRUWELLA.

Tiruwella. The Rev. A. F. Painter took charge of TIRUWELLA from the Rev. J. H. Bishop in July, 1895, and remained there till illness eventually drove him home in February, 1896. Writing in October, he bore testimony to the effects of the work of Messrs. David and Wadsworth eight months before, to which reference has been made (supra, pages 271, 272). "Some Syrian cattanars," he says, "have been wonderfully stirred up. The Mission has been a proof of how much more can be done by trusty, sanctified native workers than by foreigners, and ought to make us more prayerful that such may be raised up." It will have been noticed, however, that Messrs. David and Wadsworth were themselves foreigners, and spoke through interpreters; but as Orientals they possess the advantage over Europeans to which Mr. Painter refers, and that such men may be raised up in whom the Spirit dwells should be the earnest and constant prayer of all who desire to see a marked advance in the evangelization of Eastern lands. Mr. Painter's remarks about the temporal condition of those who form many of the congregations in Tiruwella deserve to be recorded:—

Poverty of Pulayan congregations. Many of the congregations are very poor. In the western parts converts from the depressed classes of many years (and indeed the depressed classes as a whole) are worse off than they now are in the Mundakayam district. Nearly the whole country is under cultivation, and very few of these classes have land of their own to live on, and they are practically the slaves of their masters. Public roads are very few, and small village roads are closed to them. The great Syrian Church has had a splendid opportunity of raising and protecting them, but it has altogether failed. Living amongst the Heathen, they have, in this respect, learned their ways. With few exceptions, they treat these poor people as defiled, and drive them from the roads, keep them at a distance from their houses, and will not suffer a convert from them to enter their churches. Thus they have helped to degrade them to their present wretched state. Alas! among our own people in the South there are many who will not allow a convert from these lower classes to worship with them or receive the Lord's Supper. So treating Christ, in the persons of those who believe in Him and in whom He dwells, do we wonder that spiritual life is very low? Mr. Bishop, by wise and kind firmness, overcame the opposition at Puwattur and Kaviur, and now on Communion Sundays the poorer brethren from out-stations attend service in the mother-church and draw near to the Holy Table with others.

The Vernacular Normal School and Girls' Boarding School which Mr. Bishop opened in 1894 Mr. Painter regarded as full of promise. The mistress in the latter was one of the first trained in the Buchanan Institution, and is a very capable teacher.

ETTAMANUR ITINERANCY.

Ettamanur Itinerancy.

The above name has not previously appeared in the Society's Reports. It was given by the Missionary Conference in June, 1895, to the district in which the work among the Hill Arrians is carried on, increased somewhat by the addition of two taluqs from the Alwaye Itinerancy. The Rev. A. F. Painter's health obliged him to resign the charge of this feverish district in July, 1895, after thirteen years of happy work among the people. The Rev. C. A. Neve succeeded him, keeping charge also of Peer Maed. It was noticed last year that this district was reduced by the transfer of Mundakayam and some out-stations to form a new pastorate in connexion with the Cottayam Church Council. A further transfer was made at the end of the year for the same purpose of Mankompu, over which the Rev. P. A. Samuel, who was ordained in December, has been appointed the pastor, he having worked at Mankompu almost from the time when the work was opened there in 1882. Old readers of the Intelligencer who recall the striking passages in Mr. Painter's journal of that year (see C.M. Intelligencer for 1883, page 561), telling of the wonderful ingathering from among the Hill Arrians of Mankompu and the neighbourhood, will appreciate the following reference to some of the first converts:—

The "Philippian congregation of the district."

Death of early converts at Mankompu.

Of the Mankompu people I can say with deep thankfulness that I "thank my God upon every remembrance of them all." They have been the Philippian congregation of the district. By a curious coincidence Mêkall ai Curean (the former devil-priest of Atakkam), who was the first to come forward and declare his readiness to become a Christian on that day when the first converts joined us at Mankompu, died just about the time I resigned the charge. He had suffered much from his family, who remained Heathen, and from others, but remained steadfast in faith, joyful through hope. He often said, "Jesus Christ is my all, Sahib, and I shall see Him in heaven." Another convert of that same day, Konakel Sara, died about the same time. She, too, was a devoted Christian, much respected by all. Soon after she became a catechumen she lost the sight of one eye, and it was feared the other was going. The Heathen said it was a punishment for forsaking the worship of their ancestors and pichachas, but she never wavered. "If it pleases God," she said, "for me to be blind, it must be right, and in Heaven I shall have sight again." Happily one eye recovered, and she was bright and active to the last, and, though old, most regular in attending services. She grew daily in knowledge and grace. The death of two sons, both godly young men, and her husband, were great sorrows, but they only drew her nearer to God. These, with others who truly loved and served God, lie in the little Mankompu cemetery. One rejoices to think of them as safe at home.

A liberal giver.

At Kanam one of those who bade farewell to Mr. Painter was old Patros Moopen, a Christian of the lowest caste, but distinguished for his liberality (see Annual Report for 1892–3, page 165). He has given over Rs. 350 altogether—a wonderful sum for such a man, Mr. Painter truly says. At Pampady the numbers increased slightly during the year, and the Bishop confirmed 64 candidates there in November. Meenatam, one of its out-stations, has some 300 adherents. Reviewing the thirteen years (excepting twenty months' furlough) of his work in this district, Mr. Painter says :—

Progress among Hill Arrians in thirteen years.

I look back over those years with unfeigned gratitude and thankfulness to God for His great goodness. In spite of sin and shortcoming and want of faith, He made them years of happy work and abundant blessing. New stations were opened, thirteen of which promise to become settled congregations. The numbers increased from about 800 to about 3,000, and contributions increased fivefold. With the help of kind friends in England, teachers' houses have been built in most stations, old and new, five new churches built, and two completed. Land has also been obtained in most stations. The people have in most cases contributed liberally, and given free labour in collecting materials, &c. Of the band of teachers who were gathered together as the work increased—some of whom the very kind help of friends in England enabled me to support—I can write thankfully ; of several most thankfully, who met difficulties unweariedly and cheerfully, and strove to win souls for Christ and build them up.

In the PEER MAED district a new out-station was opened at Thambalakadu, of which Mr. Neve writes :—

Earnest inquirers.

It is a place about three miles off the main road, where hitherto nothing has been done. The desire to become Christians seems to have been awakened by one or two Christian converts who had come and stayed in the place. I found that the people had put up a neat prayer-shed. Sixty or seventy of them met together on the Sunday, and the next morning about the same number joined in the harvest thanksgiving service, bringing their offerings of vegetables and paddy. The value of their offerings amounted to about Rs. 4. Considering that no permanent teacher has yet been appointed, and that here, as everywhere, the people are very poor, this shows an amount of sincerity and earnestness.

The prayer-shed mentioned in the above quotation was subsequently burnt down, it was suspected by opponents, but the people rebuilt it more substantially than before. The Rev. M. Nallathamby states that the native population of Peer Maed is about 5,000. There are nine schools, some of which are supported by private friends and by planters. Miss A. Baker supports a school for Aorali boys, children belonging to one of the Hill tribes. Twelve adults were baptized.

ALWAYE ITINERANCY.

Alwaye Itinerancy.

In February Bishop Hodges dedicated a new church at Alwaye, confirmed eight candidates, and licensed a lay reader. There are five schools in the district, two of them being English schools with Government recognition. The Rev. T. K. Ninan was transferred in September from Koothattakulam to the pastorate of Mundakayam, under the Church Council. The Rev. C. E. R. Romilly is in charge of the district, but its area has been somewhat reduced by the transfer of two taluqs, including the out-stations of Kathampakkal and Korîkkala, to the Ettamanur district.

COCHIN: TRICHUR AND KUNNANKULAM.

Trichur.

The Rev. F. and Mrs. Bower, on leaving TRICHUR in May, 1895, received many touching evidences of the affection of the people. The Rev. J. J. Beauchamp Palmer, of Cottayam, who was at Trichur at the time, wrote:—

General sorrow on a missionary's departure.

> Feelings of regard and attachment were universally shown in actions and expressed in words, not by our own people only, but also by the leaders of the Hindu communities in Trichur and Tattamangalam, and those of the Syrian community in Kunnankulam; and amongst our own people, not by the well-to-do and Mission agents only, but also by the poor. Old and young, men and women, vied with each other, it would almost seem, to see who could express most fully the sorrow they felt at the approaching departure of their friends.

The Rev. J. H. Bishop was transferred to Trichur from Tiruwella in July, after an interval of a little over eight years since he left it and was invalided home in 1887. He observed with pleasure the marks of progress made during his absence, the restored churches in Trichur and Kunnankulam, the girls' boarding-school raised to the "Lower Secondary" standard, a building for the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A., &c. Bishop Hodges held an ordination service at Trichur in March, 1895, the first which had ever been held there. Over 1,000 persons were present. The candidates were Messrs. T. K. Benjamin, B.A., and K. T. Koshi. The Bishop confirmed 85 candidates during the same visit; and Mr. Bower, before he left, baptized two adults, one of them a high-caste Hindu, who was servant to a rich Namburi Brahman. Evangelistic preaching in the Nadakâwa, or principal thoroughfare of the high-caste quarter, is often interrupted by the boys of the Government High School, "the fruit," Mr. Bishop fears, "of a merely secular education, which seems to destroy all reverence or respect for authority, human or divine." Miss Coleman, Miss E. Coleman, and Miss Chettle of the C.E.Z.M.S., superintend a dispensary, industrial school, &c., at Trichur. The Rev. T. Koshi says that many of the Christians belonging to the Kunnankulam congregation have migrated to Calicut, Palghat, and Kodakal for the sake of employment under the Basle Mission, which has industrial stations at those places. A boundary question has arisen between the Society just named and the C.M.S. regarding Chittur. The intricacies of the question at issue are well stated by Mr. Bishop:—

Chittur.

Though Chittur is Cochin territory, and in the Diocese of Travancore and Cochin, it is isolated from the rest of the State, and is surrounded by British territory, where our brethren of the Basle Mission have stations. We must pass through German Mission stations to reach it. On the other hand, British territory comes within six miles of Kunnankulam, and a strip runs along the sea coast almost as far south as the British town of Cochin. In this territory we have always worked. I recently visited Chittur, and was much struck with the beauty of the country, and opportunities for Gospel work. It is a rich valley lying between two lofty ranges of hills, and full of high-caste Hindus. Mr. Job, an able evangelist, is in charge of the work there, which has been opened out by Mr. Bower at some considerable expense, and not without difficulty. The staff consists of two evangelists, two Bible-women, and two schoolmistresses for the caste girls' school. They all live, together with their families, in the mission-house at Tattamangalam, and appear to be united, happy, and hopeful in the work. The people of Chittur are very superstitious. But the Gospel has been, and is being, preached with power. Mr. Job informs me that inquirers after salvation naturally find their way to the large German Mission stations at Palghat or Kodakal, where they find work provided for them and protection. Mr. Job calculates that about twenty have thus gone since he has been there.

CEYLON MISSION.

This Mission was commenced in 1817 among Singhalese and Tamils, the two races (with distinct languages) forming the population of the Island. For the Singhalese population work was begun at Kandy in 1818: at Baddêgama, 1819; at Cotta, 1822; and at Kurunêgala, 1880. For work among the Tamils Jaffna was occupied in 1818; Colombo, 1852; and the Tamil Coolie Mission was begun in 1855.

The morality of Buddhism.

A CORRESPONDENCE appeared in the pages of the Indian Statesman in the autumn of 1894 between a chaplain in the Bengal Establishment, the Rev. Graham Sandberg, and the Editor of the Indian World, Dr. J. Bowles Daly, on the subject of the Morality of Buddhism. The latter gentleman is an LL.D. of Trinity College, Dublin. He has for many years past identified himself with Buddhism, and in the correspondence referred to above he endeavoured to prove that "the books of Buddhism set forth teaching identical with that laid down by Christ in His Sermon on the Mount." An article on the subject of this correspondence by the Rev. John Ireland Jones, formerly of the Ceylon Mission, and now James Long Lecturer on Buddhism, appeared in the C.M. Intelligencer for August, 1895, the following paragraphs from which afford convincing testimony both as to the morality inculcated and the morality practised among Buddhists. Mr. Ireland Jones writes:—

As Dr. Daly takes his stand on Buddhism as a whole, it is certainly permissible to refer to books which are by Buddhists included in their "canon," and looked on as containing authoritative teaching with reference to the subjects of which they treat. Such a book is the "Sadharmmaratnakáré," containing much information as to the rites of the system, and defining the sins which Buddha forbids. The following is the teaching of this book on the subject of untruthfulness: "Four things are necessary to constitute a lie: (1) There must be the utterance of the thing that is not; (2) There must be the knowledge that it is not; (3) There must be some endeavour to prevent the person addressed from learning the truth; (4) There must be the discovery by the person deceived that what has been told him is not true"! There is here, then, the distinct teaching that if a man only succeeds in lying so cleverly that he can escape detection, he is not to be accounted guilty of having lied at all. And this is the morality which is placed in comparison with that taught by Christ!

Deceit and lying sanctioned if undetected.

For the Buddhist priesthood are laid down rules of great particularity and stringency. They, in the system, stand above the gods, and receive and accept the worship of the laity. It may well be expected that a code of morality so high in tone as that which Dr. Daly extols, would, especially in a class regarded as superior to ordinary mortals, produce commensurate results. Whether that expectation is realized no one can better judge than Dr. Daly himself, and his testimony on the subject is most valuable. He has recently occupied in Ceylon the position of "Commissioner," under Government, to examine into the working of the "Buddhist Temporalities Ordinance," an Act which, thanks to Lord Stanmore—then Sir Arthur Gordon—constitutes Buddhism the only "established" religion in the island. He claims to have visited in four years about 1,300 of the pansalas, or monasteries, so that he is enabled to speak from large personal experience, and is certainly entitled to be heard. His report to Government, which lies before me, is a very remarkable document; no more striking commentary could have been written on the morality of Buddhism from its practical side. No writer with whom

I am acquainted has drawn a darker picture of the Buddhist priesthood as a whole, or has been more scathing in denunciation of their dishonesty, untruthfulness, and general depravity. Not only in the opinion of this candid Buddhist does "brutal stagnation of mind prevail in the monasteries"; language seems hardly strong enough to describe the corruption existing on every side. Of one pansala his report is: "Its funds are mismanaged, and a system of wholesale fraud is being perpetrated." Of another he says: "This temple is scandalously mismanaged; its monks, four in number, are idle and depraved." A third temple had "procured for itself a terrible notoriety" through the use of poison for the removal of troublesome claimants of its property. And these are but specimens. Other portions of the report are more gross still, and refer to abominations which forbid mention. It must certainly be a strong effort to dissociate the theoretical from the practical which enables this outspoken Doctor still to profess his faith in Buddhism, and to proclaim and strenuously uphold its superior morality! The Buddhist priesthood.

The missionaries added to the staff during the year were the Rev. Robert W. Ryde, M.A., Jesus College, Cambridge, assistant-master of Monkton Combe School, Bath, who was admitted to deacon's orders by the Bishop of London on October 6th, 1895; and the Misses Harriet Ellen Finney, Mary Sophia Gedge, Emily Loveridge, and Caroline Noble Luxmore. All these sailed in October. Major Matheson, who visited Ceylon from Burmah in the summer of 1895, where he was stationed, was led, soon after his return to Burmah, to offer his services as a honorary missionary in local connexion. As his duties prevented his visiting Ceylon again previous to his acceptance for the usual interviews, the Committee sanctioned his being invited to go thither for six months on probation, with the view to his being subsequently accepted. The Rev. S. Coles returned to the Mission in June, 1895. Mr. S. M. Simmons came home in September, 1895, and Mrs. R. T. Dowbiggin in April, 1896, on account of her daughter's ill-health. Reinforcements.

The Rev. John Davies Thomas was called to his heavenly rest, after an illness of several months, on April 20th, 1896. Mr. Thomas was the son of the late Rev. John Thomas, for some thirty-four years a missionary at Mengnanapuram, in Tinnevelly, and of Mrs. Thomas, who still resides and labours at Mengnanapuram. He was born in Tinnevelly in 1839, and educated at the C.M. Children's Home and the Islington Proprietary School. In 1863 he was ordained deacon, and sailed in September with his father to Tinnevelly, with whom he laboured at Mengnanapuram until his father's death in 1870. He was in England from 1873 to 1876, and held the curacy of St. John's, Deptford. On his return to India in the latter year he was located at St. Thomas' Mount, Madras. In 1881 he was appointed Diocesan Secretary of the S.P.C.K. and Chaplain to the Military Female Asylum and the Railway at Peramboor by the Bishop of Madras. In 1882 he again visited England, and was teacher of Tamil in the University of Oxford. Mr. Thomas was transferred to the Tamil Coolie Mission in Ceylon in 1886, but latterly the sphere Death of Rev. J. D. Thomas, of his labours was Colombo, he being no longer equal to the physical exertion involved in visiting the estates. He visited England in 1893–4, and his health began to fail soon after he returned. He wrote in November :—

I should be no better at home or anywhere else, as my ailment is constitutional, and is not apparently in any way affected by weather or climate. No human physician can do me any good, nor can his medicines in any way touch or relieve me. The Lord alone can heal me, and I am in His hand.

and of Rev. P. Peter.

The Rev. P. Peter, who was a co-labourer for a time with Mr. Thomas in the Tamil Coolie Mission and at Colombo, and for whom the latter entertained very great affection and regard, died on June 15th, 1895.

Merciful escape of Rev. E. T. Higgens.

The Rev. E. T. Higgens, the Secretary of the Mission, had a most merciful escape a few weeks after his return to Ceylon in May, 1895. He wrote :—

I was going up the broad road which leads to Borella, where Mr. Thomas lives (Slave Island Road) in a rickshaw, when one of the country mail-coaches, with a pair of half-broken horses, came out of the coach stable-yard. As soon as they got into the road the horses swerved suddenly round and came right upon me, knocking over and smashing the rickshaw, and the coach and horses seemed to me to pass right over me. I was lying close to the heels of the horses, which were plunging about, but, thank God, did not kick out. I seemed to feel that there must be injury for life or a sharp passage into the Kingdom. When I got clear and stood upon my feet I could scarcely believe my senses when I found myself, by the Lord's great mercy, perfectly uninjured, with the exception of a slight scratch on my forehead. Truly the word of promise is sure, "He shall give His angels charge over thee to keep thee in all thy ways." May the life which the Lord has so graciously preserved be indeed consecrated to His service. The poor rickshaw man, like myself, was graciously preserved, and escaped with only a cut on one hand. To the Lord be all the praise.

Mr. Higgens visited Kaegala, Kurunegala, Jaffna, Kandy, and Baddêgama, and much encouraged the brethren and sisters.

I. WESTERN AND SOUTHERN PROVINCES.

COLOMBO.

Colombo.

COLOMBO is a large and prosperous city, as the immense growth and ever-increasing expansion of its trade indicates. The total tonnage of the port increased from 1,300,000 in 1880 to 5,328,000 in 1895. The Rev. A. E. Dibben reports an increasing English Congregation at Galle Face Church, and ever-growing interest on their part in the missionary work carried on in Colombo and in the Island generally. Annually about Rs. 3,000 is contributed towards the Society's work ; the salary of a catechist working among the Portuguese is also given, and a day-school for poor children is supported. The congregation subscribed nearly Rs. 3,000 for repairs and alterations to the fabric of the church during the year. The work among the poor Portuguese was attended with blessing. Mr. Dibben administered the Holy Communion monthly for their benefit in the schoolroom, where the services are held, as they were reluctant to appear at church in their shabby clothes. The supervision of the Tamil Work was divided between the Revs. J. D. Thomas and G. T. Fleming, until the former's growing ill-health obliged him to desist altogether from work. The Rev. R. Virasinghe has succeeded the late Rev. S. Samuel at Slave Island, where the boys' school has 150 on the roll, a large proportion of whom are Malays and by religion Mohammedans. A girls' school was opened by Miss B. Child during the year, intended for Mohammedan girls, but attended mostly by Hindus. A mothers' meeting is held in this school. Miss Child visits the homes of the Mohammedan women. She says:—

"I have forgotten nothing, it has all been kept in my heart."

One of the most interesting things that has taken place in connexion with the Mohammedan house-visiting has been the reopening of a house that had been closed for nearly two years because a young girl had confessed her faith in Christ. Her books were taken from her, and she was beaten by her father; but still she stood firm, and at last the father has relented, and allows her to be taught again. The girl's joy was unbounded, and she said, "I have forgotten nothing, it has all been kept in my heart." The last time I saw her she said how much she was looking forward to Christ's coming, and how very glad she would be to see Him. This is an old pupil of Miss Eva Young. In another house a girl asked, "What can I do to show I love Jesus?"

She speaks of an encouraging work also among the higher caste Hindu Tamils. A new church was built during the year in Maradana, a crowded part of Colombo. A mothers' meeting has been commenced in this district by Mrs. Fleming and Miss E. S. Young. Miss C. C. Forbes pursued her language studies. Mr. Dibben gave Lectures to English-speaking Tamils, which were attended by Christians, Sivites, and Mohammedans. The Singhalese Work in Colombo is partly pastoral and partly evangelistic. The former is under the Cotta District Council, of which the Rev. R. T. Dowbiggin is chairman. Mr. Joseph Pereira is the pastoral catechist, who ministers to congregations worshipping at St. Luke's Church, Maradana, and at Christ Church, Galle Face. The evangelistic work among the Singhalese is under the Rev. E. T. Higgens. Preaching is regularly conducted in the streets, and there are two girls' schools with 160 pupils. In one of these, at Kollanawe (spelt Collonawa in last year's Report), some eight or ten girls still desire to be baptized, but are prevented by their parents. Mr. Higgens is quite sure they are true believers in the Lord Jesus Christ. Though kept back from baptism, they are permitted to attend the Sunday service. Mrs. and the Misses Higgens visit the houses with the Bible-women, and four inmates of the Victoria Home for Incurables were baptized. Miss A. Higgens writes:—

Singhalese work.

Inquirers kept back by parents from baptism.

Cripples baptized.

The baptism was a touching sight, for with the exception of the eldest, a girl about twenty, who is a servant of the matron, the other three were cripples. The eldest of these, a boy about seventeen years of age, has, we are glad to find, been trying to teach another youth in the "Home" the way of salvation. The next was a boy about ten, and the youngest a little girl of eight or nine, hunchbacked and lame, but looking the picture of happiness as she stood between her godmothers, two Singhalese ladies who visit the Home with me.

Evangelistic work in the prisons has been affected disadvantageously by a new rule forbidding ministers of religion to speak to any prisoners other than those of their own religion. "The regulation," Mr. Higgens says, "practically shuts the door to our work, for we do not find our people in the prisons." Mr. Dibben has prepared Lessons on the Life of our Lord, by Mr. Eugene Stock, for translation into Singhalese, and they are being issued in monthly parts by the Christian Literature Society—the first systematic attempt, Mr. Dibben believes, to furnish Singhalese Sunday-school teachers with lesson-sketches in their own language.

Lesson sketches for Singhalese Sunday-school teachers.

COTTA.

Cotta.

The Rev. R. T. Dowbiggin has been privileged to complete twenty-five years of service in the COTTA district, and he surveys the past year in the light of this fact with mingled feelings, but with a heart full of praise and thanksgiving. The contributions of the five Pastorates to the Council Fund amounted to Rs. 3,154, an increase of Rs. 139 over the previous year, and representing an average of Rs. 3.25 for each adult member of the congregations. In the Cotta and Nugegoda pastorate the Rev. G. S. Amarasékara enrolled 250 as members of a Scripture Union. A Sunday-school committee manages eleven Sunday-schools. A Missionary Society and a Total Abstinence Society are parts of the parochial organization. Mr. T. G. Perera, pastoral catechist over the Tanangama and Welikada pastorate, conducts with the assistance of voluntary helpers eight services and Bible-classes every Sunday, and four prayer-meetings on week-days. This pastorate increased its contributions by Rs. 171. Of the late Rev. W. L. Boteju, who had charge of the Mampe pastorate, and whose death in May, 1895, was mentioned in last year's Report, Mr. Dowbiggin writes:—

Pastorates.

Piety and fidelity of the late Rev. W. L. Boteju.

> He had laboured in connexion with the C.M.S. for at least forty years, and for more than half of that time had been associated with me in the Cotta district. He was emphatically a good man, of deep, earnest piety, and trustworthy, and dependable in all that he undertook. To have worked all these years in close connexion with such a man was to trust him in no ordinary degree, and to rely upon him to the utmost. And most loyally and unselfishly did he respond to the confidence placed in him. I leaned on him as a right hand, and I have mourned his loss and missed him much. He was suddenly taken ill on May 6th, and passed away peacefully on the morning of the 13th.

Mr. W. E. Boteju, eldest son of the late pastor, succeeded to his father's work, and endeavours to carry it on in the same spirit and on the same lines, "but," he says, "the ripe judgment and the long experience of my father, together with a multitude of other things so essential to the work of a large pastorate, are no more." He has seventeen Sunday-schools under his charge. The Colombo pastorate has been reported on under "Colombo." A fifth pastorate was formed during the year for Lujanwala, under Mr. Charles Wijesinha, whose father commenced evangelistic work in the same locality over twenty years ago, and has now passed on to evangelize the villages around Labugama Mountain. The congregation numbers seventy adults, and there are nine schools.

Schools.

The total number of Schools in the Cotta district is sixty, with 1,921 boys and 1,606 girls. Mrs. Dowbiggin's Girls' Boarding School, with 54 girls, has done, and is doing, a great work for the Singhalese Church. A few heathen girls are now and then admitted, and two of these were baptized during the year. The relatives of one of them are staunch Buddhists and promote a Buddhist school. A girl who was baptized in the school, and had subsequently married a catechist, died during the year, and the Rev. L. G. P. Liesching, in whose district her husband worked, was shown a paper which was found among her things containing the following texts:—Psal. xvi. 8; Provs. iii. 5, 6, xxxi. 26, 27, Eph. v. 22, vi. 4, Gal. vi. 9, 10, &c., showing that she had searched the Scriptures, and tried to fulfil its precepts in her daily life. Her Bible was marked at some of these places. A lady who resided for a short time at the Mission-house has written some of her impressions of the school and other agencies:—

School-girl converts.

Orderliness and brightness of Girls' Boarding School.

We rise betimes; the first bell rings at 5.30 A.M., and wakes us with the first grey light of early dawn; we indeed rise with the sun, but our day lasts longer than his by two or three hours. Our first impression is the orderliness of everything; we have hardly any need of clocks, we know so well how the day is passing by the different little events that each hour brings. All the girls in the boarding-school learn English; many speak it very well, and all understand a little. Another first impression here is the brightness and happiness of the girls, their freedom from all unnecessary restraint and fear; one feels that all this could not be brought about without much thought and loving care for them, and that to Mrs. Dowbiggin and her daughter, who do much of the teaching themselves, the girls will owe a life-long debt of gratitude. Ceylon ought to thank God for these Christian boarding-schools, where the daughters of her people are trained in all that will make the next generation good and great.

Then Sunday is a real Sunday. No letters come into the compound; all work is reduced to the very least that is necessary, that all may attend the services. Sunday-school begins at 8.30. It is a very large one, and so well and quietly conducted. I am privileged to have a class of sixteen English-speaking boys, and it is a pleasure to teach them.

I will only add my last "first impression"; that is, if Cotta were multiplied many times throughout the island it would not be only "Christian Cotta," but "Christian Ceylon!" The Lord hasten it in his time!

The English School, under Mr. W. De Silva, has 168 boys, namely, 80 Protestant Christians, 7 Roman Catholics, and 72 Buddhists; the average attendance is 127. Two boys were baptized, one nineteen years of age, the son of a village devil-dancer, whose conversion is ascribed to the Mission conducted in 1894 by the Rev. Martin J. Hall. Seventeen of the boys are boarders.

Of the extensive Evangelistic Efforts Mr. Dowbiggin says:—

Catechists, readers, and Bible-women are employed in this work and in various ways; and in very many places—in streets, villages, at road markets, gansabhawas, and in houses—the Word of God has been read and preached. The Bible-women have read the Scriptures to 3,993 men, 7,832 women, and 7,860 children, a total of 19,685 in the 3,128 houses visited by them. The Singhalese catechists and readers have preached to 57,551 people in the villages, bazaars, market-places, and gansabhawas. The Tamil reader, who has only been employed a short time, has preached to some 2,000 coolies, and given away 500 tracts. Fifty-four Singhalese Bibles, 33 Testaments, and 239 portions of Scripture were sold, together with 32 hymn-books and 98 prayer-books. Of Singhalese tracts at least 8,900 have been distributed, and upon the whole they have been very willingly received, and I believe read by those who took them.

Altogether eighteen adults were baptized. Hundreds of acres of forest, where elephants loved to roam, are giving place to the tea shrub. Some 1,500 Tamil coolies are at work on these estates, about one-tenth of whom are Christians, and Mr. Dowbiggin has engaged a Tamil-speaking Singhalese reader to visit the estate and go in and out among the people.

Theological Class.

The Rev. S. Coles came to England for a few weeks, arriving in March and leaving again in June, to pay a long-deferred but much-wished-for visit to his wife and children and grandchildren, whom he had not seen for nearly ten years. The students of the Theological Class during his absence engaged in evangelistic work in several districts. He requested them on his return to write down some particulars of their work, and one of them reported that, in company with a fellow-worker, he had preached to many hundreds of Buddhists, about fifty of whom were awakened to a sense of sin, and twelve were subsequently baptized by the missionary of the district. Eight students are in the class, and their studies are all carried on in Singhalese. The following is the list of subjects taught during the year:—

(a) Bible: (1) Old Testament—Genesis to 1 Samuel; (2) New Testament—Gospels of St. Matthew, Mark, and Luke; Epistles to Galatians, Ephesians, Colossians, Philemon. (b) Liturgy: (1) Book of Common Prayer to the Communion Service; XXXIX Articles. (c) Christian Evidences: Paley (about half); Buddha and His Religion. (d) Sinhalese grammar and classics. (e) Practice in preaching, teaching, and visiting. (f) Singing.

The Rev. and Mrs. H. E. Heinekey resided at Cotta for several months, in the same bungalow with Mr. Coles, and acknowledge his valued help in studying Singhalese.

BADDÊGAMA.

Baddêgama.

The district which the Rev. J. W. Balding superintends from BADDÊGAMA extends from Bentotte to Dodanduwa on the coast, about 25 miles, and inland to the Haycock Mountain, and contains a population of 125,000 Singhalese. The Baddêgama pastorate is under the Rev. J. Colombotantorige. A sum of Rs. 1,200 which was collected by the congregation was spent on various articles of church furniture, &c., and a stone with the inscription, "Bishop Heber consecrated this church 25th September, 1825," has been inserted in the west wall. The Rev. G. A. B. Perera is in charge of Balapitimodara pastorate, where he is respected by all classes and much blessed in his work. Eleven Buddhists were converted through his ministry and baptized; four of these had been educated in Mission-schools, but the other seven had received their education from Buddhist priests. Mr. David, the Tamil evangelist, and the Rev. G. Amarasékara conducted a week's Mission in the pastorate. The Dodanduwa pastorate is under the Rev. J. P. Kalpagé; it is thickly populated. Among its nine schools is one at Patuwattee with 317 children. The Sales of Books in the district were large: 70 Singhalese Bibles, 80 New Testaments, 250 gospels, 24 prayer books, 30 hymn books, 200 Catechisms of Religion; and 4,000 tracts were distributed. More than half the books were bought by Buddhists, whereas some few years ago it was impossible, Mr. Balding says, to sell a copy of the Scriptures. There are 33 Village Schools, with 2,150 scholars, and these schools are the seed-plots from which the majority of the converts spring, sometimes many years after leaving the schools. Many, too, who never confess Christ in baptism remember the truths learned. Mr. Balding says:—

Village schools.

> One day I called to see a very old man in a distant village, who was said to be a very pious Buddhist, and he repeated to me the Lord's Prayer, which he had learnt fifty years ago in a school and was accustomed to say daily. Another day an old woman, who is a most constant attendant at Buddhist temples, came up to the Mission-house and repeated the fifteenth and sixteenth chapters of the Book of Proverbs, which she had learnt in a Mission-school thirty years before.
>
> On another occasion, whilst preaching to a number of Buddhists, a man was asked if he could give the Buddhist articles of religion. He actually stood up and repeated the Apostles' Creed, which he had learnt in a school many years ago, and thought was an epitome of his religion. This man some time afterwards built a girls' school in his village and gave it to the Mission, and was very favourably disposed towards us; but I regret to say that only last month he was cruelly stabbed to death.

Effects of early teaching in Mission-schools on non-Christians.

The Apostles' Creed repeated as the Buddhist articles of religion.

The Girls' Boarding School at Baddêgama has 61 pupils, eight of whom are Buddhists. During the eight years since the school was opened 150 girls have passed through it; eighteen of these have become school-mistresses. One girl went to Kegalle as teacher in the boarding-school opened there by Mrs. Liesching during the year, and two others were to leave in December to take charge of two schools in the Rev. J. G. Garrett's district.

Girls' Boarding School.

Another girl went to be trained as a nurse. Many of the girls belong to the "Prayer Union for the Holy Spirit."

Catechists are stationed at five Out-stations. At Elpitiyo, fourteen miles inland from Baddêgama, there are 36 Christians and thirteen communicants. Mapalagama is twenty miles from Baddêgama, up the Gindara river; 46 Christians with twelve communicants are there. Bentotte, on the coast, is a difficult place, owing to the ignorance, opposition, arrack-drinking, and also to the low moral tone of the few Christians in the place. At Telwatte, also on the coast, two of the Cotta Theological Class laboured for two months in the summer. Kitulampitiya has 43 Christians, but the Christianity of most of them appears to be merely nominal, as the evangelist says they only go to church at times of baptisms, marriages, or funerals. They belong, he adds, to "what are called respectable families." The Buddhists have opened a flourishing school in the place. The catechist writes:—

Nominal Christians.

> I have been working here for three years, but am unable to find a single genuine convert. The people are hard-hearted, and are engaged in gambling night and day, whilst many are noted thieves. The few Christians do not take any interest in the services in the House of God. If they were alive, I am sure there would be a stir among the Heathen. My constant prayer is, "Lord, stir up the sleeping Christians." Although the work looks hard, and the way seems dark, yet I have noticed a lad who comes to our services and kneels at our prayers. He told me his story as follows: "I was a Buddhist; my parents and all my relations are Buddhists. I knew that I could not be saved, being a Buddhist, that is why I come to your services. I know that the Christian religion is the true one, and I know that salvation can be found only in this. My people are always arguing with me and trying to prevent my coming to your services, but I tell them that I intend to be a Christian."

Dodanduwa.

Miss Helen P. Phillips and Miss Ellen M. Josolyne continue to reside at the fishing village of Dodanduwa, which is the seat of one of the pastorates referred to above. The former passed an excellent language examination in November. Mr. David, the Tamil evangelist, paid a few hours' visit to Dodanduwa in August, by Miss Phillips' invitation (who had met him in Australia when he went there with the Rev. George Grubb), and he addressed the Industrial School lads, as well as some women and girls. Miss Phillips says:—

Brief visit of Mr David, the Tamil evangelist.

> It was lovely to see thirty-seven of the joiners and tailors packed in our little back verandah, and forty women and girls in their workroom opening on to the verandah. David stood at the door between them, and managed to speak to both parties at once. The boys are all in the highest standards in the day-school, and most intelligent. At last David was guided to tell them to kneel, and any who would that day desire to give up Buddhism and follow Christ were to hold up their hands. David prayed, and then seven out of those thirty-seven boys, namely, three joiners and four tailors, held up their hands, and ten out of those forty women and girls held up their hands. Then we sent all home excepting these seven boys and ten women, and David spoke again alone to the women in their room (only Sarah and I were with him), and then to the seven boys in our sitting-room, most solemnly, Sarah again interpreting (as he is Tamil). Then he had to rush for his train, but how joyfully he went!

Seven boys were baptized on November 17th by Mr. Balding and Mr. Kalpagé, the pastor, whose parents are all inquirers. The school at Tiranagama, the story regarding the opening of which was related in last year's Report, has over sixty children. A new school in the ladies' compound was built, largely by the boys of the industrial class. Miss Phillips describes the process :—

School built by voluntary helpers.

> The schoolmaster proposed that he should try and get the children to build it, which he did, with the result that one boy brought a beam, another a rafter, another a post, and the girls their own hand-made rope and palm kadjans. Those who could not give beams gave five cents, and our joiner boys, with the joiner, put up the building entirely themselves. We even had money over to cement the walls a nice white colour. Miss Kettleby, from Trinity College, was staying with us, and kept saying it was like Solomon building the temple, to see three or four boys coming down the road, dragging a long beam, or some other gift! The Rev. E. T. Higgens opened the school, and for the last two months the girls, instead of being mixed up with the boys, have proudly used their own school, and instead of last year's average attendance of about thirty, we now have from sixty-five to seventy girls regular attenders.

II. CENTRAL PROVINCES.

KANDY.

Trinity College, Kandy.

THE Rev. H. P. Napier-Clavering was alone at Trinity College, KANDY, for nearly the whole of 1895. He welcomed with much thankfulness the arrival of the Rev. R. W. Ryde in November. At the prize-giving in July, H. E. the Governor of Ceylon, Sir Joseph West Ridgeway, presided, and Sir Noel Walker, the Lieut.-Governor, the Director of Public Instruction, and the District Judge were also present. One boy was baptized who had learnt to know and love Christ while a pupil in a village school before going to the College. Mr. Napier-Clavering observes reticence in referring to individual youths, but he is assured regarding some of the boys that they realize their need of Christ, and they are not ashamed to kneel in prayer. He was visited from time to time by several "old boys," and had some most interesting conversations with them. A missionary-hearted lady, Miss Kettleby, on Mr. Napier-Clavering's invitation, has accepted the post of matron—a position with responsibilities and great opportunities in an institution with nearly 100 boarders and over 250 day boys. The Work among Women in Kandy is under Miss A. M. Denyer, who was joined in November by Miss E. Loveridge, a trained nurse. A Kandian woman, a Native of Dumbura, was baptized in December, with her husband's consent, though he is still a Buddhist. The C.E.Z.M.S. Ladies are the Misses Bellerby and Malden, at the Clarence Memorial School for the daughters of Kandian chiefs, with twenty inmates; and the Misses Scovell and E. Karney residing at Gampola for village work. The Pastorates connected with District Council in the

Women's Work.

Central Provinces are two in number. The Rev. H. Gunasêkara has the Kandy pastorate, which includes the congregations worshipping at Trinity Church, Kandy, and those at Katukele, Gaetembe, and Kadugannawa, but at the last-named place there is only one Christian family. The baptized Christians in the pastorate number 290. The Rev. H. W. Senewiratna is the pastor of Gampola. He reports the death of a convert, who was baptized by Bishop Heber :—

Death of a convert who was baptized by Bishop Heber.

A short account of the sickness, death, and burial of a Kandyan aristocratic gentleman should be mentioned here; the circumstances connected with it are very interesting. It was the late Mr. T. B. Dunuwille, of Unambowe Waluwwa, who was baptized by Bishop Heber when he visited the island about seventy-five years ago. Mr. Dunuwille resided eighty-four years among Buddhist parents, friends, and relations, and his wife is also a rigid Buddhist lady of high rank, yet his attachment to Christianity was real, as I could say from personal observance, and up to his death he continued as a member belonging to my congregation. When dangerously ill, he sent for me, and asked me to take charge of his funeral, not allowing heathen ceremonies to be performed after his death, which I gladly undertook to do, there being no opposition from his relations. The funeral service was conducted by me. There was an immense gathering of people—high, low, rich and poor, Kandyan chiefs, magistrates, local headmen, schoolboys, teachers, &c. I praise God that I was in His goodness thus privileged to address such a remarkable gathering about the wonderful love of our Blessed Saviour, and the salvation so graciously and mercifully offered to all indiscriminately.

KANDIAN SINGHALESE ITINERANCY.

Singhalese Itinerancy.

The Rev. J. G. Garrett, who resides at KANDY, sends a long and deeply interesting account of the work in what has hitherto been described in the Society's publications as the Central District of the Singhalese Itinerancy, of which he says :—

A district of 7,500 square miles.

To give a general idea of the work, I may say it is as large as Connaught, or, for Saxon ears, Northumberland, Cumberland, Westmoreland, Durham, Lancashire, and a part of York; this would make up the 7,500 square miles entrusted to my care for Singhalese work. Four oases in this wilderness are now more or less well manned and independent church centres. Kandy, Nuwara Eliya, Matale, and Gampola are our Newcastle, Durham, Sunderland, and York.

The district has, however, been divided since Mr. Garrett wrote, Lower Dumbara and the North Central Province being placed under the Rev. H. E. Heinekey. Buddhist opposition was strong in some districts. Mr. Garrett says :—

Adoption of missionary methods by Buddhists.

You commonly now find Buddhist lay preachers standing at street-corners to anticipate or out-preach us—plainly an adoption of our methods; Buddhist schools, on the model of our grant-in-aid schools, springing up everywhere, often in manifest bitter antagonism, but still on the same lines; Buddhist Sunday-schools, taught from modern Buddhist catechisms; Buddhist magic-lanterns, where hobgoblins are shown as what Christians turn into; and Buddhist carols charm our ears in honour of one whom they admit "can neither see, nor hear, nor eat, nor smell." He is gone to Nirvana, he has no more conscious being. Birth is to him the proof and outcome of evil. His joy when last born that he would never be born again Yet to parallel our Christmas they now celebrate Buddha's birthday! And Government has given them a national holiday in his honour, or, shall I say, because of his dishonour in having been born at all!

Round one of our best schools there are now no less than four opposition schools established by the influence of the great chiefs, and actually seven Buddhist Sunday-schools to draw away our little lambs. Yet the teacher assures me that he had more admissions into his school during the last six months than in any corresponding period!

Mr. Garrett met Buddhist preachers in controversy on several occasions at Kandy. His kneeling in prayer on the first occasion was made the ground of a rumour that he had worshipped the Buddhist controversialist! Twenty-five adults were baptized, most of them the fruits of village schools, in which Mr. Garrett is a hearty believer as a missionary agency. Forty-three schools, with 2,276 children, are under his charge. In one school six boys became regular readers of the Bible at their homes, with the result that the parents and whole family of one of them were baptized. To this school the chief Buddhist leader brought his children, stipulating that they should not be taught Christianity, a condition which the teacher instantly declined. A native teacher in charge of a school in the neighbourhood of Anuradhapura, named D. J. Wickramasinhe, died in July in the Colombo Hospital from the effects of wounds received from a bear as long ago as 1893. His trust in Christ was very simple and sincere, and it was remarked how his face lighted up, even in the midst of intense agony, when the name of Jesus was mentioned to him. A baptism at one of these village schools is very vividly described by Mr. Garrett:— Primary schools.

The whole community gathered to witness the first two baptisms ever seen in the place. Two young men, aged eighteen and fifteen, answered most satisfactorily, showing a grasp of the teaching as to the Holy Spirit. The scene was most impressive. A schoolroom, i.e., a shed on rough posts, with mud walls, four feet high. A clay bench all along three sides. A sloping board nailed on two posts for a school desk. The village fathers, all in a long line along one mud bench which forms half our school furniture. The children, twenty-seven in number, along the opposite side behind the desk. Several little ones on the floor looking up at the bowl of water on my white table-cloth; the mothers all lining the wall outside, looking over the children's heads. The catechist and schoolmaster on our two school chairs—the only ones in the village—behind the little children, facing the table. My Christian servant and "Mark," a new convert from a neighbouring village, formed the Christian congregation. I never enjoyed the service more, reading all carefully and explaining almost every clause, after which my two brothers, Richard and Thomas, came and knelt on a mat before the table, and, pouring a handful of water over them, I admitted them into the fellowship of His people Who died for them, and I believe they are indeed living members of His body. A village baptism.

Thomas' sister, dressed in a petticoat and a bead necklace, amazed me by answering cent. per cent. of the questions in the school examination on St. Luke—a great improvement in decorum and intelligence since four years ago three girls, absolutely in Nature's garb, said one verse.

Regarding the only converted Singhalese woman in the North Central Province—Sarah—Mr. Garrett says:—

The only Singhalese Christian woman in a whole province.

Her husband, a convert also, who had been called of God to devote himself to evangelizing his own village, now growing to years of discretion, and seeing so many of the converts ruined by heathen alliances, deliberately set to work, chose a girl of fourteen, and sent her to the earnest, loving Bible-woman about twenty miles away, where for three years he paid regularly month by month for her keep. God's rich blessing rested on the effort. I found her, as I believe, indeed taught of God, so that I could gladly receive her into the fold. She avowed before the congregation that she had the assurance that her sins were forgiven, that she knew she had received the Holy Spirit, and in quite touching words the prayer she was accustomed to use in private. Her evidence to us that she had received the Holy Spirit was that she used to tell lies and speak bad words, and steal, and get angry; and now, though she could not say she did not sin, yet she hated to do the things she once did. She is now married, and ably seconding her husband, she gathering a little class of girls while her husband teaches the boys at Arungala. . . . She has been very ill while I was away, almost past hope. Her husband was praying for her life, when she awoke to consciousness and told him to drive away a bear, who with her cubs was in the way, so that she could not pass to the bright place where two heavenly ones were waiting for her, and then she lost consciousness again. He was almost wild with fear that he would lose her, and as she slept again he prayed more earnestly, and to his joy she awoke again and told him that the bear was gone, and that the white ones had come across to her, and touched her on her shoulder, and said, "You stay there a while longer; we will wait for you." And so he felt his prayer was answered, and she was spared.

Boaz, whose conversion was mentioned in the Report for 1889–90, page 186, and his work as a catechist in that of the following year, and his fall into sin in that of 1891–92 (page 163, where, however, his name was not mentioned), is now again referred to by Mr. Garrett:—

Poor Boaz, once our hope at Bembœa, and whose fall through a heathen marriage caused such grief, and whose repentance awaked such sympathy at home, while I was on deputation, came to me in apparently real sorrow for his sins. "He could now bring his child and devote him to Jesus." "His wife, too," he said, "would one day come, as he was teaching her." At his earnest request I baptized the child, and trust and pray the family may yet be united in Christ. He is now peace-officer, Executive to Her Majesty at Urugala.

Western District.

The Rev. L. G. P. Liesching is in charge of the Western District of the Itinerancy, and he and Mrs. Liesching took up their abode at KEGALLE during the year, removing from Kurunegala, the former place of residence of the missionary in charge. A Girls' Boarding School was opened in June, 1895, in which there were ten boarders and five day-scholars at the end of the year. The teacher was educated at the Baddêgama Boarding School. At Talampitiya, three of the leading Christians invited a Baptist missionary in a neighbouring district to visit the place. The friendly expostulation of some of the C.M.S. senior brethren prevailed to prevent the threatened intrusion and the immersion of the disaffected members. At Takuduwa there were six adult baptisms, and the Christians are a united body. Mitanwela is five miles from Takuduwa, but a spirit of Christian love unites the two congregations, which join together on Communion Sundays, each becoming the hosts in turn, the Native Christians entertaining the visitors at a mid-day meal. There was much sickness in the district, and Mr. Liesching mentions several Christians who died bright and happy deaths trusting in the Saviour's merits. Of one he writes:—

An aged Christian's dying exhortations.

David, of Hewardiwela, aged seventy-eight, has been a petty head-man for many years. Hundreds of people came to visit him during his last illness. He had had several premonitions of his approaching end, and knew that he would not recover. He exhorted Buddhist visitors to forsake that religion and embrace Christianity. He even sent for cattle-stealers and other bad characters and entreated them to forsake their evil ways. The Christians he admonished to live holy lives, and at the last he anticipated and predicted the hour of his death, saying he had no fear because he knew his sins were forgiven.

TAMIL COOLIE MISSION.

The same three missionaries as were mentioned in the last Annual Report continued throughout the year superintending the extensive work among the Coolies on the estates in the centre of the Island, viz.:—the Rev. J. Ilsley at Kotagala, the Rev. W. Welchman at Kandy, and the Rev. J. W. Fall at Haputale.

The Kotagala District has 676 estates within its boundaries, on which 200,000 Tamils are engaged, and among them the Christians only number 1,430—about seven per thousand. Mr. Ilsley took charge upon the Rev. J. D. Simmons' coming home in April, 1895, and in November he wrote that 128 days out of the 198 had been spent in itinerating; yet the distances are such that he calculates it will take two years to visit all the estates. Even the nineteen catechists only visit a single estate about once in six weeks or two months. How slender, humanly speaking, the hope of fruit must appear! As Mr. Ilsley says:—

Two years required to go round a district.

A short address at six o'clock in the morning, when the coolies muster for their daily work, or an hour or two spent in the lines in the afternoon, and then six weeks or two months without the possibility of any more work being done until the catechist comes round again—is it a wonder that impressions are forgotten and teaching lost? To those who know the ins and outs of the work the marvel is, not that so few are brought to Christ, but that any at all receive the good seed of eternal life.

Yet two of the catechists themselves are the direct fruits of the muster-preaching, and the reports of the catechists—who, Mr. Ilsley says, "seem on the whole to be earnest-minded men"—show that the Word preached does take hold. The day and Sunday-schools, of which there are 25 and 21 respectively in this district, also afford important opportunities, both of teaching and of disseminating Christian literature. In six months over Rs. 200 worth of Christian books were sold. The most encouraging part of the work is in ministering to the fifteen Congregations of Christians. Family prayer and the reading of the Holy Scriptures has become the rule in the Christian households. Mr. Ilsley gives some interesting examples of sincerity and fidelity from the catechists' reports :—

Family prayer the rule.

A two hours' Morning Watch.

One instance is given of a Christian conductor who gets up every morning at four o'clock in order to have two hours of undisturbed reading of the Scriptures and secret prayer before going to his work at six o'clock. The influence of such men among their fellow-Christians, and fellow-workmen who are not Christians, cannot be over-estimated. The godly life is, after all, the best witness for Christ ; and that God is using this witness of the lives of the Tamil Christians to spread abroad His Truth is abundantly manifest from the number of inquirers. The Maturata catechist speaks of a conductor who holds services in a store for the Christians. When the catechist is present he assists him, and, in the catechist's absence, conducts the whole service himself. He also interests himself in evangelistic work, and the catechist instances the case of a coolie who, having become an inquirer through hearing the Gospel at the muster-preaching, is now getting further instruction and help from this Christian conductor, with a view to his being baptized.

"Joyful liberality."

Mr. Ilsley also mentions the "joyful liberality" of the Christian coolies in his division, who contributed Rs. 2,850.

The Rev. W. Welchman has the Kandy District, which is about the size of Devonshire, and contains 500 estates, with some 100,000 coolies. Each estate, he says, may be looked upon as a group of villages, as in many cases the dwellings of the labourers on an estate are separated by miles from each other. He says :—

Constant exposure.

The work itself is interesting, though often trying and disappointing. One has to get used to constant exposure, and not mind riding or walking many miles in a blazing sun or in drenching rain, but one is always sure of a warm welcome from the European planters, who, I may say in passing, place, as a rule, no obstacle in the way of the preaching of the Gospel.

Of two new catechists added during the year, one was appointed especially as a school inspector and children's missionary. It takes Mr. Welchman three and a-half months to visit the seventeen congregations in his district. There were seven adult baptisms. Mr. Welchman writes :—

A former opponent baptized.

One of the baptisms was interesting as showing how God is able by His Spirit to break down the strongest opposition. Some years ago a young man, residing in another district, became a convert. For some time his baptism was delayed owing to the determined opposition of his father, who did all he could by persuasion and by threat to turn his son from the faith. The son remained steadfast and was baptized, and during the past year it was my joyful privilege to admit into the Church by baptism the father who had so opposed his son's conversion. Tears were in the old man's eyes as he stood beside the font, while the son's bright smile told of the joy he felt that his father had joined him in believing on the Saviour.

The schools increased from seven to fourteen, and all are reported to be in a flourishing condition. In all the Scriptures are regularly taught, and Mr. Welchman was often much encouraged by the bright and ready answers when examining the children. At Kandy there is a settled congregation, with school, under the Rev. A. Gnanamuttu. A week's Mission was held in July, 1895.

The Rev. J. W. Fall has the Haputale District. He says:—

> Up and down this strip of country, with its scores of estates and thousands of coolies, are scattered little bands of Christians. Some are of Christian families well known and resident in Tinnevelly, others are results of Tamil Coolie Mission work amongst them after they came to Ceylon. These bands form centres of influence. They have their regular Christian services, frequent prayer-meetings, and some efforts for influencing their heathen friends. They readily and largely support with their money the work going on. And if you could always and rightly test a man's religious state by the frequency with which, for charitable objects, he loosens his purse-strings, you would say their spiritual attainment is high. One man here and another there will give a whole month's salary; others give considerable portions. One man near here had his salary reduced from Rs. 40 to Rs. 25 per month on the estate on which he worked changing hands. The catechist naturally expected that his contributions to Native Church funds would decrease. On the contrary, when the money-box in which the monthly gifts were deposited came to be opened, it was found he had to hand over to the collector a sum larger than the year previous, and totalling a full month's salary.

Salary reduced but contributions increased.

III. NORTHERN PROVINCES.

NELLORE was the first station in the Jaffna Peninsula to be occupied by the Society, in 1818, and there the Rev. J. I. Pickford, the superintendent of the Pastorates and chairman of the District Council, resides. Each of the six pastorates has an ordained pastor. The members of the congregations number 1,331, of whom 483 are children under fifteen years of age; the average number of attendants at the services was 655. The contributions of Native Christians amounted to Rs. 3,983. Fourteen adults were baptized. In the Vaisoniyi pastorate a village poosari, or priest, was baptized, and two others are on the list of inquirers. To these men the confession of Christ involves the loss of income as well as of status, and also persecution from the Heathen. The aged pastor of Chundicully, the Rev. G. Champion, mentions the death of two Christians who were baptized by the late Rev. W. Adley, who laboured at Nellore from 1824 to 1846. "They were consistent in their faith, and set good examples to others, and their ends were peace," he says. The new church at Pallai, built through the energy of the Rev. J. Backus, and the liberality of the European residents of the district, at a cost of Rs. 11,000, without help from the Society's funds, was dedicated on November 30th, 1895. The erection has been a work of several years, the Church Building Committee having been formed in 1887, and the foundation laid in 1889. Miss K. Heaney started an English class in the Girls' Boarding School at Nellore, for girls who have passed the eighth standard, in which she has seven pupils. The singing of the girls in this school is highly commended. Miss M. Saul also resides at Nellore for work among the women, but the chief work of both ladies during the year was language study. They visited the schools, and also the parents of the children, and Miss Saul opened a Sunday-school for Brahman girls, which was well attended throughout the year. They were heartily welcomed in the villages.

St. John's College, Chundicully.

St. John's College, Chundicully, had an average attendance of 208, an increase of 27 on the previous year, while the average number of boarders was 35, an increase of nine. Three boys sent in for the Cambridge Junior Local were all successful, and one passed the Calcutta Entrance, out of two sent in. Of the only two successful candidates out of 44 in the Ceylon Government Clerical Examination one was a St. John's boy; and of the seven who succeeded in the Railway Examination three were from St. John's.

Kopay.

At Kopay there are a Training Institution and an English school. Misses A. E. Paul and L. A. Case reside at this station and visit in the neighbouring villages.

MAURITIUS MISSION.

Though geographically more nearly connected with Africa, the little island of Mauritius is, in a missionary sense, a dependency of India. Two-thirds of the population are immigrants from Bengal and South India, brought hither to work on the sugar plantations; and among these are labouring Bengali and Tamil-speaking missionaries, whose work has been much blessed. Over 5,000 have been baptized, the majority of whom have returned to their own country. The Mission has owed much to successive Bishops of Mauritius, Dr. Ryan, Dr. Royston, and the present Bishop, Dr. Walsh, an old member of the C.M.S. Committee, who was consecrated in 1890.

Reinforcements.

THE Committee have sent out two ladies to this Mission. Miss Agnes Henrietta Catherine Wilkinson, who went out independently to the North-West Provinces in 1892 with her cousin, Miss W. B. J. Wilkinson; and Miss Helen Augusta Wilkinson, sister of the above-named Miss W. B. J. Wilkinson and of the Rev. D. H. D. Wilkinson, Assistant-Secretary of the Society. The two ladies sailed in January, 1896.

Pastorates.

The returns of the six Pastorates show 1,922 Christians, fifty less than the previous year. Archdeacon H. D. Buswell expresses a doubt as to the accuracy of the returns from two of the pastorates, and thinks the number should be at least 2,000. Forty-four adults were baptized. The number of services held during the year was 3,374, namely, 1,645 for Christians and 1,729 mainly for non-Christians. The attendances aggregated 79,234. Bishop Walsh confirmed 27 candidates in the North Central Pastorate, that of the Rev. I. F. Chorley. The Archdeacon spent three Sundays of each month in one or other of the pastorates, generally in one day taking services in Tamil, Hindi, French, and Creole. He writes:—

Moral effects of the immigration system.

I am sorry to say that with all our efforts to shepherd the baptized members of our congregations, we constantly meet with cases that disappoint and distress us, and that sometimes amongst those who enjoy the advantage of careful pastoral oversight. In the earlier years of our work here I sometimes remarked in my reports that the immigration system, as sanctioned by Government, was responsible for what I should not be wrong in calling an utter absence of social morality. For many years the disproportion in the numbers of the sexes was so great that it was hardly to be expected that a class gathered in general from the lowest castes, and ignorant to a degree, should retain even the notions of social morality gathered in their own country, where they were subject to the restraints of family and village associations. I do not know what has been the result in other countries where the immigration system has been adopted, but here the mischief done is such that it will, I fear, take generations of Christian teaching to repair it. Some of our baptized, who once gave promise of better things, and for a time did very well, have succumbed to the influence of their surroundings, and we grieve over the mischief done to the Church. Three or four cases have come under my notice this year, and I regret to say that disciplinary measures on our part do not produce the desired effect, partly owing to the fact that ours is not the only Christian communion in the island.

On four mornings of the week the Archdeacon lectured at the Diocesan Training College. The Rev. V. W. Harcourt went in the autumn to the Pulney Hills, South India, for a few months' needed change on account of health, and Archdeacon and Miss Buswell removed to Plaisance and took charge of the Orphanage, with its sixty children. The passes in the Government Examination were 85 per cent. Twenty-eight other schools in different parts of the island, with 1,569 children, mostly born of Indian parents, are under the Archdeacon's temporary supervision. Mr. Harcourt wrote regarding these village schools :—

Schools.

> The scholars are improving in their knowledge of Scripture, and so far are invaluable in an island where Roman Catholicism is predominant. Despite the protests of the priests we have Roman Catholic children in some of our schools, but the bulk of our pupils are North and South Indians, with a fair proportion of Mohammedans and a sprinkling of Chinese—the latter, indeed, very few. Oh that our schoolmasters would realize more their high calling as Christian teachers !

Evangelistic Work.

Mr. C. A. Blackburn gets large audiences of North Indian Coolies, who listen willingly for hours at a time to the preaching of the Gospel. He mentions 22 adult baptisms, which are, however, included in the 44 already referred to. Mr. Blackburn engaged in a public controversy with Mohammedans, and though he did so with much reluctance he believes the effect was favourable to Christianity. The Rev. A. K. Finnimore in May, 1895, removed to Mahebourg, where he has charge of the southern district, with a population of 50,000, of whom 37,000 are Hindus or Mohammedans, and 13,000 are Roman Catholics, mostly of African descent. The Protestant Christians number only 200.

CHINA.

Anxious eyes have again and again been directed to China during the year under review. Bishop Moule, speaking at St. James' Hall in May, 1895, with special reference to the war between China and Japan, then just concluded, said:—"Some of us who are looking with deep affection on that great nation are wondering whether it will please God to permit her to pass out of this terrible crisis which has been upon her without further trouble, without internal convulsions and practical anarchy amongst her three hundred millions of people." The potentialities of the situation were indeed exceedingly grave. A Government corrupt to the very core, and in every department of its administration, legislative, judicial, and executive; an army defeated and disorganized, dispersed over the land; a people not affected by any profound sense of loyalty to the ruling dynasty—such conditions amply justified the apprehensions which were entertained and expressed.

Apprehensions of internal trouble in China.

The first serious disturbance, however, had its causes, not in the discontent or ambitions or passions of the people in relation to their rulers, but in the hatred of the ruling classes themselves towards foreigners. Before describing these disturbances, a few words in evidence of this deep-rooted dislike may be introduced. Mr. Valentine Chirrol, in his recent book, The Far Eastern Question, testifies to the inveterate nature of this antipathy. He enjoyed the probably unique privilege, as an unofficial person, of an interview with the Tsung-li-Yamen, or Board of Foreign Relations, the regular channel for communications between the Foreign Legations in Peking and the Chinese official world. He writes:—

Anti-foreign sentiments of ruling classes.

> Outside of its official relations with the foreign representatives, the Chinese world knows nothing, and wants to know nothing, of the Western world. The members of the Tsung-li-Yamen themselves have scarcely any intercourse with the foreign representatives at Peking beyond making a few formal calls on stated occasions and offering them an annual banquet at their official residence. One or two may sometimes accept invitations to a foreign Legation, but no mandarin can frequent a foreigner's house without exposing himself to suspicion and obloquy. Even the unsuccessful literati, who are driven to accept employment as writers in the European Legations, will not compromise themselves by showing any open recognition of their employers when they meet them in a public thoroughfare. The whole atmosphere of Peking is saturated with hatred and contempt of the foreigner, and the street urchins, who shout opprobrious epithets or fling mud and stones from a safe distance at him as he passes, merely have the youthful courage of opinions which their elders only venture to betray by a sullen scowl or a muttered imprecation.

This attitude of strong and persistent and unreasoning dislike towards foreigners, though happily by no means universal among the official classes, is very widely prevalent. In the Annual Literature inciting to riots.

Report for 1891–2 reference was made to one most dangerous form in which it had been extensively manifested in 1891, namely, by the distribution of abominable placards, emanating chiefly from the province of Hunan, regarding foreigners. To these placards the numerous riots which occurred in 1891 were considered to be largely due, and they led to a joint representation by the foreign ministers to the Chinese Government in that year. The Rev. Dr. Griffith John, the veteran missionary of the London Missionary Society, discovered in the course of 1895 that the worst of these papers were still being printed and circulated, and that not only in Hunan, but in other provinces. He saw copies which had been published in Si-chuan and in Kwangsi, on the covers of which it was stated that all the scholars and people of these two provinces were, in imitation of Hunan, printing this book and widely distributing it. The author of this book is Chou Han, "a disciple of Confucius and a Minister of the Great Pure Dynasty," whose conduct in this respect was investigated in 1892 by the Viceroy and the Governor of Hunan, and who was then declared "not guilty," but "subject to fits of insanity." Regarding this tract Dr. Griffith John says:—

Recent editions of a most inflammatory publication.

> Of all the Hunan publications I do not know one more violent, more abusive, more foul, or more inflammatory than this. It finishes up with a song, to be committed to memory by the reader. Were I to translate and send it to you, you could not print it, being too dirty and vile for your columns. I may, however, give you the closing words, which are words of exhortation to old and young: "Let fathers and elders teach the children to sing this song, and thus accumulate merit and secure happiness. Let the little boys learn to sing this song, and thus remove calamity and escape danger. Why fear because the demons (foreigners) are many? We are firmly resolved to exterminate them utterly." All the charges brought against foreigners are given in this book in full detail. The use of the eyes and brains, and other parts of the human body, for medicinal and other purposes is minutely described. The history of Jesus is given; and anything more blasphemous it would be impossible for the mind of man to conceive.
>
> This is the book which Chou Han has been scattering over the face of the land. We know now that there is a Si-chuan edition and a Kwangsi edition. It is highly probable that every province has its edition. Be that as it may, there can be no doubt as to the widespread dissemination of the book.

Riots in Si-chuan.

The above renders it not surprising that in Si-chuan, the far western province bordering on Tibet, and one of the provinces which had issued a local edition of this vile book, dangerous riots should have occurred, as they did at the end of May and beginning of June, 1895, at several places considerably apart from one another. At Chentu, the capital of the province, at Sin-tu, K'iong Cheo, Kialing, Ya Cheo, Ma Cheo, Tai Fu, and Pao Ning, attacks were made by mobs upon Mission premises, and the lives of missionaries, Protestant and Roman Catholic, American, and European, were placed in the greatest peril.

Most providentially the missionaries were preserved from serious personal injury.

Officials incriminated.

The evidence incriminating the official classes, and even the Viceroy himself, Liu-Ning-Chang, of complicity with, if not of originating these riots, was exceedingly strong. On May 28th, the first day of the disorders at Chentu, placards were posted in several parts of the city to the following effect:—"Notice is hereby given that the foreign barbarians are hiring evil characters to steal small children that they may extract oil from them for their use. I have a servant named Li who has personally seen this done. I therefore exhort you good people not to allow your people to go out. I hope you will act in accordance with this." And on the following day the chief of police, a Hunan man, put out the following proclamation:—"At present we have obtained clear proof that the foreigners deceive and take small children. You soldiers and people must not be disturbed and flurried. When the cases are brought before us we will certainly not be lenient with them."

British ultimatum.

The British Government, in its negotiations with China regarding these events, insisted on the degradation of the Viceroy; but not until an ultimatum was presented on September 28th could the Tsung-li-Yamen be induced to yield, and an edict was then promulgated, stating that the Viceroy was deprived of his rank because he failed to protect the missionaries of his district, "and in order that his case may serve as a warning to other Chinese dignitaries, it is ordered that he shall never again be permitted to hold office."

One of the causes, and very possibly the main cause, of the hatred of the official classes of China against foreigners, and especially against missionaries, is forcibly stated by the writer of The Far Eastern Question, a statement which the Times reviewer called "one of the most lucid and sensible discussions of that thorny question that we have ever read." The following extract, though somewhat long, is too valuable for its deliberate though indirect testimony to the influence of missionaries in the country to be abridged:—

Testimony to influence of missionaries.

> The influence of Western civilization, in whatever shape it manifests itself, is an abomination in the eyes of the rulers of China, whose days would be counted were it ever to permeate the masses. The hatred directed against the missionaries is only a peculiarly virulent form of the hatred directed against Europeans generally, and it is easy to understand why it should be a peculiarly virulent one. Missionary work is practically the only agency through which the influence of Western civilization can at present reach the masses. The European merchant is scarcely brought into contact with any other than the trading classes, and his influence is at any rate localized within the immediate vicinity of the treaty ports where he resides. That of the foreign official is mainly restricted within a similar area, and confined to the Chinese officials with whom he has to deal. The missionary alone goes out into the bye-ways as well as the high-ways, and, whether he resides in a treaty port or in some remote province, strives to live with and among and for the people. The life which he lives, whether it be the ascetic life of the Roman Catholic missionary or the family life of a Protestant missionary with wife and children, is in itself a standing reproach to the life of gross self-indulgence led by the average mandarin. But in the eyes of the latter it becomes a public scandal when, in glaring contrast to every vice of native rule, the foreign missionary in his daily dealings with the people of his district conveys a continuous object-lesson of justice and kindliness, of unselfishness and integrity.

Missionaries the only foreigners who live among the people.

Missionaries not disliked by the people.

It is this aspect of missionary work which goads the official Chinaman into fury, and incites him to traduce the character of the missionaries by those foul calumnies which invariably precede every outbreak of so-called popular feeling. That the feeling which finds vent in anti-missionary riots and outrages is not really popular in its origin is patent from the fact that in the rural districts, where the influence of the official classes is relatively small, scarcely a trace of it is ever seen. It is confined to the towns and cities, where the mob is under the immediate control of the mandarins. There they have "the stupid people," as with almost naïve arrogance they openly call the lower classes whom they rule, in the hollow of their hands.

Vile charges circulated by mandarins the cause of outbreaks.

No less sickening than monotonous is the uniformity of the methods employed by them to engineer an outbreak. The hold which the missionaries may have acquired on the respect of even the dregs of an urban population by the blamelessness of their lives must first be weakened by spreading vile rumours of unspeakable vices veiled under the appearances of virtue. The Roman Catholic convent and the family hearth of the Protestant missionary are converted by the foul imagination of their traducers into dens of abominable vice, and unfortunately, in the congenial atmosphere through which they circulate, such tales find only too ready credence. Where imposture and hypocrisy reign supreme amongst the highest of the land, what inherent improbability can there be for the average Chinaman in stories which merely represent the foreigner as an impostor and a hypocrite like the rest? When once the personal confidence which the foreigner may have succeeded in inspiring has been sapped, it is an easy task to inflame against him the passions of the mob by a fresh series of calumnies purporting to disclose the real objects of his mysterious presence in a foreign land. That he should have left his far-off country only to bear into a strange land a message of peace and goodwill amongst men is an idea so alien to the Chinese mind that it can never wholly grasp it. It is naturally prone to suspicion, and what suspicion more natural than that, behind all the appearances of a harmless craze, there should lurk a sinister design?

Even medical missions liable to malevolent misconstruction.

The medical services which so many missionaries render impartially to the highest and the humblest, in a country where no serious effort is made to cope with disease, might be expected to establish some claim on public confidence and gratitude, but, as a matter of fact, there is no branch of missionary activity which is so liable to malevolent misconstruction. Medicine in China is still largely looked upon as a black art akin to sorcery, and, when one remembers of what loathsome ingredients the healing drugs of the Chinese medicine-man are often made up, one need not wonder at the readiness with which the ignorant masses are made to believe that remedies so efficacious as those administered by the foreign devil must be compounded of unutterably fiendish substances. That cans of preserved milk are the boiled-down brains of Chinese children, that the eyes and other parts of the human body are the most potent substances employed in the European pharmacopœia, presents nothing incredible or even improbable to the ordinary Chinaman; and when placards, issued with the explicit or implicit sanction of the local yamên, declare that a foreigner has actually been caught red-handed in his barbarous laboratory; when, as was the case the other day in Si-chuan, an official message is sent by the provincial authority over the Government telegraph announcing that living proofs of these horrible practices have been produced in open Court, can one be surprised at the results? Whilst a maddened populace wreaks a brutal vengeance in atonement of its imaginary wrongs, the mandarin either personally supervises, or is conveniently blind to, the scenes of arson, pillage, and bloodshed which he or his superiors have prompted.

Massacre in Fuh-kien.

Before punishment had overtaken those judged responsible for the disturbances in Si-chuan, an outbreak occurred in the Province of Fuh-kien which had far more terrible consequences, and which most closely affected the Church Missionary Society. In the early morning of August 1st, a party of eight missionaries—the Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Stewart and six single ladies—and the nurse of Mr. Stewart's children, were brutally murdered, without provocation and without warning, at the mountain village of Hwa-sang, where they were spending a few days away from the heat of their station at Ku-cheng in refreshing spiritual communion with their Lord and with one another. The authors of this wicked deed belonged to a party which called themselves "Vegetarians," (see last year's Annual Report, page 259), but it does not appear that they had anything in common with the Buddhist sect of that name. It seems more probable that they assumed the name in order to veil their real designs, though what those designs were has not been clearly disclosed. The Rev. W. Banister, who was present throughout the official inquiry which took place at Ku-cheng through several weeks in August and September, the British and United States Consuls sitting with the Chinese Prefect, wrote the following singular account, learned from the testimony of many of the guilty parties, of how these men came to perpetrate the massacre:—

"Vegetarians."

We have now examined about thirty prisoners in the ten days we have sat in the magistrate's yamen. There are many more prisoners in jail here, all of them more or less guilty of participation in the tragedy. Amongst the thirty men examined are some ten or fifteen of the actual murderers. The rest are the leaders who planned the expedition and directed operations, and others who plundered and burnt the houses. Our examination has revealed a sickening brutality and callous wickedness and insensibility to suffering on the part of these bad men. They are really the scum of the country-side, who have become banded together in deeds of crime and violence, and have been allowed to get to this height of boldness by the culpable weakness and selfishness of the magistrates who have ruled Ku-cheng since our dear brother came here. The real culprits and persons really responsible for the massacre are these men.

"The scum of the country side."

The rapidity with which the Vegetarians have acquired this strength has astonished me. It seems only yesterday that dear Stewart began to mention these people. They first came in conflict with us about a year ago, in connexion with some trouble in one of the villages where we have a congregation, called Heng T'au Pang, and from that time our people have, in common with the Heathen, suffered from their violence.

Last year the magistrate arrested some four of them in the city and accused them of sedition. In a few days a large body of their number assembled in the city and went in force to the yamen and compelled the magistrate to release these prisoners, and, more than that, compelled him to send them home with special honour in sedan-chairs. After this the magistrate lost his office and another weak man was sent, but the previous victory over the civil power had made them bold indeed, and deeds of violence had been committed in different parts of the country. A reign of terror was actually set up, as the Vegetarians, surrounded by their leaders and armed with swords and spears, would implicitly obey their commands.

In the spring of this year they again threatened to attack the magistrate, and the city was walled up and our friends hastily summoned into the city. This also was settled by a weak concession on the part of the officials, and the Vegetarians withdrew in triumph to their headquarters.

Then a short time later came a case of violence in a village a little distance from Sa-yong, where Miss Codrington lived. Here two men were killed in the fight, and the result had a sad influence in causing indirectly the death of our dear martyred friends. The ultimate effect of this deed of violence was that the Viceroy sent up a deputy-magistrate from the capital, Fuh-Chow, with 200 soldiers under a military officer.

About this time the leaders of the Vegetarians had begun to make their headquarters in a fastness in the mountains near to Ang-chiong, about fifteen miles from Ku-cheng city and the same distance from Hwa-sang. Here they assembled when they heard that the soldiers had come into the district, and began to make plans for defence. About two weeks before the awful crime was committed there appeared amongst the Vegetarians a fortune-teller, of the name of Tang Hwai, otherwise known amongst them as Long Finger-nails, from the length of his finger-nails (they are about two inches long). This man is a specimen of one of the pests of Chinese society, a clever scoundrel who works upon the superstitions and fears of the ignorant. He now appeared amongst these people, and from that time he appears to have gained an immense influence over these ignorant men. The testimony of the prisoners is that he persuaded them that the only way for them out of their difficulty was to do some other deed of violence, and resist the soldiers and the magistrate. They then cast lots which of three plans they should adopt: the first, to attack the city; second, to attack a rich man's house at Tang Teuk; third, to go to Hwa-sang and attack the foreigners. Three nights in succession the lot fell upon Hwa-sang. This was kept very secret, and the murderous march began on the night of July 31st. About 280 men or thereabouts started; some deserted on the way, but about 120 men reached the mountain and did the terrible work. A band of thirty or forty first attacked our friends and did the killing, and then the rest participated in the plundering and firing the houses. It was fiendish work, and I never thought such a thing possible of the chief leaders. Only one is now at large, but some three or four who murdered are yet uncaught. Some fifteen of the prisoners have been sentenced to death as a first instalment. Their death-warrants are being signed by the Consuls and Prefect; they will then be sent to Fuh-Chow for the Viceroy's approval, and these men will be first executed. There will probably be another band of equal number in a short time.

Lots cast which of three places should be attacked.

Investigation impeded by officials.

The action of the officials in taking part in the investigation and trial of the men was very far from being spontaneous. At every point the Consuls had to deal with reluctant and sometimes obstinate abettors. The Viceroy at Fuh-Chow, who received tidings by telegram on the very day of the murders, gave no information to the representatives of the Powers concerned. The Fuh-chow Prefect, whom the Viceroy despatched to the scene of the outrage, reported in a sense unfavourable to the Christians, criticizing Mr. Stewart, and endeavoured to show that the trouble was no more than a conflict between two rival sects. Archdeacon Wolfe wrote:—

> The conduct of the Chinese officials all through the melancholy business has been disgraceful. They have done everything they could to impede the Commission of Inquiry in their work. They have secretly released some of the murderers, and have refused to re-arrest them; they have endeavoured to screen some of the guilty leaders, and have refused to execute some who have been found guilty of murder. It is absolutely sickening to note their duplicity and dishonest dealing all through this melancholy business.

"Melancholy business" it is, indeed, so long as the thoughts rest exclusively on the earthly arena, and contemplate the inconstant and unaccountable vagaries of Viceroys and Prefects and Mandarins. But when the eyes are raised above the blood-stained horizon and behold the door opened in heaven; and through the door a Throne set, immutably and immovably set; and in the midst of the Throne a Lamb, as it had been slain; and before the Throne and before the Lamb a multitude innumerable, clothed in white robes and palms in their hands; and from the Throne and from the Lamb an angel flying in the midst of heaven, having the everlasting Gospel to preach unto them that dwell on the earth—then the turmoil of anger and indignation yields to confidence and calm assurance, and the tumult of doubt and dismay to faith and restful trust. Such a faith and such an assurance were given in the day of their bitter sorrow to many of those whose loved ones were transplanted on that August morn. One of these (a father) said:— "The Lord reigneth."

> I believe that I shall see that mighty stubborn fortress of Satan—called the Empire of China—handed over to the Captain of our Salvation, and on that day, whether it be here or in Paradise, I know I shall rejoice that one who called me Father was a member of that forlorn hope. China a part of His inheritance.
> I believe that I shall see the "Divine Enterprise" of bringing millions of souls, whose value cannot be computed by the silver and gold of earth, into the treasure house of God, completely accomplished; and I know that I shall rejoice in that day when "these from the land of Sinim" acknowledge that the martyrdoms of Ku-cheng were a large factor in the deliverance of their country from its age-bound Heathenism.

And another, a mother, whose two cherished and only daughters were among that saintly band, said that if she had two more daughters they should go to China; and added:— "They went to death, and they went to glory, and all I should say—all I desire to say—is, Hallelujah! I know that this is the act of God—God who can see the end. He knows the benefits to follow this martyrdom. Believe me, the grand work will go on, and the Christianizing of these people will be expedited." "Hallelujah!"

Yes! "the grand work will go on." In May, 1890, the General Missionary Conference held at Shanghai appealed with all earnestness, as men overwhelmed with the magnitude and responsibility of the work before them, for "one thousand men within five years from this time" (see Annual Report for Increase of missionaries since 1890.

1890–91, page 174). In May, 1895, the permanent Committee appointed by that Conference put forth a fresh appeal, with a statement that during the five years since May, 1890, there had been sent out 1,153 new missionaries, connected with forty-five Societies. Of these 481 were men, 167 wives, and 505 single women. The Conference had asked for 1,000 men; God had not granted that, but, says the appeal, He "knows the needs of China, and sent those He saw would be most helpful."

The increasing number of foreign missionaries, and the success attending their evangelistic work, and perhaps a sense of the hopelessness of arresting progress by overt opposition, have suggested to some of the literati the policy of an aggressive missionary enterprise in the interests of Confucianism among other nations. The Rev. W. S. Moule, of Ningpo, states that on May 8th, 1895, a memorial was presented by 1,300 scholars who had attained their second degree, and representing fourteen out of the eighteen provinces of China. The memorial urges a number of reforms, such as the establishment of banks and post-offices, the construction of railways, the encouragement of machinery, mining works, technical training, patents, &c., of newspapers, public libraries, and education of all kinds. On the last point it says, "There should be an increase in the number of educated, for other nations have 70 or 80 per cent. able to read, while China has no more than 20 per cent." A remarkable confession indeed from Chinese literati, though Mr. Moule thinks three per cent. would be nearer the truth. But the memorial then proceeds to suggest the following:—

A memorial of Chinese scholars.

"Found a religious department of education. The customs of our country are degenerating fast, because we have no religious teachers! Thus it is that the depraved religions of foreign barbarians spring up and deceive our people. Every province is full of chapels, whilst we have only one temple in each county for our sage Confucius. Is this not painful? Let religious instruction be given in each county. Let all the charitable institutions help. Let all the unowned temples and charity guilds be made into temples of the Confucian religion, and thus make the people good and stop the progress of strange doctrines. Let the most advanced students of Confucianism be called up by the Emperor to the capital, and given the Hanlin degree and funds to go abroad. If they succeed in establishing schools in foreign countries where are gathered 1,000 pupils, let them be ennobled. Thus we shall take Confucianism, and with it civilize all the barbarians, and, under the cloak of preaching Confucianism, travel abroad and quickly learn the motives of the barbarians, and extend the fame of our country!"

"Every province is full of chapels."

Mr. Moule's comment is:—

"Pitiful, yet wonderfully encouraging."

It is pitiful, yet it is wonderfully encouraging to the missionary's heart. Lives have not been spent, nor long journeys taken, nor myriad books distributed, nor humdrum routine maintained, nor blood been spilt in vain. Our enemies' witness is not much exaggerated when it says, "Every province is full of chapels." This is how it appears to them. The scholars have taken alarm.

SOUTH CHINA MISSION.

The great empire of China was opened to missionary effort in 1844, when the Treaty of Nanking, which closed the first Chinese War, gave England the possession of Hong Kong, and the right of residence at five leading ports; and more fully in 1858–60, by the Treaty of Tientsin and Convention of Peking. Hong-Kong was occupied in 1862, and Pakhoi in 1886.

The Fuh-kien Mission has a truly remarkable history. Fuh-Chow was occupied in 1850, and the first eleven years passed without a single convert appearing. Two out of five Missionaries died during this interval, and two retired. The fifth died soon after gathering the first-fruits of his labours, leaving a new-comer, the Rev. J. R. (now Archdeacon) Wolfe, in charge. Up to 1864 the work was confined to Fuh-Chow city. In that year and the following, other large cities were occupied by native evangelists. In 1866 the first two or three converts from these were baptized. Fuh-Ning was occupied by European Missionaries in 1882; Ku-cheng, 1887; Lo-Ngwong, 1889; Nang-wa-Kau, 1889; Kien-Yang, 1891; and Hing-Hwa, 1894.

China, south of lat. 28°, is under the episcopal jurisdiction of the Bishop of Victoria, Hong Kong. The first Bishop, Dr. G. Smith, and the third, the present one, Dr. Burdon, were C.M.S. Missionaries; and the second, Dr. Alford, was an active friend of the Society at home.

REFERENCE has already been made, under "China," to the murder of eight missionaries of the South China Mission on August 1st, 1895, and under "Home Operations," to the reception of the tidings and its effect on the Committee and home friends of the Society. Later, under the section relating to the Fuh-kien Province (see infra, pages 330, 331), the local events preceding and following the murder will be narrated. In this place some particulars must be given of the murdered missionaries and some account of the massacre as supplied by eye-witnesses.

The murdered missionaries.

The missionaries of the Society who were killed were four in number:—the Rev. Robert Warren Stewart, M.A., and Mrs. Stewart, Miss Harriet Elinor Saunders, and Miss Elizabeth Maud Saunders.

The Rev. R. W. Stewart.

Mr. Stewart was born in March, 1850, and was the son of the late Mr. James R. Stewart, of Dublin, whose mother, the Hon. Elizabeth Pakenham, was the eldest daughter of the first Earl of Longford. He was educated at Marlborough School and at Trinity College, Dublin. He was a junior moderator and silver medallist in 1871, and graduated in 1873. After leaving College he studied law in London, but just as he was about to be called to the bar the great spiritual crisis of his conversion occurred. This was at Richmond, in Surrey, at Holy Trinity Church, under the ministry of the Rev. Evan Hopkins. At the Gleaners' Union Anniversary on November 1st, 1895, Mr. Hopkins told the audience that Heb. xii. 2 had been the arrow from God's quiver which had wrought conviction. He said:—

> I can never forget the tender pathos, the deep feeling with which Robert Stewart on that evening told us how wonderful it seemed to him that it actually had given joy to the heart of Jesus to save him—a sinner, and a rebel. It was that that melted his heart, it was that that made him a captive to Christ.

The call to the ministry followed shortly afterwards, and then the call to the heathen world. He offered to the Society in 1875, and, after a year's training at Islington, was ordained at St. Paul's Cathedral on Trinity Sunday, 1876, together with the late Bishop Hill, the Rev. Ll. Lloyd, of this Mission, and the Rev. J. J. Bambridge, late of the Sindh Mission. For several years Mr. Stewart was Principal of the Divinity School at Fuh-Chow. The new buildings which he erected in 1877 with money contributed by his own and Mrs. Stewart's friends were destroyed by rioters the same year, and Mrs. Stewart and her young child had a narrow escape. While at home on sick leave in 1891 he was invited by the Committee to accompany Mr. Eugene Stock on his Australasian tour, after completing which and visiting India he returned to the Mission viâ Canada in restored health in the autumn of 1893.

Mrs. Stewart,

Mrs. Stewart, née Louisa K. Smyly, was a daughter of the late Dr. J. Smyly, of Dublin, and of Mrs. Smyly whose work in connexion with the Irish Church Missions is so well-known in Dublin. One of Mrs. Stewart's brothers is Sir Philip Smyly, surgeon to the Queen. Mrs. Van Someren Taylor wrote of her:—

> Mrs. Stewart was one of the most Christ-like characters I have ever known. I have been with her in sorrow and trial as a wife and as a mother, and through all circumstances her calm peace was so beautiful to see.
>
> As a missionary, only those in the Mission-field can know what she was. Her great, deep love for the Chinese women, her energy and zeal for their conversion, her patience and willingness to listen to them at all times; though often tired out, and wanting rest and quiet, she was always at their beck and call. She suffered much from headaches, and often I have said to her, "Do let the women wait, and you lie down and rest." "Oh, just let them tell me what they want," and she would sit down and listen, and share their trouble as if she had none of her own. The Natives loved her.

Misses H. E and E. M. Saunders,

The two Miss Saunders were the "first-fruits" of the Australian visit of Mr. Stewart and Mr. Stock. A few months before, they had definitely given themselves to the Lord for His service during a Mission conducted by the Rev. George Grubb, and the very evening that Mr. Stock and Mr. Stewart landed at Melbourne, on Sunday, April 24th, 1892, they responded to Mr. Stewart's first sermon by an inquiry about going to China. The original plan was that their widowed mother and they should all go together as honorary missionaries. The financial failures that occurred in Melbourne soon after made this impossible, and the C.M. Association proposed to send out all three upon its funds. The mother, however, decided to remain in order first to realize what was left of her property, and then to follow her daughters at her own charges. Mr. Eugene Stock wrote of them in the C.M. Gleaner:—

> I have never met anywhere more delightful "daughters of the King" than Nellie and Topsy Saunders. With something of what I may call the frankness and independence of Australian girls they combined in a remarkable degree the dignity and grace of true ladies, and the chastened brightness of those to whom the Lord Jesus Christ is a real living Friend walking by their side. Prayer was their delight; the Word of God their greatest treasure. On the voyage from Sydney to Hong Kong they and two China Inland ladies were the only passengers on board. The officers soon found out what sort of people they were, and insisted on their holding an informal little service on Sunday, sitting at the feet of these young girls for instruction and letting them lead their prayers.

and four ladies of the C.E.Z.M.S.

The four other missionaries murdered were ladies of the C.E.Z.M.S., namely, Miss Hessie Newcombe, one of four sisters from Blackrock, near Dublin, who went out to China under the C.E.Z.M.S.; Miss Elsie Marshall, the youngest daughter of the Rev. J. W. Marshall, Vicar of St. John's, Blackheath; Miss Flora Lucy Stewart, eldest daughter of the late Rev. James Stewart, Rector of Little Stukeley, Hunts, who dedicated her in her earliest years to missionary work; and Miss Mary Ann Christina Gordon, who was born at Ipswich in Queensland, and was sent to China in 1891 by the Australian Auxiliary of the C.E.Z.M.S.

The going out to China of two at least of these four sisters was due, under God, to the personal influence of Mr. Robert Stewart, and the same may be said of not a few others on the C.E.Z.M.S. list of missionaries in Fuh-kien. Indeed, it is doubtless true that of all services rendered in the Gospel cause to China by Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, that of calling thither the noble band of ladies, many of them Irish like themselves, to labour in connexion with the C.E.Z.M.S. was the most fruitful.

Other deaths.

The faithful Christian nurse of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, Helena Yellop, who had been trained in the Elliott Home of the Irish Church Missions, was also among the victims; and two of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart's children, Herbert, aged six, and Hilda, one year old, died from the effects of wounds received.

The party assembled at Hwa-sang, in addition to the above, were the Rev. H. S. Phillips, of Kien-Yang, who was on a visit to the Ku-cheng missionaries; Miss Codrington, of the C.E.Z.M.S.; Miss Hartford, of the American Methodist Episcopal Mission; and three children of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart—Mildred (aged thirteen), Kathleen (eleven), and Evan (three). The story told by Kathleen Stewart was thus reproduced by a representative of the Hong-Kong Weekly Press:—

A brave girl.

On August 1st, this being the birthday of her brother Herbert, she and the two elder children went out early to the hills to gather flowers. Hearing horns and drums, they ran to see the procession, as they supposed it to be, and met the crowd. One man seized Kathleen by the hair and beat her. The others ran away screaming. Kathleen got away and ran home. She saw her father enter her mother's room. This was the last seen of either of them. Kathleen hid under the bed; Mildred, unable to do so, lay upon the bed, and was attacked and wounded in the knee. Kathleen was not discovered. She heard a rushing sound, and found the house was burning; dragged Mildred out and went to the nursery; pulled the baby from under the body of the dead nurse, and carried out in safety, one by one, her two wounded brothers. Taking the four children one at a time, she started for Miss Hartford's. Halfway she met a Native, and inducing him, after some trouble, to help, they reached the house.

Miss Codrington's Marvellous escape.

Miss Hartford's house was separate from the two occupied by the C.M.S. and C.E.Z.M.S. parties. On hearing the shouts and screams she went out and was attacked by a man with a spear, but she effected her escape by jumping over an embankment and running away. Miss Codrington was attacked with the other C.E.Z.M.S. ladies, and was left for dead under the body of Miss Marshall. After the men had left she arose and succeeded in reaching Miss Hartford's house. Mr. Phillips was staying in a native house a few minutes' distant from the Mission houses. He wrote:—

The Rev. H. S. Phillips an eye-witness of the pillage.

About 6.30 A.M. on August 1st, hearing shouts from the direction of the Stewarts' house (I was sleeping in a house five minutes' walk off, though spending most of the day with the Stewarts), I went out, and at first thought it was simply a number of children playing, but I soon was convinced that the voices were those of excited men, and started off for the house. I was soon met by a Native who almost pulled me back, shouting that the Vegetarians had come. I said that I must go on, and soon got in sight of the house, and could see a number of men, say forty or fifty, carrying off loads of plunder. One man seemed to be the leader, carrying a small red flag. I could see nothing of any Europeans, and as this was in full view of the rioters, I crept up the hill in the brushwood and got behind two trees, from twenty to thirty yards from the house. Here I could see everything, and appeared not to be seen at all; as I could still see no foreigners, I concluded they had escaped, and, as to go down was certain death, I thought it better to wait where I was. After a minute or two the retreat horn was sounded, and the Vegetarians began to leave, but before they did so they set fire to the houses; ten minutes after this every Vegetarian had gone. I came down and looked about the front of the house, but could see nothing of any one, though I feared something dreadful had happened, as I heard the Vegetarians, as they left, saying repeatedly, "Now all the foreigners are killed." I just then met one of the servants, who told me that the children were in the house in which Miss Hartford, of the American Mission, was staying. I found Mr. Stewart's eldest daughter, Mildred, here with a serious wound on one knee and another severe cut. When I had washed these and put what old calico we had to staunch the bleeding, I turned to Herbert, Mr. Stewart's son, who was fearfully hacked almost everywhere. Then Miss Codrington sent me a message that she, too, was in the house. I found her in a fearful condition, but with cold water and rags we managed to staunch the bleeding. She begged me not to wait, as she thought Miss Topsy Saunders was still alive. I then rushed up to the back of the house, and found the bodies of Miss T. Saunders, Miss Stewart, Miss Gordon, and Miss Marshall; the latter was awfully cut, but beyond wounds given in the struggle, the bodies were not mutilated. Then later I found Miss H. Newcombe's body at the foot of a hill in front of the house, where it had evidently been thrown. As then I could see no traces of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, Miss N. Saunders, and Lena the nurse, we hoped some had escaped, and I returned to the house where the children (four Stewarts) and Miss Codrington were. Presently Miss Hartford arrived; she had received a nasty cut under one ear, but had been saved from death by a Native Christian.

I learned later from Miss Codrington that the five ladies of the Zenana

Missionary Society, who lived in the lower of the two houses which formed the Ku-cheng sanatorium, after a futile effort to escape, got out at the back, and were immediately surrounded by Vegetarians. At first they said they intended to bind them and carry them away, and the ladies begged, as this was the intention, they might be allowed their umbrellas; but this was instantly refused. Some even of the Vegetarians seemed touched with their pleading for life. An old Hwa-sang man alone of the Natives who did not take part begged that their lives might be saved. Some of the Vegetarians were inclined to spare them, but were ordered by their leader to carry out their orders. Had they been able to escape into the brushwood around, there seems little doubt they might have been saved. The great misfortune was that only two were dressed. Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, I learned from Kathleen Stewart, were not dressed. Lena, the nurse, died protecting the baby, whom Kathleen managed to carry out of the house, though not before her (the baby's) eye had been injured. Miss Nelly Saunders, Kathleen told me, was also knocked down at the nursery door, going to help the children, and as we afterwards found the remains of a burnt body there, we had little doubt it was hers. For a long time we thought that at least Mr. and Mrs. Stewart had escaped, but later I found their bodies, or rather ashes, in what had been their bedroom.

Died protecting the baby.

Dr. Gregory, a missionary of the American Methodist Episcopal Mission, arrived from Ku-cheng the same evening; he attended to the wounded, and wrote a report on the condition of the bodies as he found them. The remains were then placed in coffins, left in the care of the magistrate at Ku-cheng to be sent down the river later, and the party proceeded to Chiu-kow, on the River Min, on August 2nd. Herbert Stewart died just after starting. The journey down the river was commenced in native boats until on Sunday, the 4th, the party were met by Archdeacon Wolfe and the Rev. W. Banister in a steam launch with the U.S. Marshal, and Fuh-Chow was reached the same day. Mr. Banister, with the interpreter at the British Consulate, returned at once up the river to meet the bodies. The funeral took place at Fuh-Chow on August 6th. Mr. Banister wrote:—

Interment of the bodies at Fuh-Chow.

> They were laid side by side, with the exception of dear Stewart and Mrs. Stewart, whose remains were in one box; next was the body of Herbert, then came Nelly Saunders, and Lena Yellop, the faithful friend and the faithful nurse, whose death helped to save the baby. Then came Topsy Saunders, side by side with her dear friend and constant companion, Elsie Marshall, then the sainted and beloved Hessie Newcombe, and next Annie Gordon, from Australia, who was so devoted a worker; and last, Lucy Stewart; companions in labour, side by side in death and in their entrance into the glory land.

The following reinforcements have been sent out—all to the Fuh-kien Province:—The Revs. Francis Edgar Bland and James Alfred Cutten, of Islington College, who both were placed in the first class in the Universities' Preliminary Theological Examination, and were admitted to deacon's orders on Trinity Sunday, 1895, by the Bishop of London, Mr. Cutten being the Gospeller; Miss Katherine Andrews, of Woburn; Miss Margaret

Reinforcements.

Emma Barber, of Liverpool; Miss Edith Mary Maria Brooks, of Brockley; Miss Rosamund Clemson, of Wellington, Salop; Miss Eleanor Jane Harrison, of Kidderminster; Miss Amelia Louisa Leybourn, of London; Miss Eugenie Little, of Lifford, Ireland; and Miss Florence Oatway, of Somerset. The Rev. John Richard Shields Boyd, B.A., University College and Wycliffe College, Toronto, Curate of All Saints' Church, Toronto, and Mrs. Boyd were sent out by the Canadian C. M. Association, being the first missionaries sent into the field by that Association. Their original designation by the Committee had been the Mid-China Mission, but in deference to their own desire and that of many friends in Canada who cherished the memory of Mr. Stewart's visit in 1892, their location was changed by the Committee. Miss Amy Isabella Oxley, a great grand-daughter of Samuel Marsden, the "Apostle of New Zealand," who was one of the first to enter the Marsden Training Home at Sydney, was sent out by the New South Wales C. M. Association in December, 1895. And lastly, Miss Annie Wolfe, daughter of Archdeacon Wolfe, of this Mission, was accepted as a missionary in local connexion. Messrs. Bland and Cutten sailed in October, 1895. The ladies were detained in this country until January, 1896. Their instructions were to reside in Fuh-Chow until the Committee should sanction their proceeding to the country districts. This permission was given in March, 1896, conditionally upon the concurrence of the British Consul at Fuh-Chow.

PROVINCE OF KWANG-TUNG.

Dr. and Mrs. E. G. Horder came home on sick leave in August, 1895; Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Colborne in February, 1896, also on sick leave; and the Rev. J. Grundy in May, 1896, on furlough. Miss A. K. Hamper returned to the Mission in December, 1895.

HONG KONG.

Hong Kong.

The Annual Report of the Governor of Hong Kong for 1894 stated that 2,550 deaths resulted from the plague referred to last year, and that 100,000 Chinese left the Colony in consequence of it. The Rev. C. Bennett says that as Hong Kong is commercially a great distributing centre, so the little Mission there is in its degree a centre of evangelistic influence, which is communicated to countries as remote as Australia and America and Penang and Borneo. On the other hand, the Mission is helped from time to time by Chinese Christians who have embraced the Gospel in Australia, and whose bright, fearless, aggressive Christianity stimulates their fellow-Christians. One of these during the past year was enabled to lead his mother and brother to confess Christ in baptism. The mother was very ignorant, and at first was much opposed to Christianity, but came to trust in Christ with a simplicity of faith which was refreshing to witness. Of the brother, Mr. Bennett writes:—

The brother, it was feared, was a confirmed opium-smoker, and at first resisted all efforts to reform him. He was in the habit of visiting his brother in Hong Kong to obtain money to satisfy his terrible craving for the drug, and on one occasion stole some of his best wearing apparel to raise the requisite means. On another he was very violent, broke the door in, and proved such a source of terror to the other inhabitants that the help of the police had to be solicited. Having witnessed one of these scenes, I must say I felt rather sceptical that a change had come over him when first I saw him sitting as a patient inquirer. He was under instruction some months. Knowing the terrible power opium has over its victims, I talked to him very plainly, and for some time refused to baptize him, but his answers were so clear, and he begged me with tears to do so, affirming most emphatically that he was not trusting in his own strength but in Christ alone for keeping, that I could no longer refuse. He was baptized at the same time as his dear old mother, to her great delight.

An opium-smoker converted.

Including the above there were twenty-nine adult baptisms. Two were influenced by the open-air preaching in the villages around Hong Kong, and two were results of teaching in the day-schools, of which there are fourteen. A meeting is held every Sunday afternoon for the Chinese police, which is fairly well attended; and the members of the Hong Kong Y.M.C.A. visit the coolies in the various hongs (i.e. warehouses). An address of sympathy was sent to the Committee by this Y.M.C.A., which concluded as follows:—

We hope that your honourable Society will take compassion on the ignorant people, and pity their hardness of heart, exerting yourselves in preaching God's Word, continuing your onward course in missionary work. It is not difficult to turn the dangerous path into a safe one, and the ignorant into good people. We shall wipe our eyes and wait; we shall stand on tiptoe and look forward to such time coming. Let us pray for each other, that Christianity may be spread out without hindrance.

"We shall wipe our eyes and wait."

Work among the Women and Girls was carried on by Mrs. Bennett and the Misses Jones and Finney. In the Girls' Boarding School there are fifty pupils. One was a runaway Buddhist nun aged fourteen, who had entered the nunnery in the expectation of being taught to recite the Buddhist sacred books, but was instead sent out on begging expeditions and beaten if she was less successful than was expected. Her mother took her to the Boarding School as a place of refuge. Two of the girls developed leprosy and were sent to Pakhoi; one of them, it is hoped, will become a missionary to leper women. The girls in the school answered exceedingly well in the Scripture Examination. "Their hearty, ready answers to the most difficult questions from both the Old and New Testaments, and their bright faces, made one realize that their teaching had been no hard, dreary work, but a pleasure," Mrs. Bennett writes.

A former Buddhist nun baptized.

Women's meetings are held weekly in four different parts of the town, attended by heathen women; and the houses of the people are visited. Miss Jones says of these domiciliary visits:—

Domiciliary visits.

Some of the houses are very, very poor, and very dirty. A chair is a luxury not often found, and we are invited to sit down on the board bed which serves as couch, table, repository for all sorts and kinds of things, or on a trestle or stool; the space occupied by one family is about ten feet by ten feet—just room for a bed and very little besides. There is generally a balcony, which they share with many other families, and a small room at the back which serves as wash-house, cooking-house, &c., &c., for all the families who occupy the same floor. I often wonder where the children sleep—the space is so limited. As the Bible-woman and I talk to them the women and girls are busily engaged at work, some making shoes, some clothes, sometimes even picking oakum for a livelihood. The children crowd round, dear little dirty things, often covered with sores, or with bad eyes. The small babies are either tied on the back of the mother or brother or sister, or placed in a box for safety. There are many interruptions as we tell them of the true God and of His love, and we do realize here in the Mission-field, perhaps as never before, the truth of our Lord's words, "Without Me ye can do nothing." We may talk to them, we may plead with them, we may teach them, but God the Holy Spirit alone can lead them to see in the Crucified their Saviour.

A Sunday-school for women and children was opened at Tai-p'ing-shan during the year, and the ladies visit the day-schools in the city and out-stations, and the Civil and Tung-Wa Hospitals.

MAINLAND ITINERANCY.

Out-stations in Kwang-tung.

The Rev. J. Grundy visited the out-stations in West Central Kwang-Tung. At Wang Long, in the neighbourhood of Tsang-Shing, he baptized a young schoolmaster whom the aged catechist, Mok Tung, had led to Christ. A man named Mack Kai, who for seven years had been an adherent, but who was regarded as a confirmed opium smoker, broke off the habit by the gradually diminishing process, and was baptized. Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Colborne, who are now at home, resided for about four months during the latter half of the year at Kong-mun, living in the chapel, which was built in 1879 by the Rev. Edmund Davys, and is situated in "Palm-leaf-fringe Street." Here they opened a dispensary. The town has a reputation for a strong anti-foreign feeling, but no pronounced unfriendliness was manifested, and what little there was diminished perceptibly as their stay was prolonged. The women at first were shy in coming to the dispensary, but latterly they outnumbered the men, and Mrs. Colborne and her Bible-woman had excellent opportunities of teaching them the Gospel. Much of the year was spent in itinerating. During January, Dr. and Mrs. Colborne visited Tsang-shing and Kong-mun; during March and April they went to Hang-mei-tsun, Shiu-hing, and Lak-Chuk; and in December they went again to Lak-Chuk, which is in the San-hing district, whence come the Ho-tau men, i.e., the men who work the Ho-tau, or mandarins' barges, which are largely used by missionaries in their river journeys. The captain of the barge in which Dr. and Mrs. Colborne frequently travelled had been first spoken to about his soul by a European Christian merchant, and he showed himself responsive to Dr. Colborne's remarks. He threw overboard the idols and incense-sticks on board his vessel, and joined Dr. and Mrs. Colborne at morning and evening prayer. At his earnest invitation Dr. and Mrs. Colborne visited Lak-Chuk, his native village, in order to teach his relatives and influence the people. They had much encouragement on both visits. Mrs. Colborne wrote of the second in December :—

Itinerating.

The captain of a river-vessel throws overboard his idols.

They were all very busy with the rice harvest and sweet potato crops, so we did not get such numbers on board—where, this time, healing was carried on—or in the houses, where I taught the women, but we thought the work was done more effectually, perhaps.

One old woman of seventy-seven, on our first Sunday, came down on board to be taught more, saying that she had remembered what I had told her on my last visit about praying to the one true God, and she had done so morning and evening ever since, and vainly tried to influence her daughter-in-law to leave off worshipping the false gods. Her great trouble was that in her youth and long afterwards she had so persistently sinned against God by worshipping all the gods she knew of—"Would He, after seventy-seven years of this, forgive her all?" Again and again she asked this, and seemed so relieved when we told her she need not doubt it. "Ah, Sin-Nai, though I have only chuk (rice-water) to eat, now my heart is happy," she said one day. Her mind seemed very bright and intelligent for such an old woman, and she often talked to and urged other women who were lodging in her house during our stay at Lak-Chuk to believe in and worship God, with the result that three of those who heard from her lips and ours the Gospel message went back to their villages believing, and firmly convinced of the falsity of their gods. We hope, with herself, they will be ready for baptism on our next visit.

"Would He forgive her after seventy-seven years?"

Two or three houses resembled small hospitals for the time being ; people from distant villages, hearing that Dr. Colborne had arrived, came themselves or brought relatives to be treated, lodging in Lak-Chuk for operations when necessary ; so we had in these circumstances many good opportunities for influencing them, as well as the numbers who came daily on board to be treated. Four people, who had come from a village distant two days' journey from Lak-Chuk for treatment, and had been taught at the same time, went back believing fully in our message, destroying their idols, and so influencing their neighbours and friends that others followed their example ; and when we anchored there, as we made a point of doing, on our way back, we had a very warm reception. Though very busy with the harvest and other field work, and having been at work since four or five o'clock in the morning, they begged us to sit down and teach them about this true God they had heard something about from their neighbours lately returned from Lak-Chuk ; and again at night, when their work was done for the day, the evening meal over, fifty or sixty of them gathered in the moonlight, sitting or squatting on the ground outside their mud-houses, a stool in the midst for me ; and after the catechist whom we took with us had spoken, and Dr. Colborne's assistant in dispensing and the captain had held forth, they sent down to the boat with the request that I would come up too. It was our last chance for some time to come. The people out here are not all "hungering and thirsting" for the Gospel, as I used to hear and think was the case before I came out, but in this place they seemed really desperate—I can think of no other word to describe it—for more knowledge, how to worship God, how to pray to Him, &c., &c. "Was it true that He needed no offerings, only that with one true heart they loved and obeyed Him?" and so on. When I advised them after our departure to apply to the few women who knew most, and had begun already to pray for the forgiveness of their sins, these few would get a dig in the ribs, and a gentle reminder to "Now, mind you remember; don't forget."

"Desperate for more knowledge."

"Mind you remember."

We all went back to our boat that night delighted with what we had seen of the people in Wo-sun, and, humanly speaking, this all arose from two successful operations for cataract on a man there—one eye was done last visit, the other this. Dr. Colborne used to talk to and teach him in the evening when in Lak-Chuk.

Lak-Chuk is thirty miles from Shiu-hing, and at the latter place also there was encouragement. Mrs. Colborne writes:—

An earnest leper inquirer.

One young woman, who turned out to be a leper, and seemed really influenced by what she heard of the Gospel, has proved since to have been sincere. She had heard something, she said, of the Roman Catholic doctrine before, but was not very clear as to what it was. Her first words this last visit were, "Oh, Sin-Nai, I've been praying to Jesus ever since you left"—said with such a bright, happy face, so different to the expression she used to have, that I could not but feel sure that a great change had come over her, especially when she told us what peace she had in her heart now that God had forgiven her sins. Indirectly it came out that four people, relatives, in whose house she lived had destroyed their idols soon after her return to them, five months ago, and, with her, now worshipped God. On speaking to her of baptism, she said that she had been—had baptized herself!

A village named Hang-mei-tsun, a few miles from Heung Shan, is singular in that a large proportion—about one-fourth—of its adult population are able to speak English, viz., "pigeon-English," having been to Australia, mostly to Sydney. Dr. and Mrs. Colborne found a young English woman there who had married a Chinaman several years before, and returned with him to his village home, and, sad to say, there worships his idols. Some books were sent to her by a Native, who returned, saying in English how pleased she had been to receive them.

PAKHOI.

Pakhoi.

Bishop Burdon twice visited PAKHOI during the year, in February and in December. On the former occasion he baptized ten inmates of the Leper Hospital; and on January 1st, 1896, he confirmed seven of these in the leper chapel, one of the others having died during the interval and another having returned to his home. The Bishop held classes for the lepers, of whom he wrote:—

Bishop Burdon conducts a class of lepers.

The lepers were to me a specially interesting class. Many of their faces lightened up with intelligence from time to time, as they seemed to take in some of the teachings given. I concluded my lesson generally by asking three or four of the brightest of the lads to rise while I examined them in a book I had given them on my previous visit, on the evidences of Christianity. The book was rather beyond them, but they were able to answer some of the questions I asked, and the rest of the lepers were always greatly interested in this part of the proceedings.

This hospital has now 85 beds. Twenty-five of the lepers passed a good examination in reading the Romanized character, and some have taught others. Their writing, too, is pronounced "wonderfully good," considering how crippled the hands of many of them are. Three female lepers were received in a separate building, two being those from Hong Kong mentioned above. Dr. and Mrs. L. G. Hill reached Pakhoi in February, 1895, travelling from Hong Kong with the Bishop. Five patients in the General Hospital were baptized. Three of these were a blind youth and two whom his conversation had influenced. Dr. Hill says:—

Influence of a blind convert.

Early in the year a tall, handsome, well-built young Chinaman came to the Hospital from a town some two days' journey off complaining of gradually failing sight. To look at, his eyes were clear, bright, and not destroyed by neglect and filth, as the majority of the totally blind are; but, alas! on examining more closely we came to the conclusion that Fuk-t'in has a cerebral tumour, and that treatment was hopeless. It was suggested he should stay in the Hospital as a visitor for a time, where he quickly learnt all about the truth as it is in Jesus, and evinced a remarkable perception of the deep things of God. At first he was greatly downcast at being unable to regain the use of his eyes, but, as he himself expressed it, he lost an earthly sight to gain a heavenly one. In the summer he was baptized. His influence during his stay in the Hospital eternity alone will reveal. In everyone he took a deep interest, and from sunrise to sunset he would explain the way of salvation to all his fellow-patients, and teach them to sing and to pray. Two of the latter were afterwards admitted to baptism. It was thought wise to send him away to his home to testify there what he now believes; he has recently returned and brought his mother, to whom he has taught the Word, and also several others to learn more of the love of Jesus. We pray for more like him.

The in-patients numbered 423, exclusive of lepers; the out-patients, 4,521, representing over three hundred different towns and villages. The important city of Lien-Chau, fifteen miles from Pakhoi, sent 329 patients; over one hundred were from the province of Kwang-si, and a few even from Yunnan. A Girls' Boarding School was opened early in 1895, which had ten boarders and an average of sixteen day girls.

PROVINCE OF FUH-KIEN.

Dr. and Mrs. B. Van Someren Taylor came home in June, 1895, and the former returned to the Mission in April, 1896; the Rev. and Mrs. T. McClelland and the Rev. H. S. Phillips came home in January, 1896; and Miss K. Power, having left the Mission in October, 1895, and visited Australia, arrived in England in February. On the other hand, the Rev. and Mrs. Ll. Lloyd, the Rev. J. Martin, and Miss M. D. Boileau sailed in October, 1895, to return to the Mission, and Dr. J. Rigg in February, 1896. The Rev. H. S. Phillips was married on February 18th, 1896, to Miss A. M. Hankin, daughter of the Rev. D.

B. Hankin, vicar of St. Jude's, Mildmay Park. Miss Hankin went out to China in 1892 as a missionary of the C.E.Z.M.S.

Death of Rev. Tiong Muk Tung.

The Rev. Tiong Muk Tung, who was admitted to deacon's orders in 1892, died in the Mission Hospital at Fuh-Ning on June 21st, 1895.

Bishop Burdon was present at the Conference of Missionaries and the Provincial Council of Native Christians in November. He wrote of the former:—

Missionary Conference.

> The first three days of the former week, Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, were given up to devotional and missionary gatherings. Our services on these three days were held in the forenoon, and were, I hope, helpful to all. My subject was the last paragraph of the Apostles' Creed, the previous portions having been taken the year before. After morning prayer I delivered two addresses on each day on the subjects in order, one of the brethren at my request adding to my remarks in a short address, after which two of the brethren offered prayer. You can imagine what our thoughts and prayers and feelings would be when the "Communion of Saints" was touched upon. The evenings of these three days were given up to missionary gatherings, when each worker gave an account of his or her work during the year. These meetings were open to any of the general community who might wish to attend, and a few were in attendance.

Provincial Council.

The meeting of the Provincial Council of Delegates from the several District Councils was larger than any previous gathering, and that notwithstanding that many from the Ku-cheng district were unable to attend. Archdeacon Wolfe wrote:—

Spirit of native agents after the massacre.

> The College chapel and hall were crowded, and many had to be accommodated on the verandahs. The late massacre at Ku-cheng, of course, was a prominent subject at our missionary meeting on the Saturday evening, and all through this had a solemnizing influence on our meetings, but not a word of halting or of relaxing a single effort in our work was heard from our native brethren, but, on the contrary, touching appeals were made by some of the native clergy and catechists for more earnestness and devoted service on the part of all in this work for the salvation of their countrymen. One after another got up and declared how their hearts have been touched, and how this sad event has awakened in them such a burning desire as they had never felt before for the salvation of their people, and a determination to work harder than ever, by God's help, for this object. I felt as these native brethren were giving utterance to these feelings in burning words, that God was already bringing good out of the Hwa-sang massacre, and that He was preparing us for a greater blessing still.

Ladies detained at Fuh-Chow several months.

The wives of missionaries and the single ladies connected with the C.M.S. and C.E.Z.M.S. were called to Fuh-Chow from the interior stations after the massacre at Hwa-sang in August, and were detained there until February, 1896, when H.M. Consul gave them permission to return to their stations. It is specially noteworthy that a year which has seen the larger part of the Mission bereft for months together of most of the European labourers has witnessed in many places very striking progress and a widespread spirit of inquiry.

FUH-CHOW.

Fuh-Chow.

The year was an unsettled one, owing not only to the great trouble which befell the Mission in the murders at Ku-cheng, but because of fears which agitated the minds of the FUH-CHOW people in the early months of the year of an invasion of the country by the Japanese, and in consequence of an epidemic which showed similar symptoms to that which visited other parts of China, and especially Hong Kong, during 1894. Many people died, but the Christians all escaped. The various educational institutions were closed for the above reasons from July until December. The Theological College had 36 students under training. The Principal, the Rev. W. Banister, says the men gave much satisfaction on the whole, showing diligence in their studies. The island of Nantai has been assigned to the College as a sphere for evangelistic work, and schoolmasters, students, or probationary catechists were placed at four centres, namely, at Wong Tong, Chen Tah, Yong Ngie, and Yong-to-Liang. The Rev. Ngoi Kaik Ki is stationed at the last-named place, under Mr. Banister's supervision, and ten adults were baptized on March 1st, 1895. The Boys' High School had 32 pupils. After passing through this school the students take charge for a few years of village schools (in which 2,000 children are gathered day by day), and then return for a further period of training in the College. A Boys' Boarding School was opened for junior lads under seventeen. The Women's Training Home was under Mrs. Banister, but for a few months she was relieved of the charge by Miss E. S. Goldie. There were twenty-four women under instruction. The two Girls' Boarding Schools were conducted, the one by Miss Bushell, of the Female Education Society, and the other by Miss Leslie (now at home) and Miss Lee, of the C.E.Z.M.S. The latter school was opened in May, 1893, especially for middle-class girls of heathen families, in a house which is the property of Mrs. A. Hok, and which she rents to the Mission. About half of the forty girls, however, belong to families which cannot pay for their board. The Pastoral and Evangelistic work in Fuh-Chow city, with "its million of inhabitants," and in the district immediately around is under Archdeacon Wolfe's supervision. A marked change came over the people in their attitude towards the Mission in the autumn of 1895. On the first news of the Ku-cheng massacre great joy was manifested, and hatred against foreigners was shown in the public streets in many objectionable ways. But suddenly, in the month of October, the people's bearing changed. The preaching-places became thronged to an unprecedented degree. In November the Archdeacon wrote:—

Evangelistic work.

> Last Sunday in this city our big church was crammed with men (at the men's side) with those who had come expressing their wish to become Christians. I cannot say whether these men are all sincere, but I have never seen anything like this in Fuh-Chow during all my years here. I do not wish to raise hopes that may not be realized with reference to these men, but I have faith in God, and simply say I have not seen anything like this here before. Pray for us still. We are expecting great things.

Preaching-places thronged.

And again in January :—

Yesterday (Sunday) the city services were more crowded and interesting than ever. A small military mandarin has been attending for several Sundays and has now asked me to open a school in his neighbourhood, and has promised that his son, a literary student, shall teach it as a Christian school without receiving the ordinary salary. This young man attends church regularly with his father. They are well-to-do, and I can see no motive but a real one in giving in their names as catechumens. I am trying to take advantage of this remarkable state of things in the city and suburbs, and I trust I shall be able to open several day-schools in and around the city, where the people can come and be taught.

Another illustration of the change was given a month later :—

Improved attitude of the people.

Heretofore it was next to impossible to get anybody to sell a site for a house or church to a foreigner, but now within the last few months offers are being made to me of more places than we want for houses, churches, or hospitals, and last week part of our old U-Sioh-Sang premises, the very spot on which the destroyed College stood, with a large piece of land attached to it, has been offered to me for sale, and its owners are still pressing me to buy it at a very reasonable price.

Death of a faithful catechist.

A faithful catechist in the city, Mr. Tang Ching Hing, died during the year, occasioning the greatest loss which had happened to the city work for some time, the Archdeacon says. He was the son of one of the first converts of the Mission baptized by the Rev. George Smith. He himself was baptized as a child, and was educated in the Mission Boys' School. Archdeacon Wolfe says of his work and of his death :—

It was quite a pleasure to listen to his addresses on all occasions, to both Christians and Heathen, and his expositions of the Scriptures, whenever he occupied the pulpit in the city church, were well worth listening to. He died the Sunday after Christmas Day at seven o'clock, about two hours after I had been with him. He had been both deaf and speechless a day or two before his death. He suffered much pain for some weeks, and when he knew he was nearing the border-land he called his six children to his bedside and spoke to each individually, and told them he was going home to God, and exhorted each to live as true followers of Jesus, and said he hoped his two sons would grow up good men, and become preachers of salvation to their countrymen. He then gave them his blessing, and commended them to the care of their Heavenly Father, and seemed after that to have no further anxiety on their account. After this he had a glorious vision of the Home above, and saw the Lord Jesus Himself standing near him, then a company of angels came to welcome him home, and with them came Mr. Stewart and the Revs. Tang and Ling and Su, who died here years ago, and his own father, and talked with him most lovingly. "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord."

Work in villages.

The Villages near Fuh-Chow were influenced by the changed attitude in the city. Miss Goldie wrote in December :—

Four afternoons a week I give to visiting, and never have I found such ready and willing listeners to the Gospel as in the villages round Fuh-Chow. It seems as if, at this time, a wave of blessing was passing over this province.

The same applies to the work in the Ma-po Valley, where several families have become inquirers, exciting thereby the opposition of the village elders, who issued proclamations against them and called upon the clans to expel them from their ancestral halls and homes and to prohibit their use of the public wells. At Koi-hu, fourteen miles from Fuh-Chow, the little congregation has appeared to be well-nigh spiritually dead for some years past, and the catechist was withdrawn two or three years ago; but at the earnest request of some of the people he returned at the end of 1894, and great improvement is reported, several families from surrounding villages having joined the congregation. The Ladies of the C.E.Z.M.S., besides those mentioned above, are Miss Stevens, Miss Barr, Miss Chambers, Miss C. Wathen, and two ladies (Miss Gardner and Miss Mongan) supported by the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Trinity College, Dublin, Fuh-kien Mission.

LIENG-KONG DISTRICT.

Lieng-Kong.

The work in the LIENG-KONG District, which was steadily and hopefully advancing, has been sadly interrupted by the advent of Romanists to some of the most encouraging stations. Archdeacon Wolfe writes:—

Attacks by Roman Catholics.

> In about two months these Romanists induced over 400 families to join them, and violently attacked our people, went into their houses, took down the Ten Commandments, the Creed, and the Lord's Prayer, which were placed on the walls of their public room, and replaced them by an image of the Virgin and a crucifix. These Romanists, wherever they come, carry things with a high hand, and the authorities are either afraid to interfere with them, or else give them a free hand. The result is, an appeal against their violence on the part of our people is absolutely disregarded by the native officials. This is a cause of great injustice and distress to our people.

The Revs. W. Light and L. H. F. Star made a tour in the district in the spring of 1895, in lieu of Archdeacon Wolfe, who was suffering from ill-heath; and though their knowledge of the dialect was imperfect, they were able to comfort the Christians under persecutions which they were enduring in some places. They were taken for Japanese in one village and followed by a number of soldiers. The Rev. Ting Sing Ang was admitted to priest's orders in the spring of 1895, as mentioned last year. He was called upon later in the year to bear the heavy trial and sorrow of losing his excellent wife by death. She was one of the first pupils in the Fuh-Chow boarding-school thirty years ago, and for several years she conducted in the city of Lieng-Kong the most flourishing day-school in the whole Mission. There were fourteen adult baptisms in the district.

Death of a pastor's wife.

LO-NGWONG.

Lo-Ngwong.

Upon the Rev. J. Martin's coming home in April, 1895, the Rev. and Mrs. T. McClelland went to reside at Lo-Ngwong, the former taking charge of the work in this and the neighbouring district of Ning Taik. After August they and the C.E.Z.M.S. ladies, Miss Hook, Miss Cooper, and Miss Wedderspoon, were not allowed by the Consul to live there any longer, but Mr. McClelland visited the districts in October and November. The congregation in Lo-Ngwong city keeps up in numbers, and several women inquirers are among the regular attendants. On Easter Day, 1895, there were 170 present. The boys' boarding school has 22 scholars. Outside the city is a leper village with some sixty or seventy suffering inhabitants. The one Christian among them died during the year. At Sa-Sang, four miles distant from Lo-Ngwong, there are some twenty women inquirers.

NING TAIK.

Ning Taik.

Throughout the Ning Taik District the Rev. T. McClelland (now at home) observed a forward movement. In Ning Taik city, a hard and unproductive soil hitherto, the seed sown is bearing fruit; some twenty families are reported as attending the services, while in a neighbouring village there are over seventy inquirers. The congregation at the city church numbers about 130. In the Western Villages Pastorate the new inquirers are still more numerous. At Ting-Sang-A 200 assemble for worship, and a new church is being erected. The contributions to the Ning Taik Church Council increased during the year by over $100. The death of the Rev. Tiong Muk Tung has been mentioned. It was stated in last year's Report, under "Lo-Ngwong," that he and the Rev. Ho Sëu Hok had exchanged stations, but as a matter of fact the former never removed from Ning Taik to Lo-Ngwong on account of ill-health. Eventually he was taken to Fuh-Ning, and he died in the hospital there after a lingering illness. Mr. McClelland says, "He was a good, faithful man, a most earnest and zealous preacher of the Gospel." And the Rev. H. M. Eyton-Jones, of Fuh-Ning, writes:—

"Death had no terror for him."

The Rev. Tiong Muk Tung was in the hospital for months; he died in June of consumption. His death was peaceful, holy, triumphant; he died as he had lived, witnessing to the goodness and power of God; and on the banner which preceded his bier were Chinese characters signifying, "Death had no terror for him; it was a return home." The man's life has been fruitful, powerful, exemplary. He was a truly spiritual worker, and the Church feels his loss.

When Mr. McClelland came home at the beginning of 1896, the Conference placed the district of Lo-Ngwong and Ning Taik under the supervision of the Rev. W. Banister, and requested the Revs. W. Light and L. H. F. Star to reside at Lo-Ngwong.

FUH-NING.

Fuh-Ning.

The work in the FUH-NING prefecture continues under the supervision of the Rev. H. M. Eyton-Jones. In the city of Fuh-Ning the congregation has slightly increased, and the hospital work carried on by native doctors, trained in past years by Dr. Van Someren Taylor, was well maintained. Among the in-patients at one time were a number of wounded soldiers from Formosa. As an illustration of the widespread use of opium among the official classes, the following experience of Mr. Eyton-Jones is worth recording :—

Widespread use of opium among official classes.

I was invited to dine with the Prefect of the Fuh-Ning district one evening, and during the evening asked him his opinion as to the use of opium. "It is bad," he replied, "for three things. It is a waste (1) of life, (2) of time, (3) of money. If the foreign import was stopped, we could control the use inland, as the native-grown opium is so much milder than the foreign." After dinner we adjourned to an ante-room in the Yamen; and my servant brought my travelling lamp, beckoning vigorously, on which I took my departure, the other guests following suit. On arriving home my servant explained his haste. "Could you not see," said he, "that the mayor could not sit still, but kept fidgetting? The hour for his opium-smoking had come, and he was most uncomfortable." The majority of the guests were, I was told, also opium-smokers, as also was the host. The opium-pipe, often begun to allay pain or to while away a monotonous hour, or presented to guests (for Chinese amusements are all too few), becomes a rod of iron, and the smoker a slave. One, Mr. Wong, a good friend of mine, is of Prefectural rank, and head of one of the leading county families. He is a most courteous and well-bred man, but, alas! a tremendous opium-smoker; and being wealthy he can smoke to any extent.

The Girls' Boarding School, under the Misses J. E. and J. C. Clarke, had thirty girls on the roll in June, 1895, when it was closed; it was not reopened during the year owing to the ladies being detained at Fuh-Chow. The Scripture answers in the examination earned 89 per cent. of full marks. Some of the girls when at home for the holidays and en route to and from school spoke to women whom they met about the Gospel. On Monday evenings a missionary meeting was held for the girls, and, though most of them very poor, they put 312 cash into the missionary-box. Miss J. C. Clarke says about this box :—

School-girls' missionary box.

There was a discussion at first as to whether this box should be passed round on Sunday morning for contributions, or left on the school table, and the girls begged for the latter. They said, "If it is passed round on Sunday we may forget, or be tempted to spend our money first; but if it is left in the school we can put some money in as soon as we get it." At the end of last term, when their pocket-money was being distributed, I opened the box, and said, "It's very hungry," and left it there. Going in and out of the room afterwards, I was surprised to see how one after another came up and put in her offering of cash. We have tried to impress upon them that it is to God they are giving, and I think they feel it so, and I am sure that as the Lord looked down He was nearly as pleased with some of those offerings as He was on the day He stood over against the treasury and saw the widow give out of her poverty to Him.

The ladies were encouraged in Visiting the Houses of the people. That of Mrs. Ngu, who was mentioned in last year's Report, was visited every week, and the family listened to the Word with much apparent interest. It will be remembered that the door to this house was opened in an indirect way through the hospital. Another house which was visited weekly by invitation was in like manner thrown open as a consequence of the successful treatment of one of its inmates, a young woman who proved a most interesting and intelligent pupil. Her old mother-in-law also is an earnest seeker after salvation. Miss J. C. Clarke says of her:—

An old and very deaf inquirer.

The mother-in-law is old and very deaf, but does her best to learn, and generally remembers well what she hears. I taught her 1 John i. 7 one day, and she learnt it fairly well, but by the next time could only recall a few words. However, she was determined to master it, and went over and over the words, "'His Son, Jesus Christ's blood,' what is it? what is it?" and no matter what conversation was going on around, her voice broke through asking again and again, till she could say all; and through this a few girls in the room learned it too. She has learned a simple prayer, and said to me one day that she knew she ought to keep the Sabbath, but she was not able to walk to church, so she just said her prayer four or five times over, and would that do, was it enough? "I did not know before," she said, "I had not heard, but now I do know. I only want to follow the Heavenly Father. I want to walk the road of light." And I believe in her feeble way she is following as far as she is able.

"I want to walk the road of light."

Missionary attacked by a Chinese policeman.

At Fu-Ting, a city two days' journey north of Fuh-Ning, Mr. Eyton-Jones opened a bookshop in March, 1895. While there he was furiously attacked in this shop by a policeman attached to the Yâmen, who rushed at him with a dagger, but was disarmed by Mr. Jones and his Native Christian companions, and tied by his queue to the door-post until the arrival of other policemen, who took him away. The man was not punished by the mandarin. Soon after Mr. Eyton-Jones left Fu-Ting the following placard was posted in large numbers about the city:—

An abusive placard.

In former days, before this doctrine came, all was peaceful. Its origin is unknown. Christ's teaching was evil. His followers were unwilling to confess how evil it was. Confucius' teaching, unlike that of Jesus, was good. Followers of Jesus become akin to the beasts, their conscience is dead, their lives become injured, their end is certain. Even in death their bodies are maltreated. Their eyes are torn from their sockets, their hearts from their bodies, and their knee-caps wrenched off. The foreigners who do this hide their evil deeds. Their goodness they blaze abroad. There is neither rest in life nor peace in death. Children are taught to be unfilial, subjects disloyal, and men to treat their relatives as strangers. Our maidens are led astray by the foreign clergy. Their vices forbid enumeration. Our forefathers will not protect such bestial ones, who destroy the worshipping of our ancestors and idols, sever husband and wife, and prevent maidens from marrying, and alter our customs. They are the laughing-stock of all. Thus we are all on the high road to evil. Christ was a wicked man. Be firm. Burn down his church and his books when he [Mr. Eyton-Jones] comes again. Woe to the landlord who rented him a house. Townsmen, fight to the bitter end. We heap insults and abuse on Jesus' head. I call heaven to witness. Let him avenge himself, and punish us, if he can. Let Fuh-Ting city witness. We stand to our words. We hate with bitterest hatred. Let all take knowledge of this.

Nevertheless possession was kept of the bookshop, and two colporteurs, paid by the British and Foreign Bible Society, are at work in the district. A catechist has been placed at Sung-sang, and a little congregation of twenty fishermen attend the services. The Christians at Cho-wang assist one another in their field labours, all uniting to reap in each other's fields in turn. Miss J. E. Clarke with a Bible-woman spent a week at Eng-A in the spring of 1895, visiting and receiving visitors; then she went on to Sua-dong and stayed three days in the house of a family of inquirers. The young wife in this family was cured in the Fuh-Ning hospital during 1894, and on her return, moved by what she told him, her husband began to attend Christian worship at a place three miles off, and soon after started family prayer. Miss Clarke says:—

Family prayers in a Chinese kitchen.

"At seven days old he ought to be offered to God."

It was a great joy to me to gather every evening with his family in the kitchen, and sing, read, and pray. In the mornings only the two women meet to sing and pray, as the men have to go to work early. I must not omit to mention the baby, a fine little fellow, then six weeks old, because of the interest attaching to him. When only a week old, his grandmother carried him out into the kitchen (an unheard-of thing here), where his father and uncle, and she herself, were going to have worship, "Because," she said, "at seven days old he ought to be offered to God." While there we were rarely without visitors when in, and when out visiting had large audiences; at one house I met a very encouraging little incident. Going in, several women gathered round; sitting down beside one old lady, and unfolding a picture of the Prodigal Son, I said, "I want to show you this picture, and tell you the meaning." "Oh, I know that," she said, and, turning to another old lady, told her the story. "Where did you hear that?" I asked. "Last year I was in the city, and went to your house; you showed me the picture, and told me the story," she answered. I think this was just sent to encourage us, and to show us that, however apparently fruitless may be the work of receiving visitors, it is not really so, for neither this nor any other labour can be in vain.

Miss Clarke proceeded to Sua-siek, and spent six happy days there, finding twenty-five men and ten women waiting to be taught. At the Sunday morning service a woman attended "because she wanted to return thanks to God" for recovery at the Fuh-Ning hospital, although her husband, Miss Clarke says, had beaten her before starting, and would probably do the same on her return home. At this place Mr. Eyton-Jones subsequently baptized five men. One of the ladies wrote at the end of the year, while they were being detained at Fuh-Chow, that they were quite "home-sick," longing to be back again at their own station.

Missionaries "home-sick" to be back at their stations.

HOK-CHIANG.

Hok-Chiang.

Archdeacon Wolfe is in charge of the Hok-Chiang District, which he visits from Fuh-Chow. There are twelve pastorates, and in them fifty places where public worship is held every Twelve pastorates.

Lord's Day. Six of the pastorates, namely, Hok-Chiang, King-Meng, Keng-Tan, Keng-Kiang, Tiang-Pieng, and Hong-A, are under the pastoral charge of the Rev. Yek Siu Mi; while the following six are under the care of the Rev. Yek Twang Mi, namely, Ko-Sang-Che, Tiang-Taing, Lang-Pwang, Ting-Chong, Teng-Aing, and Sang-Au. The number of baptized Christians increased from 1,939 to 2,311. The catechumens are given as less than in the previous year, but that is because Archdeacon Wolfe hesitated to place in that category without a period of probation the large numbers, some 2,000 or 3,000, who professed to have joined the congregations. In the village of Sa-Wang, in the Ting-Chong pastorate, twenty-three families embraced Christianity and subscribed liberally towards the erection of a place of worship. The Rev. Yek Twang Mi resides at Ko-Sang-Che, and in this place a house has been built for two ladies, Miss M. E. Wolfe and another. Some forty families in the Tiang-Taing pastorate renounced their idols, and the Archdeacon says it is simply impossible for the catechists to teach all the people who are continually joining their congregations. One catechist has to shepherd five congregations, having each an average of twenty families. In the village of Sa-Yek, the Christian families subscribed $120 towards the purchase of a house to serve as a chapel-of-ease for the women and children who cannot possibly attend the services at the nearest church. The Hong-A pastorate, under an earnest and warm-hearted, though not very brilliant catechist, made progress spiritually. At Sa-Lu sixteen families gave up their idols, commenced Christian worship in one of their houses, and subscribed $200 towards the building of a church. In the Keng-Tan pastorate there are seven congregations, some of them ten and even twelve miles apart, under two catechists. In the city of Hok-Chiang, the Rev. Yek Siu Mi resides. The pastorate extends to a radius of fourteen miles round the city, and "hundreds of families have thrown away their idols and opened places of Christian worship for themselves." In one large town, eight miles from Hok-Chiang, 200 families joined during November and December. Archdeacon Wolfe writes:—

Large number of inquirers.

> In view of this remarkable movement and awakening, our hearts are full of praise and thankfulness and joy, but, alas! of fear and trembling lest we should, by want of faith or by any other fault of ours, hinder this work. We hope and believe it to be a work of the Spirit, for nothing else is capable of producing such a universal awakening.

Persecution at Hok-Chiang.

This movement is all the more noteworthy because the city of Hok-Chiang and the neighbouring villages were the scene of persecution in the autumn of 1895. Upon the news of the Ku-cheng massacres reaching the place, the magistrate issued a proclamation which indicated a decided anti-Christian bias, and the people, taking their cue from this, openly declared their intention to exterminate the Christians. A number of men from the Yamen about this time called at the houses of the Christians, and demanded two dollars from each towards the cost of idolatrous processions. A number of the Christians in a village close to the city were by the same men plundered of their household effects, their farm implements, and their cattle, and some of the Christians were badly treated. Upon Mr. Yek, the pastor, expostulating to the magistrate, the latter issued another proclamation, throwing the blame on the Christians for not paying the subscription to the processions. The intervention of H.M. Consul at Fuh-Chow, about this time, in October, induced the Viceroy to censure and recall the mandarin and to appoint another in his place, who forced the persecutors to return the property which had been stolen. When Archdeacon Wolfe went through the district at the end of October, he found all quiet, and the new mandarin was particularly courteous to him, and emphatic in his promises of protection for the Christians. The Archdeacon went over the district again in December, accompanied by Miss Wolfe and Miss Boileau; they met everywhere with respect. The Christian women were delighted at the prospect of having European sisters living amongst them.

The mandarin recalled.

HING HWA.

"We never before had such crowded churches, nor such manifest tokens that God was blessing the work," writes the Rev. C. Shaw, and this during a year that the European missionaries were of necessity absent from the district much of the time. The C.E.Z.M.S. ladies, Miss F. M. Lloyd, Miss Tabberer, and Miss Witherby (Miss Hankin, who laboured in this district, was married to the Rev. H. S. Phillips, as already mentioned) were absent nearly eight months, being not permitted to return until the end of February, 1896. Mr. Shaw had a class of six students under instruction and training for a year, who resided in the church, and received about two dollars per mensem for their support. The Sunday congregation in Hing Hwa city is about four hundred in number; the house which is used, though fairly large, is uncomfortably crowded, and sometimes a hundred people stand outside during the services. It has already been necessary to move the congregation four times in the past three years in order to find the necessary accommodation. Mr. Shaw says:—

"Never before had such crowded churches."

Place of worship at Hing Hwa changed four times in three years.

> Truly we have many signs in this place that God is working mightily, and even amongst the literati and upper classes the Spirit of God is working. People who a year ago hated us, are now our friends and coming to visit our house. Some very rich people who are our neighbours, who two years ago objected to our buying the house we are now living in, and sent a petition to the Viceroy in Fuh-Chow to prevent foreigners coming to live in their street, alleging as a reason that we should spoil their fung chui, or luck, are now worshipping with us on Sundays, come in and out of our house in a most friendly way, and often bow the knee with us in family prayer. From time to time also we get tangible proofs of their friendship in the shape of presents of fruit. Surely we may say, "What hath God wrought?" To Him be all the glory.

Congregation increased from 200 to 600 in three months.

A new church has been built at Ging-dong, and was dedicated in November, 1895, when the congregation numbered 200. Three months later the catechist reported that it had increased to 600. Of the Rev. Ting Chung Deng, of Sing-Iu, Mr. Shaw writes:—

An earnest and devoted Chinese pastor.

He is a most earnest man and very spiritually-minded. He has been having a good deal of anxiety of late, and I have been very anxious about him. Just after the Ku-cheng massacre our Sing-Iu church was attacked. A number of people broke into Mr. Deng's (the pastor's) house and stole some of his belongings. They also broke the roof of the church and injured the building in many ways. The people who did this were neighbours of his; they have been unfriendly ever since the church was built. A number of them met in a temple, and planned how best to annoy and harass the Christians. They spoke at one time of killing Mr. Deng, and also threatened to pour kerosine oil on the church and burn it. Mr. Deng removed his family here to Hing Hwa for safety, but he himself remained faithfully at his post. Just about a month ago I heard through Mr. Brewster that another plot had been made to take Mr. Deng's life. I immediately sent him word, and begged of him to come over here, but he refused. He said he would take all the care he could, but that he could not leave the people.

The church at Dang-Seng has been repaired by the Christians. In the whole of the Hing Hwa district the Christians pay the rent of their places of worship, and furnish them, and also support the catechist. The Rev. J. A. Cutten is located at Hing Hwa.

KU-CHENG AND PING NANG DISTRICTS.

Ku-cheng.

Alarm caused by "Vegetarians."

A reference was made in last year's Report to the threatening attitude of the so-called Vegetarians in the district of KU-CHENG in December, 1894. The following March, late at night on the 25th, the late Rev. R. W. Stewart received warning from the native clergyman, the Rev. Ling Sing Mi, that a rising of the sect was expected, and that the Ku-cheng mandarin had ordered the gates of the city to be walled up. The Mission-house was outside the walls, and the compound contained nearly 100 women and children. The whole company, by means of a ladder, were safely taken within the walls, where they remained for several days, the citizens all that time keeping guard upon the walls. But the Vegetarians did not approach. By the advice of the British Consul the European ladies and children were sent at that time to Fuh-Chow for safety. In the following June, however, it was considered safe for them to return to Ku-cheng, and they did so. During the hot months of July and August the missionaries of this station usually go up to the mountain village of Hwa-sang, some twelve miles distant, and about 2,000 feet above the city of Ku-cheng. Very soon, therefore, after the return of the ladies and children from the coast, the whole party made their annual move to the sanatorium, and here the terrible massacre took place the particulars of which have been given above (pages 311, 312). A lady of the C.E.Z.M.S. mentioned the following incident :—

A mournful "declaration of war."

The band of Vegetarians, after murdering Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, took a sheet from one of the beds and made a banner of it, writing on it in Chinese characters, "China's dragon goes to war with the Christian Jesus." It seemed like a literal fulfilment of that vision in the Book of Revelation.

At Ku-cheng the official inquiry and examination of the persons suspected of complicity in the murders took place during part of August and September, the result of which was that 26 men were executed, 19 banished or imprisoned for life, 29 imprisoned for periods of from five to ten years, and 20 received minor punishments. It was proved that about 160 people were present at the massacre. One feature in these unhappy events was truly thankworthy. The Native Christians were not molested. Archdeacon Wolfe wrote :—

Native Christians not molested.

The attack was confined altogether to the foreign Mission party ; none of the churches scattered all over the district have been touched ; the houses of the Mission in Ku-cheng city have not been disturbed ; neither the converts nor their houses have been molested, though these are scattered all over the villages, and their existence was well known to the Vegetarians. Hitherto in ordinary persecutions it was the converts and the churches that were attacked, torn down, and burned. On this present occasion all these are left untouched.

A very hearty welcome was accorded in December to the Rev. J. Martin, who, soon after arriving at Fuh-Chow from a visit to this country, went up and spent Christmas at Ku-cheng. He wrote of this visit in a private letter to his own children :—

The Rev. J. Martin welcomed at Ku-cheng.

About 3 li, one mile, from the city, I saw a small group of men. One of the chair coolies said, "Sing Seng, some of the Christians and teachers have come to meet you." There were about twenty. I was so thankful to see them, and they gave me a hearty welcome. A little further on one woman was sitting on the roadside, and as I neared she stood up and said, "Ping ang" ("Peace"), and looked happy. A little further there was a sad group, but they looked happy. They were all lepers—a most pitiable sight. One dear old man had no eyes and no nose. They all put their hands together and said, "Ping ang." It was so touching, and worth all the trouble to see their joy. They tried to let off some crackers, but could not succeed very well. As I entered the city the people looked at me, but said nothing. There was perfect silence. It was so strange !

Christmas carols.

Before daylight I was awakened by some one singing. I listened, and heard some women and girls singing under my room. It was so sweet. They sang "Hark, the herald angels sing," and two other carols. It was so kind of them, and to-day I thanked them for coming to sing to me.

Soon after breakfast I started with the Native Pastor, Ling Seng Mi, and a catechist, to go to the Leper Asylum for service at 10 o'clock. I was so pleased with the place, and am sure Mr. Banister and Mr. Stewart would be amply repaid for all the care they have taken over this asylum if they could have seen the chapel this morning. There were fifty people in the chapel—men, women, and children ; some were able to read and had their three books—Hymn, Prayer, and Bible. Almost all knew the hymn, "Jesus loves me." I spoke on the "Saviour." They were all so very attentive. After my sermon I administered the Holy Communion to them. Six women and twenty-six men partook.

Mr. Martin has been appointed to the charge of the district. The surviving C.E.Z.M.S. Ladies connected with this district are Miss Weller, Miss Nisbet, Miss Rochford-Wade, Miss M. Newcombe, Miss Burroughs, Miss Codrington, and Miss Tolley. These, except Miss Codrington (at home), and Misses Burroughs and M. Newcombe, whose station, Sang-Yong, is some distance from Ku-cheng city, returned to their work in February, 1896.

KIEN-NING A. YEN-PING DISTRICTS.

The Rev. H. S. Phillips was the only European missionary in these extensive districts of North-West Fuh-kien from March, 1895, when the Rev. J. . Collins left to come home, until July, 1895, when he left Kien-Ning to visit the Mission party at Ku-cheng, after which his return to the district would not have been permitted. His furlough, moreover, was due, and his health required a complete change after the successive troubles and dangers through which he had passed. The C.E.Z.M.S. Ladies assigned to Nang-Wa are Miss B. Newcombe, Miss Frances Johnson, Miss Rodd, Miss Bryer, and Miss Fleming.

MID-CHINA MISSION.

China, north of lat. 28°, became a separate diocese, "North China," in 1872; Dr. Russell, of the C.M.S., was the first Bishop. In 1880, after Bishop Russell's death, it was divided into two, and Dr. G. E. Moule, of the C.M.S., became Bishop of the new See of Mid-China. Shanghai was occupied in 1845; Ningpo, 1848; Hang-chow, 1864; Shaou-hing, 1870; T'ai-chow, 1892; and Chuki, 1894. In the earlier years of the Mission much success was, by the Divine blessing, achieved in the numerous towns and villages around Ningpo. Many of the Christians in these villages have manifested exemplary Christian steadfastness and zeal, and seven of them have been ordained during a period of seventeen years.

The Province of Si-chuan was occupied by a party under the Rev. J. H. Horsburgh in 1892, but for more than a year it was impossible to rent houses in any place not already occupied by other Societies. In 1894 the cities of Chong-pa, Sin-tu, Mien-Chuh, Miencheo, and An Hsien received resident missionaries, and Shih-ts'uen Hsien in 1895.

In view of the great difficulty pressed upon the Committee by Bishop Moule of his exercising due oversight of the Church of England Missions in Western China on account of their great distance from his base, the Committee concurred in the Bishop's recommendation that his sphere of Episcopal supervision should be divided. Upon their approaching the Archbishop of Canterbury, his Grace allowed the Committee to nominate a clergyman for appointment as Missionary Bishop in Western China, on the understanding that the Society guaranteed a suitable maintenance. There are two Church of England Missions in the Province of Si-chuan, those of the China Inland Mission and of the C.M.S. The Committee nominated the Rev. W. W. Cassels, B.A., St. John's College, Cambridge, one of the missionaries of the former Society. Mr. Cassels was ordained in 1882, and served as curate of All Saints', South Lambeth. In 1885 he, together with Messrs. Stanley Smith, Studd, Beauchamp, Hoste, and the two Polhill-Turners—the famous "Cambridge Seven" whose going out gave so great a stimulus to missionary zeal and interest—went to China under the C.I.M. His appointment to the bishopric was a happy result of a friendly arrangement between the two societies, the C.M.S. giving the guarantee for the Episcopal stipend required by the Archbishop of Canterbury, but C.I.M. friends claiming a share in providing the money. The Bishop will continue his important work as head of the Church of England section of the C.I.M., and, at the same time, will have Episcopal oversight of the C.M.S. Si-chuan Mission, which is under the leadership of the Rev. J. H. Horsburgh. Bishop Cassels was consecrated, together with Dr. Talbot to the See of Rochester, on St. Luke's Day at Westminster Abbey. The Archbishop of Canterbury officiated, assisted by the Bishops of Winchester, Salisbury, Truro, Lichfield, Southwell, Southwark, Bishop Barry, and Bishop Moule. The offertory was divided between the Rochester Diocesan Society and the C.M.S. Bishop and Mrs. Cassels sailed in October; Bishop and Mrs. Moule sailed the following month, November. Mrs. Moule's state of health at the time of leaving home gave cause for much anxiety, but it greatly improved on the voyage, and was better on their arrival at Shanghai in December than it had been for many months.

Reinforcements.

The reinforcements of the year consisted of the following:—the Rev. Henry William Moule, B.A., Corpus Christi College, Cambridge, son of Bishop Moule, who was admitted to deacon's orders on October 12th, 1895, by the Bishop of London; Miss Mary Jane Godson, of Chipping Campden, and Miss Elizabeth Goudge. The two last-named were to have sailed in 1894, but their doing so was deferred in consequence of the war then raging between China and Japan. The Misses E. E. Browne and B. I. C. Clarke, as mentioned last year (Annual Report for 1894–95, p. 261), were also designated to Mid-China, but the former was subsequently sent out to Eastern Equatorial Africa, and formed one of the first party of ladies to Uganda, while the latter was obliged by considerations of health to resign her connexion with the Society. In addition to the above the Rev. William Ernest Godson, B.A., who went out to the Yoruba Mission in 1894, but was invalided home, has been transferred to the Mid-China Mission, and sailed in October with Miss Godson (his sister) and Miss Goudge; Mr. Moule sailed in February.

Death of Miss F. E. Turner.

Miss Frances Emily Turner, who joined this Mission in 1893, died at Chefoo on August 2nd, 1895. Miss Turner had arrived the day previous to her death at Chefoo for a short holiday. It is thought probable that she contracted cholera in the boat by which she travelled thither, as the chief engineer and two Chinamen died on board of the same complaint soon after the boat left Chefoo. Miss Turner's remains were interred in the beautiful Chefoo cemetery, the Rev. H. J. Brown, the missionary of the S.P.G. at the port, reading the service. Dr. D. Duncan Main wrote:—

> Truly God's ways are past finding out. She was brought safely through a most severe attack of smallpox, was happily stationed at Chuki, had just passed her language examination, and was looking forward, after her holiday, to begin work in real earnest in the autumn; and yet cut down suddenly after all. The work has lost a real worker, and we have lost a true and loving friend. She was a very fine character, so noble and true, and humble and unselfish. Heaven is richer, but we are poorer.

I. PROVINCE OF KIANG-SU.

The Rev. J. Bates came home in April, 1896. He was succeeded in the acting secretaryship by the Rev. A. Elwin, who, with Mrs. Elwin, sailed in October, 1895. Mr. A. J. H. Moule sailed to return to the Mission after furlough in February, 1896.

SHANGHAI.

Shanghai.

The duties of the secretariat left the Rev. J. Bates little time for taking an active part of the work at SHANGHAI. The two congregations, one within and the other without the city, number 153 baptized Christians and fifty-four Communicants. Nothing disturbed the harmonious and happy co-operation of the members as in the previous year. Evangelistic preaching was carried on at the Nankin Road and Hongkew Mission-rooms, and ten adults were baptized. These included a woman who formerly earned her livelihood by making paper money, but is now an ayah; she was the first-fruits of a class for heathen women which the ladies, Miss E. Onyon and Miss G. E. Stanley (the latter is now Mrs. Smyth, see infra) conducted, and a young widow, the daughter of one of the Christians. The ladies had classes for the Christian women, and supervised the four girls' day-schools.

II. PROVINCE OF CHEH-KIANG.

DR. R. SMYTH was married to Miss G. E. Stanley of this Mission at Shanghai Cathedral on September 3rd, 1895; and the Rev. W. G. Walshe was married to Miss E. T. Young, a missionary of the C.E.Z.M.S. in Bengal from 1890–93, in November. Miss A. M. Moule sailed to return to the Mission in November, 1895, and Miss J. F. Moule in February, 1896.

The Rev. J. C. Hoare in his Annual Letter takes a retrospect of the twenty years since he arrived in China in 1875, and sees much ground for thankfulness in the progress made. His figures for 1895 do not exactly correspond with those in the statistical table at the end of this Mission, but the discrepancy does not affect his conclusions. He says:—

Progress in the Mission in twenty years.

Twenty years ago the Society's work in Mid-China was limited to Shanghai and the three prefectural cities of Ningpo, Shaou-hing, and Hang-chow, and the immediately adjacent country. Now, from Hang-chow and Ningpo, we have two daughter Churches sprung up in Chuki and T'ai-chow, one of which has already outgrown, and the other bids fair to outgrow, its mother. Thus the Gospel has been carried and Churches established over districts stretching from 100 to 150 miles south of the old limits of our work. Then there was no native pastor, there was but one native clergyman in deacon's orders; now there are six native pastors in full charge of their flocks, one other native clergyman in priest's orders, and six native deacons. Twenty years ago the total number of male Native Christian lay teachers was twenty-six; now there are thirty evangelists, twenty-six schoolmasters, and five hospital assistants; whilst the female teachers, who in 1875 were not mentioned in the statistics, number now sixteen Bible-women and fifteen school-mistresses, making in all sixty-one lay male agents, almost all trained men, and thirty-one female agents.

If we turn to educational work—in 1875 there were but thirteen schools with 109 scholars; now we have thirty-six schools with 553 scholars. At that time we had but one boys' boarding-school with only seven boys in it, whilst several of the masters in the day-schools were Heathen; now we have a flourishing college for boys and men, with between forty and fifty boarders, whilst arrangements are made for boarding in the other schools all Christian boys who are not within reach of a day-school. There are also four schools in which girls are taken as boarders, whereas formerly we had but one. Moreover, all these schools are kept by Christian teachers, the masters being all men who have gone through a college course.

In 1875 we had one small hospital in Hang-chow; now that has been superseded by the noble institution whose praise is in all the Churches; and we have also a good hospital in Ningpo, and a smaller one in Shaou-hing, whilst effective medical work has been done in T'ai-chow.

As regards the numbers of native Christians the increase is very marked. Inclusive of catechumens, which is always rather a vague element, the total number of Christians in 1875 was 538; now it is 1,723, an increase of 1,185, or 220 per cent. The figures of the communicants are more trustworthy, and they give an increase of 628, from 274 to 902, or 230 per cent. In considering this increase, moreover, we must remember the large number of those who have been taken away by death during these twenty years. Thus, of the twenty-six agents of twenty years ago, eighteen have been called to higher service and are no longer with us. This one fact shows how much greater the ingathering has been than is shown by the mere figures quoted above.

Spiritual progress.

We come now to a matter of more importance than numerical increase—that of spiritual progress. Has there been an advance in the spiritual life of the Church, or has there not? I put this question the other day to all our catechists, who were met together for a quiet time. The answer was unanimous that there had been a real advance. I pressed them, though I fully agreed with them, for some definite evidence on which they based their opinion. They gave me two marks of progress which interested me deeply. In the first place, they said, there is more "desire," more "hungering" on the part of the Christians for progress in their own life; in the second place, the Christians have a much clearer conception of the Gospel, and do not think, as many used to do, that they save themselves by the "merit" of becoming Christians. I believe that what these men said was very true.

NINGPO.

Ningpo Training College.

The Training College at NINGPO, under the Rev. J. C. Hoare, is divided into two departments—the Theological Class, which Mr. Hoare for the most part instructed himself, and the school for training youths for posts as schoolmasters, the work of which devolved upon the Rev. W. S. Moule. Two students left the Theological Class at the end of 1894 to join the Itinerating Band, leaving only three, one of whom died through an attack of cholera on the day he was to have entered for his examination. This student, Kying Uong-ts'ing, was one of the first-fruits of T'ai-chow, and since his conversion had been much used by God both as a schoolmaster and as a catechist. The other two students left the college at the end of the year to engage in work at Hang-chow and Shaou-hing. The year 1896 began with ten students, the largest number ever in the class, most of them being "old boys" of the College. Forty-three boys were in the College, some from each of the stations in Cheh-Kiang, and also one from Shanghai. Six of the boys passed the examination instituted by the Missionary Conference at the end of 1895, and went out to be employed as schoolmasters. In order to promote study among the younger agents, an examination, which it is hoped will be an annual event, was started during the year, at which twenty-two presented themselves with generally satisfactory results, Mr. Moule says.

Hospital. The Hospital, under Dr. R. Smyth, registered 4,822 attendances of out-patients during the year ending March 31st, 1895, and 245 (sixty of whom were women) in-patients, besides which 390 visits were made to Chinese homes. Three patients, all women, were baptized. The ladies were actively engaged in Work among the Women. Mrs. Hoare's Women's School and three weekly classes are exceedingly valuable as means of instructing the Christian women. Mrs. W. S. Moule assisted in these, and started a weekly sewing class with twenty-five women, and a girls' day school. The girls' boarding school, under Miss A. Maddison, had a narrow escape from being burnt down—by incendiaries, it was feared—but the fire was discovered in time for it to be extinguished; this school has twenty-one pupils. Miss Bullock and Miss Wells engaged in house visitation. The latter also took part in the Country Evangelistic Work, the supervision of which was shared between Messrs. Hoare and Moule, the former taking the northern district, and the latter east and west of the city. Miss Wells, with her Bible-woman, went about in a boat, and was much encouraged by the reception she met with. Miss Bullock also visited the Lake district weekly. Mr. Moule pleads for sympathy and prayer for the evangelistic native agents. He says:—

Women's Work.

Prayer requested in behalf of native evangelists.

> Their work in the face of Heathendom is no light task. They are the front rank of the army; they hear more against Christ than for Him; they see more opponents than believers; they have very little of Christian fellowship; they are constantly on the move, always "camping out." Yet the Lord is with them, and teaches them to believe always. We have tried, however, to get them up from time to time, for prayer and consultation and study of God's Word.

Mission Press. Two Bible Society colporteurs working under Mr. Moule sold 800 portions of the Scriptures. The sales of books printed at the Mission Press under Mr. Hoare increase yearly, hundreds of books being sent to various other stations besides Ningpo. Translations of outlines of expository sermons on some of the Epistles, which the late Canon Hoare preached to his congregation at Tunbridge Wells, are greatly in request. A Church History was completed and issued during the year.

T'AI-CHOW DISTRICT.

T'ai-chow. It was generally believed through a great part of the year in the T'AI-CHOW DISTRICT, the Rev. G. H. Jose says, that China had completely beaten Japan and six other Powers combined The Native Christians, in consequence, had a trying time.

Towards the close of the year the actual facts became better understood, and the firm attitude of the British Government in respect to the Si-chuan riots very appreciably affected thec onduct of the officials. Mr. Jose wrote in November:—

> Whereas a month or two ago the prefect and magistrate were in open court reviling foreigners and their religion and followers, the prefect's son and his private secretary, both Si-chuan men, came to call a few days ago, and the head official in the Hsien Magistrate's Yamen, where all the principal men are from Fuh-kien, has promised each month to send for and return some Christian monthly papers and other books.

A drought in the Da-zih Valley in August, 1895, was an occasion for saddening manifestations of superstition. Mr. Jose says:—

Saddening manifestations of superstition.

> As a last resource all the men from sixteen to sixty years old (about 10,000) were summoned to go to a temple near the city, chosen by lot, to fetch an image of the Goddess of Mercy; they also brought back two snakes, and during the time of their presence in Da-zih all unclean work was suspended; the day after their arrival the rain came down in torrents for several days and ended in a flood, so the idol was escorted back again with a great expenditure of powder and incense.

A Christian by returning good for evil converts an enemy into a friend.

Such an occurrence as the above might have been expected to bring much trial to the Christians because of their not joining in the popular manifestations, but on this occasion only one case of persecution was reported. The reason for this was that the headman of the Valley, formerly a bitter opponent, had been transformed into a friend through the conduct of one of the Christians (whom he had done his utmost to annoy) in returning good for evil by caring for the headman's scapegrace son and urging him to return to his father and seek his forgiveness. This headman has even promised to record particulars of the Christian community in the Prefectural History, of which he has charge. "Edification Meetings" were held at Da-zih in December, 1895, which were attended by some 150 Christians. Mr. Jose mentions that a farmer who was present, on being asked to say a few words on "Redemption," replied that he was "not clever enough to understand the doctrine: he only knew that he was a sinner, and that the Lord Jesus had been nailed on the Cross for our sins." Thirty-three adults were baptized before Mr. Jose wrote his Annual Letter in November, and the following month the Rev. J. C. Hoare baptized twenty-seven others in the course of a three weeks' tour in the district. Ten of the former number were women, the fruits of Mrs. Jose's and the Bible-women's labours. These Bible-women, four in number, were all members of Mrs. Hoare's class at Ningpo, and several women go to Ningpo every year. One walked, in the summer of 1895, all the way back from Ningpo to T'ai-chow, about eighty miles, on bound feet! Three of the women converts belonged to Ts'ing-Yiang-dao. A new school was opened there, but it was flooded in the summer, and the schoolmaster had to live for ten days with two feet of water in his bedroom, and had a severe attack of dysentery in consequence.

SHAOU-HING.

Shaou-hing.

"Freedom from alarm and disquiet" was among the blessings of the year at SHAOU-HING, the Rev. W. G. Walshe says; uncommon blessings indeed during 1895! The work had few features of a special character. The services in the two churches, the school teaching, the evangelistic preaching, and the hospital work in the city were regularly and quietly carried on, and some eighty-two towns and villages were visited. The hospital had 118 in-patients and 2,938 out-patients. The Rev. A. and Mrs. Phelps and the Misses I. S. Clarke and E. F. Turner were chiefly engaged in language study, but all rendered help in the work as opportunities offered.

HANG-CHOW.

Hang-chow.

HANG-CHOW is "not a favourite watering-place or health resort," Dr. D. Duncan Main reminds the Committee, by way of impressing the fact that the medical care of the missionaries is no light one. "The supersaturation of the atmosphere with moisture for one or two hot months takes the starch out of the strongest." But this most important and often most onerous duty—for it is generously interpreted as extending to missionaries of other societies as well as those of the C.M.S.—is only a bye-work, as it were. The Medical Mission is ever adding to its departments of varied unselfish ministries, or enlarging the scope of its operations. In the Dispensary, 13,356 patients were treated, by whom 32,686 visits were made. Many a trying duty had to be performed, and many a sickening sight faced which would be almost impossible if the heart were not in the work. Dr. Main says:—

Dispensary.

> Disease here is almost always in the superlative degree; it is seldom met with in the initial stage. Fallen humanity is met with under its most repulsive and loathsome aspects, and poverty and dirt are well to the front. From the out-patients we hear many queer stories as to the cause of disease, and listen to many barbarous methods of treatment, which, I fear, often makes one's civilized blood boil with indignation against native quacks.

"Disease here always in the superlative degree."

The Hospital had 939 in-patients, of whom Dr. Main writes:—

Hospital.

> Among the patients we have all sorts and sizes, from the mandarin in his gorgeous robes of silk and satin to the beggar in his rags. They come from all parts of the province. Many of them bring recommendations from old patients, which is a healthy sign. Sometimes the successful treatment of a patient will bring, in a few days, a host of incurables, who have gone the round of native physicians, swallowed medicine by the pound (quantity rather than quality is prominent in China).
> It is in the wards that our patients have time to think and consider, and are susceptible to favourable impressions. Seeing and hearing us day by day, they are able to read us and understand operative Christianity, which is much more convincing to a patient than the theory. If we show first that we love them by caring for their physical needs and suffering, they will the more readily believe that God loves them.

In the Women's Hospital, under Mrs. Main, "the kindly light of love and sympathy," Dr. Main says, "shines more brightly than in the men's." The Leper Hospital has twenty-four inmates, ten of them Christians and four promising inquirers. The Opium Refuge received 127 opium smokers, the time required in each case for a cure being twenty days. Dr. Main is often asked how many remain steadfast after being cured for the time being, and he refrains from giving statistics on the subject. He does, however, say emphatically that all do not return to the vice. On the contrary, some former smokers are well known to him who are now respectable members of society, and some are even preachers of the Gospel. He adds, however:—

Opium Refuge.

Still, one has to rejoice with fear and trembling over a cured opium-smoker; they are like half-burnt sticks, easily rekindled. As far as our experience goes, the giving up of opium by a confirmed smoker is by no means a slight undertaking, not on account of the misery felt while being cured, but because of the long after-weakness, their poor and weakened constitution missing much the accustomed stimulant, for it is that action of the drug which affects them most. It takes considerable grit and backbone to break off the habit, and unfortunately the backbone of a Chinaman seems to contain a superabundance of gelatine, for it is much easier for him to bend with the vice than break with it. They fall, many of them, without a struggle. Some people have very milk-and-water ideas about the evil effects of opium-smoking, and talk a lot of nonsense when they say that the Chinese can smoke opium with impunity. Those who know best from personal daily contact for years with opium-smokers are persuaded that the evil effects, physically, morally, and socially, can hardly be over-estimated. It lowers the standard of filial piety, takes the rigidity out of the backbone, diminishes the love of truth, which to begin with is not of a high order, develops deceit and cunning, and unfits for daily work. Not a few have confessed to me that the first fatal step to ruin was the taking of the first pipe of opium. It affects all classes and levels all distinctions; rich and poor may be found on the same smoking-couch. The most baneful effects are found among the poor and middle classes—coolies, chair-bearers, boatmen, yamen-runners, and those whose time hangs heavy upon their hands. It is one of the most awful vices that ever afflicted the Chinese, and is one of the greatest hindrances to the work of Christian Missions.

Evil effects of opium-smoking.

Dr. Main has a Medical Class of eight students, to which he attaches very great importance. He says:—

Class of Medical Students.

From a humanitarian point of view, apart from Christianity, this work demands our hearty support. The success that has followed those who have passed through our hands abundantly justifies the amount of time and money spent in educating them. One or two of our men have been led away by the desire to make money, and that as quickly as possible; but most of them are doing Mission work, and working hard with a salary very much below their market value. Their worth is well known, and more than once tempting salaries have been offered them—at least double the amount they receive from us, and it speaks well for their Christianity that they continue with us in the work. They render us invaluable help, without which our work would have to be reduced by a big half; in fact, for the successful management of a work like ours, qualified Natives are a sine quâ non.

Of the spiritual efforts in behalf of the patients Dr. Main writes:—

Spiritual work is the most important of all the work, and in it there are great encouragements. The out-patients have the Gospel preached to them while they are waiting before entering the consulting-room; with the in-patients we have a short service morning and evening, consisting of a short Gospel address, singing, and prayer. In our ward visits, "button-hole" theology is practised, and Bible-classes are held weekly, inquirers are regularly taught, and very much time is spent by the hospital evangelists in daily systematic bedside teaching. They also follow up inquiring patients in the country, spending days and weeks instructing them more perfectly in the Way of Life and preaching the Gospel to friends and neighbours. Those of our patients who profess and call themselves Christians are not immediately baptized and admitted to the Church; their characters are first tested by a time of probation, which ensures sincerity, although it makes it difficult to give statistical returns as to the baptism of hospital patients.

"Button-hole theology" in the wards.

Eighteen were baptized during the year as the fruits of the Medical Mission. Dr. A. T. Kember reached the station in February, 1895, and spent the year in diligent study of Chinese, as also did the Rev. E. Hughesdon.

The Rev. G. W. Coultas reports on the pastoral and evangelistic work. The Congregation does not manifest a very aggressive spirit, but the attendance at the Sunday services is good. In December of 1894 a fortnight's meetings for the deepening of the spiritual life were held for the European missionaries and Native Christians of both the English and American Missions, which were felt to be exceedingly profitable. Mr. Coultas asks for prayer in behalf of an effort he has been enabled to take in hand by the liberality of the B. & F.B.S. A large number of Bible portions, about 150, were granted to him for distribution to Chinese officials. They are the Books of Psalms, Proverbs, and Ecclesiastes in one volume and the whole of the New Testament in two volumes, printed in large type, in the best classical version, and enclosed in a Chinese case of yellow silk or of blue cotton. Miss A. Hunt superintended the Girls' Boarding School and three day-schools for heathen children, and visited the homes of the people. Miss M. Vaughan was appointed upon her return to Hang-chow in April, 1895, to join Miss L. H. Barnes in visiting the women, especially those of the River district. At Dande seven adults were baptized. Mr. Coultas says of them:—"None of these candidates had received any help in the way of teaching from any missionary. The few Christians scattered about there are themselves the missionaries." At Wang-dza, which is only fifteen miles distant from Dang-wu, an out-station in the Chuki district under the Rev. J. B. Ost, the ladies were preserved in May, 1895, from a terrible danger which threatened them. Miss Vaughan wrote, in January, 1896:—

City Congregation.

Out-stations.

Wang-dza is a large village most beautifully situated amongst the hills, where the work is comparatively new. We found the inquirers there very much in earnest, and consequently the Devil was very busy trying to hinder the work. The people in the village were, as a whole, friendly to us, but there were a few who seemed determined to do all in their power to annoy and hinder us and prevent the spread of the Gospel. We reached Wang-dza on Saturday. On Sunday there was some disturbance at the services, and on Monday the animosity of these people reached a climax. At our evening worship stones were thrown in the preaching-room, and one of the inquirers, a young woman who was hoping to be baptized on the following Sunday, received a severe cut on her nose, and some of the villagers brought ropes, intending to bind us and the catechist and throw us into a pit of unmentionable filth. But, through the good hand of our God upon us, we were saved this horrible death. One of the inquirers, a big, strong man, laid hold of the ringleader and turned him out of the room. It was wonderful how the Lord restrained him from doing anything further. We went upstairs, and though we heard threats of burning the house, &c., the Lord kept them from laying violent hands on us. The young woman, while her face was streaming with blood, uttered not a word of rebuke, but only said, "It is for Jesus' sake."

Lady Missionaries threatened with a horrible death.

A Native Christian girl suffering "for Jesus' sake."

The following Saturday, when Mr. Coultas examined the candidates for baptism, they were not at all shaken in their determination to be Christians, but firmly declared their wish to be baptized. The following day ten were baptized—four men, two women, and four children—the first baptisms that have taken place in Wang-dza. These first Christians have been living consistent lives since then, and others are coming in.

Mr. Coultas, upon his arrival at Wang-dza with Mr. Hughesdon, complained to the village officials, but had reason to suspect that they were in concert with the men who had made the attack. Mr. Hughesdon therefore returned to Hang-chow, and Dr. Duncan Main saw the chief magistrate of the prefecture, with whom he is on excellent terms, and who promptly sent a special messenger to the Fu-yang magistrate insisting on apologies, which were duly and promptly made. A day-school was subsequently opened at Wang-dza. Two of the men baptized on the occasion referred to above were from a village seven miles distant. Mr. Coultas says of them:—

Beaten for observing the Sabbath.

They said they had gone to work in the fields as usual that Sunday morning, but their hearts were not at ease, so they left and came to the service. On their return home one was beaten by his father, the other by his brother. One, I am told, after being severely beaten knelt down there and then and prayed.

Mr. Coultas and Mr. Hughesdon went again, in November, to Wang-dza, and the latter makes an interesting reference, apparently, to the same young man who was the subject of the last quotation:—

At the Communion service at Wang-dza there were eleven men and four women communicants, also our three selves, including the catechist. There were also inquirers and others present. Three men had walked twenty-one li, one man twenty-four, and another twenty-seven li to this service. Out of those who attended, a young farmer is a very interesting instance. The next day we visited his home, twenty-one li from Wang-dza. His father was in bed, sick—neither of his parents are yet Christians—the mother is much opposed to the Gospel. This young man reads well, and is bright, happy, and intelligent. He showed us up a ladder, then across some doubtful planks to an attic-room. A Chinese house has no home, but is largely supplied with inconveniences and interruptions, but here in this attic-room he finds a quiet retreat. Two inquirers meet with him here at night, when they together study the Scriptures. A quiet retreat for studying the Scriptures.

Mr. Coultas had thirteen men and the ladies had several women from the out-stations residing for a time at Hang-chow, receiving instruction in the Bible and Prayer-book with a view to their being the better qualified to teach others.

Hang-chow, in accordance with the terms of the treaty with Japan after the conclusion of the war, has been made an open port, and a concession has been allotted outside the north gate.

Bishop and Mrs. and Miss A. M. Moule arrived at Hang-chow at the close of 1895.

CHUKI DISTRICT.

The Rev. J. B. Ost recalls the fact that when Archdeacon Moule first visited CHUKI the people declared that they would never allow a foreigner to rent or build within their city, and yet now—though not without much difficulty and trying opposition, as last year's Report showed—Mr. and Mrs. Ost are well established in the place, in a house built in European style, and with various institutions for making the Gospel known to the Heathen and for instructing believers in the faith of Christ. There was a time during the year when some of the people showed a hostile attitude. After the Chentu riots in May, reports were freely circulated about the European missionaries eating human flesh, extracting eyes and livers, &c., which reports Mr. Ost believes originated with secret societies. "It seemed," he writes, "at that time that we were living on the top of a smouldering volcano, which was liable to explode and envelop us at any moment." And there were other dangers, more tangible and visible, if not more real. Mr. Ost says:— Chuki.

This last year, when conducting service at a country station, a young convert walked up almost to my side and seated himself most unconcernedly before me with the scales just falling off his face after a severe attack of small-pox. I have also slept at least in two houses where there have been children covered with sores caused by inoculation from actual small-pox virus. During certain seasons of the year small-pox cases are met in the public thoroughfares. We need prayer that God will "keep" us body and soul while bearing His message of salvation to this people. Danger from contagious diseases.

The little Congregation scattered over the district—about the size of Kent—had much persecution to endure. Hardly a week passed without one or more cases being reported to Mr. Ost. One man, over seventy years of age, at Great Valley, the brother of Luke Chow, the first convert, was badly beaten by an opium smoker, and Mr. Ost was fearful, when he wrote at the end of January, 1896, lest the consequences should prove fatal. At Dyke's Head the Christian named "Peaceful Times" (see An old man badly beaten.

Another shamefully threatened.

Annual Report for 1889–90, page 216), was threatened with confinement in a pig-pen and being carried about in it to the neighbouring villages as a spectacle unless he contributed the sum of $19 towards the expenses of a heathen festival. Mr. Ost states :—

> This old man was followed upstairs into his daughter-in-law's bedroom, whither he had taken refuge, and dragged to the ancestral hall, where, under a threat of depriving him of his clothing, and binding him to one of the pillars of the building, money was extorted from his relatives. His aged mother, to save her son, produced money, and the old man was set free. The shock to his nervous system was great, and he has not been really in robust health since.

Persecution took many forms. Mr. Ost instances the following :—

Many forms of persecution.

> Water cut off from the rice-fields at the most critical time, with the intention of destroying the crop by drought. The planting of early rice seedlings in fields already planted with crops of later rice seedlings, thus rendering the crop to be gathered in about half its ordinary yield (a practice somewhat similar to that mentioned in the parable of the wheat and tares). Selling the young woman betrothed for several years to a young man, and appropriating the money because of the man's change of belief. Seizure of land and disinheriting. The poisoning of a valuable cow. Stealing of crops and fowl. Refusal to permit the use of a public path. It is truly amazing to observe how ingenious and fruitful the Devil is in devising means to hinder or frustrate the Lord's work.

Roman Catholic native agents have entered the district, of whom Mr. Ost says :—

Intrusion of Roman Catholic Agents.

> The Roman Catholics have entered upon an active campaign here, and are not using very honourable methods in seeking to gain adherents. They are visiting our centres of work and are trying to unsettle our people by telling them they are members of a Church cast out by them, and cannot hope for salvation unless they attach themselves to their (the Roman Catholic) Church. At Ts-Long one of our most unsatisfactory members has joined them, and others have been exhorted to follow his example. A Roman Catholic catechist is busily occupied seeking to persuade the people that they can very easily accept the tenets of the Roman Catholic Church, and promising them the assistance of the foreign priests in matters of difficulty or litigation. The people, I am informed, are told that they can worship their ancestors and idols, but that in the event of a foreign priest visiting them they must remove their idols until after he has taken his departure, when they can replace them. This must be the unworthy teaching of a man eager to deceive people into membership, and not the usual teaching of the Roman Catholic propagandist. The people are told that they can easily transfer their worship of the goddess of mercy to the Virgin Mary, &c., so I quite expect numbers will "join the Church" under such favourable conditions, in hope of the assistance of the priests in their difficulties with their neighbours and others. In addition to abandonment to idolatry, the Chuki people are noted for their turbulency and love of litigation. I have heard it said that there is not another district of this size in the empire where there are so many law cases ; so in view of this the open promise of foreign aid is a pretty powerful inducement to enter their names as members of the Roman Catholic Church.

In the eastern division of the district the Christians manifest less progress in knowledge and zeal than those elsewhere. The distances apart of the little congregations and families make pastoral oversight and instruction difficult, and the agents are too few for the work. Relations with the Heathen in social and business life are of course demoralizing, and enhance exceedingly the difficulty of observing the Sabbath. Many of the converts are unable to read, and consequently the Word of God is a sealed book to them. Mr. Ost is very anxious to increase the number of Schools. He has at present three day-schools, and two boarding-schools for boys and girls respectively. The girls' boarding-school is taught by a daughter of Luke Chow, who was educated at Mrs. Moule's boarding-school at Hang-chow. Mrs. Ost has a Women's Class, the members of which she hopes may become Bible-women. Their ages vary from sixteen to over fifty. Mr. Ost had in the winter a Class for Church Elders, namely, men who conduct Sunday services in the absence of Mr. Ost or the native pastor. These men spend from Tuesday till Friday of each week at Chuki, receiving instruction in the Bible and Prayer-book, returning to their villages for the Sundays. The men showed much interest in the subjects taught. Mr. Ost mentions the following fact as illustrating the sense of responsibility regarding their Sunday duties which these men entertain :—

A class for Church elders.

> One of the members of my men's class was detained at the city magistracy one Saturday with legal business connected with a brutal assault upon his father. It was night before he was set free, and although he had to travel fifty li (some sixteen miles) in rain, and on a bitterly cold and dark night, he started off after 8 p.m. on his long and uninviting journey. He could not possibly reach home till after midnight, and must have been wet and cold as well as fatigued, and yet this voluntary service was willingly, yea cheerfully, undertaken for the Master, in order that he might be present to conduct the Sunday services at his village. The man in question, Chow Zenme by name, is a nephew of Luke Chow's, and is "elder" of the Church at the "Great Valley."

An earnest voluntary agent.

More inquirers and more baptisms rewarded the Evangelistic Work than in any previous year. At Ba Deo, a market town some thirteen miles south of Chuki, twelve men, three women, and three children were baptized on November 24th. The Gospel was introduced into this place by a man named Li-ko-fan, a worker in palm-tree fibre, who had been baptized, while away from home engaged in his trade, by a native pastor connected with the American Presbyterians and recommended to report himself to Mr. Ost. There are several inquiries in surrounding villages, and the influence appears to be spreading farther south. A room has been rented at Nyi-wu, thirty-five miles to the south of Ba Deo; and also at Fung Gyiao, seventeen miles north-east of Chuki. At Wu-nyi-tu, an old man named Wong, aged eighty-two, was baptized in January, 1896, and on the same day seven adults were baptized at Fung Zu-dong.

Bishop Moule confirmed seventy candidates at Chuki in March, 1896.

III. PROVINCE OF SI-CHUAN.

Damages committed by rioters.

REFERENCE has already been made in the introductory notes under "China," to the riots which occurred in the Si-chuan Province at the end of May and in June, 1895. At Chen-tu, the political capital of the Province, extensive damage was wrought. The premises of the China Inland Mission, the American Methodist Episcopal Mission, and the Canadian Methodists were destroyed, and many of the missionaries had narrow escapes. At Kiong Cheo the large Roman Catholic premises were wrecked; at Kialing, the houses of the Canadian Methodist Mission, the American Baptist Missionary Union, the China Inland Mission, and the Roman Catholics were looted and damaged; at Ya Cheo the house of the A.B.M.U. was looted; at Ma-Cheo the house of the C.I.M. was damaged and broken into; at Tai-Fu the A.B.M.U. hill premises near the city were pulled to pieces; at Pao-Ning the house and chapel of the C.I.M. were attacked, but the appearance of the mandarin on the scene prevented the work of destruction proceeding very far. The Rev. O. M. Jackson was at Chen-tu at the time of the outbreak in that city. He had left Chong-pa, his own station further north, in order to marry one of the missionaries at Kuan-Hsien, and after the wedding he called at Chen-tu to have his teeth attended to by Dr. Kilburn, of the Canadian Mission, and while he was at this gentleman's house, on May 28th, the rioting commenced. He wrote, two days later, on the 30th :—

The Rev. O. M. Jackson at Chen-tu during the outbreak;

> At five the noise began, and I soon saw that I could not get back to Ku-fu-An [C.I.M. premises], and then the crowd increased at the door . . . threw stones, then burst the door with paving-stones. Drs. Kilburn, Stevenson, and I kept there for a long time, but finally getting brickbats at our heads, we retreated. The officials at last came, but were powerless to do anything. We went back to the hospital, and hearing then that the houses were now being looted and knocked down, we began to seek hiding outside. Then after many trying moments, we at last got out of a broken door at back. I had a baby at first, but a woman got that, and it was finally saved. I got off in the dark to Ku-fu-An; the rest got to the wall, and to Ku-fu-An at night. The next morning the latter place was attacked, and U-Sha-Kiai. We barricaded and had big officials, but the half of us got out in time for the yamen, and the rest got over the wall at the back, and were in hiding all day. Shan-Si-Kiai did the same in a neighbouring loft, and all turned up in the yamen late last night, when the streets were quiet, and so here we are. The destruction of property has been most complete. The houses have not only been destroyed—in one case burnt—but literally carried away, timber, bricks, and all; the officials yesterday actually allowing property to be removed.

sent to Chong-pa disguised as an official.

Mr. Jackson was detained for safety in the Yamen until June 10th, when he was sent to Chong-pa in a closed chair, disguised as a native official and accompanied by an escort of soldiers and an official of rank.

Had these troubles occurred a few months earlier, in 1893, or during the first half of 1894, a large proportion of the little C.M.S. Mission party must have been affected. Only a few weeks before the riots the Rev. J. H. Horsburgh, the leader of the Mission, had given up a room, which the Canadian Mission had allowed to be used as an office, and removed the furniture to Sin-tu. That office shared the ruin of the other Mission buildings.

At Kuan-Hsien, a C.I.M. station forty miles north-west of Chen-tu, where Mr. and Mrs. Horsburgh and their family temporarily reside, and where Miss E. Casswell was staying with them at the time, and also Miss Tredennick, who had gone out from England mainly at her own charges to assist in educating Mr. Horsburgh's children, the mission houses of Mr. Grainger (C.I.M.) and Mr. Horsburgh were visited by crowds of people, who were marvellously restrained from violence, and even from serious pillage.

Apprehension was again felt a few weeks later, on June 20th, and it encouraged Mr. Horsburgh to recollect that that date was appropriated to Mid-China on the Cycle of Prayer. Similar providential deliverances will have to be noticed below under the stations. No wonder that Mr. Horsburgh, in reviewing the year's events, is filled with thankfulness and with expectation. Such trials and such deliverances must, he feels assured, be preludes to great blessings. He writes :—

Ranks unbroken and health good.

It is no light thing that, at the end of such a year, I am permitted once again to report our ranks unbroken, our health, on the whole, still good, and all our missionaries quietly working in the places God has opened to us. In a year of awful massacre, and war, and riots; in the midst of constant threatenings and dangers, and upheavals on every side, our God has watched over this little Mission band; not a stone of our dwellings has He allowed to be overthrown, not a hair of our heads has He allowed to perish. Whilst the other Missions in the province, outside Chungking, have, in many instances, been called to suffer and to leave their work, He has brought this Mission through unscathed. Why He has done this I do not know. But this I know—we ought to praise Him; we ought to trust Him; we ought to yield up ourselves to His service; we ought to take courage and go forward with renewed hopes, with largely increased numbers, and with more holy enthusiasm than ever before. Yes! after all He has done for us, we ought to love Him and keep His commandment, "... the Gospel ... to every creature."

Mr. Horsburgh made two tours, visiting the stations in the spring and again in the autumn. Bishop and Mrs. Cassels reached Pao-Ning, the C.I.M. station, where he will probably reside, early in February, 1896. The Bishop wrote from Hankow, while journeying up the river :—

Salutary effect of the degradation of the Viceroy.

The Consul here, who is in touch with the west of China, tells me that he considers that the effect of the degradation of the Viceroy of Si-chuan has been very unduly minimized in England; and Dr. Griffith John, L.M.S., whose opinion is always a valuable one, tells me that the step has proved a most effective one, and has greatly altered the attitude of the officials towards us. He considers that we shall in the future have far less opposition from the officials in the west than hitherto. There are already indications to this effect, and all is entirely peaceful, and the missionaries who were driven out have returned.

Mr. W. Knipe married Miss M. A. Stephens, who went out with Mr. and Mrs. Horsburgh in 1891, on May 24th, 1895; and Mr. D. A. Callum married Miss Mary Taylor, who was escorted from England by Bishop and Mrs. Cassels, on February 11th, 1896.

SIN-TU.

Sin-tu.

Miss E. D. Mertens and Miss E. Casswell are stationed at SIN-TU, which is about fourteen miles north of Chen-tu. Miss Casswell was at Kuan-Hsien, as already mentioned, at the time of the riots, and was prevented from returning until September. Miss R. Lloyd was at that time with Miss Mertens at Sin-tu. The house they occupy was mobbed on May 30th, but the ladies escaped by a back door, and made their way to the Yamen, no one molesting them as they passed through the crowd. The mandarin rendered them prompt assistance, and they were escorted back by Yamen men, and a strong guard posted at the gates of their house to keep watch. Some Mission premises of the Roman Catholics, seven miles distant, were destroyed. Miss Mertens writes:—

"A trying time," but "God was in charge."

> It was a trying time, but a grand time for testing our faith in Him, and during a few specially anxious nights such promises as, "I will be unto her a wall of fire round about," "The beloved of the Lord shall dwell in safety by Him," were very precious to me. We felt, too, how true are the words, "Except the Lord keep the city, the watchman waketh but in vain." We knew God was in charge, and, come what may, all was for the best.

Later in the year, in August, when Miss Mertens and Miss Lloyd went to Kuan-Hsien, the magistrate sent four soldiers and four policemen to escort them.

In the early part of the year Miss Mertens and Miss Casswell went out daily and were frequently encouraged by invitations into fresh houses, and numerous visitors called upon them. A Sunday-school which they started for children was also attended by a number of women. After the troubles in the summer, notwithstanding the evil reports that were circulated, women still visited the ladies and expressed sympathy with them. At the end of September, Miss Mertens and Miss Casswell returned to Sin-tu, accompanied by Miss G. E. Wells, and the people seemed quite friendly. Two women were inquirers, one of them, a Mrs. Uang, a seller of vegetables, who communicated all she learned to her husband, a shoemaker. Both husband and wife gave up Sunday work and attended daily the evening prayers at the Mission house. One of the women, and a young man, a Mission servant, were baptized on February 9th, 1896, the first baptisms connected with the C.M.S. in the Province.

MIEN-CHUH.

Mien-Chuh.

Mr. A. A. and Mrs. Phillips continued at MIEN-CHUH (some sixty-three miles north of Chen-tu), with only a few weeks' absence for change, throughout the year, as also did Mr. Beach. An outbreak occurred on June 6th, but the timely appearance of the mandarin, with some soldiers, dispersed the crowd. Mr. Phillips says:—

"Delivered without any loss."

As we looked round on our little home and reflected that in a few minutes it might all be reduced to wreckage and we ourselves fleeing for life, there was still an assurance that all was well. The house and all in it belonged absolutely to Him, to reserve for His use or to give over to the mob for destruction. Glory to His name and thanksgiving that He delivered us without any loss whatever.

Previously to this guests were received, and preaching was carried on daily in the great hall, while neighbouring market towns were visited. After the riots these efforts had to be discontinued for a time, but on July 19th guests were again received, and on September 2nd the evening preaching recommenced. When Mr. Phillips wrote at the beginning of November he could speak of several inquirers. One of these is a butcher's assistant, who introduced himself to Mr. Beach on August 1st. He is described as brusque in his manner, but distinctly persevering, for sometimes he spends whole days reading in the great hall. On one occasion Mr. Phillips found him deeply studying the Marriage Service in the Prayer-Book, and tried in vain to direct his attention to the Bible. He found that he was revolving in his mind what he should do as a Christian in the event of marriage. Another inquirer is a servant at a school, and a well-educated man. A third is a farmer, who in the presence of Mr. Phillips and others destroyed his household tablet, and influenced his cousin, who lives ten miles distant, to do the same. A fourth is Mr. Phillips' cook, who has learned to read the Scriptures, and whose geniality and thorough trustworthiness were a great help in winning the good will of the people when Mien-Chuh was first occupied. Mr. Phillips concludes his Annual Letter with words expressing his sense of the dangers and responsibilities attaching to the pioneer work in which he is engaged:—

Inquirers.

"Hope of great things to come."

The truth which has been deeply pressed upon me lately is that "The wind bloweth where it listeth." I expect you will, in all the Annual Letters from this district, catch the first echoes of the sound thereof, filling you, as it has filled us, with hope of great things to come.

The building on which we are engaged is to be an habitation of God through the Spirit, and the work must be not of jerry-building type, but sound, well prepared, and tested. A very little so-called "help," not to speak of bribery, would quickly bring about us any number of adherents, but we have to set our faces steadfastly against anything that might be construed that way by the Natives. It is difficult to refrain sometimes, when we remember our own comparative wealth and the great poverty of many who come and take an interest in the Gospel. But to openly deal with anything like a liberal hand is to sow seed which will bear a harvest of hypocrisy and pious fraud.

MIEN-CHEO.

Mien-Cheo.

Miss A. Entwistle, Miss G. E. Wells, and, for part of the year, Miss R. Lloyd, lived in the little house adjoining an inn at MIEN-CHEO, which was first occupied in June, 1894. Mr. and Mrs. Horsburgh visited them in April and May, 1895, and the former tried very hard to obtain a more suitable place for them. Petitions, however, were presented to the magistrate by the gentry against his being allowed to rent a house, and in the end Mr. Horsburgh was obliged to be content with hiring temporary rooms outside the city, to which the ladies removed at the end of May. Among the inquirers referred to, one was a woman whom the ladies engaged as their servant, of whom Miss Entwistle writes:—

> She received the Gospel as the truth at once, and gave every evidence in her life of change. She would not rest until she had been to her village to tell her friends, and was greatly disappointed they did not at once believe. "I think of nothing else but that they may be saved," she says repeatedly. So simply and earnestly she speaks to everybody; even the coolies on the road get a word from her: "We are people going the heavenly road: the Heavenly Ruler is the One True God, and Jesus is the Way. You must trust Him to be saved."

"We are people going the heavenly road."

A female inquirer.

In March, 1895, a women's class was started, and six members entered their names as inquirers. Previously to this, however, a woman named Mrs. Sie, whose home was five miles distant from Mien-Cheo, but who had been engaged there in a large house to do needlework, visited the Mission ladies and broke her fast—which she was keeping as a strict Buddhist—and became an earnest inquirer, taking her idols to the Mission-house to be burnt. She introduced Miss Lloyd to the family of a former mandarin, who had given up his official position that he might devote himself to the life of a Buddhist recluse, and whose daughter had been seriously burnt. The girl was cured, and the family rendered most grateful, and more openings were thereby created. Miss Lloyd and Miss Wells visited Wei-Chêng, some twenty miles from Mien-Cheo, several times.

AN-HSIEN.

An-Hsien.

AN-HSIEN is nearly forty miles north-north-east of Mien-chuh. It was occupied, as mentioned in last year's Report, by Mr. D. A. Callum and Mr. W. Knipe in December, 1894. Mr. Knipe obtained possession of a house in a busy part of the city, but wild stories were circulated and believed about his objects and doings. The boys shouted, "the picker out of the eyes has come," and women snatched up their children lest they should fall into his clutches. The landlord and middleman were put in chains, and the former, unhappily, died from the effects of the exposure to which he was subjected as a penalty for letting his house to a foreigner. The house was given up by Mr.

Horsburgh a few days after getting possession, and Messrs. Callum and Knipe took up their lodgings in an inn. Mr. Knipe went to Kuan-Hsien to be married in May, and did not return, except on a short visit, during the year. He and Mrs. Knipe are now stationed at Sin-tu, Mr. Callum being left alone.

Mr. Callum found many good opportunities of preaching the Gospel, especially in temples and in market-places, and writes:—

I have had some good times in various temple-grounds where plays have been going on. The plays always secure one a good congregation. I gave out some books to the actors in one company, and they came to me several times, and I had some very interesting conversations with them. I believe some of the seed fell into good ground. I have also gone down by the river-side on market-days, and by means of a concertina raised a congregation, and have scattered hundreds of tracts, some of which would be taken to farms and villages far away from the city, and there read, and afterwards pasted up for others to read. I also rented a table in a temple, and there opened a little tract-depôt. I paid the priest twelve cash, or one halfpenny, per day for the loan of the table, and there I was, in the inner part of the temple, right in front of the idols, with the full consent of the priest, preaching the Gospel of Christ to all who came to my table.

Some medical knowledge acquired by Mr. Callum while at Islington College was used to advantage, especially among the numerous prisoners. He says:—

I have also had a fair amount of medical work, "healing the sick" following on "preaching the Gospel." I attended the prisoners in the Yamen; some of them had been beaten very severely. They were mostly thieves. There were several in cages, others wearing the heavy wooden collars, and others chained in batches to a large iron chain. I found it difficult to dress the wounds of those in the cages, as the bars were so close together that I could hardly get my arms through the spaces. Some of the men had been beaten very severely; one man had received 8,000 strokes with the bamboo! They could not have been very heavy, or he would have died. This district is infested with robbers, so the mandarin has to be severe in order to keep them down. There have been sixteen executions here this year, among them one crucifixion, a man nailed to a cross, all for robbery.

Ministering to Yamen prisoners.

Mr. Callum says the people have become exceedingly friendly, and the gentry more especially so. He has access to many houses of the well-to-do, and has circulated much Christian literature among the people of the educated class.

CHONG-PA.

The Rev. O. M. and Mrs. Jackson and Miss M. A. Thompson are the missionaries located at CHONG-PA. Mr. Simmonds, who went out with Mr. Horsburgh independently, also resided there during the year. Mr. Jackson's visit to Chen-tu during the riots in May has been referred to. Mrs. Jackson was with the sisters at Mien-cheo during his absence. Miss Thompson was at Pao-Ning from March till August, spending a fortnight in June at the Yamen for protection. During the early part of the year the visitors at the Mission-house were numerous, a continuous succession of people filling the guest hall, which has seats for over twenty, throughout the day. In the spring, reports became current about the missionaries which altered the attitude of the people. Mr. Jackson observed numbers of boys in the streets with a red cross sewn on their backs, and learned that this was done as a protection, the missionaries being believed to have such a reverence for the Cross that they would not dare to touch a child so shielded. These suspicions, Mrs. Jackson says, caused her worse heart-ache and keener disappointment than she remembers ever to have experienced, and helped her to appreciate what our Lord's feelings were when "they received Him not."

SHIH-TS'UEN-HSIEN.

Shih-ts'uen-Hsien.

This station, SHIH-TS'UEN-HSIEN, is nearly forty miles to the north of An-Hsien. Mr. J. A. Hickman was married in March, 1895, and took his bride to Shih-ts'uen the following month. For a short time the guest halls for men and women were crowded day by day; but here, as in the other stations, a change in the people was observed about this time. However, the visitors were again calling at the close of the year. Mr. Hickman was frequently called in to treat cases of opium poisoning, and was instrumental in saving ten lives. The district produces some of the best opium grown in the country. One man whom he cured of this habit of smoking, and who resides some twenty-seven miles from Shih-ts'uen, is, Mr. Hickman believes, a sincere inquirer. The mandarin has proved fairly friendly, and numerous literati have visited the Mission.

JAPAN MISSION.

For 230 years, in consequence of the political intrigues of the Jesuit missionaries in the sixteenth century, Japan was absolutely closed to the outer world. In 1853 the long-sealed empire began to open to European influences, and since that time the country has made most extraordinary progress in the adoption of Western civilization. Still more recent is the toleration now fully accorded to Christian effort. In 1889 a new constitution, formed somewhat on the lines of that of our own land, was promulgated. At the first General Election under this constitution, held in 1890, fourteen Christians were elected to seats in the House of Representatives; and a Christian was subsequently appointed Speaker.

American missionaries arrived in 1859, but for several years they could do scarcely any direct evangelistic work. In 1869, just after the wonderful revolution which restored power to the Mikado, the first C.M.S. missionary landed at Nagasaki. He also could only use quiet and indirect methods of making known the Gospel, and the few converts vouchsafed to his labours were baptized secretly.

Since 1874 the Mission has been gradually extended and strengthened. In HONDO, the Main Island, Osaka and Tokio were occupied in 1874; Gifu, 1890; Fukuyama and Matsuye, 1891. In SHIKOKU, Tokushima was occupied in 1888. In KIU-SHIU, Nagasaki was occupied in 1869; Kumamoto and Fukuoka, 1888; and Oita, 1894. In HOKKAIDO, Hakodate in 1874; Kushiro, 1889; and Sapporo, 1892.

Arrangements were made by the late Archbishop of Canterbury (Dr. Tait) for the establishment of an English Bishopric in Japan, and the present Archbishop nominated the Rev. A. W. Poole, C.M.S. Missionary in South India, to be the first Bishop. He was consecrated October 18th, 1883. But in the mysterious providence of God he was permitted to labour for a few months only; he died in July, 1885. He was succeeded by Bishop Edward Bickersteth, of the Cambridge Delhi Mission, son of the Bishop of Exeter. In 1893 the Committee undertook, on the invitation of Bishop Bickersteth, to support two new Bishops for the southern and northern islands respectively. On March 4th, 1894, the Rev. H. Evington, C.M.S. Missionary of twenty years' experience in this Mission, was consecrated Bishop of Kiu-shiu.

Japan contrasted with China.

FEW stronger contrasts are possible on the world's surface for the traveller than that which presents itself in crossing the few hundred miles of sea separating China from Japan. The salient features of this contrast have seldom been stated so ably and tersely as in Mr. Chirrol's book, The Far Eastern Question. Two paragraphs may be quoted, not for the sake of pointing a scornful finger at China—for its people possess characteristics which, under more favourable conditions, would make the contrast in most respects inapplicable—but for the sake of bringing into vivid prominence before the reader of this Report the remarkable qualities of the Japanese Nation which the Church of Christ is called to evangelize. Mr. Valentine Chirrol says:—

It is like passing from night into day, from an atmosphere laden with the oppressive odour of decay into one charged with the ozone of exuberant vitality. On the western shores of the Yellow Sea the traveller has left behind him a countless agglomeration of human beings which no homogeneity of race, language, or religion has availed to weld together into a nation, a cumbersome and corrupt bureaucracy which barely contrives to keep the ponderous machinery of government moving in the well-worn ruts of time-honoured abuses, and a central authority, loose and shiftless at the best, and now distracted to the verge of utter helplessness and imbecility. On its eastern shores he lands amongst a people whose national vigour has been strung to the highest point of tension by a strenuously centralized administration, which itself responds in complete sympathy of intellect and heart to the touch of enlightened and resolute rulers. Alone amongst all Asiatic nations, Japan seems to have realized in its fullest sense the modern conception of patriotism, such as we understand it in the West. In China the eyes of even the best among the living generation are hypnotized by constant contemplation of the dead past; in Japan all eyes are straining towards the future. On the one hand, the chaos of misrule, corruption, and ignorance; on the other, a rigid discipline based on an individual sense of duty and an innate love of order. In China an almost universal trend downwards into the common slough of despond; in Japan a combined effort to level upwards. In both countries the lower classes are patient and industrious; but, whilst in China what remains to them of the fruits of their industry after they have been squeezed by their rulers is too often squandered in opium-smoking and in an insensate mania for gambling, thrift is the rule in Japan. In both countries they are easily governed, but in China there is the dull, unreasoning resignation of the overworked beast of burden, in Japan the ready acquiescence of a bright and light-hearted people instinct with the joyousness of life.

And again:—

Patriotism of Japanese.

Japan is a nation of hero-worshippers, undiscriminating, perhaps, at times in the objects of its worship, but always accessible to the highest forms of emotion. The enthusiasm of the army for the first time called out for active service was equalled only by the enthusiasm of the people for the army. The warlike achievements of a national campaign conducted on the most approved principles of modern science represented in the eyes of the Japanese but the natural evolution of those feudal virtues which fired the imagination of their ancestors, and had ever formed the favourite themes of their poets. There was not a hamlet in the most secluded country side which did not thrill to every episode of the war and deck itself out in all the bravery of bunting and triumphal arches to welcome back its own small contingent of battle-stained warriors. Even the bearers and coolies, the humblest of non-combatant camp-followers, had their share in the joyful home-coming. In China I had seen the wretched soldiers, dismissed with a mere pittance from the colours, begging and bullying their way home to their distant provinces. In Japan I saw the whole population of a small village in the hills of Hakona turn out to struggle for the gratuitous honour of taking in a batch of invalided soldiers who had been sent up from the hospitals of Tokio to recruit their strength in the more bracing air of the mountains. The one explosion of savage revenge provoked at Port Arthur by the atrocities which the Chinese had committed upon their prisoners should be remembered mainly as the solitary exception to the rule of rigid discipline maintained throughout the rest of the campaign, and against it may well be set off the friendly relations universally established between the conquerors and the peasantry of the Chinese districts which they occupied, and the security enjoyed throughout Japan by the Chinamen who elected to remain on there during the war.

A testimony from another source on the subject of Japan's progressive proficiency in arts and manufactures may be given. The Times, in one of its issues in November, 1895, printed a report from a correspondent on the Industrial Exhibition, held at Kioto in the previous spring, and a leading article upon this report in the same issue had the following remarks:—

Progress in arts and manufactures,

The Japanese have not allowed the cares of war and diplomacy to interfere with the national exhibition which it is their practice to hold every four years. As the date for the exhibition came round this spring it was duly opened, notwithstanding the other engrossing subjects which have occupied the minds of the nation and of its rulers. It says much for the many-sided energy which seems to be one of the most striking characteristics of this remarkable people that the display of arts and industries, which followed so hard upon the exertions and the anxieties of the war period, was brilliantly successful. The interesting account of what was to be seen last summer in the buildings at Kioto, which we publish to-day, bears witness to the astonishing progress already accomplished by Japan in the most varied branches of industry. . . . It has been observed that at one period in the Italian Renaissance every product of human activity, from the walls of a fortress to the note in the margin of a manuscript, bore the impress of the sense of beauty stirring in all men's minds. We seem to be witnessing a similar phenomenon in Japan. The same sense of fitness which guides the eye and the hand of the Japanese designer as he creates his wonderful fabrics in porcelain or silk appears to direct the worker in ruder materials to adapt exactly the right means to his end. He, too, is an artist, with an artist's sense of beauty and an artist's pride in his work. "Art and industry," observes our correspondent, "go hand-in-hand in Japan; they are inseparable." There is little or no bad workmanship, and the Japanese has a natural abhorrence of the "cheap and nasty"—perhaps in part because prices are so low that he can command the cheap and good.

and in commerce.

The British Vice-Consul at Tokio, Mr. Longford, in a report on Japan's foreign trade, based on the figures of the first three quarters of 1895, stated that 90,000 new spindles were ordered for existing factories from England between March and August, and he showed that the foreign trade of Yokohama and Hiogo is not approached by any port in China save Shanghai. Put roughly in millions of dollars, Yokohama has fifty-six, Hiogo thirty-six, Shanghai seventy-eight, and the next nearest Chinese port, Canton, has fifteen. "Ten, or perhaps even five years ago," he says, "it would not have entered into anyone's comprehension to compare the direct foreign trade of the Japanese ports with that of any of the principal ports of China."

It is sad to notice—though Western Christians cannot affect surprise that it should be so—that Japan has conceived it to be right and necessary to inaugurate large schemes of military and naval development, involving an additional expenditure of nearly a hundred million yen on the navy alone spread over the next seven years, and contemplating the doubling of the present army force in the course of the next nine years. These activities, commercial, naval, and military, however much some aspects which they present give cause for regret, have the effect of multiplying the points of contact between the British Isles, the outposts of Europe in the West, and the Japanese Empire, the insular outposts of Asia in the East. One interesting indication of this was shown on the 25th of March, 1896, when a large party of officers and men belonging to the Japanese navy, who were in London in order to take back a cable ship constructed in British docks, responded to an invitation to the Church Missionary House, and, after partaking of tea and coffee, were addressed in Japanese by the Rev. P. K. Fyson on the "Life of our Lord."

Appointment of Rev. P. K. Fyson to bishopric of Hokkaido;

The Rev. Philip Kemball Fyson, referred to in the previous paragraph, has been appointed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, on the nomination of the Committee, to the Bishopric of Hokkaido. It was mentioned in the Annual Report for 1892–3 that, in response to the invitation of Bishop E. Bickersteth, the Committee had agreed to provide the stipends of two Bishops for the islands of Yezo and Kiu-shiu respectively, and to nominate names to the Archbishop, from which his Grace should select the men for these important posts. The Archbishop appointed the Rev. H. Evington to Kiu-shiu, and he was consecrated in March, 1894, and the Rev. H. E. T. Barlow to the Diocese of Hokkaido, but he was unable to accept the appointment. Mr. Fyson is a graduate of Christ's College, Cambridge, where he took a double-first in classics and theology, and was Hebrew Prizeman. He was admitted to deacon's orders by the Archbishop of York in 1871, receiving a title to the Curacy of Drypool. In 1874 he sailed to Japan, where he has laboured successively at Tokio, Niigata, and Osaka for the past twenty-two years. For some years he was engaged by the British and Foreign Bible Society in translating the Japanese Old Testament. Miss E. M. Furley, in the Uganda Mission, is a sister of Mrs. Fyson.

and of Bishop Awdry to the See of Osaka.

Another episcopal appointment has to be mentioned. In last year's Report it was stated (page 281) that Bishop Edward Bickersteth and Bishop McKim, of the American Episcopal Church, had agreed upon a division of the Main Island into four "Missionary jurisdictions" or dioceses, namely, those of North and South Tokio, of Kyoto, and of Osaka. It was erroneously stated, however, that the first two of the four dioceses in the order above-named had been placed under Bishop McKim. The two dioceses placed for the present by the arrangement under Bishops appointed by the American Church are North Tokio and Kyoto, while South Tokio and Osaka are reserved for Bishops appointed by the Church of England. Bishop Bickersteth elected to retain himself the Diocese of South Tokio, and he proposed that another Bishop should be appointed for that of Osaka. The latter diocese includes the Society's stations of Osaka, Fukuyama, Hiroshima, Matsuye, Hamada, and Tokushima (in the Island of Shikoku), and of the Society's staff of European missionaries in the Japan Mission one-half are located within its boundaries. But it differs from the Hokkaido and Kiu-shiu dioceses in that the C.M.S. is not the only Church of England Society working in it, as the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel has also a Mission there. This consideration rendered the Committee's offer to provide a stipend for the Osaka Bishopric in the same way as they had done for those of the northern and southern dioceses, nominating names to the Archbishop, unacceptable to his Grace; and as the Committee were not prepared to provide a part of the stipend without having a voice in the appointment, the Archbishop asked the S.P.G. to supply the whole sum required, leaving the selection to himself, to which that Society at once generously agreed. The Archbishop's choice fell upon the Right Rev. Dr. Awdry, the Bishop of Southampton.

Administration of the Mission.

Consequent upon these sub-divisions of the Main Island into dioceses, the Committee have been led to modify their scheme for the administration of the Mission, and have authorized the formation of Missionary Conferences and Standing Sub-Committees for each of the four dioceses in which the Society is represented, and of a General Conference of the missionaries of the whole Mission to meet once in three years. This scheme involved of necessity the abolition of the office of Secretary of the Japan Mission as a whole, and has the disadvantage, therefore, of depriving the Committee of the services in that capacity of Archdeacon Warren, who has discharged them with conspicuous ability and efficiency, with a few unavoidable interruptions, since 1883. The Archdeacon becomes the Secretary of the Mission in the Osaka Diocese. The Rev. G. H. Pole was Acting Secretary of the whole Mission during the Archdeacon's absence on furlough, but he did much other important work besides in the Divinity School and in preaching, &c. He preached during the year 57 sermons in Japanese and 25 in English.

Reinforcements.

The following reinforcements have been sent out:—the Rev. Harry Woodward, of Islington College, who was admitted to deacon's orders on Trinity Sunday by the Bishop of London; Miss Emily Sandle Fox, daughter of the Honorary Clerical Secretary of the Society; Miss Katharine Margaret Peacocke, niece of the Bishop of Meath; Miss Elizabeth Mary Keen; and Miss Florence May Freeth.

Adoption by C.M.S. of Wycliffe College, Toronto, Japan Mission.

The following have also been taken on to the Society's list, being the missionaries of the Japan Mission connected with the Wycliffe College, Toronto, which has been amalgamated with the Canadian C.M. Association (see supra, page 57): the Rev. John Cooper Robinson, who went out to Japan in 1888, and Mrs. Robinson; the Rev. Heber James Hamilton, B.A., University of Toronto, who went out in 1892, and Mrs. Hamilton; the Rev. James Macqueen Baldwin, B.A., University of Toronto, who went out in 1890, and Mrs. Baldwin, who went to Japan as Miss M. E. Hunt under the C.M.S. in 1890; Miss Edith Trent, who went out in 1894; and Miss Margaret Majora Young, who sailed in 1895.

Statistics of Missionary work in Japan.

The Statistics of Missions and Missionary Work in Japan for the year 1895, compiled and published by the Rev. H. Loomis, agent of the American Bible Society in Japan, show a diminished number by over five hundred of baptized Christians as compared with the previous year, viz., 38,710, as compared with 39,240 for 1894. The C.M.S. is credited, however, with 2,733 instead of 2,889, which reduces the difference. The number of missionaries is given as 654, of whom 225 are unmarried female missionaries. The adult converts baptized during the year were 2,516 (3,422 in 1894), and of children 568. The number of native ministers is given as 290, and of unordained preachers and helpers as 519; and there are 282 Bible-women, 19 theological schools having 295 students, 18 boys' and 51 girls' boarding schools with 1,221 and 3,150 pupils respectively, 117 day-schools with 6,510 scholars, and 783 Sunday-schools with 28,192 scholars. The contributions of Native Christians amounted to 62,939 yen. The Greek Church is returned as having two foreign missionaries in the country, as having baptized 826 (but adults and children are not distinguished), and as having 22,576 baptized members. The Roman Catholic Church has one Archbishop, three Bishops, 88 European "missionaries," 25 European "friars," 85 European "sisters," 20 native priests, 304 native catechists, 250 congregations, and 50,302 adherents; 2,251 adults and 2,476 infants (1,094 of the latter were of heathen parentage) were baptized during the year; it has one seminary with 46 students, two colleges with 181 students, three boarding-schools (all for girls) with 171 pupils, 41 primary schools with 2,924 pupils, 19 orphanages with 2,080 children, and 26 industrial schools with 764 pupils.

I. DIOCESE OF OSAKA.

Bishop Awdry landed at Kobe in March, 1896. Archdeacon and Mrs. C. F. Warren and Miss K. A. S. Tristram returned to the Mission, the first two in August, the last in October, 1895; the Rev. J. Williams sailed in April, 1896. The Rev. P. K. Fyson came home in August.

Osaka Church Council.

The annual meeting of the Chi-ho-Kwai, or Church Council, was held at Osaka in November, 1895, and proved to be a time of much spiritual refreshment. Both the Osaka and the Kyoto Dioceses were represented. Some of the Japanese delegates suggested having a meeting for prayer in the evening before the formal meetings commenced, to ask unitedly for a blessing on the work and on the gatherings, and after the meeting of the Chi-ho-Kwai special devotional services were arranged to be held during two days at Hamadera, a quiet seaside resort some twelve miles from Osaka. The Holy Spirit was felt to be very specially present, humbling under a sense of sin, and filling the hearts of all present with mutual love. At the close they expressed their sense of union by joining hands and repeating the Lord's Prayer together, and then the benediction was pronounced.

OSAKA.

OSAKA, known as "the Venice of the East," because of its numerous streams and canals, spanned by scores of bridges, has earned also the title of "the Manchester of Japan," because of its forest of chimneys, 368 in number, indicative of the rivalry upon which it has entered for the cotton markets of the East with the looms of Lancashire and Bombay. The "Manchester of Japan."

The Divinity School was under the Rev. P. K. Fyson until he came home, when the Rev. G. H. Pole succeeded him in the Principalship. Among his lectures and addresses to the students Mr. Pole instances the following:— Osaka Divinity School.

> I gave addresses in chapel to the Divinity students at morning prayers from passages in (1) the Psalms, (2) the Epistles to the Thessalonians, (3) the first to Timothy, and (4) that of St. James, (5) on the Christian armour, (6) the Parable of the Pounds, and (7) the responsibilities of the Christian ministry. I also tried an experiment by commencing a special course of lectures in English on "Church Principles," which was attended by about a dozen students and others. I dealt with our principles on points of doctrine as maintained against (1) the unorthodox sects, (2) the orthodox Nonconformists, and (3) the Church of Rome. Although I am doubtful how far more than three or four were able to follow satisfactorily the details of the arguments, I am continuing the course this term, dealing with our doctrinal principles as held against (4) the sacerdotalists within our own communion.

The Rev. S. M. Koba, the Japanese tutor, also gave lectures in theology to the students. In addition to these duties, he has the pastoral charge of the Church of the Saviour, with Mr. Nakajima, a former student of the Divinity School, as pastoral catechist labouring under his supervision. The congregation numbers 114, of whom 62 are communicants. Miss R. D. Howard visited and held classes for the women of this congregation and of those worshipping in the Church of the Resurrection and St. Peter's; while Miss A. L. Bosanquet worked in like manner among the women of Holy Trinity Church, under the pastorship of the Rev. B. H. Terasawa. Miss Howard also had charge for a few months of the Bible-women's Home, with its four students, after July, 1895, when Miss G. E. Cox was married to the Rev. H. W. G. Stocken, of the North-West Canada Mission, and until the return of Miss K. A. S. Tristram released Miss Boulton (of the Female Education Society) from the charge of the Poole Memorial Girls' School. The Rev. H. McC. E. Price speaks of the spirit of unity which prevails among the teachers in the Boys' Boarding School, and of the good conduct of the boys. The school, which was formerly known in the Mission as the "Higher English School," has now received the name from the locality in which it is situated of "Peach Mountain Learning Institution" (Momoyama Gakuin), as it was found the former gave rise to the impression that English only was taught. Three of the boys were baptized on Easter Day, 1895. Pastorates. Schools.

Evangelistic Work.

Many of the boys show a desire to know the Truth. The Evangelistic Work in the city was under the Rev. C. T. Warren. Large and attentive audiences were met with at the four preaching-places, and six baptisms which took place in one or other of the churches named above are traced to this work. Mr. Warren was assisted by the students of the Divinity College.

Work among crews and passengers of steamers,

Mr. Warren has started work among the crews and passengers of the numerous steamers calling at Osaka, the largest of the steamship companies having given a pass to the catechist whom he has engaged for this work, enabling him to go on board any of their boats at any time. On the first day of beginning the work he met a Christian from Tokushima (the catechist's own town), who had backslidden. The Rev. H. G. Warren was engaged in language study and in reading for priest's orders. He mentions religious conversations which he had with several thoughtful Japanese, whom he met in the railway train and in holiday resorts. To all of them Christianity was a subject of interest, and had to some extent exercised their thoughts.

Japanese blue-jackets,

Several of the Osaka missionaries refer to evangelistic labours among special classes during their season of rest and change in the heat of the summer. The Rev. C. T. Warren, while at Arima, a health resort some few miles from Osaka, had many opportunities of speaking to a number of blue-jackets —some 300—belonging to the Cheijoda-Kan, a Japanese cruiser which had been engaged in the recent war.

and invalid soldiers.

In like manner the Misses R. D. Howard, A. C. Bosanquet, and H. S. Jackson enjoyed opportunities of instructing a number of invalid soldiers while staying at Hakone, a beautiful place on the mountains in full view of Mount Fuji, where they took their holiday, lodging in a Buddhist temple. The ladies wrote:—

Missionaries residing in a Buddhist temple.

It seemed very strange to be living actually in a temple—one, too, which was supposed to be in full swing, with a dozen or more hideous images always visible, and a gorgeous shrine, with its calm Buddhas, tall gilt lotus flowers, incense burners, memorial tablets, gongs, and the rest of the ceremonial paraphernalia in the centre of the building. This great shrine was generally shut off by sliding screens, but these were removed and offerings made and incense burned during a festival which happened to take place while we were there. At other times there were no signs of any religious observances, and we were perfectly free. It is quite usual to let temples in summer time, and we were told beforehand that it was not likely to be any hindrance to Mission work, and so it proved. In fact, it was quite the best place in Hakone for our purposes.

At first we had a very quiet life, enjoying the leisure for reading, exploring the hills, and delighting in the great white lilies and hydrangeas and other wild flowers. But before long, a military invasion took place, the fear of which, as we afterwards heard, had kept a good many foreign visitors away from the place. They need not have been alarmed. Batches of soldiers who had come back from China and Formosa with that mysterious illness, "kakke," began to arrive on July 29th from the Military Hospital in Tokio. Their numbers increased until, when we left in September, there must have been about 1,200 in our village and the next one, a little way off. A more orderly garrison was never seen. They all wore the Hospital uniform of the Red Cross Society—a loose white kimono, with a red cross on the left sleeve.

Our temple was just the right distance from the village—not too far for their strength, yet far enough to be a pleasant change. They would come loitering up our little cryptomeria avenue to see where it led to, and then we had splendid opportunities of giving or lending them something to read, which they always received very gratefully.

We were astonished by the readiness to learn of most of those who came to us, and by their quickness to grasp the idea of sin and the need of a Saviour. It seemed as if all they had gone through in the war and in hospital had prepared their hearts in a special way. Some of them said they had never thought about religion till they went to the war, and then they could not help thinking. When we asked, "What did you believe? what was your religion?" the answer often was, "Nothing." But in the awful dangers of actual fighting they felt a need of "something to lean on." It was terrible to have no knowledge of the future world and no hope, when they might fall at any moment like the comrades at their sides. They had plenty of Buddhist charms, but these did not give them peace of mind. Some had received little Gospels, which were largely distributed before the troops left Hiroshima, but they had not understood what they were, and the Imperial Guards (to which many of these men belonged) seem not to have had them.

Believed "Nothing."

An American Presbyterian missionary, Dr. Alexander, of Tokio, who was staying in Hakone, had a meeting at two o'clock every day in the little church, to which thirty or forty men generally went, and this was a great help to them. Some of our friends made such progress in knowledge of the New Testament that it was hard to realize that they had known nothing of it when they came first. We were told that there was a good deal of arguing in some of the houses where the men were quartered, strong Buddhists and others who disliked Christianity raising their voices; but on the whole there was a marked spirit of respect, and in some houses the soldiers were all or almost all interested and friendly. We never saw a sign of opposition. A Christian told us one day that the evening before he had overheard two non-Christians talking. One was reproving the other for some wrong thing he had done, and saying, "What! you go to hear Christian sermons, and yet you can do a thing like that!"

It was delightful to see puzzled faces clear, and clouded, anxious ones light up, as the truth began to dawn on them. Several of the soldiers read some of the Gospels steadily, going on almost without looking up for hours at a time, and sitting up till morning to finish them. When we remonstrated with one on the ground of its being bad for his health to study at night, he said, "But it makes one's soul happy, so it is good for one." It was encouraging, too, to hear them say that the more they read the Bible the more they marvelled at the things written in it, that they could not get tired of it, that this Bible study had become their greatest joy, that now, if they had to go back to the war in Formosa, they could go without anxiety, with hearts at rest and peace, because they had learnt to know Christ and His great salvation. They thought that "Christianity is especially good for soldiers, because it takes away the fear of death."

Interest in the Word of God.

"It makes one's soul happy."

Some of the men corresponded with the ladies. One of them, a Christian, wrote, "I have thrown away my sword, and hope now to save men's lives instead of killing them."

FUKUYAMA.

Mrs. Edmonds is not able to compliment the people of FUKUYAMA on manifesting the politeness for which the Fukuyama.

Japanese are renowned. The children especially were frequently rude, and manifested a contempt for Christians and foreigners which was doubtless expressive of their parents' sentiments. Mrs. Edmonds lost her companion, Miss J. Dunn, in the summer of 1895, when the latter was married to a civil officer in India; but Miss H. S. Jackson spent the last few months of the year at Fukuyama while studying Japanese, which, she says, is "simply and absolutely appalling." Visits from the Revs. G. H. Pole and C. T. Warren, of Osaka, and the Rev. B. F. Buxton, of Matsuye, were highly valued, and their work among the Christians was much blessed. Mrs. Edmonds has a Bible-class for Christian women, one or two of whom are whole-hearted and earnest; she, with her Bible-woman, also holds cottage meetings for Christians and non-Christians in the houses of the people. On one occasion two ladies visited Mrs. Edmonds, and said that they were wondering how to spend the afternoon, and decided to go and call upon her; and on another occasion six boys from the Japanese Middle School in the town called, explaining that as they had a holiday they "thought they would come and hear about Christianity." She regularly visited Tomotsu, where, she says, the catechist, Mr. Uno, is most faithful in shepherding the little congregation, most of whom are employés of some pottery works in the neighbourhood. Mr. Warren gives the following interesting story about them in this connexion:—

Casual Visitors.

An employer tentatively allows his Christian employés to rest on Sundays.

When these people became Christians, the question of Sunday observance had to be faced. Their employer, the owner of the pottery, was a Heathen, and he said that he could not possibly allow them to rest on Sundays, and that they must be content with two days a month (viz., 1st and 15th), as heretofore. They then asked him to give them a fair trial, promising that though they rested on Sundays the total amount of work done by them should not be less than when they only rested two days in the month. To this their employer agreed, and the result was a brilliant victory for those who kept holy the Sabbath Day, for from that day to this the Christians have continually headed the list as regards the amount of work done. Would that all who profess and call themselves Christians were as firm on the subject of Sabbath observance!

The Rev. D. T. Terata, of Hiroshima, was one of eight men who were chosen from the various denominations to accompany the troops to the front during the war with China, by special permission of the Government. The Rev. C. T. Warren says:—

A C.M. native clergyman with the troops during the war.

The object of sending these men (who went in three parties) was to encourage the Christian soldiers in the midst of their many hardships, to teach the Gospel, and also in other ways, as far as possible, to minister to the wants of the soldiers in general. Mr. Terata was very well received wherever he went, and the results of his work will, I believe, be far-reaching. At one of the places he visited he met with a very hearty reception from an officer and five privates, all Christians! the officer proving to be one who, in the early days of my dear father's work in Osaka, had been for a while in the theological class. Having spent several hours with them,

Mr. Terata ordered his horse (the Government had supplied him with horse, servant, and rations), in order to get back to his temporary place of abode before nightfall, but his friends pressed him to spend the night with them, saying they could not spare God's messenger so soon, and that they would gladly share their rations and blankets with him. Having yielded to their request and spent the night with them, he conducted morning prayers and was about to leave, when one of the men stepped forward and presented him with a small packet of money towards his travelling expenses, saying that it was their united offering to God for having sent him to cheer and encourage them in their loneliness. On opening the packet he found it contained no less than 5½ yen, or about 12*s.*, a considerable sum when it is borne in mind that, apart from the officer, the five men were not receiving more than 1½*d.* or 2*d.* each per diem.

Gospel addresses by an officer in full uniform.

On other occasions, Mr. Terata would go amongst the common soldiers, giving them stamps and postcards, and himself writing the letters, &c., for those who could not do so for themselves. After an absence of some two months, Mr. Terata returned to Hiroshima, and since then has succeeded in renting a suitable preaching-room in a new situation (the former one being required by the landlord for business purposes), whither many of the men returning from the field find their way, and it was only on my recent visit there in December that I met a sergeant-major of artillery (who had been baptized by the Rev. J. Williams in Tokio) who, being full of zeal for souls, was assisting Mr. Terata in his work of preaching the Gospel, and, being in full uniform, his addresses were listened to with more than ordinary attention.

MATSUYE.

Matsuye.

The Rev. B. Fowell Buxton has been much encouraged during the year at MATSUYE by the manifest growth in grace of the native evangelists labouring with him. He writes:—

You can imagine how this has put a new song in our mouths, even praise unto our God. Our work has changed in every way in consequence. All goes smoothly, and all are knit together in love. We have a daily morning prayer-meeting in Matsuye, and their sins and shortcomings are confessed to God and to each other, and speedily put right; and we pray for the work of the day. Our evangelists' meetings, which were the heaviest part, and most anxious part, of my work, are no longer so, as the men now come in the spirit of prayer, and longing for more grace. Of course, as God has thus begun at His House, we are believing to see a blessed work this year amongst unsaved souls, and, indeed, are already beginning to see it. In our nightly preaching to the Heathen hardly a night passes without a sort of after-meeting with souls who have been touched by the Word, and who come forward to be spoken to. May we have wisdom and power really to lead these precious souls into the Kingdom!

The "Week of Prayer" a season of blessing.

At Hirose, which Miss H. S. Spicer (now at home) visited fortnightly from Matsuye, the "Week of Prayer," at the beginning of 1896 was a season of much spiritual blessing. "Each evening," Mr. Buxton writes, "the power and presence of God's Spirit was so manifested that the meetings went on for four hours or more."

Miss F. M. Fugill and Miss M. A. McClenaghan resided together at Hamada, in the province of Iwami, for the greater part of 1895. The latter had an accident at the close of 1894, and was ordered quiet and forbidden to study for several months.

Both write most joyfully of their experience of the Lord's presence with them. Miss Fugill says:—

Happiness in the work at a lonely station.

My first year was a very happy one in the Mission-field, but what shall I say about the second year? It has been, and still is, like one long "Hallelujah Chorus"! I never knew what a "living, bright reality" Jesus could be to those who trust Him fully until I came to this lonely place. Miss McClenaghan and myself are the only foreigners here. We very seldom see a white face; but we are so happy, and not one bit lonely, because the Lord Jesus so fully satisfies us. No one need fear going to a lonely station if they know God.

And Miss McClenaghan:—

When reading other people's Annual Letters, I always think, "How nice it is to have letters like this—one can pray so much more definitely!" But when I come to write my own, my one thought is, "In such a short space, how can I ever give people any adequate idea of how tender, how patient, how 'covenant-keeping' our glorious Lord and Master has been with me?" Just as in the Psalter the last day or two of the month is given up to praise Psalms, so as I look back over the year, now almost past, I feel that this last month ought to be one of continuous praise. "Thou crownest the year with Thy goodness!"

Three converts were baptized in December, who were reached in the first instance at the meetings held by Miss Fugill; one was a man working at the prison, another was a youth engaged at the bank, and the third was a girl. Of a Sunday-school which she commenced, Miss Fugill writes:—

A child's prayer.

How I wish you could see the dear children—they are so good and so clever; they learn the texts and hymns so quickly. They are learning the Commandments now. Last Sunday we were telling them that gods of stone, like they have in the temples and on the roadside, could never hear and answer prayer, but that God our Father always hears even a little child's prayer. During the week we had a very severe gale, and one little girl got up, knelt down, and said, "Please God, make the wind quiet. Amen." This is the English translation. Her parents were very surprised. I do love the children, and feel that work among them is most important.

The Rev. T. Makioka is the native pastor at this out-station. Mr. Buxton sent a Japanese catechist, Fujimoto San, to occupy one of the Oki Islands, some fifty miles from the coast, and he reports three or four earnest inquirers. Altogether twenty-four adults were baptized in the Matsuye district.

TOKUSHIMA.

Tokushima.

The island of Shikoku is included in the Diocese of Osaka. The work at TOKUSHIMA and its out-stations was under the charge of the Rev. G. Chapman throughout the year. He was obliged to leave in May, 1896, in order to bring Mrs. Chapman home in ill-health. Ten adults were baptized in the city, four of whom were women, and another was a student at the Japanese Normal School in the town, the fruits of Miss E. Ritson's and Miss E. M. S. Huhold's work. Of the student Miss Ritson says:—

Baptisms.

It is wonderful how he has been taught of God, and how he has been enabled to brave the reproaches of his relatives, fellow-students, and teachers for Christ's sake. He is now praying that he may be able to lead all these to Christ, and already an answer of blessing has begun to descend upon the school.

One of the women converts lives at a village seven miles distant from Tokushima, where she holds a meeting on Sundays for her own household, which a few neighbours attend. Mr. Chapman says that the converts usually look forward with much eagerness to the day of baptism :—

Joy of new converts.

One speaks of being unable to sleep—lying awake the whole night in expectation of baptism the following day ; another says he went home leaping for joy after his baptism ; and another, who had been vexed and worried a great deal by friends and relations, and who was in much heaviness, speaks of the deep peace he received in baptism. To the last of these especially it was a decisive act of choosing Christ with persecution, and he was in trepidation until the last moment lest his friends should come and compel him to leave the church.

Of the three young women who were mentioned in last year's Report as forming a class for Bible study taught by Miss Ritson, one has become the wife of a catechist, one is in the Bible-women's Home, and the third is still with Miss Ritson helping her as her Bible-woman. Miss Huhold gives some of her experiences in house-to-house visiting :—

Experiences in house-to-house visiting.

When I go visiting I take with me a picture rolled up ; go into every house of the street where I am visiting, and ask the people if I may come in, in order to tell them of the true God, and to show them a picture. And the picture does wonders. Houses where I was never allowed to enter before are opened to me when the people see the picture rolled up in my hand. Lately, going round like that with a picture in my hand, I found two old women standing in the street looking at the people. I asked them if I should tell them something of the true God ; they said "Yes." Then I asked where they lived, for I could not do it so well in the street, as it was too long to tell it standing. They said they lived too far away for me to go there, but they went in the next little shop and asked the shopkeeper if we might sit down in his shop ; and there we sat down—the two women, the shopkeeper, and I. They listened all three most attentively, and thanked me very heartily when I went away from there to the next house. Coming half an hour later again out of the next house, I found the younger of the two old women waiting for me outside behind the crowd gathered before the door. She beckoned most imploringly that I might follow her, which I of course did very gladly. She brought me through ever so many small, tiny streets to a house, where I found the room prepared for me with cushions and hibachi, and where eight grown-up people and perhaps twelve or fifteen big children were waiting for me, welcomed me very politely, and listened most attentively. So I had the opportunity of holding a very nice meeting without having done anything to get the people together. When I went away they thanked me most heartily, and the master of the house accompanied me most politely a long way.

Room prepared and audience waiting.

Another time, going from house to house, I had, as usual, a crowd of children behind me, who wanted to enter the house with me, but as the people do not like such a crowd of children to enter with me, I said to the children that I could not allow them to go with me, but when I came to their houses I would tell them a very nice story and show them a picture. Then I entered the house alone, remained there half an hour, and then went to the next. But what a surprise ! All the children had gone there before me, announced my coming, and asked the woman of the house to allow them to come in and sit down and listen to me. And when I entered the room was prepared, tidied up, and a children's meeting waiting for me, for the children were all nicely sitting in a row waiting for my speaking to them.

Miss Ritson visited the out-stations and exhibited lantern slides to large numbers. Five adults were baptized at Muya.

II. DIOCESE OF SOUTH TOKIO.

The Rev. W. P. Buncombe, on his return to the Mission after furlough in December, was assigned to the Diocese of South Tokio and was appointed Secretary of the Conference. He sailed with Mrs. Buncombe in December, 1895. Miss O. Julius, who sailed in October, was also appointed to labour in the city of Tokio. Of the year's recruits, the Rev. H. Woodward and Miss K. M. Peacocke were appointed to Tokio. Nagoya, the station worked by the Wycliffe College Mission, is in this diocese, and the three ordained men with their wives, all having had some years' experience in missionary work, and two unmarried ladies, who were formerly attached to that Mission, are now a part of the Society's missionary force. The Rev. and Mrs. A. F. Chappell came home in June, 1895.

Ordination. Bishop Bickersteth admitted Mr. Mago-tarō Tomita to deacon's orders at Tokio on June 9th, 1895.

TOKIO.

Tokio. The great city of Tokio had no resident European missionary of the Society throughout 1895, but in the latter half of the year it received a monthly visit from the Rev. C. T. Warren, of Osaka. The Congregation worshipping in St. Paul's Church was ministered to by a lay catechist, Mr. G. Soeshima, until August, when the Rev. M. Tomita, the newly-ordained deacon, succeeded to the pastorship. The baptized members of the congregation, including children, number ninety-one, and fifty-two are communicants. Ten adults were baptized during the year. At Boshiu there is a congregation of thirty-nine Christians and nineteen communicants; eight adults were baptized there. The catechist, Mr. N. Tanaka, has a class of some twenty young men studying the Bible, and six of the eight converts were members of this class.

GIFU.

Gifu. After the departure of the Rev. and Mrs. A. F. Chappell in May, 1895, Gifu had no resident ordained missionary, but the Revs. H. J. Hamilton and J. M. Baldwin, of the neighbouring station, Nagoya, kindly paid monthly visits, giving much encouragement and help to Miss E. C. Payne and Miss M. L.

Pasley. The ladies have access to several upper-class homes. Two judges and two other government officials visit them for English lessons, and they and their families are very friendly. The wives of two of them were educated at Mission-schools. Of another native judge and his wife Miss Payne gives a most interesting and pathetic account:—

Towards the end of last year we went to see a lady, the wife of a judge who has retired and is now living with his son, a doctor, at a village called Kitajima, about one mile from Gifu. They have a son in America, a very earnest Christian, who asked us to teach his parents. At first the lady never came in the room when Tomikawa San and I called, but by degrees, in answer to prayer, she got very friendly. She was a very earnest Buddhist, and told us "that Shaka San was quite sufficient for her, he had been very good to her, and given her everything she possessed." However, the Holy Spirit Himself taught her to think differently, and in a short time she came to church regularly, and seemed so anxious to find the truth, and, as she was a well-educated woman, soon understood very well, for she had often before heard about Christianity, but had always been so opposed to it. One day, to my surprise, she told me that she wished to become a catechumen the following Sunday, but such was not to be, for on the Saturday she was taken ill and never recovered. We used very often to visit her, and she wished to be baptized, but her husband would not give his permission. I was so sorry, for I am sure she was downright in earnest. The day she died I went to see her in the afternoon, and found that many of her relations had arrived who were all Buddhists. The old lady looked so happy, and after talking a little she asked me to have a prayer; fortunately I had my Prayer-book, so used the prayer for the sick, and when I had finished, she looked up at me with such a bright face and said: "Thank you; I am so happy, I have entrusted everything to Jesus Christ." She died about an hour after I left, so peacefully, and I doubt not she is in the Heavenly Home, free from all sin and sorrow. The husband since then has quite changed. Though he is an old gentleman, he generally walks in to church every Sunday morning. He has asked for baptism, and Mr. Hamilton has examined him, and will baptize him (D.V.) the next time he comes in.

A judge's wife dies trusting in Christ.

NAGOYA.

Nagoya.

The transfer of the missionaries of the late Wycliffe College Mission to the ranks of the C.M.S. took place in 1896, and consequently no account of their work at NAGOYA during 1895 was to be expected at the Church Missionary House. A printed report of a Home for Destitute Aged People and Children, which the Rev. J. Cooper Robinson opened in 1891 after the terrible earthquake of that year, and which has been supported by local contributions and by the donations of personal Canadian friends of the missionaries, has been received.

III. DIOCESE OF KIU-SHIU.

Bishop Evington's journeys.

BISHOP EVINGTON visited during the year every station and out-station—except two of the latter—in the island of Kiu-shiu, and also went in the spring of 1895 to the Loochoo Islands. His travelling, including a journey to and from the northern island of Hokkaido, amounted to 6,000 miles. He held confirmations at nine places in Kiu-shiu and one in Loochoo, confirming thirty-five candidates. The Bishop writes as follows regarding the work and its immediate prospects:—

Prospects of the work.

I think the time is yet far off when the friends of Christian Missions need calculate on withdrawing from Japan. There have been numbers baptized, it is true, but as yet the conscience of the nation, and indeed of the Church, is far from educated. They tell us we cannot understand them, and, in one sense, we cannot, for they conceal their true nature from the foreigner; but in another sense I believe we understand many of them better than they do themselves. It cannot be otherwise than that a country which has passed through the changes which this land has in the last forty years should continue to bring us surprises and disappointments, some of them cutting to the quick, and, but for God's promises, enough to plunge one in despair.

Ordination.

The Bishop admitted Mr. John T. Kō to deacon's orders, but the date has not been mentioned.

Miss A. C. Tennent came home invalided in August.

NAGASAKI.

Nagasaki.

The Rev. A. R. Fuller hesitates whether he can say that the year's work, as a whole, at NAGASAKI resulted in progress. The patriotic interest of the people in the struggles of their country, and their concern to reap the advantages of their victories, preoccupied their minds, and religious questions were relegated to a subordinate place in their thoughts. The Congregation increased their contributions sufficiently to justify the Church Council in giving a title for orders to the catechist, Mr. Kō; their attendance at the services was also good, but they showed a lack of aggressiveness—a common failing, Mr. Fuller says, among Japanese Christians. On this point Mr. Fuller adds:—

Congregation.

Lack of aggressiveness due to superficial knowledge of sin.

A lack of the deep realization of the value of the salvation which has become theirs is undoubtedly at the root of this condition of things. And this probably finds its source in the odiousness of sin not having been adequately estimated, together with another lack which this implies, viz., deep repentance. The average Western Christian certainly approaches the Gospel through the avenue of deep soul-need. Japanese (with some exceptions, of course) seek to reach it by way of the intellect, and, I fear, inadequate repentance is the result. Aggressive Christianity is not the natural outcome of little more than an intellectual hold on the Gospel.

Mr. Fuller refers to the progress in their secular studies of the pupils in the Girls' Boarding School under Mrs. Harvey, and to the good tone of the school. The Misses D. I. Hunter Brown (of the New Zealand Association) and H. S. Cockram spent much time necessarily in the study of "this beautiful, baffling language," as the former lady calls it. Miss B. J. Allen, who joined the Nagasaki staff in May, 1895, and who succeeded in passing well her first examination exceptionally early, says the language is "very fascinating, illustrating as it does in so many ways the character of the people, their great courtesy, their impersonal character, if one may use the expression, and the wholly subordinate, submissive position of the women." The ladies took some part, as they were able, in the work among women and children. God also sent them in March, 1895, a much-prized opportunity of helping heavenward some English man-o'-war's men, whom they invited to use the schoolroom, giving them books, papers, &c. Miss Hunter Brown wrote:—

This "beautiful baffling language."

British mariners at a Japanese port.

They came in half the day sometimes, for it was rough weather; and they seemed to me to spend three parts of their time over their Bibles. We had English prayers, hymns, and a talk with them from nine to ten every evening they came.

The last night the men got leave to bring some of the Christians off another ship, and when we came in from Japanese service they were having a prayer-meeting and choruses. There were twelve of them, three at least converted during the last three months, one of them in Nagasaki itself. The doctor came to see us on Tuesday, and told us how God had not only led the men to this house, but met them here. He said they had had their regular meeting on board, and the men were "just full."

During the summer Miss Hunter Brown had a class of four young men connected with one of the banks, who joined it from the desire to learn English, with the following result. Miss Hunter Brown writes:—

The "wonderful" power of the Word of God.

I promised them one night for this, and offered them a second night for the Bible only if they would come. They agreed at once. From the first I made it a point that they read only the Japanese Bible on the second night. At first they were a little reluctant; but I was much struck to see how, after a few weeks, they forgot all about learning English during the Bible lesson, and how the Book exerted its wonderful power over them. I heard later, what I suspected from the first, that all four came originally with the one real object of learning more English, and only spoke of the Bible on my account. They did not know the power of the Book they touched so lightly, though they had all heard more or less before. I took, not a Gospel, but a continuous sketch of the Life of Christ, and as the time drew to a close, and the lessons deepened in seriousness towards the end of His Life, we wholly dropped English; and when I left early in September they went, all of them, to a Japanese catechist, who reports to me, with a face running over with joy, that two of them are in real earnest in their decision for Christ; and a "third would like to be, but he can't care." Do not some of us know well what that means? When once it comes to helping souls, work here is wonderfully like what it is at home.

At Shimabara the work languished in consequence of the ill-health of the catechist. Two adults were, however, baptized.

Occupation of Kagoshima.

Kagoshima received for the first time resident European C.M.S. missionaries in October, 1895, in the persons of Miss Hunter Brown and Miss Cockram. One adult was baptized.

First-fruits of Loochoo Islands.

The Loochoo Islands yielded their first converts from among the Natives during the year. Some Japanese had been baptized there before, but in the spring of 1895 Bishop Evington baptized a man and a woman, and in the autumn Mr. Fuller baptized a young man, the first Loochooans to enter the Christian Church. The man and woman accompanied Mr. Fuller to Kiu-shiu, the man to be trained at Nagasaki and the woman at Kagoshima for teachers' work, God willing, among their countrymen. Both are described as "clever," and as giving good hope of stability and usefulness. Two other inquirers are mentioned, one of whom has not yet conquered a love of strong drink.

Translations.

Mr. Fuller translated Infant Baptism, by the Rev. A. E. Barnes-Lawrence, and The Church Catechism Explained, by the Rev. A. W. Robinson, which were both welcomed in the Mission and had an excellent sale.

FUKUOKA.

Fukuoka.

The Rev. A. B. Hutchinson's testimony regarding the attitude of the people towards the Gospel coincides with that of the Bishop and of Mr. Fuller. "The state of strain and absorption in one topic has given place to apathy and indifference towards everything." And regarding the Christians, he says, "There is deplorable apathy about speaking of Christ to their fellow-men." He mentions one encouraging fact regarding the Congregation:—

Daily prayer-meetings.

The Christians, impressed by the fact that so little has been done by themselves to win fresh converts, are holding a daily prayer-meeting at 6 A.M., to seek pardon for remissness, and increase of zeal and grace for the future.

Double collections.

And he states that on alternate Sundays, by the wish of the people themselves, it is the rule to have a double collection after the services, the second for some special object announced on the previous Sunday. Mr. Hutchinson has opened a Soldiers' Rest-house, from which inquirers have come forward.

Miss A. C. Tennent's departure in the summer of 1895 deprived Miss E. A. P. Sells of her companion in the Work among Women, but during the winter she had Miss M. Laurence, of Hakodate, working with her. Miss Sells speaks of one woman inquirer. A Christian woman on her death-bed, after a long illness borne with great patience, said to Mr. Hutchinson, "I have learned much of God whilst lying here alone." The church at Oyamada was entirely overthrown by a storm in July; but a more grievous overthrow had previously befallen several families connected with the congregation. Mr. Hutchinson, writing in December, 1895, tells the lamentable story:—

Sad relapse of several Christian families

Within the last month a sad story has been revealed to us here. We learn that two years since the heads of twelve families quietly apostatized for the sake of earthly gain. One man, being dissatisfied with the efforts made to clear off a heavy law debt which has long been a sore trouble to the village, went to three wealthy residents in the adjacent valley to suggest a general collection in aid of the Oyamada people. These at once agreed, if the Christians would give up their faith. On being sounded eleven others were found willing, and they put their seals to a promise to give up all outward observance of Christianity, on a promise that 10,000 yen should be collected (1,000 for rebuilding the Shinto shrine, 1,500 to make a public park, 4,500 to clear off the debt, and the remainder to be divided for expenses, &c.). Not a cent has as yet been received. In October last a famous preacher from the Honguanji at Kiyoto came down for a week and joined the scheme, throwing out the rebuilding of the shrine, but promising monetary help if the seceders will join the Buddhists. All this was first made known to us, to our great sorrow, at the end of November, the occasion being the announcement that the C.M. Conference had decided to remove the catechist to Kumamoto. This sad lapse had been kept from us all by the other Christians until now. The catechist also, having known it part of the time, felt it too sad an affair to reveal. The reason alleged for the constant absence of so many communicants was the story of a quarrel about land, and the steps taken to sell part and pay off the debt. This reticence and withholding of the truth has been an added sorrow to us. The total destruction of the church by storm; the removal of six families to distant places; this apostasy and withdrawal of twelve other families; and now the transfer of the catechist to another sphere of work without possibility at present of replacing him—all form a dark and gloomy outlook for this once bright spot. There has been no adult baptism for four years, and there are no catechumens either at Oyamada or in the three villages in which the Gospel has for some time been regularly preached. Pray for Oyamada, that the wanderers may be brought back, and that all may be quickened into new life.

No adult baptisms have occurred at Saga for the past four years. The agent of the Japan Church Mission Society mentioned last year, resigned on account of illness. At Kurume, a town of 30,000 inhabitants, there are four catechumens.

The other out-stations are under the supervision of the Rev. J. Hind, who also conducted men's Bible-classes in Fukuoka. Miwa San steadily pursues his good work in the Imajiku district, but no results appeared during the year. At Zassho there were two adult baptisms, and a member of the Prefectural Assembly is a catechumen. Mr. Hind "cannot speak too highly" of the probationer catechist there, Yamamoto San. There are a few inquirers among the workers at a coal-mine near Kokura, a stronghold of Buddhism. At Kotake there were two adult baptisms. Of a Christian widow in this district, named Takanabe San, Mr. Hind relates the following:—

Liberal offering of a Christian widow.

Though poor, she is always regular in contributions to church and other expenses. The other day she brought seventy sen (about 1*s.* 5½*d.*) to Nakamura San, asking him to spend it for God. When asked how she got it, she said that for the last six years she had "stolen time" when she could, and by making rope and sandals with rice-straw she had been able to save two rin per week (one-twentieth of a penny).

Mr. Hutchinson mentions an unsolicited testimony given to the good conduct of the Christians amongst the Japanese troops at Port Arthur:—

Testimony to good conduct of Christian soldiers during late war.

The commandant of this district, being interviewed by the agent of the Bible Society to arrange for the distribution of portions to the soldiers, said in effect: "I have just returned from Port Arthur. I am not a believer myself, but I have noted amongst the troops the good conduct of those who are Christians—the quiet, fearless way in which they go bravely into battle, and the orderly, collected way in which they bear themselves afterwards, free from excitement prejudicial to discipline. I think it would be a good thing for the army if all became Christians."

KUMAMOTO.

Kumamoto. The Rev. J. B. Brandram reports the outlook at KUMAMOTO to be brighter and the work more encouraging than for several years past. The most notable event of the year, Mr. Brandram says, was the distribution of 4,000 Gospels to the soldiers of the garrison, by the special sanction of the authorities. An eight-days' Mission—evangelistic apparently—was held with crowded and most attentive audiences, and good numbers attended the regular evangelistic meetings. Ten adults were admitted as catechumens, of whom four were baptized on October 6th, all four the fruits of Women's Work carried on by the Misses G. Nott and H. Riddell. One of the catechumens was a blind girl, very intelligent, who learned quickly to read and write according to the "Braille" system for the blind. One of those baptized was a woman whose husband also is a catechumen. They had lent their room for meetings, and had continued to do so in spite of such ignorant persecution as the following:—

Scoffing and ridicule endured by converts.

As a result of our river-bank friends lending us their little room for the meetings last winter, their eldest girl, who was working at a match-factory, was set on by her companions, arrayed in an old shawl and a hideous arrangement which they imagined to be an English hat! and paraded through the neighbourhood by a shouting crowd, who dubbed her "Jesus foreigner"! while, for a long time, whenever her mother went out, her former acquaintances went through the Buddhist form of prayer, rubbing their hands together and repeating "Amida Butsu," hoping thus to counteract her evil influence! But I am glad to say they were enabled to stand firm, and in spite of being exceedingly poor, they took the decided step of throwing their household gods into the river, saying that they could not sell them and thus lead others to continue in their mistaken worship.

New Leper Asylum. A Leper Hospital was opened on November 12th through the earnest efforts of the Misses Riddell and Nott. A Native Christian doctor is in residence as superintendent, and another Christian doctor, a specialist in leprosy, attends the hospital gratuitously, his travelling expenses only being paid. Regarding Takachiho Mr. Brandram writes:—

At Takachiho, Mr. Kuroki, our one rich Christian, a member of the Provincial Council, tells me they are "going on very well." He explained his remark by saying, "A few years ago every one thought Christianity a bad thing, and now every one acknowledges that it is so good that only people who lead holy lives can be counted as Christians, and our lives are being watched to see if we come up to our profession; everything depends on our lives."

A Native Christian gives up his brewery.

I may add by way of commentary to this, that Mr. Kuroki, after several years of consideration, has now entirely given up his brewery of saké (native wine), and intends to cultivate silkworms instead. This is his own idea and thought entirely. He thinks he can more helpfully—helpfully to his neighbours—engage in some other business. It has come about without any pressure from without.

OITA.

Oita. The Rev. H. L. Bleby reports thirty-six baptized Christians at OITA and its out-stations. Three adults were baptized during the year, one being the first fruits of a village called Soki, in the neighbourhood of Nobeoka.

IV. DIOCESE OF HOKKAIDO.

Bishop Evington admitted the Rev. G. C. Niven to priest's orders on March 1st, 1896, at Nagasaki. The Bishop visited Yezo from Kiu-shiu in the summer of 1895, spending two months in the former island, and confirming 79 Japanese and 46 Ainu Christians. The Bishop presided at the meetings of the Chi-ho-kwai, or Church Council, held in July, which the Rev. W. Andrews says were the largest, the best conducted, and most successful gatherings of this nature that had been held up to that time. Twenty delegates from the different congregations and twenty visitors were present. Mr. Andrews states that the value of church organization is increasingly realized by the Native Christians. He says :—

Meeting of Church Council.

Each year the catechists are becoming more alive to the importance of the keeping in order the machinery of the Church, and the members of the several congregations accordingly are beginning to value their Church privileges more. But this is slow work, especially when the people find it very hard to get a living and at the same time to pay out to meet the expenses of delegates to these Councils. Next year they will have to pay towards the expenses of another Chi-ho-kwai, and also towards those of the Synod, which will reach to double the amount for a Chi-ho-kwai.

Church privileges increasingly valued.

Devotional gatherings for the catechists and other native workers followed the meetings of the Chi-ho-kwai. The first Conference of missionaries for this new diocese was held in August, under Bishop Evington's presidency.

It has been found desirable, instead of dividing the work as previously done according to race, viz., that for Japanese and that for the Ainu, to divide the country into districts, the missionary in charge of each to superintend both the Japanese and Ainu work in his district.

Mr. Andrews mentions efforts made on behalf of the soldiers who left Hokkaido to take part in the war with China :—

There were about 5,000 soldiers summoned from Hokkaido ; among them were many Christians. Belonging to the Chi-ho-kwai were fifty. It was due to the kindness of Mr. Lang that I was enabled to visit all the soldiers going from his district as well as those from my own. I saw each Christian personally, and gave him a Testament and an address. Wherever we could we arranged for meetings, and administered the Holy Communion to them before starting. I and two of the catechists had followed about four hundred soldiers from their native village to Akkeshi, the seaport for embarkation. We wanted to get permission to give some books and Testaments to each man. The general in charge was a strict Buddhist, and had some years ago opposed the holding of meetings in the village. Three workers and myself met for prayer, and it was decided that one of the catechists should accompany me to the general's hotel and boldly proffer our request. On entering the room, the first person we saw was the chief priest of the town, conversing with him. Sending up a silent prayer, we offered our request. The bald head and face of the old priest while we were talking presented quite a study. It seemed almost that there could not have been a worse time for Efforts on behalf of soldiers proceeding to the field of war.

A Buddhist general allows NewTestaments to be given to the men, asking a favour, but the general replied most kindly that we might give whatever we liked to the men; that he would give orders to the corporals of each division to receive the books from us and distribute them to the men. We returned to the hotel and praised the Lord. Next day we were busy for hours going round to the different places where the men were quartered, and giving books, and chatting with the soldiers. We also sent a Bible to the general. In the afternoon we had a gathering of fifteen or more Christians in the church, and I administered the Holy Communion. I left the men singing "Onward, Christian soldiers," and went back to the village they had come from, to visit their relatives.

HAKODATE.

Hakodate.

At HAKODATE the Rev. W. Andrews has a Preparandi Class, the course of which lasts two years, four months of each year being spent in study, and the other eight in work under catechists. Of the catechists in his district he gives a cheering account. He says:—

A soul-seeking catechist.

Here is what one writes to me about a backslider:—"I was made very happy yesterday. A young Christian had fallen into sin and lust, but he came yesterday and confessed to me all from the beginning. I did not know how bad he had been. I knew from last year his faith had grown cold, and that he had given up attending the services, and I thought it was a hard case. It was no use speaking to him; the only thing to do was to pray; so I and my wife prayed for him. Just before the young man arrived, another came and began to tell me how wicked this young Christian had become, and when I heard the reports I cried bitterly. Then he himself came in, and seeing that his countenance was sad, I tried with a broken heart to comfort him and encourage him. He then told me all, and that after he had sinned his conscience would not let him rest. He was so wretched that he determined to commit suicide, but a friend discovered him and saved him from that. I was very sad, but happy too, and together we prayed and thanked God. I begged him to meditate and pray for three days, and I gave him some of my own experience on the matter. After this talk and prayer we were happy, and we ate together and praised the Lord. Pray for him that he may stand firm."

An instance of liberality.

Mr. Andrews was much cheered by the liberal contributions of the parents of the children in the Girls' School towards the expense of enlarging the building, their gifts amounting to $117; and the fact that the school stands in the concession, on land which, according to treaty, is entirely under foreigners' control, rendered the liberality all the more noteworthy. The Ainu Training School, under Mr. C. Nettleship, has nineteen inmates—seventeen boys and two girls. Eleven of the pupils were confirmed together with Japanese Christians in August, 1895, and afterwards all received the Holy Communion together. For the growing spirit of unity between the Christians of the two races Mr. Andrews expresses thankfulness. Miss M. Laurence was encouraged in house-to-house visitation, and she held an English class of men connected with the Post Office and other Government offices, and as a result of the class gained access to the homes of the members. One of the men pathetically said to Miss Laurence, "It is such a pity I read so much on the other side first, and now it is so difficult to believe"—alluding to infidel literature which has been sent in large quantities and from Christian lands, alas, to Japan. The Rev. T. Ogawa made two itinerating tours in the Tokachi district, which he says is about 130 miles in extent. Three agents are stationed there. Emmanuel Village is about 150 miles from Hakodate, and consists of straw huts constructed by recent Christian colonists from the south, some sixteen of whom are members of the ~~Chi-ho-kwai~~, the Episcopal Church of Japan. Mr. Andrews visited them in October, and was very heartily welcomed.

SAPPORO.

As mentioned above, the Ainu are no longer the objects of the exclusive attention of particular missionaries, but are looked after by those in charge of the districts where they reside. The SAPPORO district, however, contains the bulk of the representatives of that race, over 11,000 out of a total of about 16,000. This district is divided between the Revs. J. Batchelor and G. C. Niven, the former having some 10,000 Ainu, among whom are 570 Christians, and the latter 1,300, but no Christians as yet. One hundred and two adults were baptized by Mr. Batchelor during the year. The first Ainu whom Mr. Batchelor baptized, in 1889, died in November. He was named Petros, and latterly had been employed as a catechist among his own people. His and other happy deaths were a cause of great surprise to the heathen Ainu, who live in great fear of death. Mr. Batchelor mentions that he met an aged Christian Ainu woman, supposed to be more than a hundred years old, sitting outside her hut and weeping, "because," she said, "I want to go to be with Jesus; He takes others, but leaves me." This woman's grand-daughter had just died. The following instance of liberality is mentioned by Mr. Batchelor:—

Sapporo.

Ainu baptisms.

Happy Christian deaths—their influence on Heathen.

> One poor man came to us here ill, and received much benefit. When well enough to leave us, he went to his home. He left on a Friday. Just before leaving he came to me and said, "I shall not be here for the Sunday service, but would like to leave something for the Lord's box (i.e. offertory). I haven't much, but I give all I can." He left two cents, all he had. This reminded me of the "widow's mite," and I received it with deep thankfulness. But this is not all. He asked for a missionary-box to take away with him; I gladly gave him one. Last month he wrote me a letter begging me to go and see him and open the Lord's box, which, he said, was pretty full. As soon as able I went to his house, and, after having prayers and partaking of the Lord's Supper with him and his wife, opened his box. It contained sixty-one cents.

"He left two cents—all he had."

A "Hospital Rest" for Ainu had seventy-two inmates altogether during the year. Two new churches were built, one at Piratori and the other at Usu. The Rev. G. C. Niven describes the opening of the one at Piratori on May 13th, 1895. Mr. and

New church at Piratori.

Mrs. Batchelor and he arrived on Saturday evening, the 11th. He wrote:—

Straightway work began, and continued incessantly to the end of the visit, our first service being held in Penri's hut on the evening of our arrival. Penri himself is, alas! a reproduction of his brother ruler Mwanga of Uganda, loving his sakè (rice-wine) and his sin rather than the Gospel, which he knows well by head, but not by heart. In one matter, however, he is an exception to Mwanga, in his pointed refusal to have anything to do with the Roman Catholic priests or their overtures to his people. He heartily despises them for worshipping idols, as indeed all the Ainu do the Japanese on account of their Buddhistic idolatry.

On Sunday, May 12th, there were services in the church. In the morning there were about seventy present. Later we had Holy Communion, and in the evening again the blessed news was proclaimed to about sixty. Monday proved a fine day, and the church-opening was arranged for one o'clock; but as the Ainu have no clocks, and are quite oblivious of the value of time, it was not a matter of surprise that they had not all arrived till 3 p.m. There were about 200 present, and the church, which is of wood, and very plain, with a small recess for a chancel, was filled with people, who all sat upon the floor, as we cannot yet afford seats. After a short service, at which Mr. Batchelor spoke, we had a brief speech from each of eight Ainu men from villages near, among which number four are chiefs of their respective villages.

KUSHIRO.

Kushiro. The Rev. D. Marshall Lang is in charge of KUSHIRO and its district. During the year under record, however, he resided at Hakodate, from which place he twice visited his district. Bishop Evington confirmed fifty-six candidates in the summer. Miss L. Payne resides at Kushiro, and has under her charge a school for Japanese girls, with sixteen pupils, an Ainu school at Harutori with forty-one on its roll, and an Ainu school at Tong-Keshi.

NEW ZEALAND MISSION.

The Mission to the Maoris of New Zealand was the second of the Society's Missions in order of time. It was undertaken at the invitation of Samuel Marsden, Chaplain in New South Wales, who landed on the Northern Island, with the first three men—lay agents—sent out as pioneers, in 1814, and preached the first Christian sermon to the Natives on Christmas Day of that year. Other missionaries followed, whose lives, which were entirely in the power of a race of ferocious cannibals, were frequently in apparently imminent danger. For eleven years no results were seen. The first conversion took place in 1825, and no other Natives were baptized for five years. Then began the marvellous movement which resulted in almost the whole Maori nation being brought under Christian instruction and civilizing influences, and which led Bishop Selwyn, on his arrival in his new diocese in 1842, to write: "We see here a whole nation of pagans converted to the faith. . . . Where will you find, throughout the Christian world, more signal manifestations of the presence of the Spirit, or more living evidences of the Kingdom of Christ?"

In 1840 New Zealand was made a British Colony, and emigration on a large scale ensued. The vices as well as the benefits of civilization were introduced, and the inevitable conflict of race began. The continual disputes about the sale and possession of land led to prolonged and bitter wars, which shook the Native Church to its foundations. In 1864 arose the "Pai Marire" or "Hau-hau" superstition, a strange compound of Christianity and Heathenism, which spread rapidly among the Natives. It was a party of Hauhaus who so barbarously murdered the missionary Völkner.

In 1883 a C.M.S. Mission Board, comprising the Bishops of Auckland, Waiapu, and Wellington, and other members, was established to administer the Society's grants, which diminish annually, and will cease (subject to personal claims) in a few years.

Death of Rev. J. Matthews.

THE Rev. Joseph Matthews, of Kaitaia, in the Auckland Diocese, died on November 3rd, 1895, at the advanced age of 83. Mr. Matthews went out to New Zealand as a lay agent in 1831, and was admitted to deacon's and priest's orders in 1845 and 1859 by Bishop Selwyn. He never came home, and resided at Kaitaia from 1833 until his death. He was placed on the retired list in New Zealand in 1883, but he continued to the last to labour so far as strength permitted. When he went out the first-fruits of the Maori harvest were being reaped, and no white men except the missionaries had landed in the country. He lived to see New Zealand a great and growing British Colony, and to see or hear of more than fifty of the once cannibal Maori race being ordained to the ministry of the Church, several of them his own converts, trained by himself. Archdeacon E. B. Clarke writes concerning him:—

It is not possible to estimate the value of his labours and their far-reaching influence. Having known him from my childhood, and also been in official connexion with him for more than twenty-five years, I have had ample opportunity of knowing what that work was. Apart from the worthy men who translated the Scriptures into Maori, I doubt if there are many who have done more for the advancement of Christ's Kingdom amongst the Natives. To his direct and indirect teaching and influence we owe at least fifteen of our northern native clergy, some of whom he has recently joined in the presence of the Master whom he taught them so faithfully to serve.

The Rev. A. F. Williams is the Secretary of the Mission, and also of the New Zealand Mission Trust Board, which manages the Society's property in the island. In this latter office he has lately succeeded the Rev. R. Burrows, one of the oldest of the Society's veteran missionaries, who has been obliged by advancing age to resign a difficult post which he has filled for many years with untiring assiduity.

I. DIOCESE OF AUCKLAND.

THE Bishop of Auckland admitted Mr. Ranapia Mokena to deacon's orders in January, 1895, to be honorary assistant at Hauraki.

New churches.

Three churches were built during the year—one at Haranui, a second in the "King's" Country, and the third at Matauri, in the Whangaroa district. Archdeacon Clarke reports improvement in the spiritual tone of the Maori church in the diocese. The services are well attended, and the conduct of the people is good. The mortality among the Maoris has for many years past been large as compared with that among Europeans. In some districts in the north of this diocese it reached the abnormal rate of 10 per cent., owing to an epidemic of fever. Several chiefs died, and among them two who were teachers for upwards of twenty years.

At the meeting of the Native Church Board which took place in Auckland in January, 1895, fifteen clergy and twenty-one lay delegates were present. But the special feature of interest was the presence for the first time of representatives from the "King's Country," one of them being a near relation of the Maori King. Much success has attended the labours of the Revs. Taipona Hapimana and Nikora Tautau among the Kingites and Hauhaus. A church was opened at Pourewa in June, 1895, which was built mainly by these people. The new "King," Mahuta, has prohibited all unnecessary Sunday work by proclamation in his official gazette, and he is wishful to have religion taught in the schools. One of the evangelists wrote to Archdeacon Clarke :—

The Maori "King" prohibits unnecessary Sunday work.

> The doors of all the houses in Waikato are open for the worship of God, without any hindrance or contempt or derision or interruption. They hungrily hear the Word, and some try to do it. At a large meeting held at Kawhia the king announced himself in the presence of the tribes thus :—"The Maori tohungas and witchcraft, the observance of tapu, are to be altogether discontinued. Tawhaio (his father), the upholder of these things, is dead—let his Maori superstitions and observances be buried with him : let no man look back to them, but rather look forward to the future, to the things which will conduce to peace and well-being. It was a new year and a new day on which I became your king, and I want you to make a new departure." He then turned to us three (W. Warena, a Wesleyan minister, was with us), "Listen to me, O my ministers. You three and I make four—we are all alike, all one. We are under the shadow of the Lord's Day. It is not for you only, but for me, for me, and I shall keep it holy!

holy!! holy!!! as a day for worship only." The bright morning star has risen in the heart of Mahuta, if only its roots strike deep into the grace of God. Be strong to pray for Mahuta that his heart may be filled with the light of the Gospel.

Archdeacon Clarke visited a party of thirty Hauhaus at Kennedy Bay by invitation and was cordially received. All attended the two daily and four Sunday services during his stay, and he appointed their chief to act as lay-reader when he left them. The Rev. F. T. Baker reports briefly on his work at Waitara.

II. DIOCESE OF WAIAPU.

Ordinations.

Bishop Williams admitted to deacon's orders Messrs. Ahipene Rangi and Hakuraia Pahewa at St. Paul's Maori Church, Wairoa, on March 10th; and Mr. Rameka Haimona, at Maketu, on April 21st, 1895.

Te Aute College.

The first two of the above were students at the Gisborne Training Institution, under the Rev. H. W. Williams. One hopeful student who entered during the year from the Te Aute College unhappily died of typhoid fever. A visit to this school of Bishop Wilson, of the Melanesian Mission, with some twenty boys from Norfolk Island, was an event of great interest to the boys. The Rev. A. F. Williams has an extensive district under his supervision, the circuit of which, visiting village by village, takes him six weeks to accomplish. There has been, and still is, he remarks, much deadness among the Maoris, but he sees signs of an approaching revival.

Opotiki.

The Rev. G. Maunsell, of Opotiki, corrects an error in the statistics in last year's Report. In Opotiki and Te Kaha the number of baptized Christians is approximately 1,200, not 550 as there stated, and there are ninety communicants instead of forty. The majority of them are in Te Kaha "parish," which has received for its pastor one of the newly-ordained deacons, the Rev. H. Pahewa. The district placed under his pastoral care is sixty miles long, and contains ten hamlets from three to fifteen miles apart. There is a church at each end of the district, and the people have built a small parsonage. The ordination of the Rev. R. Haimona at Maketu in April, 1895, was, the Rev. W. Goodyear believes, the first such service ever held in his district. Mr. Haimona's principal sphere of labour is amongst the lapsed Maoris of Tauranga.

III. DIOCESE OF WELLINGTON.

Death of Rev. P. Te Mahauariki.

The Rev. Pineaha Te Mahauariki, who was ordained in 1876, died on September 6th, 1895, having been an invalid for several years. His station was Wairarapa, in the district under the Rev. A. O. Williams. The Bishop of Wellington confirmed thirty-eight candidates at Pahawai in October. Mr. A. O. Williams sends a favourable report of the other stations in his district—Waitotara, Whanganui River, Putiki, and Rangitikei. The Rev. J. McWilliam, of Otaki, relates how the Maori deacon, the Rev. H. T. Te Paerata, confronted a so-called Maori prophet who was teaching, among other things, that the reception of the Lord's Supper was the cause of nearly all the disease and mortality among the people. Mr. Paerata so completely refuted his arguments that he had to beat a hasty retreat out of the district. Mr. McWilliam says that these so-called "healing prophets" are a source of continual trouble to the Maori Christians, for every year produces two or three new ones, who usually make the success of their remedial measures conditional upon the rejection of some article of the Christian faith.

NORTH-WEST CANADA MISSIONS.

These are Missions to the remnant of the Red Indian tribes scattered over the vast country formerly known as the Hudson's Bay Territory, now included in the Dominion of Canada. In 1822 the Rev. John West arrived at a trading settlement on the Red River, a little south of Lake Winnipeg, and began to gather the Indians round him. The first step in the great extension of the Mission in recent years was the sending forth from Red River, in 1840, of Henry Budd, a native teacher, trained up by Mr. West from his boyhood (afterwards the first native clergyman), to open a new station at Devon, 500 miles off. And now, from the United States border-line to the Arctic Ocean, and from Hudson's Bay to the Rocky Mountains, the praises of the Redeemer are sung by thousands of Indians, and in eleven different languages.

The Red River district is now the flourishing colonial Province of Manitoba, and a large part of the Society's work has developed into the settled ministrations of the Church in the Colony. One of the Society's churches has become the Cathedral of the Diocese of Rupert's Land, which was founded in 1849. That diocese, which has been highly privileged in its two first Bishops, Dr. Anderson and Dr. Machray, was subdivided in 1872 into four parts, the three new dioceses being those of Moosonee, Athabasca, and Saskatchewan. To the two former Sees missionaries of the Society were appointed, the Rev. John Horden and the Rev. W. C. Bompas, and to the third an active co-worker in the country, Dr. McLean. Bishop McLean died in 1886, and was succeeded by Bishop Pinkham; Bishop Horden also died early in 1893, and was succeeded by Bishop Newnham. In 1884, in pursuance of a scheme formed by the Provincial Synod of the Province of Rupert's Land, the Diocese of Athabasca was divided, Dr. Bompas taking the Northern half as Bishop of Mackenzie River, and the Rev. R. Young, C.M.S. Missionary, being appointed to the Southern Division as Bishop of Athabasca. The Provincial Synod of 1890 sanctioned a division of the Mackenzie River Diocese, the territories to the west of the Rocky Mountains becoming the Diocese of Selkirk, and the region to the east retaining the name of Mackenzie River. Archdeacon Reeve was consecrated Bishop of the latter diocese in 1891, Bishop Bompas taking the title of Bishop of Selkirk. In 1884 the Diocese of Qu'Appelle was formed out of the Dioceses of Rupert's Land and Saskatchewan, and in 1887 the Diocese of Calgary was carved out of that of Saskatchewan.

The Society labours in all the above-named eight dioceses; but in that of Qu'Appelle the work is confined to one station, Touchwood Hills, opened in 1857.

In RUPERT'S LAND DIOCESE the Society's work was commenced in the Red River district in 1823; Fort Alexander was occupied in 1864; and Rainy Lake district in 1874. In MOOSONEE DIOCESE, Moose Factory was occupied in 1851; York, 1854; Albany, 1855; East Main Coast, 1877; Churchill, 1886. In SASKATCHEWAN DIOCESE, Cumberland and Devon were occupied in 1840; Stanley, 1850; Sandy Lake (Asisipi), 1875; Battleford, 1876; Prince Albert, 1879; Grand Rapids, 1881; and Fort Pitt, 1888. In CALGARY DIOCESE, Fort McLeod was occupied in 1880; Blackfoot Crossing in 1883; Sarcee Reserve in 1886. In ATHABASCA DIOCESE, Fort Chipewyan was occupied in 1867; Fort Vermilion, 1876; Lesser Slave Lake, 1887; Upper Peace River, 1888. MACKENZIE RIVER DIOCESE, Fort Simpson, 1858; Fort Norman, 1871; Fort McPherson, 1874; Fort Resolution, 1875. SELKIRK DIOCESE, Rampart House, 1882; Buxton, 1887; Selkirk, 1892.

The title of the Mission.

THE name which has designated the Society's Missions in the territories lying between the Eastern provinces of the Canadian Dominion and the Rocky Mountains, viz., the "North-West America Mission," was probably the best available one when "British North America" was the only name which covered the Queen's possessions from the Atlantic to the Pacific Oceans. But since the union, in one Dominion, of Canada proper and the North-West Territories and British Columbia, the term "North-West Canada Missions" is a better and more specific designation. Moreover, it is more acceptable to Church people in the older Colonies, to whose sympathy and support these Missions will in the future, it is hoped, more and more appeal, so long and so far as may be necessary, rather than to the Church Missionary Society. Mr. Eugene Stock wrote from Canada during his visit at the close of 1895:—"The old familiar C.M.S. phrase 'North America Mission' is utterly out of date, and really irritating to Canadian friends of the Society; and as to 'North Pacific Mission' they do not know where it is—it might possibly mean Alaska, or the Sandwich Islands, or even Japan."

I. DIOCESES OF RUPERT'S LAND AND QU'APPELLE.

Death of the Rev. Baptiste Spence.

THE Rev. Baptiste Spence died on February 24th, 1896, aged seventy-two. He was ordained by the Bishop of Rupert's Land in 1869, and laboured at Islington and elsewhere until 1893, when he retired from active service.

Archdeacon R. Phair and the Rev. A. E. Cowley are joint secretaries of the Mission in Rupert's Land Diocese. The former spent a great part of the year in visiting the Indian stations, of which he has as usual sent a full report. On ST. PETER'S INDIAN SETTLEMENT the Archdeacon was instrumental in opening a hospital, called the Dynevor Indian Hospital. The house formerly occupied by the late Archdeacon Cowley has been utilized, and the institution has been placed under a qualified medical man, Dr. Rolston, R.N., who, with his wife, offered his services to the local committee without any certain prospect of remuneration. A trained nurse has also been engaged. The Archbishop of Rupert's Land is the visitor. It is hoped that it may be a means under God for reducing the mortality among the Indians. A short visit was paid to the Settlement in October by the Rev. G. C. Grubb during an interval between two missions he held in Winnipeg parishes. The Rev. J. G. Anderson only regrets that Mr. Grubb could not stay longer, and that the notice of his coming was so short, the visit having formed no part of Mr. Grubb's plans. As it was, a fairly large congregation assembled at the one evangelistic service that was held. Thirty-six candidates were confirmed by the Archbishop in July. Mr. Anderson refers with sadness to the repeated intrusions of Baptists among the Indians on the Settlement, telling them that "there is no salvation without immersion," and he asks for prayer that God's people may learn not to magnify their differences on such points, but may unite in emphasizing and proclaiming the Gospel of salvation. Proceeding north, Scanterbury, on Brokenhead River is reached, where Rev. R. E. Coates is doing a good work among the Indians and half-breed settlers along the shore of Lake Winnipeg. Forty-four were confirmed here by the Archbishop of Rupert's Land. Among the confirmees were several old couples, and one of the old women hauled her husband, more feeble than herself, to the church in a sled. A former conjuror and his wife were also among the candidates. Fort Alexander is separated by a portage and a day's journey from Scanterbury. A large congregation regularly meets for worship in the neat little church on the bank of Winnipeg River, a "wonderful contrast to the dark days in the early history of the Mission," Archdeacon Phair writes. Mr. Thomas' thorough knowledge of the language and diligence as a pastor keep at bay the aggressive Roman Catholic Mission in the neighbourhood, well manned and equipped though it is. The Rev. B. McKenzie has been placed at Black River, a short day's journey north of Fort Alexander. There are only about seventy Indians at this place, but they are all professing Christians. A native catechist, Mr. J. Sinclair, is at Hole River, where the people are nearly all Heathen and strongly opposed to any efforts for their spiritual well-being. A few, however, have professed Christ in baptism, and the work is more promising than at any previous time.

A former conjuror confirmed.

Returning now to Fort Alexander and ascending Winnipeg River, the traveller reaches ISLINGTON, where the Indians are all Christians. They have rendered help, though very poor, to the Rev. J. N. Maggrah in erecting their little church. Les Dalles is at Rat Portage, at the north end of the Lake of the Woods, near where it is crossed by the Canadian Pacific Railway. The chief is a faithful and loyal member of the Church of England, and Mr. J. Kipling, the native catechist, has much to encourage him in the attendance of the Indians at the services and of their children at school. Rainy Lake has, unhappily, been left without a resident ordained agent since the Rev. W. Owen resigned in 1894, and has sadly suffered in consequence. Owing to its being on the border of the United States, and its connexion with lumbermen, miners, and others, it is a peculiarly difficult station. Liquor is introduced ad libitum, to the great detriment of the Indians. The catechists teach in the day-schools and conduct Sunday services. Returning down the Rainy River westward, and crossing the Lake of the Woods northward back to Les Dalles, and then following the Canadian Pacific Railway eastward one hundred miles, Wabigoon is reached, on the lake of that name. The Rev. G. Prewer labours amidst many discouragements. The people are nearly all Heathen, and some of them strongly opposed to the Gospel. At Frenchman's Head, on the other hand, the work is hopeful and encouraging. Archdeacon Phair opened a little church in the summer of 1895, which was crowded on the occasion with interested worshippers.

Supply of liquor to Indians.

An ordained agent has been placed at this station, the Rev. — Norquay. At Lac Seul also the Indians show much interest in the services. The Rev. T. H. Pritchard is in charge, and under him a lay catechist, Mr. Evans, labours at Oobeskang.

About 150 miles north of Fort Alexander, but on the west of Lake Winnipeg, is Jack Head, to which Mr. Murdoch Johnston was removed from Black River during the year. The difficulties of the work are increased from the fact that the Indian agent is a Roman Catholic. The Rev. Henry Cochrane, who was ordained in 1858, has been placed at St. Martin's Lake. Fairford, the station of the Rev. G. Bruce, is on Manitoba Lake. At Shoal River a number of Indians were baptized during the year after renouncing Heathenism. The lay catechist, Mr. Bassing, labours with much zeal and diligence, Archdeacon Phair reports. At Crane River, under Mr. Favel, the majority of the Indians are Heathen and difficult to reach. At Staggville the majority are half-breeds, and Archdeacon Phair questions whether it ought to claim help from the Society's funds; the out-stations, Ebb and Flow and Sandy Bay, still present a sphere, however, for missionary work. The Rev. G. Cook's health is somewhat infirm.

Mr. Hartland, who was in charge of the Mission to the Sioux Indians at Griswold, on Oak River, resigned, and was succeeded during the year by the Rev. — Robertson, who was trained at Wycliffe College, Toronto. Mr. Robertson ministers to a white congregation, as well as to the Indians. A new station, named Valley River, is referred to by Archdeacon Phair, but nothing is said about its locality. The Archdeacon gives an interesting account of his visit to this place:—

A new station.

A special messenger was hastily despatched to inform and invite all the neighbours to come at once and hear words from praying-man who had come to speak about God. In a short time the house was filled, and we were singing God's praises in their own tongue. Then prayers, then a chapter, then an address; and such faces, such eyes—men, women, and children all intent upon one thing, and that was hearing every word said. It was now time to pray, but before doing so I asked whether any one present desired God to give them anything, whether they wanted anything from God before we knelt to speak to Him. One person stood up and said, "I want something. When you speak to God tell Him I am poor, tell Him I have nothing. Tell Him I like the words I heard just now, and say to Him I would like the words for my own, for they sound well, and would do me good, and I want Him to give me the words in my heart." Another individual said that she, too, was poor, and wanted help from the Great Helper; but she wanted help more for her two boys than for herself. "Tell God about my two boys; tell Him I want them to walk straight. I want them to be good, and good boys are made by God. Tell Him all about me." After this we all knelt in prayer, and the Great God was present and listening, too, and looking at the hearts bowed before Him who had never heard His Name. Many of them waited after prayer to speak further about good things, after which the meeting broke up, and we left to visit some sick Indians unable to attend.

"Tell God about my two boys."

Among others we found ourselves beside the bed, if bed it could be called, of a poor sick lad. Addressing him I inquired whether he had been long ill, to which he replied, "About a year and a half." "Did you ever get anything from God?" "Yes, I did." "Did you ever thank Him?" "No; never thought I should, or knew how." "Would you not thank me for a box of matches?" "I would, many times." "Then why not thank God for all his good things? Would you like to do so now?" Moving off his bed at once, and standing on his feet, with his right hand lifted up towards heaven, he spoke as follows:—"O God, I got your things, liked them, used them all the time, but never thanked You. Now I thank You for them all, and will thank You for more if You give them to me. I liked the things very much, but I would like to know Yourself more than the things, and I will always thank You when I get them." Such was the testimony of a poor invalid heathen lad who had never heard about God, but who was delighted to know that God loved him.

Prayer of a sick Indian lad.

Another crowded meeting at John Rattlesnake's, at the end of which I asked whether they would like to have a teacher sent them, and they all said "Yes." I assured them it would be hard for a young man to leave his home and friends and come among strangers. What would he do for his friends? Who would be his brother? Immediately there was a response from a number. "I will be his brother," a young man said. An older man said, "I will be his father, and will give him food to eat, and help him." A teacher was appointed and sent to them immediately, and they received him gladly, and a grand work is going on.

"I will be his brother."

The Rev. A. Cook continues at Touchwood Hills, in the Diocese of Qu'Appelle.

II. DIOCESE OF MOOSONEE.

Bishop Newnham carried out successfully, with God's blessing, the plan of visiting the northern stations of his diocese which he made while in Eastern Canada in the spring of 1895, and which was mentioned in the last Annual Report. During the first five months of 1895 the Bishop travelled some 3,000 miles in Eastern Canada, preaching and lecturing on behalf of his diocesan fund over one hundred times. He was encouraged by being privileged to take forward a recruit for the work, and with gifts of money amounting to £700. The Bishop left Winnipeg on June 13th to commence the arduous journey of over three months through part of his diocese. Sunday, July 7th, was spent at York Factory. From thence, leaving the river and canoe, he journeyed in an open fisherman's boat, sleeping by night in the bottom of it with nothing between him and the sky, often brilliant with auroral display, and proceeded along the coast of Hudson's Bay to Churchill, which was reached on July 15th. Eight days were spent there, and the Bishop then, accompanied by the Rev. J. Lofthouse, returned to York Factory. Thence continuing southward along the coast, he reached Severn on August 17th, from which place a difficult piece of travelling by canoe up the Severn River, through creeks and lakes and swampy portages, where a white man had probably never been seen before, with only two Indian lads as his crew, brought him, after four weeks, to Albany. Moose was reached on September 21st. Mrs. Newnham and her children, and Miss Newnham, the Bishop's sister, had arrived on September 3rd, having travelled by canoe—a twelve days' journey—from near the point where they left the Canadian Pacific Railway. The distance covered by the Bishop after leaving Winnipeg he calculates to be about 2,000 miles. Some incidents of the journey will be given under the stations visited. The Bishop wrote :—

Discomforts, fatigues, and privations outweighed by pleasures and mercies.

For a large part of the way I only had two Indian lads, which means that I paddled myself for many hours in the day, besides helping to carry over the portages, to haul at the "tracking-line," or tow-rope, and to make camp at night. I have been travelling in canoe and open boat for over three months, sleeping in a tent, or in open boat without even that shelter, for the whole of that time, except for three weeks altogether at the different Hudson's Bay Company's posts, in almost tropical heat of mid-summer and the frosty nights of the autumn, sometimes plagued with myriads of mosquitoes and other venomous flies ; at other times, on the Bay, surrounded by vast ice-floes from arctic regions, much of the time wet through from incessant rain or from wading in rivers and through swamps, exposed sometimes to the risks of swift rapids, at others to the gales and tides of the Bay, rising daily at 4 or 4.30 A.M. and retiring to my bed on the ground at 10 P.M., but throughout in perfect health and strength, and at the close of the journey perhaps in more perfect enjoyment of health and spirits than for a long time. The discomforts and fatigues and almost privations have been far outweighed by the pleasures, excitements, novelties, and many mercies of the road.

Ordination.

The Bishop admitted the Rev. W. Dick to priest's orders at York Factory on August 1st, 1895.

The reinforcement for the Mission, referred to above, was Mr. F. Buckland, who accompanied the Bishop from Eastern Canada, and was stationed by him at Fort Churchill.

Moose Factory.

On his return to Moose Factory the Bishop observed, with much satisfaction, a marked improvement in the moral and spiritual condition of the Indian Christians. The Rev. I. J. Taylor, formerly of the Saskatchewan diocese, who was sent out in 1894 to be in charge of the station during the Bishop's absence, has sent a full report of the year's events. He himself taught in the Indian day-school, with some seventy children in the summer and about thirty in the winter. Family prayer is becoming more general among the Indians. The Rev. J. Sanders, who resides at Biscotasing, where there is a station on the C. P. Railway, is greatly helped by the railway in visiting several of the out-stations, and the company has generously given him a free pass on the line for this purpose. The Indians at Biscotasing are Ojibbeways. Bishop Newnham confirmed five candidates at Missanabie in June on his way through from Montreal to Winnipeg. The Rev. E. Richards, of Rupert's House, paid a visit to Mistasinee, near the borders of Quebec, in the spring of 1895. His previous visit was in 1890, but he found the Indians had not forgotten the instructions he then gave them. This, however, was partly due to the fact that many of them visit Rupert's House every summer. The Rev. W. G. Walton divides his time between Fort George and Great Whale River, on the east of James Bay. At Fort George he spent from April till July and from September till December. He observes an improvement in the conduct of the Indians: excessive drinking has quite ceased, the Sabbath is better kept, and the services, both on weeknights and Sundays, are better attended. On every Sabbath while at Fort George he conducts two English and two Indian services, besides a Sunday-school. The English day-school averaged only three during the winter months, and that for Indian children only five. The work at Great Whale River is among the Eskimo. These people much appreciate the Christian books in their vernacular, "reading them until they are quite worn out." A few, however, oppose the reading, and endeavour to get possession of the books to burn them. One man had his coat torn in a scuffle, but kept possession of his book. An Eskimo family was baptized on March 10th, 1895. Food was so scarce about that time that many were reduced to eating their parchment deer-skins, and one party ate one of their few remaining dogs. None, however, Mr. Walton believes, were absolutely starved to death. Mr. Walton has an Eskimo student, whom he is preparing for future work among his people.

Instruction remembered for five years.

Books worn out with use.

Reduced to eating parchment.

Fort Albany is on the opposite, the western, coast of James Bay. There Archdeacon Vincent is spared to labour vigorously after forty years of active service—thirty-six since he was admitted to orders. For eight months of the year he remains at his own station, where the work is wholly of a pastoral character. He has two Cree services and one English on Sundays, and daily morning and evening service in Cree, a practice which he says is of the greatest benefit to his people. He is able to say that family prayer, morning and evening, is observed by almost every family under his charge, both when the Indians are at the fort and when they are engaged in hunting. During four months of the year the Archdeacon itinerates, visiting the out-stations. He travelled by canoe 1,500, and by dog train 600 miles during the year. Some 210 miles up the Albany River is English River, where there are about sixty Indians. Further still up the river, some forty miles, is Marten's Falls, a difficult station to work owing to indirect opposition of some of the Indians. On Whit-Sunday, when the Archdeacon and the Rev. R. Faries visited it, fifty Indians were present at the Ojibbeway service, and a Roman Catholic gave up his crucifix and beads. At a meeting the following day the chief gave an address, which in style, gestures, and fluency, showed him, Mr. Faries says, to be a real Indian orator. Four or five days' journey further up the same river brought the Archdeacon and Mr. Faries to Fort Hope, a station established five years ago by the Hudson's Bay Company, and where Mr. Faries was to make his abode. They arrived there on June 10th, 1895, and found a half-finished church, forty by twenty-two feet, solid, but "as regards the workmanship a deplorable sight to behold"; and a rough log hut, which became Mr. Faries' residence. The Indians are Ojibbeways, and Mr. Faries, whose language is Cree, was not understood. They professed to be Christians, but he found them very ignorant and superstitious, and loose in their morals. He commenced daily morning and evening services, thirty-seven Ojibbeways receiving the Lord's Supper during the Archdeacon's stay. Osnaburgh is seven days distant westward from Fort Hope. At this place Archdeacon Vincent found 200 present when he went forward thither in June, and he baptized four adults and fifty-two infants and young children.

A new station opened

Fort Churchill.

Fort Churchill is the northernmost station on the West Coast of Hudson's Bay, and the face of a European other than the officer of the H. B. Company is rarely indeed seen. Mr. Tyrrell, of the Canadian Geographical Survey, who was at Fort Churchill in the autumn of 1893, was there again in the autumn of 1894, accompanied by Mr. Monro-Ferguson, aide-de-camp to Lord Aberdeen, and as they were suffering from hardships experienced to the north of Churchill, they remained eight weeks at the Mission house—a structure 23 feet by 19 feet—taking the deepest interest in the Mission work, so that their visit was felt to be quite a blessing in the lonely monotonous life of this remote station. When they left to walk the 800 miles to Winnipeg, they were accompanied by two Cree Indians of the station as guides. Of the work Mr. Lofthouse writes:—

> Our work, as usual, has been of a very varied kind, but we have cause to thank God that, as far as man can judge, He is working with us. Souls are being won for the Master, His own people are being strengthened in the faith, and, without any great and striking event, we have much to cheer and encourage us in the work for Christ.

The Bishop's visit.

Parties of Chipewyans and of Eskimo visited the station at the usual season for a few days or weeks, when special services and classes were held for them. On May 12th, 1895, four adult Chipewyans were baptized. Bishop Newnham arrived at Churchill, as already stated, on July 14th. Mr. Lofthouse says of his visit:—

> I suppose such an event is always marked in any Mission; but after having borne for four years the isolation of this trying post, without so much as seeing the face of a fellow-labourer, you will, I think, understand in a measure—and only so, for none can rightly understand without the experience—what a joy and help it has been to us to welcome one who has proved a real chief pastor and a brother in Christ. The Bishop's stay was limited—only eight days—but they were busy, happy days. It was such a relief to be able to talk with him of our past, present, and future work, and our hearts were cheered more than one can express.

The Bishop advised that Mrs. Lofthouse should come home, as her health causes much anxiety, but she could not be prevailed upon to leave her husband alone, nor either of them to leave the work until a qualified successor should arrive to take it up. The Bishop wrote of his visit to the station :—

A "most desolate and isolated place."

Churchill is the most desolate and isolated place you can imagine, with only a handful of English-speaking Europeans and half-breeds, and visited by the reserved and sullen Chipewyan, and by the dirty, but jolly, Eskimo, reeking of blubber. Truly it is only the grace of God and the love of Christ that can enable Mr. and Mrs. Lofthouse to hold on so patiently. They had been rather ailing in body and depressed in mind from their privations, discouragements, and complete isolation for years from any clerical companionship or communion ; but their joy at my visit, and the fact that I carried with me a layman, Mr. Buckland, to help them in their work and to be trained (D.V.) for a missionary, and the profitable time we had together, have given them a new lease of work.

Mr. Lofthouse was doing all he could for the Eskimo, even to the extent of receiving daily these filthy people into his kitchen to be taught the A B C of Christian doctrine. I was delighted with the pretty and well-finished little church, the result mainly of Mr. Lofthouse's own carpentering, the neatest in the diocese.

Four Eskimo baptized.

The Eskimo named Powow, who was named in the Annual Report for 1892–3 (p. 235), together with his half-brother and two daughters aged fifteen and eleven, were baptized by the Bishop. No other Eskimo have been baptized at this station except the youth Thomas Kirkut, whom Mr. Lofthouse baptized in 1893. Of the baptism of these four the Bishop says :—

"A touching sight."

It was a touching and yet glad sight, the solemn air, almost awe, of the baptized, and the curiosity, wonder, and intentness of the rest, while we addressed them and then baptized these others. They know very little of the meaning of God and holiness, prayer and faith, &c. (that is, the rest, the unbaptized), and seem able to take in but little, though very eager to learn. That is the reason why Mr. Lofthouse has put off baptism so long. I quite agree with him, and that the rest are not yet enough instructed for baptism, and I also agreed with him after examination that these few were ready, and that it was time that in this way they should be marked off from the indifferent or hesitating, and publicly dedicated to Christ's service. We hope that this will make others decide, and be followed by a more general yielding to the Holy Spirit.

Visit to Repulse Bay.

Mr. F. Buckland, who accompanied the Bishop to Fort Churchill, accepted an invitation, with the concurrence of Mr. Lofthouse, to go with a whaling ship to Repulse Bay, which is to the north of Southampton Island and on the Arctic Circle, in order to get into contact with the Eskimo of that district—the Huskies—and enjoy an exceptionally good opportunity of studying their language. He left Churchill on August 26th, four days after the arrival of the annual ship, which was nearly a fortnight

The annual ship narrowly escapes.

after its usual time, and caused much anxiety to the party at the Fort. It had a narrow escape from being wrecked in a fog off Mansfield Island, in which case many of the fort people must have perished from starvation, as the Company's employés had no store of provisions for the coming winter. York Factory was visited by Mr. Lofthouse in February, when he remained six weeks. One man and his wife travelled five days on foot to have their little one baptized. The catechist at Severn, Joseph Kichekeshik, arrived on Good Friday, having travelled 250 miles in order to partake of the Lord's Supper; and many others walked from fifty to a hundred miles for the same purpose. J. Kichekeshik is now stationed at York. The Bishop writes of him as "a splendid example of an Indian Christian." The last twenty-five miles of Mr. Lofthouse's journey back to Churchill were very trying. He writes:—

A journey of 250 miles to partake of the Lord's Supper.

> This part of our journey was nearly all across small lakes, and they were covered with about a foot of water on top of the ice. This froze nearly an inch thick, but was not strong enough to bear us, so nearly every step we were breaking through and plunging up to the knees in water, which quickly froze on our snow-shoes and legs, until they were thickly coated over. After nearly fourteen hours of such travelling we reached home quite done up. I lost both big toe-nails by this walk, and fear it may impede my walking in future, for the toes are not right yet.

In July Mr. Lofthouse went a second time to York Factory in the company of the Bishop. Nine candidates were confirmed, and the Rev. W. Dick, of Trout Lake, was admitted to priest's orders by the Bishop during their visit. Regarding the congregation and the confirmation candidates the Bishop writes:—

At a low ebb.

> Church life and spiritual growth are at rather a low ebb there, though not so much so as perhaps might be expected, seeing that for three years they have been dependent on the ministrations of a native layman, one of the servants of the Company, who could only give his spare time to the work; and on the periodical flying visits of Mr. Lofthouse, who ought not to be asked to do this work.
> I confirmed very few Indians (nine), and remanded the rest for further instruction, as, though well meaning, they knew neither Bible nor Catechism, nor what Christianity or religion is, and some of them could not read. If they cannot read, how are they going to learn anything when they hardly ever see a missionary? I was very sorry, but from what I found of the life and ignorance of past confirmees, and that very few of them ever came to the Lord's Table, or knew anything about it, I judged it was right. Perhaps the refusal, with hopes of receiving them next visit, may stir them up to learning to read, and to attention and decision.

The Bishop met very few Indians at Severn, where he spent a Sunday, but those few were responsive. He wrote:—

A trader who is a "true Missionary."

> They, too, hardly ever see a clergyman, and that only the Indian, W. Dick, for a week each year. But the Hudson's Bay Company's agent, or trader, is a Christian man, and does what he can for the cause of Christianity. He has family prayers in Indian daily, when his house is open and all are welcome, and in other ways he acts as a true missionary.

Of the country traversed by the Bishop between Severn and Albany, and of the Indians residing in it, the Bishop says :—

A spiritual desert.

Oh, what a spiritual desert ! Many years ago we sent the Gospel among them somehow, so that there are many nominally Christians and members of our Church ; but since that we have done next to nothing for them. There are many Indians scattered through that country, and few of them ever come into a post or see a missionary. Mr. Dick meets a few at Severn, and a few more as he passes their lands, but that is all. A Roman Catholic priest occasionally comes within reach, and many have lapsed into the errors of that Church. But some, I believe, we could reclaim, and there are many others who are nominally members of our Church, but are very ignorant of the elements of true faith. A few of these, hearing that I was coming that way, waited for me, or left birch bark letters on posts by the river side appointing a meeting-place. Thus one evening coasting along the Bay we were saluted by shots, evidently signals, from the shore. It was just dark, so we anchored. Putting off in my canoe we paddled till we stuck in the mud, and then waded for half a mile in mud and water to the dry (?) land. Here, in the dark, we met a procession of three men, three women, and three babies coming to see me. They were going to wade out to our boat as they wanted the babies christened. It is quite possible there may have been more superstition than well-grounded faith in this ; but they were nominally Christians and acting up to their light. So we turned back, and as the tide was still further out, we waded all the way to the boat. I waded too, as I insisted on putting the women and babes into the canoe as soon as we had water to float it. There, by the light of a candle in the open air, I read the Baptismal Service, and dedicated the infants to God in Christ's name, after which I asked Dick to give them a little instruction, to which I added the carnal gift of a little tea and sugar. It was all we could do for these poor people starving physically and spiritually.

Birch-bark letters for the Bishop.

The Baptismal service in an open boat by the light of a candle.

Again, far inland we found birch-bark letters asking me to visit certain Indians and baptize their babes. Their whereabouts was so uncertain, and probably two or three days' journey off my course, and my crew were ignorant of that country, that I reluctantly wrote declining to go, and advising them where they could meet Dick. But shortly after we heard shots, and found a few of this party returning to their "letter-box," three canoes with adults and children. There was a young couple living as man and wife, but desiring the Christian marriage service and blessing and their babe to be baptized. So I read the services, and also had part of the service for Morning Prayer, and gave them such counsel and instruction as I could.

Blacklead Island.

It was not anticipated that tidings from the brethren at Blacklead Island, in Cumberland Bay, could reach home until late in 1896, but an unexpected opportunity of sending letters occurred in the autumn of 1895, a little over twelve months after the Rev. E. J. Peck and Mr. J. C. Parker reached the station. Mr. Parker gives the following account of the geographical position and physical features of the station :—

The Sound penetrates Cumberland Island in an almost due northerly direction, with a little to the west. The east coast rises abruptly from the sea, some points attaining an altitude of 3,000 feet. The west coast—the side upon which we dwell—is flatter, dotted with islands, and more inhabited. The face of the country consists almost exclusively of barren granite rocks. The sun was just visible for a few minutes through the shortest day. Throughout the winter it is intensely cold and very stormy, with the most bitterly searching winds. In summer, the weather being calm, the heat is sometimes very great, when one is tormented by mosquitoes.

The previous winter had been an exceptionally trying one to the Natives owing to scarcity of food. The capture of a large whale in their starving state was hailed with general joy. The missionaries learned also to eat, with some enjoyment, seal's and whale's flesh. Mr. Parker writes:—

"Almost an Eskimo."

Our personal appearance is as primitive as that of the Eskimo themselves; for, like them, we are completely clothed in skins from head to foot. It is most comfortable, warm, and becoming. I am almost an Eskimo, for I am able to live like one, and able to take and make a good meal with them on food quite questionable.

Their efforts to instruct the people (adults and children) at services, in school, and by lantern lectures, were greatly appreciated, and they were much encouraged by the progress made. Mr. Peck wrote:—

"Oh, what love."

The magic-lantern was the wonder of wonders to our people. Great was their surprise when the various scenes of our Lord's life and death were presented to their view; and when told of the Saviour's love in giving "His life a ransom for many," many of them cried out, "Had He not great love?" "Oh, what love!"

An Eskimo's prayer in a time of peril.

We are greatly encouraged by the progress made, especially by the younger members of our community. Over forty of these can now read the little books we brought out from England. Many can repeat the Lord's Prayer, the Ten Commandments, and various Scripture texts by heart, and we may well believe that the Holy Spirit will take of the things of Jesus, and reveal them to this people in His own good time. We have not, however, been without actual signs of the Holy Spirit's power. One man, named Ameksaktok, was driven, with others, out to sea on a large ice-floe. He prayed to God in this time of peril. The wind abated. New ice formed between him and Blacklead Island, and on this newly-frozen sea he reached us in safety, although the ice bent beneath his weight as he passed over. I was greatly touched with the simple faith of this poor man, as he related to me these incidents connected with his miraculous deliverance.

The little church, consisting of a whale-bone frame, and covered with seal skins, was mentioned in last year's Report. In February it had, for a church, the unique experience of being devoured by dogs. Mr. Parker describes the occurrence:—

A church devoured by dogs.

The poor, starving dogs greatly disturbed us one cold night in the month of February by breaking into our—may I call it church?—tearing the little place down and devouring it. We were quickly on the scene of destruction, but too late to be able to save much of the materials which had formed the roof, for being skin, the dogs had eaten it up quickly. It was a sorry little edifice—still, our best. Next day we set to and repaired it somehow with all kinds of odds and ends, so that it was in use again the following day. It has undergone repairs and improvements this summer, but still remains a despicable little object, though I am glad to say the people think it grand. Here, then, it has been open day after day and week after week for the instruction of the Eskimo in the blessed truths of the Gospel.

In April, 1895, Mr. Parker went with some Eskimo to a place which he spells "Idjuitjuakjuit," staying two days with them as their guest, in their snow houses, and having classes of children in the day time and the parents in the evening. The following month Mr. Peck crossed Cumberland Bay to visit Kikkerton, another whaling station belonging to Mr. Noble, the proprietor of Blacklead Island. He was absent five weeks. The following extracts from his journal illustrate the nature of his work there :—

A snow church.

May 11th.—Having no house to assemble the people in, I requested some Eskimo to build a large circular wall of snow about six feet high to keep out the piercing wind. The seats—if such I may call them—were made of square blocks of snow, which were placed close to the snow wall. When I called the people together, quite a number of adults and children came to hear the Word of God in our Arctic church. Our service consisted of hymns, prayer, and I then told them some simple Scriptural truths. What a strange sight, these walls of snow with nothing between us in an upward direction but the blue heavens! Truly the angels of God might look down upon such a gathering with wonder and joy.

12th (Sunday).—Spent the day in holding meetings in our snow church. Many came, and we had a grand time together. Had some sweet communion with my Saviour and never-dying Friend.

15th.—A dull day. Snowing rather heavily. Crawled into several miserable dwellings and spoke to the inmates concerning the things of God. Often when I speak of man's lost, fallen state to the Eskimo, they make remarks which show that they—if any people under heaven—ought not to be placed in the list of sinners. Some remark, when I mention the various sins to which they are addicted, "But I do not steal," "I do not commit adultery," &c., &c. Others again—not, I must confess, without just cause—refer to the sins of white men who have visited them from time to time, and they naturally reason that if they are specimens of the religion we have come to teach, the Eskimo might just as well remain as they are.

Our services generally last about an hour. We sing hymns, the Lord's Prayer is then repeated, together with John iii. 16. Instruction in Christian doctrine then follows, and we close with a hymn and prayer. The syllabic characters are then learnt by those who remain. Some friends might perhaps be disposed to blame me for remaining so long in the open air with only a wall of snow for protection; but there is no alternative. There is not a fragment of wood or anything else here to make a more suitable meeting-place; but God has not failed to strengthen me wonderfully to bear the cold.

"No night here, now."

28th.—There is really no night here now. The sun shines about eighteen hours out of the twenty-four, and the twilight seems to me almost as light as the other portion of day. The children, strange to say, have adopted the plan of playing from about 10 p.m. till nearly 6 a.m., then they go to sleep nearly the rest of the time. It does seem strange certainly to be wakened up about midnight by the noise without, and to be for a time puzzled to know if I have not passed into a land of endless light.

He returned on June 8th across the frozen sea on a sledge with a sail, propelled by the wind, arriving at 2 a.m., and finding many of the people astir under the midnight sun. On June 23rd he climbed the rocks to see the sun set at 11.5 p.m. and rise at 12.55 a.m.

In July Mr. Parker accompanied a party of Eskimo on a two months' cruise to Frobisher Bay. He wrote of this trip :—

"We killed, and ate seven Polar bears."

In whalers' phraseology I was boat-header and hung on to an oar the whole way. We had to hunt our food each day, and each night we pulled up to the ice-floe, hauled up our three boats, pitched our six tents, cooked our bear's meat—for we hunted down, killed, and ate seven Polar bears

(one that I shot was a tremendous brute over three yards long); or if we had seal flesh and no wood wherewith to cook it, we just ate it raw—it is very good, especially the fat;—sang our hymns and prayed, then lay down to sleep on the frozen sea. Sometimes we had to get up through the night and remove our tents, boats, and baggage further on to the floe as the wild waves broke it up. This was through the month of July. It was a most exciting time, highly enjoyable to myself, but by no means enviable. Often it was bitterly cold, more often wet, and always more or less foggy. The people were kindness personified. I fell into the sea twice, and was pulled out by the hood of my coat; and at another time we were caught in an ice-pack travelling at a tremendous rate, and had to throw everything out of the boat on to a piece of ice and haul her up in a trice, or we should have been smashed.

However, through the kind, protecting care of our God, I doubt not in answer to your prayers for us and our safety, we reached Signuia with all well, without having suffered from want of food. Here I stayed among the Eskimo—visiting them, and teaching them of God our Father and of Jesus Christ our Saviour, and of the Holy Ghost our Enabler and Sanctifier—from July 23rd until August 20th, 1895, when I returned through an inland passage now free from ice, making Blacklead Island on the ninth day out from Signuia.

III. DIOCESES OF SASKATCHEWAN AND CALGARY.

THE Bishop of Saskatchewan and Calgary has appointed the Rev. J. W. Tims Archdeacon of McLeod, one of the two Archdeaconries he has created in the Diocese of Calgary.

The Rev. J. Hines sailed in March, 1895, to return to the Mission after furlough. The Rev. and Mrs. F. Swainson came home in January.

The Rev. E. F. Hockley was sent out by the Canadian C.M. Association in response to a request of Bishop Pinkham, and was stationed at Fort McLeod, in the Calgary Diocese. The Rev. H. W. G. Stocken married Miss G. E. Cox, of the Japan Mission, in July, 1895.

Prince Albert.

Archdeacon J. A. Mackay has charge of Emmanuel College, at PRINCE ALBERT, for training Indian agents. He gives a touching account of the death of one of the pupils:—

Death of an Indian pupil.

One of them, a young man from Devon Mission, was the most advanced and the most promising in the school. He had never been very strong physically, as he had received an injury in his childhood that had resulted in lameness. In disposition he was very teachable and amiable. He had an exceptional aptitude for music, and for more than a year had been the organist at Sunday services and daily prayers. The account of his last moments, given me by his friends, was most touching. He took his English Bible and read Romans viii. 35 to the end of the chapter—"Who shall separate us from the love of Christ," &c.—and then commenced giving the meaning in Cree, but, before he finished, sight and voice both failed.

The Rev. G. S. Winter was in charge of St. James, but he resided at Prince Albert, over fifteen miles away from his district. In October he removed his home to Sturgeon Lake, a village of heathen Indians. This, however, is only a temporary location.

The Rev. J. Badger is at Sandy Lake, with Whitefish Lake (twelve miles distant) and Stony Lake (twenty miles north) as out-stations, with many heathen Indians still. The Rev. R. McLennan visits Big Stone River, Lac la Ronge, and Montreal Lake from Stanley. A waggon road of about ninety miles leads from Montreal Lake to Prince Albert. The Rev. J. R. Settee was at DEVON during the Rev. J. Hines' furlough. He baptized five adults at Moose Lake Settlement. The Revs. R. Inkster and D. D. McDonald labour on the Indian Reserve at BATTLEFORD. The former experienced the disappointment of seeing some of his Christian Indians, and even communicants, allured to be present at the heathen Sun Dance, the interest in which revived in a painful degree in the summer of 1895, encouraged, Mr. Inkster says, by the morbid curiosity of white men and women. Bishop Pinkham visited Battleford and also Fort Pitt in October. Some even of the heathen Indians travelled from forty to eighty miles to meet him, and the daughter of the chief, who is a medicine-man and was a most bitter opponent, was baptized and also married with her father's consent. Mr. Matheson finds a knowledge of medicine is a great help to the work among the heathen Indians, and Mrs. Matheson is studying medicine at Winnipeg in order to increase her influence. Two families who had joined the Church of Rome have returned.

Revived interest in the Sun Dance.

The Rev. J. W. Tims (now Archdeacon) continued in charge of BLACKFOOT CROSSING until September, 1895. In that month, however, he experienced much trouble with the Indians of the Station. Certain regulations regarding the retention of Indian children in the boarding-school, which the Government has imposed as conditions of its grant-in-aid, were disapproved by some of the relatives of the pupils, and they persuaded themselves that Mr. Tims was responsible for the said regulations. Their threats of violence rendered it desirable that he and his family should withdraw, and the Rev. H. W. G. Stocken was appointed to succeed him. The Blackfoot Reserve was visited on August 8th by the Governor-General of the Canadian Dominion and Lady Aberdeen, who were welcomed by the Bishop and Archdeacon Tims and Mr. Stocken. The missionaries were greatly cheered also by a visit from Prebendary and Mrs. Webb-Peploe. A hospital has been built by means of pecuniary help from friends in Toronto. The two boarding-schools had twenty-eight and eighteen boarders respectively. Two of those whose baptisms were mentioned last year relapsed at the time of the annual Sun Dance, one of them joining in the heathen dances, and the other marrying a heathen girl. The former of the two renewed attendance at the services. At FORT MCLEOD the majority of the adult Indians still cling to their superstitions, but they listen attentively when the Gospel is preached. Archdeacon Tims visited the Sarcee Reserve after Mr. Stocken removed thence to Blackfoot Crossing.

IV. DIOCESE OF ATHABASCA.

Bishop Young admitted the Rev. A. J. Warwick to priest's orders on July 28th, at Vermilion, and on September 22nd he admitted Mr. W. G. White to deacon's orders at Lesser Slave Lake. The Bishop, accompanied by Mrs. Young, visited all the stations of the diocese except two. The delight of many of the Indian women at seeing Mrs. Young once more was very touching. The Bishop says of the work generally :—

The work is deepening.

> The prevailing impression left on my mind from my visit this year is one of encouragement and thankfulness. I think I can truly say of all engaged in the work, that they are not alone seeking to do their duty, but are proving themselves true soul-winners. Numerically, results are not great, but the work is deepening, and I trust will yet branch out, notwithstanding the many hindrances and difficulties that compass it on all sides.

The two stations which the Bishop was unable to visit were White Fish Lake and Wapuskaw. The Rev. W. G. White, the newly-ordained deacon, is at White Fish Lake. The Indians, when at the station, attended the services well, the average for the year being about twenty. Early in 1895 the Rev. G. Holmes, of Lesser Slave Lake, visited White Fish Lake with lantern slides, and proceeded, accompanied by Mr. White, to Wapuskaw, where they had crowded meetings. Three adults at the latter place were baptized during their visit. The Rev. C. Weaver has started a small school with four boarders and a few day scholars. The Indians, he says, show some interest in his message, but he sees no sign yet that they have realized their sinfulness and need of a Saviour. He visits the numerous little settlements of from one to eight families which are found on the shores of the neighbouring lakes, which abound in excellent fish. Wapuskaw was first occupied in July, 1894.

No Annual Letter has been received from the Rev. H. Robinson, of Shaftesbury, on Upper Peace River. The Indians at the station are mostly Roman Catholics by profession. The Rev. and Mrs. G. Holmes find most of their time at Lesser Slave Lake taken up by the Children's Home. Mr. D. Currie, who was educated at Huron College, London, Ontario, is the Principal, and Miss Margaret Durtnall, sent out and maintained by the Toronto Branch of the Women's Auxiliary of Canada, is the Matron of the Home. Very special blessing from on High rested on this work among the children in the winter of 1894–5, on which the Annual Report was silent last year, because in the case of young children it appeared desirable that the work should be tested by at least a few months before publishing Mr. Holmes' interesting and striking statements. At the time referred to no fewer than sixteen out of the twenty-six inmates of the Home professed to have experienced a change of heart, and writing twelve months later,

A remarkable spiritual movement among Indian school children.

Mr. Holmes said in December, 1895, that only two or three had given any cause for disappointment. Bishop Young writes:—

A remarkable movement, beginning among the scholars, without any knowledge of it on the part of Mr. Holmes or Mr. Weaver (at Lesser Slave Lake at the time), but bearing unmistakable evidence of a genuine work of God's Holy Spirit, served to cheer and encourage His servants. A deep sense of sin and a desire to know and love Jesus as their Saviour seemed to have been the salient features. It certainly seems to have left abiding effect upon the children. Lying, theft, and other misdemeanours, which used to be a source of trouble, have almost entirely ceased.

An Indian mother takes her children a hundred miles to school.

Great difficulty is experienced in keeping the children during the summer months. As soon as the spring ushers in warm weather, "like little bears, they are anxious to be free to roam about at large." A Beaver Indian woman walked a hundred miles with a baby in her arms in order to commit her two children to Mr. and Mrs. Holmes, having heard that they "loved children and taught them to live good lives, and though she knew her heart would be sore when she left them," she "determined to come at any cost." Mr. Holmes says of the importance of this and similar institutions:—

The more I see into the home life of the Indians, the more I am convinced that our homes are the only means of saving the children. The whole atmosphere of the camp is polluted with immorality, and, humanly speaking, it is impossible for any child to grow up pure in heart or mind under such influences.

In the course of a trip to Edmonton from Fort Chipewyan, a distance of 550 miles, the Rev. J. R. Lucas met a party of Indians, 250 miles from his station, who told him they had never seen a Protestant missionary before. Nearer to Fort Chipewyan, but still a hundred and fifty miles distant, he had a pleasant intercourse with a Christian Indian, of whom he writes:—

Family prayer lasting an hour and a half.

This old man is a sort of elder, and is well known for his lengthy devotions. He has family prayers every evening, lasting about an hour and a half, as one of the men in our company could testify. This man happened to arrive at the house just as the old man and his family had commenced, and had to wait that time before he was attended to.

Mr. Lucas has been requested by the Bishop to prepare a dictionary of the Chipewyan language, of which none at present exists. The school at Fort Chipewayan was carried on by Miss Thompson, who is now Mrs. Weaver. Miss Hatley, sister of Mrs. Lucas, who travelled from England at her own charges, has succeeded to her work.

Fort Vermilion.

Fort Vermilion is situated on Peace River, which falls into Athabasca Lake. The Revs. M. Scott and A. J. Warwick are the missionaries at this station. The former completed the building of the Home for Indian children which the latter superintends. During the winter of 1894–5 Mr. Scott visited Red River, fifty miles eastward. He stayed one or two nights at each of five camps, containing altogether forty-five Indians, who gave most earnest attention to the Word, a few of them having never heard it before. There were about as many other camps, but the only tracks to them through the bush radiate from Red River, and it was necessary to return to the centre after visiting each camp, involving a journey of some 300 miles in snow shoes, hauling a sled with bedding and provision, to visit only five camps. Mr. Scott visited other distant camps of Indians. In the summer he went again to Red River, and was met there by Bishop Young.

Reinforcements.

Bishop Reeve has obtained the following reinforcements from Canada:—Mr. H. L. Reazin, M.B., who had previously had some experience among the Indians of the Saskatchewan, and who was examined and sent out by the Canadian C.M. Association; Mr. C. E. Whittaker; and Miss Marsh, sister of Mr. T. J. Marsh. He has also accepted an offer of service from Mr. C. Camsell, who was born at Fort Simpson, and educated at St. John's College, Manitoba. The Rev. and Mrs. W. Spendlove, and the Rev. and Mrs. J. Hawksley came home in September.

Hay River.

The Indian settlement at Hay River consists of fifty or sixty resident Indians with an aged chief in their midst, and the Rev. T. J. Marsh states that he believes it to be the largest settlement in point of numbers in the diocese. The Diocesan School has been transferred to this station from Fort Resolution, and Miss Marsh has been appointed matron. There are nine pupils. The Indians at Hay River were nominal Roman Catholics, but no priest had resided at the station, and on their requesting Bishop Reeve to send them a Protestant missionary, he complied. Thereupon a priest was at once sent, and in July, 1895, the Roman Catholic Bishop visited the station. The chief, however, refused to speak with him, and he went away much to Mr. Marsh's relief. At Fort Norman Bishop Reeve confirmed twelve candidates, all adults and some of them elderly people, whom the Rev. J. Hawksley presented to him before he left. Mr. C. Camsell has been placed at this station.

Fort Norman.

Fort McPherson.

The last letter received from Archdeacon McDonald of Fort McPherson was dated July 30th, 1894. He is engaged in translating the Scriptures into Tukudh. The Prophetical Books yet remained to be done when he wrote. The visit which the Rev. I. O. Stringer paid in May, 1894, as mentioned last year, to the Eskimo village at the eastern mouth of the Mackenzie River was continued until August. The "Council Chamber" in which he held the services was frequently crowded. From there he made a journey to Herschel Island, a distance of 200 miles, in a canvas-covered canoe, accompanied by two Indians, proceeding cautiously from island to island and point to point across the delta, but now and then having to traverse some fourteen miles of open sea. He held school and had prayers with the Eskimo of the island every day during the fortnight of his stay. They readily learned to sing some hymns which he taught them. On his way back to Red River he fell in with a party of Eskimo returning from a deer hunt on the mountains, and was surprised to hear the sound of singing in one of their tents and to catch the words of a hymn, "Come to Jesus," which he had translated and taught to some of them. He found out that it was their custom to sing and have prayers every night. Bishop Reeve, accompanied by Mr. Stringer and Mr. Whittaker, visited both the village of the Huskies referred to above and Herschel Island in August, 1895. Regarding his visit to the latter, he writes:—

Visit to Herschel Island.

Eskimo singing and having prayers every night.

> Herschel Island, although in Canadian territory, is used as a station by an American whaling fleet. Last winter no fewer than fifteen vessels and about 500 people were stationed here. Besides the ordinary crews, which include Portuguese, Japanese, and Hawaiians, there are a great many Eskimo from the west, and some Natives from the coast of Siberia. There were no vessels in when we arrived, but before we left nearly twenty had assembled either to bring or receive supplies. With the Eskimo we had service every evening, using the blacksmith's shop as a church, the anvil serving for a reading-desk! There was an average attendance of about thirty, mostly women of different tribes. As one of the best means for improving the morals of the place, the captains had suggested to Mr. Stringer in the spring the establishing of a Mission there, and they subscribed about $600 towards that object. They also signed an agreement not to distribute any more whisky amongst the Indians or Eastern Eskimo, which, if kept, will be a great check upon one of the prevailing vices. With part of the money contributed (a poor Hawaiian sailor gave 25 cents, all he had!) we purchased a sod house and a frame building, to serve for a dwelling-house and church eventually.
>
> From what I observed, both at Fort McPherson and on the journey, I think I can endorse what Mr. Stringer reports. He says: "I believe that some of the Eskimo are really becoming enlightened in the truth of the Gospel. Some are still careless, and some are yielding under the sway of evil influences. Very few, if any, of them seem disposed to accept the teaching of the Roman Catholics. Many are apparently becoming more civilized, and are greatly improving in their manners and habits. They are becoming much more trustworthy, and I think their confidence in us is increasing."

VI. DIOCESE OF SELKIRK.

Bishop Bompas resided at Buxton, and was prevented from visiting the two other isolated and distant stations of his diocese by the fact that he had no one to whom he could transfer the work at his own station. When he wrote at the close of July, 1895, Mrs. Bompas had gone to the coast, a journey of 1,200 miles, in order to meet Mr. Richard Bowen, a young man who was in the Society's Preparatory Institution at Clapham for a short time, but who volunteered to go out to Bishop Bompas as an industrial agent. The Bishop writes regarding the changes in the condition of the Indians—very superficial and temporal, and, it may be, very temporary changes, except, alas! where they affect for the worse their moral character:—

> Nothing could be a greater contrast than the squalid poverty, and want of all things, in which the Indians here lived thirty years ago, and the lavish luxury and extravagance with which they now squander hundreds of dollars on needless food and dress, if not in a still more questionable manner. The Indians now place such high prices on any meal or fuel, or other things which they supply to the whites, such as leather or shoes, that it is hard for your missionaries to live with economy among them, and the worst of all is that the younger Indians are only too apt to imitate the careless whites in irreligion and debauchery.

Rampart House.

Archdeacon T. H. Canham expresses doubts as to whether RAMPART HOUSE should continue to be a Mission station, and it appears clear from his report that, owing to the Indians having gone elsewhere (the trade and the mining being now on the Yukon and not on the Porcupine River), the Mission should be removed. Mrs. Canham's health, which caused him much anxiety in 1893, continued unimproved, but they could not leave the Bishop single-handed, and decided to try to stay out another winter—that of 1895–6.

Selkirk.

The Rev. B. Totty speaks of quiet steady work, but little encouragement, at SELKIRK. His work at present is done by interpretation.

BRITISH COLUMBIA MISSION.

In 1856 Captain Prevost, R.N., drew the Society's attention to the savage state of the Tsimshean Indians on the coast of British Columbia, and a young schoolmaster, Mr. W. Duncan, was sent out. A great blessing was vouchsafed to his labours; and in 1862 the Christian settlement of Metlakahtla was founded. In 1881, however, Mr. Duncan refused to work on the lines of the Church of England, and ceased to be a missionary of the Society, and an unhappy schism among the Native Christians resulted. But peace was in God's good providence ultimately restored, though at a heavy cost. Prolonged disputes about the land ensued between Mr. Duncan's Indians and the Government; and in the summer of 1887 Mr. Duncan removed with some hundreds of the Indians to a place seventy miles distant, within the United States territory of Alaska. Since the departure of the disaffected party the conduct of the loyal Indians has been so excellent that the Government Commissioners sent in November, 1888, to report on the condition of these disturbed districts stated that the Metlakahtla Church Indians were in happy contrast to all others, and were a credit to their instructors.

The Diocese of British Columbia was subdivided in 1879; and the Rev. W. Ridley, formerly a Missionary of the Society in the Punjab, was appointed the first Bishop of Caledonia, the Northern Division; in his diocese, with the exception of one station, Alert Bay, the C.M.S. Mission Stations are situated.

THE Rev. and Mrs. J. Field sailed to return to the Mission after furlough in June, and Archdeacon and Mrs. W. H. Collison came home in July, 1895.

Reinforcement. Miss Christine Carleton sailed in October to reinforce the Mission; on the other hand, Miss F. Appleyard went off the staff of the Mission, though happily not out of the Diocese of Caledonia, on her marriage to the Rev. B. Appleyard, a missionary of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel.

Missionary Conference. The Missionary Conference took place in June at Metlakahtla, soon after the Bishop and Mrs. Ridley's arrival after their visit to England. The Bishop wrote:—

I wish you could have listened to our brethren's wonderful stories of the victories of the Cross over Heathenism. At these conferences there is no restraint. I get the cream. It cannot be sent by post. We ought to have a stenographer to save the words that come from the speakers' lips. This would fix the richness of local colouring and prevent the revision that only polishes away the soul from off the sentences new-born from glowing hearts. You know the Indians say the soul is not contained within, but is shadow-like; and the spirit is as the fragrance of a flower within and without.

Metlakahtla. Dr. Vernon Ardagh, owing to the Bishop's absence at home, and to the Rev. W. Hogan being stationed temporarily at Port Essington, on the Skeena River, was in charge at METLAKAHTLA during the winter of 1894–5, and under his influence the Indian Christians formed an Evangelistic Band, variously called a "Lay Workers' Union," a "Church Army," and a "Band of Workers," which called forth much zeal. Dr. Ardagh wrote at the end of 1895, when the Band had thirty members:—

Evangelistic Band The number of evangelistic meetings conducted by both our Indian fellow-Christians and ourselves not only increased in number, but there became evident a wonderful spirit of inquiry, self-examination, and repentance. Several of our Indian brothers and sisters seemed from that time to have really turned their backs upon drink, immorality, and other vices, and have, up to the present moment, been continuing sincere in their following of Christ. For this we thank God and take courage. I must say that the season of last winter was also to me personally one of much joy—for how could we be otherwise than joyful when we began to see in our midst the stirring among the dry bones, and every now and again one here and another there standing up in the midst of our meetings and testifying with hearts broken to the power of the Holy Spirit, and then seeing such going on from day to day, walking in such steadfastness? To Him Who used even us we give the glory.

Miss West resumed charge of the day-school with its twenty children—"little fidgety mites," she calls them—upon her return with the Bishop and Mrs. Ridley in June, and she has a small boarding-school for white children born on the coast. She conducts a weekly women's Bible-class, the members of which are exceedingly interested and interesting, and their prayers are often very touching. She gives the following example:—

"Make me of use to Thee."

We had been studying Rom. xii. 5, and they were taking much interest in our being joined to Christ, and He our Head, and how earnestly they all agreed when I remarked, "If we are members of Christ's Body, how careful we should be how we show Him to those around, and how much we must help others." One woman, in praying, took up the subject so nicely, and said: "O Lord, I would rather be Thy little finger than be divided from Thee. Have mercy upon me, and make me of use to Thee."

A Chinaman, servant to Doctor Ardagh, was baptized in February, 1895, by Archdeacon Collison. Miss West says of him:—

A Chinese convert.

When he first came to the doctor he was opposed to Christianity. He was a general favourite, being so bright and amiable. For some time last winter he was learning English, and Mrs. Ardagh and Miss Appleyard often spoke to him about being a Christian, and Miss Hicks used to read with him. His zeal was unwearied in learning Scripture and hymns, and he became quite a missionary amongst the Chinamen he met, overcoming the prejudices of his country in speaking to men older than himself. During the summer, when away with the doctor's family at Inverness Cannery, he organized a meeting amongst the thirty-three Chinese employed there, and from ten to twenty attended every Sunday, when they were addressed by Mrs. Ardagh and Miss Hicks, Charlie reading from his Chinese Testament and praying. He returned to Metlakahtla till the autumn, when he said he wanted to go back to China and tell the good news to his aged mother, as he did not want her to die a Heathen.

The Bishop met this convert at Inverness in the summer, where he spent a night at Dr. Ardagh's house. He wrote:—

We all had intended to spread our blankets on the church floor, as my men did, but Mrs. Ardagh kindly insisted on giving me some supper and offered me a bed. Her Chinese cook, a recent convert, hearing of my arrival, hurried back to the house and seconded his mistress' endeavour to show me hospitality.

Not until my men were asleep, and too late to go off to my anchored-out boat for my blankets, did I find I was turning the Chinaman out of his bed. I felt a sort of shiver as I lay down, but the conversation I had with him reconciled me to my situation. The lamp was on the floor, and the man, standing with his back to the wall, had his face lighted up. What a study it was. He is a comely Celestial, with a plump oval face and almond-shaped eyes full of liquid light and sympathy. I sat on the edge of the bed, the only seat in the room, listening with grateful delight to his broken but burning words. Would that I could reproduce them in full!

He described his visits as a Christian with another Chinese Christian to the China-house, as we call the ugly buildings the Chinese crowd into for the fishing season. "I pray long time," he said. "I read book of God. I read Luke to them, 15th chapter to-night. They hear it all; they smoke, they lie down, they hear all the time, they speak not. Then we sing hymn in China words, then plenty sing; they sing hard. You know, Bishop, Chinaman not much know God. Some know little, plenty not know nothing. China country dark, very dark." So he ended in a slow, serious manner of speaking as if he remembered how the darkness felt. Then he opened wide his arms till they touched the wall he stood against, and began to try to express God's all-embracing love. He looked as saintly as artist ever painted. There was a far-offness in his eyes; his lips parted as if unable to express the feeling flooding his soul. Had I been a Frenchman I would have sprung to my feet and embraced him as he tried and tried to tell me how much God loved dark China. "Oh, you know, you know, Bishop." Then bringing his extended arms together he clasped himself to show how God had lifted him out of darkness into light. Relapsing again from his rapid utterances to slow, solemn tones, he said, "I know God, I love God, I love God very much."

"Plenty not know nothing!"

"I love God very much."

What a sight it was! I could hardly restrain myself from saying, "And I love you." I spoilt it by saying, "I am very glad you know and love God." I think my voice by its tone expressed more than the poor words. I hope so. God's grace makes all races lovable. I could not but reverence this Chinese servant because of his beautiful confession. I kept awake many hours meditating on the transforming power of this grace and love. I no longer envied my men the church floor.

The Chinaman waited on me most assiduously, and I found on embarking that he had prepared for my dear invalid a delicacy, because, as he said, Mrs. Ridley "not eat too much," meaning that she had a very poor appetite. His last words were to commend my new Chinese servant to my sympathy, saying: "He know God only very much little, but by-an'by know Him more and be very good Chinaman." His great object was to stimulate me to take a spiritual interest in my servant.

Canneries. Most of the Metlakahtla Indians visit Inverness, where the interview just recorded took place, for the fishing season, and the Rev. W. Hogan superintended from Essington, fourteen miles distant, the building of a church. Other cannery stations occupied by the missionaries in the summer were Claxton, by the Rev. R. W. Gurd, who also visited Carlisle, one mile higher up the Skeena, and Irving, three miles below; and Balmoral, by the Rev. A. E. Price. These canneries are usually scenes of drunkenness and gambling, and scepticism abounds; they are places of sore temptation to the Indian Christians, but many notable Gospel triumphs have been won in them.

Kincolith. Archdeacon Collison wrote from KINCOLITH, before he came home in the summer of 1895, describing a thanksgiving service which he conducted at the fishing camp on the Naas River at the conclusion of the fishing season. He said:—

A thanksgiving service. Large numbers of Indians, both Christian and Heathen, attended, and several hundreds more were within the sound of the Word preached, in the fishing-lodges around. It was a solemn and joyous service. I took for my subject Rom. x. 12, 13. I had Giatiksheans, Nishgas, Zimsheans, and Haidas present from more than 150 miles inland, where around their villages the numerous piles of charred wood denote the heathen custom of the past in the disposal of their dead; from the beautiful islands of the Queen Charlotte group, where, yet worse, I have seen the remains of the dead lying around throughout the length and breadth of their encampments, unburned and unburied; from up the rivers and down the coasts, where, not many years since, fear, mistrust, dread, death, and desolation seemed to reign supreme; from all these places, and many others, were the members of my large congregation gathered. I reminded them that their united gathering there was of itself a striking testimony to the truth that the Gospel had broken down all barriers of tribal hatred and national prejudice. I was enabled to appeal to the experience of hundreds present who had proved that the same Lord was indeed rich unto all of them who had called upon Him. Can you wonder that I was interrupted again and again with bursts of praise? or can it be wondered at if occasionally I felt my voice husky and my eyes dim with the tears which would arise on looking around at many a wondrous trophy of the power and efficacy of the Gospel of the grace of God?

Kitkatla.

The Rev. R. W. Gurd was at KIKATLA, thirty miles south of the Skeena River, for the greater part of the year, only going to Claxton for the cannery season. On January 6th, 1895, the coldest day he ever experienced, twenty-two adults were baptized. Mr. Gurd is assisted in the work by a former scholar of his own at Metlakahtla, Peter Haldane, of whose worth and work he speaks most highly. The day-school has over sixty names on its roll, and a night-school, held four evenings a week, is full of promise. The little church became too small for the growing congregation, and a chancel was added by the people, and several members added various articles of furniture—one a quaint lectern in imitation of a wild flower which grows in the local valleys, another a communion-table, &c. In January, 1895, however, a meeting of the Christians decided to have a new church, and $700 was promised on the spot. After returning from their summer hunt of the sea-otter off Vancouver's Island, the first sea-otter caught—value about $200—was taken into the church as a thankoffering. The foundation of the new church was laid on November 18th, chief Sheuksh placing a bottle containing various things relating to the village, the name of the Bishop, &c., under the foundation, which was of wood, and making a speech to the following effect:—

Offerings towards cost of new church.

I cannot sufficiently praise God for His great goodness to me, a poor sinful man. I never thought that this voice which has so long spoken against Christ, that these hands which have so long fought against His work, that these feet that have so long walked in the paths of sin, would now be employed to assist in erecting a house for God and the worship of His people. And I hope that when we are gone our children will not remember us as persecutors of goodness, but as weak followers of the Lord Jesus Christ; and this building, which is now about to be built, will be the means of giving light to dark minds and blind hearts.

Chief Sheuksh lays the foundation.

The village externally has undergone a great change. Mr. Gurd says:—

Outward changes in a once heathen village.

All the old heathen houses are exchanged for new modern cottages. There are very few relics of Heathenism to be seen. If the spiritual progress was at all commensurate with the general social advancement, we might indeed be thankful. But not to give a too optimistic view of things, I must add that there is much latent Heathenism, much ignorance and superstition yet existing in this outwardly reformed village. However, the light is shining, the darkness is gradually being pierced, the mass of superstition and ignorance is yielding to the gentle and powerful influences of the "Sun of righteousness."

Aiyansh.

The Rev. J. B. McCullagh is "filled with thankfulness at the evidences of progress and development made during the year, in spiritual life and morals, and also in civilization and education, at AIYANSH, up the Naas River. There are 125 adherents, of whom sixty-six are communicants. Mr. McCullagh has Indian Christians under training, who spend four hours daily in study and four hours in teaching in the school. This is attended by twenty children, while a night-school has twelve adult pupils. The smallest child can now read fluently in the vernacular, Mr. McCullagh says. Several members of the congregation are able to read music, and these form the church choir. "The praises of God are sung and the responses rendered with much fervour and devotion." The church staff includes two churchwardens, a sexton, and a bell-ringer. A Red Cross Association, formed in 1885 (see Annual Report for 1885-86, page 234), for open-air preaching among the Heathen, consists of twelve male communicants under a captain. These wear a small red Maltese cross, and each subscribes 50 cents, half of which goes to provide lights for the church and half to defray the expenses of the Association. A White Cross Association was formed in 1893, consisting of fifteen female communicants, who are distinguished by a white Maltese cross. These form a weekly working party to make moccasins, which are sold for the benefit of the church building fund. An order was received in the summer of 1895 for two pairs of beaded moccasins, one pair of which was intended as a present to the Countess of Aberdeen. The members also nurse the sick and attend to their needs. A monthly subscription of 25 cents is paid by each member. Mr. McCullagh adds:—

The church staff.

"Lady helpers."

These lady helpers of ours can also do a little navvy work on a pinch: they cast up a fine level road from the mission-house to the church, a distance of about 600 yards. I had called upon the men twice to make this road, but they shirked the job with one excuse or another. Then the women said: "Do not ask a third time; if the men do not begin before Monday we will arise and make the road." And so they did.

Regarding the work of evangelizing the Heathen around, Mr. McCullagh says:—

If it were possible to overdo the preaching of the Gospel to the Heathen, then we have reached that possibility among the Nishgas. The heathen portion of the tribe are now in much the same position as the masses at home—they are convinced of the truth of Christianity, but reject Christ. Let me commend them to the prayers of God's people.

Ever-ready evangelists.

It is cause for much thankfulness to note that our Native Christians are always ready—not weather permitting, but whether it "hail, rain, or snow"— to start off any distance at a moment's notice, without giving a thought to their own convenience, and without the slightest remuneration, to preach the Gospel to their ungodly tribesmen. And this readiness has now continued unabated for more than three years, without ever missing a Sunday or holy-day. At the beginning I was afraid this zeal would prove evanescent, but, on the contrary, it has developed into a very solid force which can be relied upon.

Not infrequently we find a sprinkling of Heathen among the congregation on Sundays at Aiyansh, and it is delightful to see how well these are looked after, both spiritually and temporally, by the Christians during the day.

A former cannibal baptized.

Ten adults were baptized, including old Gwin-giau, the former cannibal (see Annual Report for 1893–94, page 257) and his wife. A Parish Council of seven chiefs, with their code of bye-laws and a force of five constables, has Government sanction. At 10 P.M. the curfew is sounded, and after that hour all found out of their houses are called upon to assign a reasonable cause. A fire brigade has been formed, and a system of fire insurance inaugurated. The new church makes good progress under Mr. McCullagh's active supervision; a trolly line was laid, including a bridge, from the river's bank to the site for the transportation of material. Five new Indian dwelling-houses were begun and completed during the year. Mr. McCullagh concludes:—

A Parish Council and its bye-laws.

A great change is being gradually effected in the hearts and lives of the people. The "Old Adam" dies hard, but still he is dying, and the new Man, Christ Jesus, is becoming more evident every day. The work of the Holy Spirit was never so visibly manifested before in my experience. There is nothing but thanksgiving and praise and the voice of melody in my heart all day long, now that I see these dry bones, a people long dead and lost to God and life in darkness and sin, literally dancing for gladness of heart in the salvation brought nigh unto them by Christ.

Hazelton.

The Rev. J. Field, on his return to HAZELTON, on the Skeena River, in August, 1895, observed a marked change for the better in the attitude of the people towards the Gospel. Nine adults were baptized. Of one of these Mr. Field writes:—

One of the recently baptized was a chief of high standing, who voluntarily and cheerfully gave up his position and all that he and his father held sacred in order to cast in his lot with the people of God. This man, who is a fine specimen of an Indian, was received into the Church, together with his wife and two children, on Sunday, November 24th, in the presence of a large congregation, and is now actively engaged in trying to lead others to Christ. We feel that the time is not far off when most of the Kitikshan people will put away Heathenism to become members of the living Church.

Aggressive Christians.

An Evangelistic Band has been formed, which holds open-air services near the houses of the Heathen, and Mr. Field attributes largely to these aggressive efforts of the Christians the awakening which has visited all the stations on the Skeena and the Naas. But there was a previous awakening of the Christians themselves; and this is the first need at home and abroad. The Rev. A. E. Price gives a similarly encouraging report of the year's work at Giatwangak. Fifteen adults were baptized. On Christmas Day, 1895, a new church was opened.

Queen Charlotte Island.

Communications are only possible at rare intervals with the Rev. J. H. Keen at Massett, on QUEEN CHARLOTTE'S ISLAND. When he wrote in May, 1895, he was preparing for the press Haida translations of the Book of Common Prayer and the Acts of the Apostles.

Vancouver's Island.

At Alert Bay, on VANCOUVER ISLAND, the Rev. A. J. Hall reports as follows of the services and meetings:—

Alert Bay being central, visitors from other tribes are always present at our services. Our morning congregation varies from 60 to 115, mostly young people. I invariably take the service when at home. We have only one lesson, always read from the Gospels, and repeat the Apostles' Creed after singing the Te Deum. With these exceptions the service follows our English order. About thirty have their Gospels and Prayer-books. We have a hearty service, because they all sing and respond. At the afternoon Sunday-school the attendance is from forty to seventy. There are seven classes, and a regular course of Old Testament lessons is being given.

Industrial School.

Mr. A. W. Corker superintends the Industrial School, which was opened at the end of 1893 with five pupils, and had eighteen boys in residence at the end of 1895. Lessons in carpentry, together with elementary school teaching, are given, and Mr. Corker is much encouraged on account of the eagerness of the youths to learn and their success in acquiring knowledge. Their conduct is satisfactory, and several are able to read the Gospels intelligently. Five of the boys were baptized. Miss E. G. Beeching paid visits to Gwāyāsdums in December, 1894, and March, 1895, living in a two-roomed cabin attached to the school, and having only a native teacher as a companion. The Sunday services on some occasions were well attended, but when a heathen feast was being held very few were present—once not a single person—at the service. Mr. and Mrs. Hall spent a month in August with these Indians at their village on the mainland, when Mr. Hall wrote:—

Among heathen Indians on the mainland.

Mrs. Hall and I are now (August 24th) spending a month in a valley surrounded by mountains, teaching a tribe of three hundred heathen Indians. We are living in a cabin 24 feet by 12. When we arrived it had no roof, and our only protection from the sun and rain was mats and canoe-sails. Twice in two weeks it has rained incessantly for hours, and each time the river overflowed its banks, and the torrents rushing down the mountains were a sight and sound never to be forgotten. God's works here are so very grand, and call forth songs of praise. When fine we have taught the children outside our cabin, but limited the pupils to twelve when it was necessary to teach within doors.

These people are personally very kind, bringing us fish and berries, often asking no payment; but their heathen customs seem at times almost impenetrable. I endeavour to visit daily from 4 to 5 and from 7 to 8 P.M. In this way every house has been visited twice. I generally have to wait for an opportunity for some word that enables me to pull out my Gospels and deliver my message. I find that those who have scarcely heard the Gospel are always interested in the work of the three Persons of the Trinity. This may appear strange, but I have again and again in the past month had most interesting groups listening to my attempts to explain the work of the Creator, Redeemer, and Sanctifier, dwelling especially on the work of the Son and the Spirit, which is to the Heathen a revelation indeed.

Fort Rupert was also visited by Mr. Hall and Miss Beeching at different times. This was the scene of the labours of a native teacher whose death in July, 1895, caused much sorrow. Mr. Hall wrote :—

Death of a faithful native teacher.

On July 10th our native teacher, George Kamāno, passed away, leaving behind him one of the brightest testimonies of faith in Christ that I ever saw in this country. Last winter and till the end of May he took real delight in preaching to his people, and all were equally delighted to hear his solemn and earnest words. On two occasions he asked to be sent away to preach in other villages, saying he believed he had a word to deliver. Those messages were, I believe, faithfully delivered. I shall never forget hearing him preach last February at Fort Rupert from St. John iii. 14 and 15. He was an eloquent man, with plenty of illustrations, and always commanded attention.

Four adults were baptized at Fort Rupert; two of them, however, were natives of Koskimuk, on the west coast of Vancouver's Island, whose village Mr. Hall visited, walking across the island from Fort Rupert. He says :—

I took one Indian to carry my blankets, but no food. It was not necessary. Wherever I went the Natives had enough, and were delighted to supply my wants. None of these people can read, and I spent much time teaching them to commit to memory hymns and prayers, and spoke to large gatherings with the aid of Scripture pictures.

Altogether nineteen adults were baptized at Alert Bay and the various out-stations on Vancouver's Island.

Miss Carleton joined the band of workers in November.

Reports of Special Funds.

REPORT OF THE WILLIAM CHARLES JONES INDIA NATIVE CHURCH FUND.

THE interest of this Fund is available for assisting the Native Church Councils connected with the Church Missionary Society in India to employ more evangelistic labourers among the Heathen. Two important conditions are imposed regarding grants. It is necessary, before an application for a grant can be entertained, for a Native Council to show that the Christians whom it represents have actually engaged in aggressive evangelistic work through a Native Missionary Society, or that they are prepared so to do. It is necessary, also, that the Council be able to show that at least two-fifths of the cost of maintaining religious worship and pastoral work in its district has been raised from purely local sources; and that a definite sum has been contributed towards missionary work. The scheme also provides that the amount granted from the Fund to a Council shall not exceed the amount set apart by that Council for purely evangelistic purposes, or the amount raised by the Native Missionary Society in connexion with that Council.

Grants were made during 1895 to the following District Church Councils:—

	Rs.
Calcutta Native Church Council	350
Santal ,, ,, ,,	200
Madras ,, ,, ,,	570
Bezwada ,, ,, ,,	324
Ellore ,, ,, ,,	300
Tinnevelly ,, ,, ,,	2000
Cottayam ,, ,, ,,	470
Mavelicara ,, ,, ,,	640

Working from six centres, the twelve evangelists employed in Travancore and Cochin visited 4,585 houses, conversed with 94,725 persons, and distributed and sold 858 portions of Scripture, and 926 tracts.

The evangelists again accompanied the Sabari Mala pilgrims, and met with much success. Of their work the report says:—

At one place, where some 3,000 people were staying for the night, the evangelists in going round, reading and speaking to them, found one of the pilgrims reading and explaining a handbill to a large number of people gathered round him, and another invited them to preach to a separate group gathered in another quarter. The next march was through a thick forest infested by elephants and other wild animals, but the evangelists walked among the pilgrims conversing on spiritual matters and singing Christian lyrics which were taken up by them. The next morning at about 3 A.M. the pilgrims started, and as their way lay through a ghaut, the evangelists stood at the head of it with a lighted lantern, giving a timely word to each of the pilgrims, who were marching in single file and distributing to them thousands of handbills. This continued till 10 A.M. The evangelists staying behind awaited their return. The Gospel had never before entered there, so the evangelists visited the houses and worked among the Hindus and Mohammedans of the neighbourhood. On the return journey of the pilgrims they went with them to Cottayam, doing a succesful work.

At Alwaye, they conducted Evangelistic work among thousands of people who had come there for Sivaratre in a tent pitched by the Rev. C. E. R. Romilly, in company with the itinerancy agents and other workers. Several people sat through the whole night listening very attentively to the words spoken.

At Aramla, on the occasion of the dedication of a golden flagstaff erected by the Sircar at an enormous expense, they met with serious opposition, this time from the Sudras, who were exasperated at the Maramannu Convention conducted by Messrs. David and Wadsworth just in front of their temple. Notwithstanding this on the part of some, the evangelists were glad to find that there were others willing to hear their message.

Of the special meeting at Changanasheri, the pastor writes, "From the 13th to 25th August we had meetings for the evangelists and the congregations, as well as evangelistic work. There was a special meeting for the evangelists on August 16th, at which I addressed them from Joshua vi. 1-18 on the capture of Jericho. Two meetings were held at Kurumpanadam for them. On the 20th the Rev. M. C. Chakko kindly took the trouble of coming over to Kurumpanadam at my request to address the evangelists. His text was John xvi. 33. It was a helpful exhortation to us all. On the 22th we had Holy Communion, and I addressed them on the victory of David over Goliath. Besides these addresses I read to them interesting and helpful topics from the 'Life of Faith' and C.M. Intelligencer and Gleaner at intervals which they enjoyed very much. On the 22nd there was a missionary meeting to awaken the interest of the people in the work of the evangelists. Mr. K. Varugisa, the evagelist, delivered an interesting address, giving accounts of the work in general and the trip to Sabari Mala in particular. The church was full. This meeting was a great success, and it moved the people considerably, and they acknowledged their shortcomings in this matter. In the other congregations also there were similar meetings. On the 23rd evening we had a special meeting at Turuthy. The people there evinced an interest in this beyond my expectation. They remained in the church with rapt attention till 10 P.M. At the close of the meeting they requested for the continuance of the meetings till Sunday evening. I was unable to be present on Saturday and Sunday, but the evangelists conducted the services according to my plan. They report that the people were in real earnest, and on the last day the number of the people who attended was 200, including Heathen and Roman Catholics, some of whom knelt with them in prayer."

PROPER FORMS OF A BENEFACTION TO THE SOCIETY BY WILL.

No. I.—Form of a Bequest of a Common Legacy.

I give and bequeath to the Treasurer for the time being of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East the sum of Pounds *free of duty for the general purposes of the said Society such sum and the duty thereon to be paid within calendar months next after my death. And I declare that the receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society shall be an effectual discharge for the said Legacy.

No. II.—Form of Bequest of the Residue or a share of the Residue.

I give and bequeath unto the Treasurer for the time being of the Church Missionary Society for Africa and the East for the general purposes of the said Society my Residuary Real and Personal Estate [or if a share only of the Residue is intended to be given, then, instead of the words in Italics, say "such sum of money as shall be equal to one-fourth or one-half (according to the intention) of my whole Residuary Real and Personal Estate"]. And I declare that the receipt of the Treasurer for the time being of the said Society shall be an effectual discharge for the said Residue [or sum of money as the case may be]. And as to the remainder (if any) of my general Residuary Estate I bequeath the same, &c.

* If so intended.

NOTICE TO TREASURERS AND SECRETARIES OF ASSOCIATIONS.

THE COMMITTEE OF THE CHURCH MISSIONARY SOCIETY beg to remind the Treasurers or Secretaries of Associations that the Society's Financial year ends on the 31st of March.

It is earnestly requested that those Associations which close their Accounts before the 31st of March will make their final remittance and forward their Contribution Lists immediately after closing.

Remittances may be made through local Bankers, and their correspondents in London, to the account of the Society at WILLIAMS DEACON and MANCHESTER and SALFORD BANK, Limited, 20 Birchin Lane, London, in which case it is requested that advice of the same be sent by post addressed to the Lay Secretary.

Or Drafts may be forwarded direct to the C.M. House, payable to D. MARSHALL LANG, Esq., Lay Secretary of the Church Missionary Society, and crossed WILLIAMS DEACON and MANCHESTER and SALFORD BANK, Limited, acct. C.M.S.

Post Office Orders should be drawn on the General Post Office, and be made payable to D. MARSHALL LANG, Esq.

Sums remaining unpaid on the 31st March are not shown in the Accounts as Balances. The Contribution Lists should therefore agree in total with the amounts actually paid to the Parent Society to that date.

Lists and Accounts (if not sent with the money) must be forwarded not later than April 6th. If not so sent the Lists are very liable to be excluded from the Report. At the head of the List should be furnished the name of the Diocese, Archdeaconry, Deanery and County in which each parish is situate. It is very essential that this information should be given accurately to ensure correct entry in Annual Report. The date at which the Accounts of the Association are closed, and the names of the Local Officers, should be specified. Should no officers be named it will be assumed that they remain the same as in the previous Report, and the List will be so printed. Where the Account or the List is a printed one, two copies should be forwarded.

The Contribution Lists should be written legibly to avoid mistakes in printing, and made up in the manner in which the same are printed in the Parent Society's Report. Forms of Account and ruled paper may be had on application at the Society's House.

Where an Association has Branches connected with it, the Money and Accounts of the Branches must be forwarded to the Secretary of the Association some time before the date for forwarding to London. When this is not done within a reasonable time, such Branches shall be considered as self-excluded.

Branch Associations should in every case, where practicable, forward their Money and Lists through the Association with which they are connected, and not direct to the Parent Society.

Particulars of Appropriated Contributions and Contributions to Special Funds are printed with the Lists to which they respectively belong, and the totals thereof only transferred to their respective Accounts. All such particulars should be received not later than April 6 in each year, in order that the amounts contributed can be credited to the Ledger Accounts concerned before the Society's Accounts for the year are balanced.

The Committee take this opportunity of requesting that Local Treasurers will remit to the Parent Committee at the end of every quarter (or oftener in cases of large sums being received) any sum in their hands, over and above the amount required to meet disbursements, &c., the balance being remitted when the Local Accounts are closed for the year. This course would tend to equalise in a greater degree the Income and Expenditure in the earlier months of the Society's Financial year, and save the Society a considerable yearly sum.
